HOPE CHAPEL 10TH YEAR

THE ANNIVERSARY CELEBRATED APPROPRIATELY YESTERDAY.

The Growth of the Society Has Been Quite Remarkable—H. C. Squires Deserves Great Credit for His Interest.

Yesterday marked the tenth anniversary of Hope chapel and services appropriate to the event were held all day. In retrospection it can be said that the work accomplished at this chapel has truly been wonderful. It was just ten years ago that a small building was opened and known as Hope chapel. The building used for the purpose was purchased by H. C. Squires, the present superintendent, and was removed from the corner of Fifth and Washington streets, where it was formerly used as a Dutch church. Mr. Squires took the responsibility upon himself to purchase the building and move it to the West End. Some little time afterwards it was purchased by the members of the Crescent Avenue church, who have been the owners ever since. The plan was marked at once by success on every hand. Mr. Squires opened a Sunday-school and became its superintendent and has served in that capacity ever since.

Since the first small building was placed on the ground, which was also purchased by Mr. Squires, there have been eight additions made to the chapel, until at present it is a large structure.

Of those who were among the first to start with the organization, only two are in the chapel now—Fred H. Andrews and H. C. Squires. At that time there were six teachers, as follows: H. R. Munger, Miss Lillian Newman, Miss Jessie Day, Mr. and Mrs. S. R. Struthers and Fred H. Andrews. The school started with a membership of 25. At present there are 625 on the roll, with an average attendance of 400 each Sunday. Miss Newman had charge of the primary department, which started with six members and today numbers 195 members. Mr. Munger's class of men and women started with thirteen members. Later it was found necessary to divide it and make a class for men as well as women. The class for men now numbers 80 and is taught by John Doul Miller, while the class for women is taught by Silas Yerkes, and numbers 140. During the past ten years there has been expended through the relief committee $4,000 to the poor of the chapel, and the other objects of the chapel have not been neglected.

Superintendent Squires has been one of the most faithful workers in the chapel, and he has had around him an efficient corps of teachers and workers. All have united in the work for one common purpose.

Yesterday morning, the pastor, Rev. G. Kennedy Newell, who has been laboring with the people in that vineyard all but three years of its existence, and who has worked faithfully and earnestly, delivered an anniversary sermon of great interest. In the afternoon, Superintendent Squires gave a historical sketch of the chapel, an abstract of which is given above. Among the other speakers were: Rev. Dr. W. R. Richards, of the Crescent Avenue church; Rev. J. O. McKelvey, L. N. Lovell, of Warren chapel, and Rev. G. Kennedy Newell, of Hope chapel. All said something of interest and value to the large audience present. In the evening there were also addresses of an interesting nature, and thus the tenth anniversary of so worthy an institution was celebrated.

A fact of interest was the reading of a clipping from The Daily Press which told of the first opening of the chapel. This was read by Mr. Squires.

PLAINFIELD'S PLEASURE PROVIDERS.

No other event in Plainfield ushered in the year 1898 with more pleasure than did the tenth grand ball of the Twilight Social Club, held in the Crescent Rink Friday evening. Notwithstanding the very inclement weather that prevailed that evening a large assemblage was present, and all had an enjoyable time dancing the always-acceptable waltz and the other dances that went to make up a well-arranged order. The music was by Rogers, and it is needless to say it was all right. The supper served was par excellence, and many availed themselves of the opportunity of attending to the wants of the "inner man." After supper the dance was resumed and was kept up until morning, when all departed for their homes, well pleased with the pleasure afforded them. The committee who so successfully carried out the affair and to whom credit is due are F. S. Moore, E. C. Searing, Theo Smith and L. Feiring.

—A meeting of the Plainfield Catholic Club will be held this evening.

TURKEYS AND ENJOYMENT.

THEY REIGNED SUPREME SATURDAY

Open House Was Held at Hope Chapel New Year's Day—Seventy Turkeys Were Disposed of at the Annual Dinner.

New Year's Day was one of the most auspicious events in the history of Hope chapel, although it was an annual event. It has always been the custom to give a turkey dinner at the chapel each year on New Year's Day. Last Saturday the doors were opened at 2 o'clock in the afternoon and closed at 8 o'clock in the evening. Between those hours the chapel was filled to overflowing with members and friends. People of every nationality and color were present and all were made welcome.

The interior of the chapel was prettily decorated with greens, while over the platform was suspended a star which was illuminated with electric lights. The tables were arranged about the rooms in a convenient manner, and there was scarcely a time when they were not being used by the people present.

In all about 70 turkeys were sent to the chapel as presents, in addition to several roasts of beef. Between twelve and fourteen hundred people were fed and made happy. Last year Dr. Carman, of East Ninth street, made the members of the chapel a present of the largest turkey received, and this year he did the same. He sent to the chapel a thirty one pound turkey, dressed, cooked and decorated for the occasion.

David Bowden was the efficient chairman of the general committee of arrangements, and he was assisted by Mr. and Mrs. W. Hall, Mr. and Mrs. Hanglighter, Mr. and Mrs. Higgins, Mr. and Mrs. Amos Andrews, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Smith, and the various members and teachers of the Sunday-school classes of the chapel.

During the afternoon there was vocal and instrumental music and a jolly good time was had by all.

DESTROYED AND ROBBED

UNKNOWN MISCREANTS BROKE SHOW WINDOWS TO GOFF'S SALOON.

Four Bottles of Rum Were Stolen From the Window—The Damage to Windows Was $150—Not Insured.

A dastardly deed, prompted apparently by malice, was committed early Sunday morning when two large plate glass windows in the saloon of John J. Goff, at the corner of Liberty and West Third streets, were shattered by heavy missiles thrown into them from the sidewalk.

The noise of the breaking glass did not awaken any of the family, and the deed was not discovered until about 3 o'clock, when Policeman Saunders, who was on that beat, was informed by a passerby of the damage which had been done.

From the window on Liberty street four bottles of liquor were taken, but the stock in the other window was untouched.

Some persons living in the neighborhood said when the damage was made known that it had probably happened between 12 and 1 o'clock Sunday morning. They were returning from a ball at that time and heard the sound of falling glass after they had entered the house.

The damage to the windows will amount to $150. They are not insured and the loss falls entirely on the owner of the premises. It is said that the police have a clue to the identity of the guilty parties.

Christmas Music Repeated.

At the First Baptist church last evening the choir repeated the programme of music presented Sunday morning of last week. The service attracted an unusually large number of people, who enjoyed every number on the programme. The choir was assisted by Howard Case, organist; Mrs. B. T. Barnes, pianist; Walter Serrell, flutist; P. Ludwig Conde, violinist, and W. P. DeNike, 'cellist. The solo work by Miss Harris, soprano; Mrs. Ward, contralto; William Holmes, basso, and George Smith, tenor, was especially fine and won from all rich praise.

Store Filled With Steam.

Yesterday afternoon a valve in the steam pipes in Collier's jewelry store on Park avenue was left open and the store filled with steam. Roundsman Flynn was passing the place during the afternoon when he discovered the noise made by the escaping steam. He immediately went to the home of Mr. Collier, on East Sixth street, and informed him as to what had happened. Mr. Collier hastened to his place of business and remedied the difficulty. There was no damage.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bohli, of Hoboken, returned home last evening after spending Saturday and Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Moore, of Orchard place.

WHAT MAKES A REAL MAN

REV. J. W. RICHARDSON'S TERSE SERMON TO LOCAL FIREMEN.

Paid a Deserved Compliment to the Bravery and Manhood of the Men Ever Ready to Respond to the Call of Duty.

Last evening at the Park Avenue Baptist church Rev. J. W. Richardson, pastor, delivered a powerful and interesting discourse to the firemen of Plainfield on the subject, "The Ideal Fireman." There was a large delegation of firemen present who listened attentively to the earnest words of the reverend gentleman.

Mr. Richardson opened his discourse by giving to the firemen a hearty welcome to the church and service, and remarked that everyone in Plainfield is justly proud of the fire department from the popular Chief to the last man on the roll, that every citizen appreciates the work done in the past by the firemen, that they are men of gentlemanly deportment watchful, energetic and courageous. Continuing, the minister said:

"To use an old expression, 'our fire laddies can get there, Eli,' and when they do they astonish old Eli by the quickness with which they despatch the fire-king. When a fire occurs our firemen are not wanting, and for this reason I place before you the subject of 'The Ideal Fireman.'"

The text upon which Mr. Richardson based his discourse was as follows: "Watch ye, stand fast in the faith, quit you like men, be strong." The speaker than talked as follows: "The exhortation in the text to cultivate true moral heroism is very strong. Men may exercise brute strength and not know the first letter of courage. Cowards may do a brave thing by accident, and an impulse may suddenly cause a sissy to appear like a Hercules. A brave deed is not courage by any means. The noblest thing on earth is moral heroism for doing right. It is easier to fight a fire than sin. Many a man dare climb a ladder, yet is a coward in the presence of his own sin. There are thousands of pure-spoken, holy-thinking Christian citizens and Christians in rubber uniforms. The ideal fireman might be found in many a department.

"Fire Chief Collier, of Pawtucket, was a Christian hero. He lived a holy life and died one. Who wishes to be a mental loafer, or a moral coward in these days. It was once remarked by a young woman that moral force is the grandest thing in man, and it is far superior to the dancing youths that are met at parties and hops. Oh, for an increase in American manhood. Oh, that the young woman's remarks drop into the memory of those who seek to become scented 'Chollies' and 'Willies.' It is, indeed, pathetic to see a dainty man, hair parted in the middle, wearing a tightly-buttoned frock coat, mincing along in patent leather pumps, whose sole aim is to shake hands at a proper angle and get into society. There is a wide field for heroic manhood. You have physical courage, but how about moral courage? Do you think the truth? Will you stand by it? Dare you do what you know to be right? Jesus Christ is the standard. Are you striving for that standard? Thirty-six inches are not afraid of a yard stick, neither are one hundred cents of $1, nor sixteen ounces of a pound. If you possess the truth it will stand by you. He who has faith to live and die, and Christ with him, is the safest man amidst fire and crushings of the world."

A Charming Dance.

A charming little dance was given by the graduating class of Miss Scribner and Miss Green's school at the school Thursday evening to about forty of their friends. The rooms were decorated for the occasion with evergreens and red bunting and holly. The arrangement was very artistic. The patronesses of the dance were Mrs. J. W. Reinhart, Mrs. Pfeiffer and Mrs George W. Goddard. A very pleasant evening was passed. The committee in charge consisted of Miss Mary Anderson Reinhart, Miss Elsie Martin and Miss Harriet Goddard.

A Phantom Dance.

A phantom dance was given to the members of the Alhambra Club and their friends by the Misses Buckle at their home on Westervelt avenue, Thursday evening. It proved to be a sheet and pillow case party. The first part of the evening was spent in guessing the identity of the phantoms. Miss Bertha Thorn and Sydney R. Titsworth received the first prizes as the most successful guessers. There were about thirty present. The rest of the evening was spent in dancing. Miss Mabelle Force furnished the music for dancing and for the march.

Mrs. Albert D. Rector and daughter, of Albany, N. Y., are guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. T. VanWinckle, 21 Elm place.

FIFTY YEARS MARRIED.

MR. AND MRS. P. M. DEMAREST HELD THEIR GOLDEN WEDDING.

At Their Home on Craig Place Their Relatives and Friends Gathered From Far and Near in Honor of the Event.

With the passing of the old year, Mr. and Mrs. P. M. Demarest completed the fiftieth year of their married life, and surrounded on every hand by their family and friends they celebrated their golden wedding in a manner befitting such an event. The golden wedding was held at their home on Craig place Friday night and proved a very happy occasion.

Mr. and Mrs. Demarest looked a very young couple to celebrate such an event. Both were hale and hearty and took part in the frolics attendant on the celebration with as much readiness as did their grandchildren.

Mr. and Mrs. Demarest received their guests in a corner of the parlor. Over their heads was the inscription, "'47-'97," in flowers on an evergreen background. The guests were presented first to the happy couple and then to N. Henry Joralemon, of Orange, and his daughter, Miss Margaret Joralemon. Mr. Joralemon was the best man at the wedding, fifty years ago, and his wife, a sister of Mr. Demarest, was the bridemaid. Mrs. Joralemon was detained at home by illness, but sent her daughter to the golden wedding to assist in her place.

Three sisters of Mrs. Demarest, Mrs. Dennison Steele, of Toledo, O., Mrs. William S. Shaw, of Chicago, and Mrs. S. M. Baker, of Brooklyn, were present and to them the guests were also introduced. The guests were introduced by the ushers, Albert Demarest, a son, Warren D. Church, a grandson, and Daniel Williamson, a friend of the latter.

The living children of the couple, Mrs. F. A. Church, of the borough, Albert Demarest, of this city, Mrs. Newton Drake, of the borough, and Mrs. Spencer L. Fraser, of Chicago, were present with their families and assisted in receiving the guests. Other relatives were present from Toledo, Chicago, New York, Orange and Patchogue. A number of friends from the city and borough, who have known Mr. Demarest and his good wife since they settled here twenty-four years ago, were also present. There were about seventy present at the wedding.

Mr. Demarest has resided in the city and borough for the last twenty-four years and has been identified with the growth of the city as a merchant. He is now associated with his son, Albert Demarest, in the grocery business on Park avenue.

While the older folks talked and chatted the young people danced. And later in the evening some of the older ones joined in the dance. Three musicians occupied a corner and played constantly through the evening and until the new year was three hours old. At 11 o'clock an elaborate supper was served.

Twice during the evening Frank Church Demarest, the bright little three-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Demarest, stood up in a chair and stretching his hands over the heads of his grandparents, lisped out the following marriage service:

Under this roof in stormy weather.
I join this man and woman together.
Let only He who rules the thunder
Put this man and woman asunder.
Amen. Amen.

Adam Demarest, of New Orleans, a nephew of the couple, had a surprise prepared. He read a humorous selection, written after the manner of the Psalms, and closed by presenting Mr. Demarest with a bag of supposed Klondike gold nuggets, which proved to be candy wrapped in gold foil.

At midnight the new year was ushered in with plenty of noise and clashing of tin pans. Several of the younger men marched all over the house making every imaginable noise to celebrate the arrival of 1898.

It was nearly 3 o'clock before the guests departed homewards after a delightful evening. In departing they wished the host and hostess a old and happy life.

Mr. and Mrs. Demarest received a large number of handsome and valuable presents which were displayed in one of the upper rooms.

Danced in the New Year.

The members of the Park Club and their friends welcomed in the new year Friday night with one of their enjoyable dances. It was a formal club dance rather than one for the junior members alone and was consequently attended by the older set. Despite the storm the dance was well attended. The patronesses were Mrs. J. T. Scott, Mrs. S. St. John McCutchen, Mrs. W. J. Roome and Mrs. Chas. A. Reed. The ball room of the club looked very pretty in its holiday attire of evergreens and holly.

A YEAR OF CHURCH LIFE.

CELEBRATING TS FIRST ANNIVERSARY

The Services at Monroe Avenue Church Began With a Watch Meeting Friday and Will Continue For a Week.

A faithful few braved the storm of Friday night and attended the watch meeting at the Monroe Avenue M. E. church. It was the first service in the celebration of the first anniversary of the organization. The meeting was led by the pastor, Rev. W. C. O'Donnell, and opened with a praise service.

The annual report of the church was read by the historian, James McGee. He told of the organization of the church at the watch meeting held in Vincent chapel a year ago. He then recalled the first days of the mission when it met in the grocery store at Evona, the five years of chapel life, and now the one year of church life. He spoke of the great sorrow to the church in the loss of the president of the board of trustees, the late Wm. Burt, and paid a touching tribute to him. He told of the other losses in the ranks during the past year.

The church started with 102 full members and 11 members on probation. During the year the number has grown to 125 full members and 6 members on probation. During the year 11 were baptized. The Sunday school had an average enrollment of 240. He spoke of the excellent work that had been done by the different societies connected with the church. Epworth House had been placed under the charge of the literary committee of the Epworth League.

All the financial obligations of the church had been met during the past year, the expenses amounting to $1,238.16; $200 had been devoted to benevolences.

After a social hour, the pastor made a short address on the work of the past year and the prospects that the new year held. A period of prayer ushered in the new year. After congratulating each other the members departed homewards.

The anniversary services were continued at the church yesterday. In the morning the Lord's Supper was celebrated and several members were received from probation and by letter and three were received on probation. In the evening the anniversary sermon was preached by Rev. Eugene Allen Noble, of Brooklyn, from Genesis 19:23 and Genesis 32:31. He spoke of the difficulties in the path of Christians and how they might be overcome by prayer.

THIEF IN THE CHURCH

HE WALKED OFF WITH SEXTON BROKAW'S HAT AND COAT.

While Brokaw Was Attending to the Fires at the Park Avenue Baptist Church Sunday Noon the Thief Was at Work.

Yesterday noon, after the service in the Park Avenue Baptist church, a sneak thief entered the church parlors and deliberately walked off with a new overcoat, hat and gloves, belonging to Sexton Edgar S. Brokaw. He also took several boxes of candy which were being kept in a closet for those who failed to receive their presents the night of the Christmas entertainment.

After the service Mr. Brokaw went to the cellar to look after the furnace and attend to some other matters. While he was there the deed was committed. At first Mr. Brokaw thought that someone had been playing a joke on him. When he had wasted an hour searching for the missing articles, however, he came to the conclusion that it was no joke. Pastor Richardson said that he saw two boys playing about the church after the service, and he is of the opinion that they are the guilty ones. Neither one of the boys are known.

The missing gloves were a present to Mr. Brokaw, and the coat and hat were recently purchased. Mr. Brokaw had to return home without an overcoat. He managed to borrow a hat. He is longing to lay hands on the man or boy who has his coat.

The annual business meeting of the Sunday-school of the Park Avenue Baptist church was held yesterday afternoon. The election resulted in the choice of all the old officers with the exception of assistant superintendent. The following were elected: Superintendent, Mrs. Alice S. Runyon; assistant superintendent, Miss Florence G. Hawkins; secretary, Thomas A. Cuming; treasurer, Jos. M. Hawkins; librarian, E. Frank Vail; organist, Wesley R. Brokaw; superintendent home department, Miss Emma A. Fish.

IN THEIR OWN HOME NOW

TRINITY REFORMED CONGREGATION GO TO THEIR REMODELED EDIFICE.

Camp stools filled every available space in the new and beautiful lecture room of Trinity Reformed church yesterday morning when the congregation worshipped there for the first time. The twelve classrooms were also thrown open and occupied to accommodate the large congregation present.

A volunteer quartette, composed of Miss Krymer, Mrs. Willett and Messrs. Cutter and Martin, assisted materially in the responses and congregational singing.

The pastor said that the real dedicatory services would not be held until the auditorium was finished, but he would in a very informal way rededicate the present lecture room, which he did by reading appropriate Scripture and a portion of the liturgy, and finally by very appropriate prayer and sermon, basing his remarks for the sermon on the first verse of the 126th Psalm, as follows: "I was glad when they said unto me, let us go into the house of the Lord."

After the service many remained to look over the well-appointed place with its conveniently arranged rooms for church work. It was very gratifying to hear nothing but words of praise for the building committee and all those who labored so hard to accomplish what their eyes beheld.

In the afternoon the Sunday school assembled. As evidence of how much the new room is appreciated there were 345 scholars present. It was the largest attendance in the history of the school and Superintendent Anthony and his corps of teachers were happy beyond expression.

At the evening service there was again a large congregation and Rev. Dr. Schenck delivered an excellent discourse on "The Past—What of it?" The text was taken from Ecclesiastes 3:15—"God requireth that which is past." A large chorus choir was in attendance and assisted materially in the singing. Miss Krymer, one of the choir, sang a solo very acceptably.

A NEW YEAR'S WEDDING.

Hymen Completed the Mission That Cupid Had Started.

A quiet home wedding was solemnized at the home of the bride's mother, 75 Manning avenue, New Year's afternoon at 3 o'clock, when C. Howard Lance and Miss H. Carrie Case were united in marriage by Rev. J. W. Richardson in the presence of a small gathering of near relatives. The bride was attired in a traveling gown of green cloth, with pearl trimmings and chiffon. They were handsomely remembered by their relatives and friends with many useful and valuable gifts. The bride and groom left on the 3:51 p. m. train for an extended wedding trip.

Conover; conductor, James Harned; warden, John Kitchen; assistant recording secretary, Fred Koller; inside sentinel, Jacob Kettenring; outside sentinel, William Scribner; representative to State Council, Walter Walker; representative to Funeral Benefit Association, W. Death of William Bicknell.

William Bicknell, aged 21 years, a resident of Washingtonville, died this morning after a long illness with consumption. He was a brother of John Bicknell, of South avenue, and was well-known in this city. He was a member of Franklin Council, No. 41, Jr. O. U. A. M., of this city. The members of the lodge will attend the funeral in a body. The funeral will be from the Wilson Memorial chapel, Washingtonville, Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

A Good Entertainment.

J. Stuart Blackton, humorist, caricaturist and lightning artist, and Will Lyle, banjo specialist, of New York, were the entertainers at the Star Course entertainment at the Y. M. C.A. Hall, last Saturday evening. Both artists were clever in their line and kept the large audience in continual laughter from start to finish. It was one of the best entertainments ever given at the hall and was of a high order.

Taken to the Hospital.

The many friends of Miss Mattie M rrill, of Westervelt avenue, will learn with deep regret of her serious illness. She was taken a few days ago with peritonitis. Her condition has become so critical that it was deemed best to remove her to the hospital, where she was taken Thursday evening.

GERMANY THREATENS

Her Ambassador Demands Dismissal of Chinese Commandant.

CHINA GREATLY ALARMED

Commandant Used Intimidating Language to Missionaries — Representative of Germany to Leave Unless Demand Is Complied With.

Pekin, Jan. 3.—The German missionaries at Tsao-Chow, province of Shan-Tung, having reported to Baron Heyking, the German Ambassador at Pekin, that the commandant of the Chinese garrison of the town had used threatening language to one of them, Baron Heyking at once demanded that the commandant be dismissed and that a copy of the Tsung-Li-Yamen's telegram of dismissal be presented to him by 6 o'clock Thursday evening.

The Tsung-Li-Yamen requested the Ambassador to grant them until 8 o'clock. Baron Heyking thereupon threatened to leave Pekin, but is still here.

The Government is alarmed.

British Warships at Chemulpo.

London, Jan. 3.—It is announced at the Admiralty that H. M. S. Centurian, the flagship of the China station; the Undaunted, the Narcissus, the Pique, the Rainbow, the Daphne and the Algerine have arrived at Chempulpo, and the Immortalite and Iphigenia at Port Athur.

China Hastens to Yield.

Berlin, Jan. 3.—It is announced that China has yielded to the demand of Baron Heyking, German Ambassador at Pekin, for the dismissal of the commandant of the Chinese garrison at Tsao Chow, province of Shan-Tung, because of the use of threatening language of the German missionaries there.

OUR TREATIES WITH CHINA.

Washington, Jan. 3.—"If China is divided up among the Powers our own history and the precedent we have established with reference to Hawaii will compel us to negotiate new treaties with the several Powers which take Chinese territory."

This statement was made by an official of the Administration who has discussed the Eastern situation with the President. As the result of Cabinet discussion it has been decided that the United States shall take no part in the partitioning of China except to see that Americans and their interests are not injured. The American fleet in Asiatic waters will be ready to protect Americans and their interests in case of necessity.

It is the commercial aspect of the situation, however, which the authorities are watching with much anxiety. If the European Governments take possession of Chinese territory they will put in force in such territory their own customs laws, revenue laws, etc., which will, of course, be more stringent than those in operation under the present Government of China. In addition it would be necessary for the United States to make some provision for the trial of such Americans as might be arrested in China. At present this Government enjoys extra territorial jurisdiction, under which the consular representatives of the United States try and punish Americans charged with offence committed in the Celestial Empire. It is conceded by officials of the Administration that the treaties existing between the United States and China would fall to the ground in case of the collapse of the Pekin Government. In connection with the Hawaiian controversy, it has been argued by Secretary Sherman that all treaties between Japan and Hawaii will cease to be binding upon the accomplishment of annexation, and in support of this statement he quoted this recognized principle of international law: "The obligations of treaties, even where some of their stipulations are in their terms perpetual, expire in case either of the contracting parties loses its existence as an independent State, or in case its internal constitution is so changed as to render the treaty inapplicable to the new condition of things."

While the President has formulated no definite plans, and will not do so until the partition of China is an accomplishe fact, there is reason to believe that once the division of China is decided upon negotiations will be commenced with the Powers taking the territory which will have as their object the protection of American interests.

Count Telsener Dead.

New York, Jan. 3.—Count Telsener, who was related to Mrs. John W. Mackay through having married her younger sister, died at his home in Villa Alba, near Rome, yesterday. The news of the death of the Count was received in a cable message to John W. Mackay, who, with his son Clarence, is at the Belgravia, Fifth avenue and 50th street.

Count Telsener was known as well in the United States as he was in Italy. He was an intimate friend of King Humbert, and, while in Italy, much of his time was spent in the company of His Majesty. He achieved a reputation as a civil engineer, and just before his death had been planning improvements, at the suggestion of King Humbert, for the system of Italian railways.

Murdered His Father.

Chattanooga, Tenn., Jan. 3.—James Wellington has been arrested at Dayton, Tenn., charged with the murder of his father, Lewis Wellington, a few days ago. He says on the night of the murder his father threatened to whip him the next morning. After waiting until his father had gone to sleep he brained him with an ax; then, placing a chain around the body, he hitched a horse to it and dragged it into a secluded place in the woods, where he killed the horse. He does not seem to regard the matter seriously and says he is not sorry for it.

SIX LIVES LOST.

New York, Jan. 3.—Through a series of blunders six out of a family of eight perished in an insignificant fire in the Hudson City district of Jersey City yesterday morning. The first error was when the father, Adolph Reich, refused to believe the fire was dangerous, it is supposed, and told his wife and daughters to seek safety in the basement, instead of the street, as they were dressed only in their nightclothes. They meekly obeyed, it is thought, and went to almost certain death. The next and worst blunder was made by Jersey City firemen. They stood outside and played a few streams on the fire, which was only remarkable because of smoke.

A youth, attired in his underclothes, begged them to venture only a little distance inside the doors. He was certain his parents and brothers and sisters were within reach.

"If you want anybody to go in there," said a fireman, armed to fight fire and smoke, "go in yourself."

At that very moment six persons were being stifled to death within three feet of safety. A father and two sons lay within reach of the hall doorway; a mother and two daughters could almost breathe outer air close to the basement door. But it was a tragedy of blunders—so they died.

READY TO BUY COAL MINES.

Louisville, Ky., Jan. 3.—William Jowulman, legal representative of the English syndicate which has been trying to buy and consolidate Tennessee and Kentucky coal mines, was in Louisville last week and notified the mine owners here that the syndicate has the money ready for the purchase and suggested that the price be fixed at once. The Louisville stockholders will hold a conference next week.

The mines are situated in the southeastern part of the State. They belong to the Bird's-eye Jellico Coal Company, the main mountain concern; the Woolridge Coal Mining Company and the Proctor Coal Mining Company.

The first two corporations control the greater portion of the property, but the latter two companies have property of considerable magnitude, also.

All the mines are on the Cincinnati and the Louisville & Nashville railroads, and are easily accessible. It is estimated that the properties are worth from $3,000,000 to $5,000,000. The smaller companies, it is said, have already set a value on their property, but the two larger companies have not as yet seen fit to do so, and it is their representatives who will hold the meeting this week.

NEW CURRENCY PLAN.

The Monetary Commission Favors the Gold Standard.

Washington, Jan. 3.—The report of the Monetary Commission appointed by the sound-money convention held in Indianapolis has just been made public, and presents what the members of the commission consider a safe and complete remedy for the present evils in our currency and banking system. It will be presented at the conference to be held in Indianapolis on Jan. 25. In arriving at the present plans the commission had the assistance of suggestions, either complete or on special subjects, from experts and laymen all over the country, who were asked to contribute their ideas and suggestions in writing.

From the mass of material the commission, composed of several of the ablest and most experienced public and financial men of the country, have culled what they consider a sterling plan for the existing faults. Gold is the keynote of the entire report.

Kills Herself at a Fashionable Hotel.

New York, Jan. 3.—In the fashionable Windsor Hotel, at Fifth avenue and 46th street, a well-dressed, handsome young woman last night swallowed the contents of a vial of carbolic acid. She was in the agony of death when an ambulance took her away to the Flower Hospital, and five minutes after her arrival there she gasped out her life.

At the Hotel Normandie it was said this morning that the woman who killed herself in the Windsor Hotel probably was Miss B. Potter, cashier in the Normandie restaurant. Evidently she had carefully arranged to conceal her identity.

Miss Barton for Cuba.

Washington, Jan. 3.—Assistant Secretary Adee, of the State Department, and Miss Clara Barton, president of the Red Cross, have decided to establish a central committee in New York for the collection of funds, food, medicine, clothing and their shipment to the starving Cubans. Miss Barton will remain in New York assisting in the direction of the efforts to collect subscriptions of money and supplies, and will proceed to Cuba in time to personally participate in the distribution of the first consignment sent to Consul General Lee.

BRYAN RETURNS FROM MEXICO.

Has Been Making a Study of Its Economic Conditions.

Austin, Tex., Jan. 3.—William Jennings Bryan, accompanied by Mrs. Bryan and ex-Gov. Crittenden, of Missouri, were in the city Saturday, en route home from Mexico. Mr. Bryan has met, in his journey from the Mexican capital, a series of ovations not surpassed by those accorded him during his late candidacy.

A public reception was tendered the party Saturday at the home of ex-Gov. Hogg, and in the evening Mrs Bryan assisted Mrs. Gov. Culberson in the New Year's reception at the Executive Mansion.

The silver leader went to Mexico to make a study of the economic conditions of that country. Regarding his trip he said:

"I found Mexico a land of sunshine and surpassing verdure. Its climate at this season is incomparable. Mrs Bryan and myself are much benefited by the trip.

"The Government of Mexico is controlled by more progressive ideas than we generally suppose in this country. Its President is an administrative officer of rare sagacity and tact, and insures the autonomy of his Government and anticipates its rebellious elements by his own remarkable personality.

"My reflections on the economic conditions in Mexico will be given to the public at a later date, probably in lectures and essays. I went to Mexico to satisfy a personal curiosity and to analyze for myself the cause of her non-progressiveness. I have done this to my satisfaction, and shall be prepared before long to answer the charges of the gold men, that our sister republic is the victim of her system of finance.

"In the fulness of time the people shall know the truth. I want to say to them now, however, that no parallel can be drawn between that country and ours under similar monetary policies, and the ills that beset Mexico may be traceable to other elements in her internal organism.

"I shall preach with new vigor the silver cause in the future, and shall live to see the day when the people will think and act for their betterment, independent of international agreement."

FIGHT OVER THE TREATY.

Hawaiian Annexation Has a Hard Road to Travel.

Washington, Jan. 3.—As the time draws near for the consideration of the treaty for the annexation of Hawaii, it is apparent that a number of side issues will have to be considered by Congress and the diplomatic representatives. Some of them will amount to but little, but all will tend to delay the final settlement of the question.

The Japanese, the sugar growers and dethroned royalty will want to be heard. The Japanese have, or contend to have, rights in the islands which must be protected, and already they are known to be interfering with a view of preventing, if possible, the adoption of any treaty that will in future shut them out of the islands.

Queen Lil and her followers are still leading the forlorn hope that she may, by hook or crook, be restored to the throne, or if that cannot be, they are willing to have her niece recognized, and back of these aspirants are said to be a number of so-called royalty sympathizers.

The indications point to a stubborn contest when the treaty is laid before the Senate. If Senator White of California can have his way, it will be debated in open session.

GOV. CULBERSON IN THE FIELD.

He Announces Himself a Candidate for the Senate to Succeed Mills.

Dallas, Tex., Jan. 3.—Gov. Charles A. Culberson, in a 3,000-word address to the people of Texas, has formally announced that he is a candidate for the United States Senate to succeed Roger Q. Mills.

Gov. Culberson commits himself unreservedly to the Chicago platform of 1896, including free coinage at the present ratio of 16 to 1; favors limiting the powers of the Federal judiciary; attacks vigorously the pension policy pursued by the Federal Government; advocates the election of the United States Senators by a direct vote of the people; declares himself a free trader, so far as the Federal Constitution will possibly admit of such a policy, and is particularly severe in his denunciation of speculation in cotton futures, and promises, if elected, to work for the enactment of laws to prohibit it.

He favors recognising the belligerent rights of Cuba, but is emphatic in his opposition to the annexation of Hawaii or any other similarly situated territory. He also favors an amendment to the Constitution, so that Congress may pass laws for the collection of an income tax.

NEW STEAMERS FOR ALASKA.

The Canadian Pacific Will Put on Two Vessels to Fort Wrangell.

London, Jan. 3.—The London manager of the Canadian Pacific Railroad confirms the report that the company has bought from the Union Steamship line the steamers Tartar and Athenian, formerly the favorite liners in the South African Mail service. It is believed they have been picked up cheap, and it is certain that they are well adapted for their work, which is the establishment of regular freight and passenger communication between Vancouver and Fort Wrangell, at the mouth of the Stekeen River.

Each will do the trip within three days. They will start for Vancouver, via the Cape of Good Hope, in February, and in all probability will take out a fair number of passengers, as the company is arranging to boom them as the safest and cheapest means of getting to the Klondike.

Hanna Four Votes Short.

Columbus, O., Jan. 3.—The result of the Republican caucus held Saturday night showed that Senator Hanna's nominees for legislative offices are short three votes in the House and one in the Senate. The opinion prevails that Mr. Hanna will be short four votes on joint ballot. His friends, however, claim that he will come out successfully.

The American Breakfast

Is as distinctively American as French, Italian and Russian dainties are typical of those lands. In America oatmeal attains perfection not reached elsewhere, and is renowned abroad as an "American specialty." This is largely due to the H-O Company, whose cereals have spread the fame of the American breakfast over the civilized world.

HORNBY'S STEAM-COOKED OATMEAL.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Mr. and Mrs. M. F. Webb, of the City Hotel, left Friday, by the Clyde Line steamer for Florida, where they will spend the winter.

The progressive ladies of Westfield, Ind., issued a "Woman's Edition" of the Westfield News, bearing date of April 3d, 1896. The paper is filled with matter of interest to women, and we notice the following from a correspondent, which the editors printed, realizing that it treats upon a matter of vital importance to their sex: "The best remedy for croup, colds and bronchitis that I have been able to find is Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. For family use it has no equal. I gladly recommend it." 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by T. S. Armstrong, apothecary, corner Park and North avenues

The engagement of Miss Edna B. VanNest, of Eureka, Ill., and Samuel Kriney, of West Front street, this city, is announced. The wedding will take place next month.

Mothers whose children are troubled with bad colds, croup or whooping-cough will do well to read what Dr. R. R. Robey, of Olney, Mo., says on this subject, He writes: "For years we have used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, and always keep it in the house. It is regarded in our family as a specific for all kinds of colds and coughs." The 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by T. S. Armstrong, apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

—Week of prayer services will be held every night this week in the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church.

—The yearly meeting of the Saengerbunds will be held next Thursday evening, at which time the election of officers will take place.

Persons who are troubled with indigestion will be interested in the experience of Wm. H. Penn, chief clerk, in the railway mail service at Des Moines, Iowa, who writes: "It gives me pleasure to testify to the merits of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy. For two years I have suffered from indigestion, and am subject to frequent severe attacks of pain in the stomach and bowels. One or two doses of this remedy never fails to give perfect relief." Price 25 and 50 cents; sold by T, S. Armstrong, apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

Mrs. William B. Hall, of St. Michaels, Maryland, has returned home after a visit at the home of her father, J. M. Dryden, of West Seventh street.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

LAID A DEATH TRAP

VERY REMARKABLE STORY

Implicating Police in the Boiling of a Body to Procure Bones Which Were Thought to Have Been Used in the Trial.

Chicago, Jan. 3.—Attorney Lawrence Harmon, chief counsel for Adolph L. Luetgert, has unearthed what he says is a plot of the most sensational character to convict the big sausage maker of wife murder. The plot, it is charged, originated with Chicago police officials, and it is intimated that a high official is one of the chief conspirators. Mr. Harmon also connects Henry Ulrich, a former watchman at the County Poorhouse at Dunning, with the plot.

Reports in possession of Luther Laflin Mills, the criminal lawyer and ex-State's Attorney of Cook County, show that in the boiling vat at the poorhouse laundry were tried experiments with human bones and crude potash; that the fragments of bones taken from the vat after the experiments were delivered to a man who wore a policeman's star, and that Ulrich, who became notorious through his connection with the Poorhouse morgue robbery two months ago, was the main factor in the operations.

The exact date of the operations on the Poorhouse laundry is not known, but it is known by the witnesses to have been a few days after the arrest of Luetgert.

Ulrich, when confronted by the facts ascertained by Mr. Mills, admitted that they were correct, but defied any one to force him to betray his friends who were behind him in the matter. He intimated that the influence he had gained by the "deal" would help him to escape punishment for his connection with the Dunning Morgue robbery. He did, however, implicate Sergt. Stein, of the Irvington Police Station, whom he charged with being the go-between in the plot to convict Luetgert.

Three weeks ago Attorney Harmon received a letter from Adolph Dinkledge, an attendant at the Poorhouse, who represented himself as a former detective and newspaper man. In the letter he said that if a reliable agent was sent to see him he would tell something of great importance to the Luetgert defense.

Harmon sent Andrew McGarry, a trusted detective. Dinkledge introduced him to Adolph Bolstaff, night watchman at the Poorhouse laundry, and John Knauss, a convalescent patient in the Infirmary. The revelations were substantially as follows:

Some time in May, several days after Luetgert's arrest, Bolstaff was lying on a couch in one of the small rooms in the laundry buildings. He was aroused by hearing some one moving about in the laundry. It was Ulrich, who was standing over one of the large vats used for boiling clothes, and which has a steam connection.

Being in fear of Ulrich, who had terrorized the employees of the infirmary, he did not make his presence known, but he told Krauss, and the next night they watched and saw Ulrich and a man who wore no coat and had a policeman's star on his vest enter the place. They brought a human corpse, which they placed in the vat about 9 o'clock, and which they boiled for two or three hours. When the man with the star left the place he carried a box of bones which he and Ulrich had scraped up from the bottom of the boiler.

The witnesses have given Mr. Mills a description of the policeman who carried away the bones. Owing to Luetgert's poverty the investigation of the story has been delayed for some time, but Mr. Harmon says the policeman's identification is now assured.

Bolstaff and Krauss were seen, and both corroborated the report made by Detective McGarry. Bolstaff was positive that Ulrich and the mysterious policeman found a body in the laundry vat in which a barrel of concentrated lye had been placed.

A grave in the Potter's Field on the Poor Farm was found to have been opened and robbed, and the surmise is that the body was taken to experiment with.

THE COMMON COUNCIL OF 1898

Tonight the Common Council of 1898 will make its first appearance in public as a part of the municipal machinery. Its advent is watched with unusual interest, as the people are anxious to see what action the newly-elected Councilmen are to take in the city's affairs. It was decided at a conference of the Republican Councilmen to place Councilman John T. Baker in the president's chair. Now it remains to be seen whether the pledges made at the conference will be carried out. It is also still a question whether the Councilmen elected on the Citizens' ticket will unite and demand recognition.

NATIONAL RECORD BROKEN.

George Proctor Smith Excelled Y. M. C. A. Record in Shot Putting.

An entertainment of an athletic nature was held in the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium Saturday afternoon, and was enjoyed by a large audience. There was a shot-putting contest in which the competitors were George Proctor Smith, Frank Marcley, Walter L. Long and C. E. A. Hayward. Smith won, breaking the State and National indoor Y. M. C. A. records for the twelve pound shot. The State record was 35 feet, 7 inches; the National record was 37 feet, 5 inches. Smith's put was 37 feet, 11 inches. Marcley was second and Long third. A basket ball game followed between the first team and the business men's team. The first team won by a score of 31 to 9. The score at the end of the first half was 11 to 3. The business men were outclassed. They did not play as well as usual. The first team was composed of E. Moraller, Long, Marcley, Smith and M. Moraller. The business men's team was composed of Doane, O'Donnell, Price, Suffren and Johnston.

RED MEN ELECT.

Miantonomoh Tribe Choose Their Officers for the Ensuing Term.

Last Friday evening the members of Miantonomoh Tribe, I. O. R. M., elected officers as follows: Prophet, Robert Slorah; sachem, Joseph Johnson; senior sagamore, Robert Hanglighter; junior sagamore, Joseph Green; keeper of records, Charles Holstein; collector of wampum, A. J. Stiglitz; keeper of wampum, William A. Westphal; trustee, three years, D. C. Allen; representative to Great Council, George McGinnis; alternate, M. Leahy.

After the business of the evening was transacted there was a speech by William Newcorn, songs by Charles Holstein and a violin solo by Joseph Johnson. A smoker was then enjoyed, and thus the members saw the old year out and the new one in.

At the Boys' Club.

The new year was ushered in by the Boys' Club in their new clubhouse with an entertainment of their own devising, with the exception of a piano solo by Mrs. Charles Hall. The programme was a varied one, comprising a mandolin solo by Fred Try, a comic song by Higgins, good dancing by Joseph Galbraith and Clarence Waldron, a recitation by Robert Goldsack, and an interesting history of the club and its work by Charles Peterson. These were followed by an exhibition of "black art," given by Clarence Waldron, and the performance was concluded by some good gymnastics by Cline, Galbraith, Waldron and others. Cake and chocolate were the refreshments, after which the performers and their friends sat up for the new year before a blazing fire in the big fireplace in the gymnasium.

The musicale and reception which were held in the Westfield Club house New Year's Eve attracted a large attendance of Westfield society people. The musical part of the programme, which occupied the early part of the evening, consisted of vocal solos by Miss Marion Camp, Miss Ada Sergeant, Charles Harbison and Joseph Johnston, and violin solos by Sig. Pollatschek. After 10 o'clock dancing was the order of the evening. There were about one hundred couples on the floor. At midnight all gathered in a circle and bade "good bye to '97". Refreshments, consisting of ice cream, cake, coffee and chocolate, were then served.

THEATRICAL.

The season of '97-'98, theatrically, has brought many clever surprises in the drama, melodrama, tragedy and in straight comedy; but with the coming of Blaney's original big success, "A Railroad Ticket," at Stillman Music Hall tonight, headed by Burt Haverly and Laura Biggar, comes the farce comedy surprise of the season. In this company we find not only a very strong cast of people, but also a play with a plot worth mention and many novelties.

MILKMAN SAGE WANTS PEACE.

Refers to His Trouble With the North Plainfield Officials.

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—I desire through your columns to thank my many friends for their kind aid and sympathy in my recent trouble, caused by arrest for violating the borough ordinance on tieing horses.

In the examination before the Grand Jury I was accused by the borough officials, who were nearly all present from the Mayor down, of being disrespectful and annoying. If I was it was the error of my head, not my heart, and I publicly apologize.

The case was thrown out for want of jurisdiction. The facts brought out were: First, it was not fifteen seconds after the horse stopped that the arrest was made in either case, and sufficient time was not given to tie. Second, the horse was not beyond my control in either case. I could make the animal back, start or stop when fartherest away without leaving my position, and it was clearly proved I did not leave the horse.

The Grand Jury were unanimous on this point, and I am willing to leave my case to the decision of any jury on the testimony of the policeman alone who made the arrest.

Before the Civil War I heard a colored preacher say, "we are the weaker party; slavery is a curse and God will meet out damnation to the slave holder." The Mayor of the borough and myself both witnessed the fulfillment of this prophecy. We were on opposite sides then but we should not have been.

I am the weaker party and am financially unable to carry the case higher, but God rules. He can turn curses into blessings.

Hamilton; buck dance, Walter Carter; phonograph selections and comical songs by Walter Carter. There was an intermission of thirty minutes between the first and second parts, during which the committee in charge served refreshments to all. It was a great day for the members of this famous club, and the event will long be remembered by all present.

"FOOT FREIGHTING."

Without Them Many People in the Cities Would Suffer for the Necessities—Their Ancestor in the Same Business for Ten or More Generations Back.

Nine of ten people who come back from a tour through "old Mexico," as our sister Republic is called in the West to distinguish it from the Territory of New Mexico in our own country, are full of wonder at the wonderful dexterity and strength of the burden bearers of the old land. In Paso del Norte—the thriving little Mexican city across the Rio Grande from here—the earliest things that attract the attention of visitors from the States are, first, the men and women who are hourly seen going at a dog trot up and down the narrow streets with enormous loads of merchandise on their shoulders, and, second, the prison-like closeness with which every home, from the lowliest plow abode to the aristocratic brick residence, is barred and bolted to any entrance of inquisitive eyes from the street.

The longer one stays in Mexico the more convinced is he of the fact that the modern descendants of Montezuma are a race of burden bearers. There are in Paso del Norte several hundred men who daily carry for a mile or two at a time a load of 250 pounds or more, and there are a few lusty young Mexicans there who have frequently brought envy to the hearts of their associates by carrying packs of ore or metal weighing over 400 pounds across the long wooden bridge over the Rio Grande to El Paso—a distance of over a mile. There are a few who have carried a load of 150 pounds twenty miles in a day. These men are the teamsters, the freighters and the railroads of old Mexico, and without them the ubiquitous burro or ass, hundreds of mining camps and other enterprises away up in the mountains all over the republic would be impossible. Without them multitudes of people in the cities would suffer for lack of the very necessaries of living. The burden carriers of Mexico are largely peons, or the half-breed serf class. They are far from being specimens of physical beauty. As a rule they are of small stature, thin of legs and arms, haggard faced (probably from excessive use of the powerful moscal and tobacco), and prematurely old. But their necks and chests are full, and exhibit, when they are carrying a heavy pack, great muscular development. They are somewhat stoop-shouldered from long years at their work, and have a peculiarly intense and staring expression.

The business of burden bearing or "foot freighting," as the American merchants in Mexico call it, to distinguish the manner of carrying their freights from that of mule teams or the railroad, is handed from father to son. Several "freighters," in Paso del Norte exhibit crude Spanish signs on their mud houses informing the public that their ancestors for ten and some for fourteen generations back were first-class "cargadores" or burden bearers in the City of Mexico or Vera Cruz. There is probably no race outside of Asia that clings so tenaciously to old customs that has so thorough a comtempt for modern ways of civilization as the poor people of Mexico. In the early history of Mexico, since the occupation by the Spanish, post-houses were established on the great roads of the country about two leagues apart, and regular couriers were despatched at regular intervals the mail and commerce of the country. In the Mexican National Museum are dozens of pictures of these couriers with their despatches in the form of hieroglyphics running over the mountains and plains, and the legends state that they were trained so as to make four or five leagues an hour, the league in that land being a little less than 2½ miles. There are scores of mail carriers in the sparsely settled parts of Mexico that walk and run over 140 miles every week. A few cover on foot forty miles a day six days in the week, and up and down rough mountain roads at that. They do not seem to know what fatigue means. The fact is that from the Rio Grande river to the straits of Magellan the peaceable Indian carrier bears on his back the commerce of the Spanish-American countries, the load being held in place by straps across the forehead or around the breast or shoulders or by two or more of these combined—Cor. New York Times.

NOTES OF INTEREST.

According to the Premier of New Zealand, a homing pigeon recently flew from Victoria to New Zealand in three days. The distance is about 1,000 miles, and the bird must have flown without rest at a speed of about fifteen miles an hour.

In Paris the trees on the public streets are treated with as much attention as are the plants in botanical gardens. Officials look after their welfare and, as a result, the streets are beautiful and comfortable.

Miss Stella F. Jenkins, of Kansas City, has been made a minister of the Friends' Church of that city. Her mother, Mrs. Frances C. Jenkins, has been a minister of the Church for forty-five years, and her sister has also occupied a pulpit in Richmond, Ind.

There are several new fads in Paris. You find dog doctors, dog dentists, dog barbers and dog dressmakers advertised in the newspapers, and seem to be well patronized. An American woman is said to have paid $80 for garments to dress a $2 dog.

PHOTOGTAPHS IN COLORS.

Simple Method of Securing Very Pleasing Effect.

A recent American invention promises to make the coloring of photographs a very simple matter, even for the amateur, and no great artistic talent is necessary. By the process known as the "Kalos art," ordinary prints may be made considerably more attractive at small cost and with no great expenditure of time. All that is necessary is a box of "Kalos colors," a dish of clean water and a camel's-hair brush and sponge. These colors are transparent, and the shades and lights of the photograph show through. Any desired tints may be secured by mixing or diluting with water. To color any print apply the shades with the brush and wash the surface of the picture with a wet sponge, so that all superfluous color may be removed. This prevents running and insures a more even distribution of the colors. Rinse the brush or the sponge in clean water after using each color, sponge the whole picture after the coloring is finished. It is better to make the colors a trifle stronger than is desired in order to allow for a slight fading in the mounting process. The picture should then be allowed to dry thoroughly, so that the colors may become firmly fixed before mounting. These colored prints may be mounted on cards or transferred to glass, in imitation of porcelain paintings. The miniature may be set in pearl or gold for lockets, brooches, sleeve buttons, watch charms &c. This process is warranted to work on photographs of a gelatinous nature and gives excellent results on platinum prints. Collodion prints may be colored by first giving them a gelatinous surface. This may be done by adding one-quarter ounce of water to one ounce of sheet gelatine, and the mixture heated until the gelatine is thoroughly dissolved; then, with a wide soft brush, apply the dissolved gelatine to the film side of the print, giving it a smooth, even surface. Heat it gently over a lighted lamp until dry.—Philadelphia Record.

CAR STEALING AS A FINE ART.

Omaha Claims to Have the Most Expert Borrower.

When the traffic of a railroad is limited only by the number of cars it can get possession of the means of securing those cars are overlooked and only the end is considered. Thus it comes that in railroad circles it is rather an honor than a dishonor to be an expert car thief. Stealing a freight car is no more regarded as a crime in railroad circles than is stealing a base in baseball games.

The most successful superintendent of a car service is he who can, when his own supply of cars runs short, reach out and steal from other roads enough cars to meet the demand. To be sure the theft is not a permanent one, as the cars are bound to be returned to the company that owns them some day. But when several roads are lying in wait to grab the same string of empty cars the one that succeeds in capturing it makes a borrowing that is pretty close approach to a theft. This procedure, however, is regarded as legitimate railroading under the conditions now existing in Nebraska, where the business of a railroad depends practically altogether on its ability to rush empty cars to the stations where there are thousands of bushels of grain awaiting shipment.

In this respect it is generally conceded that Omaha has the most expert superintendent of car service in the business. His is a western railroad and a pretty big one. Just as soon as a string of empty cars come across the big bridge between here and Council Bluffs they are seized by this smooth borrower of cars, rushed out on his line filled with grain and returned here to be delivered to the railroad east of the river to whom the cars belong. That railroad cannot object very strenuously since it thereby receives the haul on the grain from here to Chicago, but it may be greatly embarrassed quite often when it thinks it has twenty or thirty empty cars in the Omaha yard and plans to send them west on some other line, only to later discover that they have been grabbed and hustled out on the western line that boasts of having the smoothest car superintendent in the United States.—Omaha Bee.

Servants of Olden Times.

Servants were servants away back in 1566, just as varied, in fact, as the woman who bossed them, and both were much as they are in this end of the century year. Servants were fined in those days for each trivial offence. A penny was thought enough to fine a servant who left open a door that should have been closed, and the same fine did service for missing family prayers, or leaving the beds of the house unmade later than 8 o'clock in the morning. The cook might have a beau, but she had to pay a fine every time he came, of 1 penny. If such rules were enforced now, madam would find herself without "lady help" in short order.

Five is the great sacred Chinese number. There are five virtues, five colors (yellow, white, green, red and black), five household gods, five planets (Saturn, Venus, Jupiter, Mars, Mercury), five ranks of nobility, five tastes, five cardinal points (the middle, east, west, south and north respectively), and five tones.

In one consignment, recently, a feather dealer in London received 6,000 birds of paradise, 360,000 birds of various kinds from the East Indies and 400,000 humming birds. In three months another dealer imported 356,398 birds from the East Indies.

NOTICE TO ALL INTERESTED IN UP-TO-DATE LAUNDRY WORK.

We run the laundry and take care of all details, but you "boss" it. We do what you tell us to do. It may give you a new sensation to find that you get a domestic finish when you ask for it, and to discover that your collars are actually ironed in the way that the maker intended them to be ironed.

We are running a laundry with the most improved methods and appliances. We use pure water and good soap. We are using two things that are not commonly used in laundries—care and intelligence. If you have found a laundry that pleases you perfectly, we have nothing to say to you. If you have any reason to be dissatisfied, we would like to give you a practical demonstration of our way of running a laundry.

Tell us where and when to call for your work, when you want it delivered, and let us know any particular thing that you would like to have done with it.

We want you to understand that we are running this laundry for you, and that your wishes are to be regarded in every particular. We will give you just exactly what you want, if we can find out what that is. Perhaps you believe that it is impossible to have your laundry well handled without irritation and annoyance to you. We are sure that you are mistaken. May we have an opportunity of demonstrating it?

THE NAMES OF PENSIONERS.

Former Commissioner Murphy Tells the Result of Publishing Them.

Washington, Jan. 3.—Mr. Dominick I. Murphy, recently Pension Commissioner and for many years connected with the bureau, is not favorably impressed with the idea of publishing the names of the pensioners now on the rolls. Such a publication was made in 1883, he says, when Commissioner Dudley, pursuant to a Senate resolution, prepared the list with great care. There were then on the rolls about 303,000 names, and it took five volumes, averaging over seven hundred pages each, to contain them. At that time there was considerable discussion of the pension system, and the belief that the rolls were permeated with fraud brought about a demand for publicity.

"I do not recall that any pensioners were dropped in consequence," says Mr. Murphy, "but I well remember that the Pension Bureau was almost immediately deluged with applications for increased rates. There was no cutting down of the lists; on the contrary, at the end of the fiscal year of 1884 the rolls had jumped up to over 322,000. The attorneys, as they undoubtedly had the right to do, used the volumes for the purpose of soliciting increase applications, and some of them were very successful. One of these gentlemen told me that within a week after he had secured the lists he sent out a carload of applications for increase, and added a great many thousand dollars to his bank account.

"The number of pensioners on the rolls at present is in the neighborhood of 977,000. If such a list were published now it would take sixteen or seventeen large volumes to contain the names and the other information that would naturally accompany them. If, however, the newspapers of the country were supplied with the lists, and were to publish the names of those residing within the radius of their circulation, some good might result.

"During the last Cleveland Administration many newspapers requested lists of pensioners residing in their respective localities. Such requests were always conceded by the Commissioner of Pensions, and the lists were published in many places. I watched for the result carefully, but could not discover that any great good came from these publications. It may be, however, that dishonest people were deterred from applying for the Government bounty, but that is a matter for speculation."

BIG FISHERIES COMBINE.

Twenty Corporations Absorbed by an English Company.

Chicago, Jan. 3.—Edwin Corbin, of Chicago, has effected a combination of the twenty corporations controlling the fresh water fisheries of the great lakes of the United States and Canada.

The deal was consummated at a secret conference held in this city last week. The entire amalgamation is taken over by an English company capitalized at $5,000,000. The cash consideration is $2,500,000, represented by debenture bonds, underwritten in England and by a group of Dutch bankers, headed by Noordyne, of Amsterdam, Holland.

The new organization will control the distribution of 150,000,000 pounds of fish per annum, and will operate and establish cold storage plants in New York, Buffalo, Erie, Cleveland, Sandusky, Toledo, Detroit, Chicago, Milwaukee, Cincinnati, Indianapolis, Pittsburg, St. Paul, Minneapolis, Duluth, Kansas City, St. Louis and Denver, and freezing plants at the fishing stations throughout the chain of lakes and on Lake Winnipeg, Manitoba.

The parties interested deny that the company will operate in any sense as a trust, and maintain that it will result in great benefit to the government and the consumers, inasmuch as the former will be saved hundreds of thousands of dollars annually spent in replenishing and preserving the fisheries, and the latter by maintaining a reasonable price at all seasons of the year.

NOT FLED A CONVENT.

Sensational Report Concerning Miss Cisneros Proves to Be Untrue.

Washington, Jan. 3.—Evangelina Cisneros, who has been the guest of Mrs. Macias, one of her warmest friends since Miss Cisneros came to this country, returned to the convent at Georgetown yesterday.

Henrique Macias said: "Miss Cisneros is a favorite at the convent, and she is happy and contented there. There is not a word of truth in the report from New York, and there will be trouble if it is published. My mother went to the convent for Miss Cisneros. The convent authorities offered no objection to the young lady becoming my mother's guest."

The report referred to told about the romantic escape from the Georgetown convent of Miss Cisneros, who it was said was held in the institution against her inclination.

Henrique Macias, son of a former Minister to the United States from Guatemala, has known Evangelina since she first came to Washington, and before she entered the convent the two became very good friends. Henrique went to the convent on Thursday and stated that he had come to escort Miss Cisneros to his mother's house for a brief visit.

Reception for Gov. Griggs.

Trenton, N. J., Jan. 3.—No date has been set as yet for the reception to be given for Gov. Griggs and his successor, Senator Voorhees. The reception, at the request of those to be honored, will be informal. The function will be entirely a political one—an opportunity for the people to take formal leave of the Attorney-General-elect.

A joint committee of the Legislature will manage the reception and probably will set the date on the second Tuesday of this month. The Governor and Senator Voorhees will receive their friends in the executive chamber.

Klondike Gold Ship Arrives.

Seattle, Wash., Jan. 3.—The steamer Corona arrived last night from Alaska with forty-five men just out from Dawson City. These men placed gold dust to the amount of $500,000 in charge of Capt. Caroll. They say there is a shortage of provisions at Dawson City, but no danger of starvation. They do not think a relief expedition necessary.

TRAINS FOR KLONDIKE

Pioneer Trip is Scheduled to End at Dawson City Feb. 1.

IT IS ENDORSED BY ALGER

Upon His Advice the Klondike Snow and Ice Transit Company Was Organized—First Train Will Relieve the Food Shortage.

Seattle, Wash., Jan. 3.—The powerful engines which have been found practicable in transporting over snow and ice heavy loads of logs in the pineries of Northern Michigan and Wisconsin will be utilized to haul passenger and freight trains in Alaska. The Klondike Snow and Ice Transit Company, of which Joseph Ladue, founder of Dawson, is president, will send a steamer from Seattle between Jan. 1 and 5, with everything requisite for fitting up the "pioneer train" which will leave Fort Wrangel for Dawson before Jan. 15. The route chosen is up the Stickeen River to the head of navigation, one and one-half miles above the mouth of Telegraph Creek. From there the Talton Valley trail will be followed for thirty-five miles, and thence the Canadian Government has constructed a trail to Lake Teslin, over the Blue Mountain pass, a distance of about eighty miles more. By connecting waterways formed by the Hootalingua and Lewis rivers, the Yukon River will be reached, and over its frozen surface the train will go.

The pioneer train, which is scheduled to arrive in Dawson about Feb. 1, 1898, will consist of six locomotives and twenty-four cars, divided into six sections. The first and second sections will carry 100 tons of petroleum fuel for emergency, and a full outfit of axes, picks, crowbars and auxiliary machinery to meet all requirements. The third and fourth sections will have accommodations for 200 passengers, who will be received under the conditions that they shall work at all times when necessary for clearing the way, etc. The fifth and sixth sections will carry 200 tons of supplies.

On arrival in the Klondike four of the engines and trains will be kept there to transport passengers and food and supplies to the mining camps on the Yukon and in the surrounding country. The two remaining engines and trains will return to the coast over the line opened up, and alonf which regular stations will have been established. On returning to Fort Wrangel two additional trains will be made ready, with stores, supplies and passengers sufficient to load the four trains for another trip to the Klondike country.

The principal object of the first train will be to relieve the food shortage in the Klondike. The company has the indorsement of the Government as offering the best known means of sending relief to the Klondike, and on the first train the Government will send a quantity of provisions. In a letter to George T. Glover, Superintendent of the motive power in the company, Secretary of War R. A. Alger said:

"Of course, the Government does not wish to go into the transportation business, but is looking out for the possible emergency in case it should be necessary to get supplies up the Yukon to Dawson after navigation closes. I thoroughly believe your locomotive would accomplish the purpose, and hope a company may be organized to undertake to do the work with it. We suppose Capt. Ray is at Dawson by this time, Sept. 20, and on his return shall know something of the situation, when we may want to communicate with you as to future operations."

The company owns the exclusive patents on Glover's snow and ice locomotive. The locomotive is very simple in construction and principle, consisting of a boiler, twin engines, driving wheel and other necessary appurtenances, supported in a steel frame. The frame rests upon runners fore and aft, and the locomotive proper is hinged to the frame by steel beams. The great feature of the machine is a huge traction wheel between the runners. There is a drum in the wheel. The latter is rotated by an engine with a horse power ranging from twenty to sixty, geared from five to nine to one. All the heat from the boiler furnace and from the exhaust steam is utilized in the drum, into which it is conveyed through the trunnions. By this means the wheel is kept hot all the time. The action of the heat from the toothed cylinder prevents the snow from clogging it, and at the same time compresses, with the aid of its weight, the snow underneath into a solid mass of snow ice, thereby giving sufficient resistance to enable the teeth to pull a train burdened with a 200-ton weight.

The cost of each locomotive is about $4,000; the necessary cars attached will cost about $3,000, and the freight bill for the engine and cars from Seattle, where they will be built, to Fort Wrangel will be about $1,000, or $8,000 in all. It will take two months to build or put together a train. Glover calculates that with two locomotives to climb grades, the first trip can be made from Fort Wrangel to Dawson in eight to twelve days, carrying eight cars with fifty to one hundred tons of freight. The time will be gradually reduced until the trip will be made in four days. It is a part of the general plan to also run trains over the Dalton trail.

Army Pack Trains.

Washington, Jan. 3.—The War Department has placed Lieut. Guy H. Preston, Ninth Cavalry, in charge of the army pack trains that are to undertake to get supplies into the Klondike regions. His principal assistant will be Lieut. James Ryan, Tenth Cavalry, who gathered up the pack trains at Forts Washakie and Robinson. It has been definitely decided not to burden the expedition with wagons.

Mother Dead, Son in Jail.

Philadelphia, Jan. 3.—Mrs. Mary Lamb, 2214 Cuthbert street, died last night in the Medico-Chirurgical Hospital from a fractured skull, and her son is under arrest on suspicion of having caused her death. Mrs. Lamb was found lying at the foot of the stairs in her home. She was unconscious and her body was covered with bruises. The police, it is said, learned that the woman and her son had been quarreling on New Year's evening.

"BRICKS WITHOUT STRAW."

Do you ever ask yourself why you keep chickens?

Is it for pleasure? If so, would not a little profit add to the pride and pleasure?

Possibly it is because you wish to be sure of absolutely fresh eggs on your table. If so, would you not prefer to get the eggs during the winter rather than in the spring, "when everybody's eggs are fresh?"

We can make bricks in these days without straw, but no one can make hens lay eggs in the winter months unless he supplies special foods and care.

We aim to carry in our different stores everything that is necessary for the "Business Hen"—that is, the hen that pays for her board—and we would be pleased to hear from either large or small poultry raisers.

Among other things we would suggest:

Granulated Charcoal,	Poultry Feed,
Ground Oyster Shells,	Buckwheat Grain,
Chicken & Pigeon Grit,	Barley,
Granulated Bone,	Hemp Seed,
Meat Meal,	Millet Seed,
Clover Heads,	Sheridan's Powder.

DANCED OUT THE OLD YEAR.

The Members of the Saengerbund Gave An Entertainment and Dance.

Last Friday night at Saengerbund Hall, on Somerset street, the members and their friends enjoyed an entertainment and dance. Considering the weather there was a large attendance and everyone enjoyed themselves. The entertainment consisted of vocal selections by the Swedish and German singing section, after which a recitation was given by Albert Schlick. The last number was a series of comical dances impersonated by Charles Steuerwald. At 12 o'clock both singing sections rendered "Mein Heimaht Thal," a favorite selection of the members. After the above was rendered dancing was indulged in until the early hours of the morning. Music was furnished by Prof Wallander.

PRIZE WINNERS AT WARREN.

They Will Receive Their Prizes at the Chapel Next Sunday.

Services of a special character were held at Warren chapel yesterday afternoon under the direction of Superintendent L. N. Lovell. Appropriate music was rendered by the school and an address was made by the pastor, Rev J. O. McKelvey. A feature of the exercises was the announcement of the names of those in the school who had learned every golden text for 1897. Owing to the fact that the books, to be offered as prizes, had not arrived, the presentation was deferred until next Sunday. Those who are on the prize list are Frances Whitely, Uriah Welsh, May Mair, Sadie Wilson, Ida Wheeler, Edith Kline, Florence King, Benny Coon, Dudley Welsh, Mamie Davenport, May Seader, Fred Brock, Willie Newmiller.

On the evening of January 24th, the newly elected officers of Mizpah Lodge, No. 1, U. O. of I. O. L., will be installed by Right Worthy Lady Governess, Mrs. Rice, and Right Worthy Vice Lady Governess, Mrs. Keltie, of Roxbury, Mass. The occasion will be one of great interest to all of the members and a large attendance is desired.

Real Death, Not a Trance.

There has been a rumor about town that Mrs. Markham, who died at her home last Tuesday, and whose funeral was Friday afternoon, was not dead but in a trance. The rumor has been investigated by Press reporters and found to be false. The remains will be interred tomorrow.

Councilman Buckle at Whist.

Councilman and Mrs. J. F. Buckle entertained the Jolly Whist Club at their home on West Front avenue, Friday evening. After a pleasant season of whist the members were served with refreshments and the new year was ushered in with sociability.

CHANGED THE CHECK.

A CLERK DISAPPEARED WITH $6000.

E. C. Perkins, of Central avenue, was a Trustee of the American Estates Association which Lockley Robbed—The Story.

The American Estates Association, of New York City, of which Edward C. Perkins, of 723 Central avenue, this city, is one of the trustees, has suffered heavily from the rascality of Joseph Lockley, one of its trusted clerks.

Lockley is only twenty three years of age, but was considered a model clerk by the officers of the Association.

The facts brought to light last Saturday, however, show that he has been systematically raising the checks which were given him in payment of salary.

The misdeeds of Lockley date from Nov. 1st. December 5th he made his big stroke. He received a check for $50 for salary, written out by Lockley and signed by Manager Reilly and trustees E. C. Perkins and Thomas P. Fowler. Lockley did not draw a line after the word "Fifty" and it was a simple matter for him to add three hundred and sixty and seventy five one hundredths, making the check for $5,360 75.

The company's loss will be about $6,000.

The guilty clerk has fled and has not yet been caught.

LIVERYMAN ALLEN SUES.

He Claims John Sullivan Abused His Horse and Damaged His Rig.

The case of Frank R. Allen, of Fanwood, against John J. Sullivan, of this city, to recover damages for alleged damages to the defendant's livery rig, was not tried in Justice Mosher's court this morning on account of the absence of an important witness for the defense. An adjournment of three weeks was granted.

Allen, who is a liveryman in Fanwood, hired his horse and carriage to Sullivan, November 12th, and alleges that the latter overdrove and abused the horse, damaged rig, and failed to return it at the time agreed upon. Codington & Swackhamer, of this city, are the plaintiff's attorneys.

Santa Claus Was There.

The members of All Souls church held the annual Christmas entertainment Saturday afternoon, when a very entertaining programme was presented by the members of the Sunday school. Elmer Walker played the part of Santa Claus and distributed presents to the scholars. After the entertainment supper was served to all present.

Her Hand Badly Cut.

Mrs. John H. McVey, while cutting bread with an extra sharp knife in her husband's restaurant, 123 North avenue, on New Year's Day, allowed her left hand to get in the path of the blade, and as a result the index finger was cut to the bone.

The T. A. B. Dance.

The T. A. B. Society gave a successful invitation dance in T. A. B. Hall on West Fourth street New Year's Eve. The attendance was large and the event proved a most enjoyable one to all.

William Mague, son of N. C. Mague, of McDowell street, who has been seriously ill with pneumonia, is now recovering and hopes to be out very soon.

—Commencing tonight, the store of A. M. Griffin will close every evening at 7 o'clock.

WATCH-NIGHT SERVICES.

THE STORMY WEATHER KEPT MANY FROM ATTENDING THEM.

The Meetings Were Held in Several of the Churches Friday Night—Much Interest Was Shown By Those Who Attended.

The congregations of the First M. E. and Grace M. E. churches united Friday evening to hold a watch meeting in Vincent chapel. Owing to the stormy weather, the meeting was not largely attended. The meeting opened with a praise service conducted by Rev. Dr. W. C. Snodgrass. The sermon of the evening was preached by Rev. H. J. Johnston, pastor of Grace church. He spoke of the lessons of the last year and the need for ever-increasing watchfulness in the future.

A social hour followed in which light refreshments were passed under the direction of Mrs. H. A. McGee and Mrs. J. H. McNaughton. The last hour of the old year was devoted to prayer, praise and testimony.

The union Christian Endeavor watch-night service, held at Warren chapel last Friday evening, was an interesting one and was very largely attended by members from nearly all of the churches in the city. At 9 o'clock the social part of the programme was enjoyed, during which time refreshments were served by the committee in charge, and at 11 o'clock the watch-night services began under the direction of Rev. J. O. McKelvey, pastor of the chapel. Mr. McKelvey's remarks were listened to attentively and there was a deep spirit of consecration and prayer prevailing throughout. When the new year arrived there was a general handshaking and wishing of a "Happy New Year" on the part of all.

The usual Christmastide celebration was held at the East Third Street mission last Friday evening when every member of the mission and Sunday-school was given a turkey supper in accordance with the custom of previous years. There was a large attendance and the supper was all to be desired. Later in the evening a watch-night service was held which was in charge of Superintendent L. W. Randolph. The service was an impressive one and all present took some part. The new year was ushered in amid prayer and praise, after which there was the usual time for congratulations.

The annual Christmas entertainment was enjoyed by the members of the First Church of Christ last Friday evening, at which time the members of the Sunday school presented a programme of recitations and song under the direction of Superintendent Staats. There was a large attendance of members and friends, and all remained to see the old year out and the new one in. The watch-night service was conducted by Mr. Bartlett, of Warren chapel, and was very impressive.

An Occasion for Spiritual Blessing.

The new year was started right by Superintendent E. E. Anthony and the teachers of the Trinity Reformed church Sunday-school, with a prayer and consecration service, which was held Saturday morning in the new lecture room of the church. The service opened with a few appropriate remarks by Mr. Anthony, after which those present occupied the time by offering earnest prayers to the Throne of Grace. The meeting was an occasion for great spiritual blessing, and all present were glad that they had thus started the new year.

Fell Through the Ice.

Maude Emmons, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Emmons, of Prospect place, fell through the ice on Tier's pond Saturday afternoon while playing with some of her schoolmates. Alfred Springer, of Grove street, who happened to be near the place, saw the accident and at once assisted the young girl to terra firma. Outside of a drenching, nothing serious resulted.

A Serious Cut.

Emma Sullivan, eleven years old, of South Second street, met with a painful accident yesterday afternoon. While walking near Third street and Monroe avenue she stumbled on a piece of ice and fell, cutting her leg, just below the knee, to the bone. Dr. Davis dressed the wound and found it necessary to take eight stitches to close the cut.

A New Year's Gift.

The Chickering piano used in the lecture room of Trinity Reformed church was very satisfactorily tuned New Year's Day by W. R. Brokaw, who has a store at 123 East Front street, and best of all, Mr. Brokaw donated his services to the church, a very pleasant New Year's gift, and duly appreciated by the church people.

Miss Mattie Merrill, of Westervelt avenue, who is at the hospital being treated for peritonitis, is much improved and hopes of her recovery are now assured.

Mr. and Mrs. George L. VanEmburgh, of East Second street, attended the funeral services today of Mrs. Hampton Lawrence at Bloomfield. Mrs. Lawrence was a sister of Mrs. VanEmburgh and died Friday afternoon after a short illness.

HE LOVED NOT DIPLOMATICALLY.

A French Soldier's Romance That Menaced the Comity of Nations.

Not long ago there was much talk in France and Italy regarding a little interchange of incivilities on the Franco-Italian frontier. French projectiles were shot across the frontier near an Italian fort, and a general explanaton of the circumstance was necessary before the creases could be smoothed out of the official temper in Rome. What this explanaton was has been made public recently by Rome dailies. It certainly is the most peculiar one of the day. Here is the story:

A French artilleryman named Picon loved Lilli Vacherelle, a mountain maid, who lived in the Mont Cenis region, where the French troops were manoeuvering. Capt. Morainville, under whom he served, had taken a fancy to the same girl. He saw her kiss Picon one day, and afterward became possessed of the purpose of thwarting the private in love. He pursued the mountain girl unceasingly, but as Picon knew of all her comings and goings the Captain was unable to enjoy any long interviews with the girl. No sooner would he begin to press his attentions than Picon would appear, with hand at hat and other signs of respect, to be sure, but still appear and stay and ruin the love making.

The rivalry grew uncomfortably keen and trouble between private and officer already was feared, when one day Morainville set his men to work at target shooting and started off in the direction of the girl's home, explaining that he wished to observe from Mont Cenis the effect of the mountain batteries. Picon was left behind to shoot in misery while his commander went lady killing after the mountain maid. But jealousy sharpened Picon's wits, while it gave nerve to his desperation. There was an Italian fort within easy range. If he aimed at it with solid shot he could raise an international rumpus in less time than it would take to tell about it, and could bring the Captain back on the double quick. So he fired at the fort and raised the rumpus and brought back the Captain.

There is where the story ends in the Rome dailies, as far as the romance is concerned. The correspondents leave Picon in the guardhouse and Lilli Vacherelle and the Captain still at large. For the consolation of their feminine readers, however, they say, whether with authority or not, that the private will be released soon to marry the Mont Cenis maid.—New York Sun.

CITY SOLONS ORGANIZED

JOHN T. BAKER MADE PRESIDENT OF THE COUNCIL.

The New Council Showed Signs of Future Activity—Committees Appointed—Clerk MacMurray to Remain in Office.

It remains to be seen whether the present members of the Plainfield Common Council will pass through the year on "flowery beds of ease," but many friends from the Third ward made a somewhat unusual effort last evening toward starting Messrs. Barrows, Baker, Andrews and Clerk MacMurray in the right direction, by presenting each one with a large and beautiful basket of the choicest flowers, tied with white and pink satin ribbon. No one present could recall when such an expression of admiration had been evidenced before, and it was a pleasant feature in opening the Council for 1898.

For the fifth consecutive time Clerk J. T. MacMurray called the Council to order and announced the first business to be that of selecting a president. Mr. Buckle nominated Mr. Baker for the position, and Mr. Hetfield placed in nomination Mr. Moffett. Clerk MacMurray appointed as tellers Messrs. Hetfield and Andrews. There were ten votes cast, of which number Mr. Baker received six and Mr. Moffett four. Mr. Baker was thereupon declared president of the Council, and Messrs. Buckle and Homan were appointed as escorts to conduct President Baker to the chair.

Mr. Baker thanked all the members for the courtesy extended, and said that he would do his best to serve the members in a way that will merit their approval. He asked for the support and co-operation of the members, in serving the city for which purpose they were elected.

The president then presented an opinion submitted by Corporation Counsel Marsh regarding the office of City Clerk as to the termination of the present incumbent's time. In the opinion it was stated that it was not considered that Clerk MacMurray's time would expire until 1900. The opinion was a lengthy one and quoted many acts of the Legislature to substantiate it. After it was read Mr. Baker stated that there did not seem to be a vacancy in the clerk's office for one year at least and possibly two years, and he announced that Mr. MacMurray would continue in the office.

On a motion offered by Mr. Hetfield the opinion was received and filed.

At this time Mr. Buckle nominated W. V. Mundy for the position of janitor, and he was re-elected. Mr. Barrows moved that The Daily Press and Courier News be appointed as the official papers of the city, and the motion prevailed.

Mr. Barrows moved that the rules for 1897 with the substiution of the committee on printing and stationery, for that of the committee on collection and assessment of taxes, be adopted as the rules for the Council of 1898.

Mr. Barrows stated that at the next meeting he would offer a motion that the rules of order govering the Council for 1897, be adopted for use by the Council for 1898.

Finance—Messrs. VanHerwerden, Andrews, Buckle.

Streets and Sewers—Messrs. Barrows, Buckle, VanHerwerden.

Police—Messrs. Buckle, Homan, Barrows.

Fire and Buildings—Messrs. Bunyon, Moffett, Newman.

Alms—Messrs. Andrews, Hetfield, Liefke.

Lights and Press—Messrs. Newman, Liefke, Hetfield.

License—Messrs. Liefke, Barrows, Homan.

Laws and Ordinances—Messrs. Hetfield, Bunyon, Andrews.

Printing and Stationery—Messrs. Moffett, Newman, Bunyon.

Auditing—Messrs. Homan, VanHerwerden, Moffett.

At this point Clerk MacMurray read a petition from G. F. White asking for three electric lights to be located on Sycamore avenue between Green brook and Front street. This and all of the deferred 1897 business was referred to the proper committees. The bill of Patrick Christmas for sewer work to date amounting to $410, less 15 per cent. held back, was referred to the finance committee. It was reported that the bond of Constable Aaron Mattox is incorrect and Counsel Marsh referred it back for correction. Mr. Marsh also reported regarding the case of Mrs. Milliken against the city for damages caused by the location of the sewer beds. Mr. Marsh stated that Mrs. Milliken's counsel has offered to settle for $5,000, but he would not advise the city to settle for that amount. Mr. Barrows offered a motion that the communication be received and that the claim be disallowed.

TO INSPECT SCHOOLS.

TWO PHYSICIANS APPOINTED BY THE BOARD OF EDUCATION.

They Will Inspect the Schools Monthly, and Look After the Physical Condition of the Pupils in the Public Schools.

Plainfield has taken the lead among the cities of New Jersey in providing the latest safeguard against the spread of contagious disease among its school children. At the first meeting of the new Board of Education of the city, held in the High School building last evening, the Board decided to adopt the recommendation of its president, Dr. Probasco, and the secretary of the Board of Health, Dr. Murray. The plan as adapted to this city by these physicians from the methods now in use in the principal cities of the country, provides for salaried physicians to inspect all the schools thoroughly once a month, and twice a year to test the eyesight and hearing of all the pupils in the school.

All the members of the Board were present at the meeting. Mr. Lovell, who was re-elected to the Board at the last election, took his seat as usual. The first business of the evening was the election of the officers of the Board for the new year. Mr. Lovell was made temporary chairman, while Dr. Probasco was re elected to the presidency of the Board. F. C. Lounsbury was elected as secretary for another year. F. B. Clark was appointed to the position of clerk for another year, his salary to be the same as heretofore.

The usual list of bills was then read and approved. The report of Collector Bird showed that taxes to the amount of $27,912.95 had been collected, together with interest amounting to $57.27, making a total of $27,970.22, of which $15,000 was deposited in the First National Bank and the remainder in the City National Bank. Collector Bird also reported that he had received $1 504.89 from the County Superintendent as the annual State appropriation to the Board and had deposited it in the First National Bank. Mr. Lounsbury reported the receiving of $6 25 for the sale of old desks.

The question of the two inspecting physicians was brought up, having been laid over at the last meeting, and all the members expressed themselves as being much in favor of the proposed plan. Mr. Lovell offered a resolution, which embodied the suggestions of Dr. Probasco in regard to the matter, to the effect that two physicians be appointed for six months, and that they receive compensation at the rate of $200 per annum each. The resolution provided for the monthly inspections and for an examination of the eyesight and hearing of the pupils in April. The expense was to be included in the incidental expense account as the budget had already been completed.

The resolution was carried and after some discussion Dr. W. H. Murray and Dr. Harold Tomlinson were appointed to the positions, and the appointments confirmed.

The finance committee reported that the mortgages had been paid off on all the school buildings, and only the bond debt remained, a saving of one per cent. on the amount of the indebtedness.

President Probasco announced that the standing committees would remain the same as they were last year, which was as follows:—

Teachers and text books—Messrs. Probasco, Jenkins and Abbott.

Books, stationary and supplies—Messrs. Abbott, Lounsbury and Probasco.

Fuel—Messrs. Jenkins, Lovell and Abbott

Finance—Messrs. Lovell, Jenkins and Lounsbury.

The annual report of Superintendent Maxson was received. Two thousand copies of the report and the financial statement were ordered printed and distributed. The Board then went in executive session.

A Good School.

Miss Ida Rocap will on January 10 continue the boys' school which has been so successfully taught by her sister for the past ten years. Miss Rocap has had a wide experience in both private and public school work, having been substitute teacher for two years in our public schools. The school will be limited to twelve pupils, and will be conducted on public school principles and the newest ideas in educational work.

Work Done by McAll Auxiliary.

The regular meeting of the McAll Auxiliary will be held in the parlors of the Crescent Avenue church tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock. Mrs. LeGay, of Paris, will be present and will speak specially of the encouraging work being done by the Plainfield Auxiliary in Lemoges.

MAYOR CHARLES J. FISK'S ANNUAL MESSAGE.

FULL TEXT OF HIS ADDRESS TO THE INCOMING COMMON COUNCIL OF 1898.

The City Jail Condemned—Startling Suggestions for the Street Department—Needs of the Fire Department—The Question of Street Lighting.

The annual message of Mayor Charles J. Fisk, which was read at the first meeting of the Common Council of 1898, held last evening, was of unusual interest to the Councilmen and to the citizens of the city as well. The report is given in full as follows:

January 3rd, 1898.

Honorable Common Council, City of Plainfield:

Gentlemen:

In order to conduct the affairs of a growing municipality, such as the city of Plainfield, in a business like manner that will give the city such needed improvements as are necessary, maintain the high standard of efficiency in each of the various departments, and, at the same time, to so manage affairs that the taxes put upon the people are at such a rate that they will not be considered extravagant or oppressive will require the best thought and judgment, both collectively and individually, of each member of your honorable body. As seven members forming a majority of the Common Council of 1898, have been newly-elected and have not the advantage of knowing exactly the present condition of the different departments of our city government, and wishing to aid them to the best of my ability in forming their judgment as to what is the best action to take, as the different questions are brought before them, I have decided to give a general review of the work of the Common Council during the past year, subdivided under the heading of the different committees of the Common Council, coupled with such recommendations and suggestions as, in my judgment, would bring about the best results and meet with the approval of the taxpayers.

A careful examination of the reports of the different city officers and various committees of the Common Council for the past year, will show not only that the city today is in a sound financial condition, but also that all the various departments are well organized and in good working order.

FINANCES.

The Treasurer's statement shows a reduction in cash balances in general fund in comparison with the close of the year 1896, which is accounted for by the fact that the taxes for the year 1897 have not been paid as promptly as were the taxes of 1896.

Take the case of State and county taxes; the amount paid over to the Treasurer for the year 1897 was only $44,874.73, while the amount levied, and which the city was required to pay to the County Collector, was $61,127.88, showing that the percentage of taxes paid in was not quite seventy-five per cent. (75).

This same fact holds good in regard to taxes levied for city purposes. It was, therefore, necessary to borrow about $19,000 on short-time notes in anticipation of the collection of taxes, which will be paid off as the taxes are collected.

The other funds, viz: fire department, poor and sewer, interest and bond accounts, all show cash balances on hand in addition to outstanding taxes, after providing for all unpaid notes or other liabilities.

In my message, January, 1897, I recommended the changing of the dates of beginning and ending of the fiscal year; also the date on which taxes should become delinquent. The Council for some reason did not deem it wise to act on this suggestion. Nevertheless in my opinion this recommendation should be acted upon. The saving to the taxpayers in the matter of interest would be nearly $1,000. As the matter stands now the City is required to borrow in anticipation of payment of taxes in order to meet its obligations, and the taxes are not paid until the end of the year for which the assessment is made. If the beginning of the fiscal year was say July 1st, and the taxes were made payable in August or September, the city would then be able to collect the money before it was required to be paid out, and do away with the necessity of borrowing money. The city of Elizabeth, since making such a change as I suggest, has, I have been informed, always has money in hand, and has saved all discounts. By an arrangement with the Collector of Taxes, by which his salary was fixed at $2,000, to cover all services including collection of delinquent taxes, instead of $1,500 as heretofore, with a commission for collection of delinquent taxes, the Council made a saving in the salary and commission account of over $600. The penalties paid by delinquent taxpayers, and turned into the city, amounted to $2,637, showing that the expenses of the Tax Collector's office were all paid by the delinquent taxpayers, and that the city received a credit of $637 in addition.

A further saving should be made in the salary account by reducing the salary of the City Clerk at least $300 which was the additional amount allowed when it was necessary to have some one to keep the Treasurer's books. This being no longer required since the election of the present Treasurer, the salary should be reduced.

STREETS AND SEWERS.

This department of the city work I will take up under the separate headings.

STREETS.

I have examined carefully the reports of the Committee relating to streets for the year ending, 1897, and also the report of the Street Commissioner. In addition I have made an independent examination of the present condition of the streets, and have had a report in detail of the exact condition of each street. A copy of this report I have placed in the hands of the Street Commissioner, where it will be at the disposal of the newly appointed Committee.

The reports of both the Committee on Streets and Sewers and the Street Commissioner set forth in detail what had been done, and I concur fully with them in their conclusions in regard to street work. These reports should be carefully read and considered by the next Committee. That the matter of street cleaning and general repairs has been necessarily curtailed on account of lack of funds to properly carry them on there is no doubt. The extraordinary repairs and recadamizing of some of the main streets was absolutely necessary. The enforcing the laying of sidewalks where the public welfare demands it may work hardships in individual cases, but the people demand a good sidewalk and are entitled to it. The enforcing of setting curb in my opinion should only be pushed in sections of the city when required for the preservation of the streets, and then done in a way that will be as easy for the property owners as possible. On many streets grass turf is all that is required, and in the outlying districts serves every purpose and is much more picturesque. In other cases a curb is required to make the streets look uniform, but is not an absolute necessity. I would recommend that in future setting of curb only be enforced where absolutely necessary, and that as much time be given the property owners as possible when in your opinion the public good demands that you should order curb set.

I suggest and recommend that the Common Council, through their Committee on Streets and Sewers, create a department to be known as the Department of Street Cleaning and Repairs, to include all street cleaning and ordinary repairs and take charge of all removal of garbage, ashes or other offal or refuse matter, and to be directly under the charge and full control of the Street Commissioner; that the city be divided into twelve districts, as suggested in the attached schedule; the work of cleaning the streets and keeping them in repair in the respective districts, in accordance with specifications to be furnished by the Street Commissioner, and to be subject to his approval, to be let out by contract to the lowest bidder who will give a satisfactory guarantee and file a bond to secure faithful performance of his contract. The contractor to have the exclusive permit to collect all garbage, ashes, etc., in his respective district, for which he be allowed to charge the householder or tenant an amount, say fifty cents or twenty-five cents a month for garbage, and five cents or ten cents a barrel for ashes, and fifty cents a load for rubbish. The city to furnish the necessary dump for ashes, etc. All garbage or offal matter to be delivered to the crematory.

Some plan as above suggested properly carried out will ensure clean, well kept streets in all parts of the city, and I have no doubt can be accomplished at a large saving of money in comparison with the present system.

All extraordinary repairs, such as completely re-macadamizing a street, or putting down new macadam, to be

TO ENLARGE HIS STORE.

EDWARD WHITE HAS JUST PURCHASED TWO ADJOINING STORES.

His Present Establishment Will Be Made More Complete By the Addition—Special Waiting Room for Women

A notable transfer of real estate took place in this city last Friday afternoon, when the Brooks building, 124 and 126 West Front street, was bought by Edward White, the well known merchant, from John Brooks, of 517 Watchung avenue.

The purchase was the result of the increase in Mr. White's business, which has made it necessary to acquire additional floor space to meet the great demands of his trade.

The premises purchased are next to the present store occupied by Mr. White. They are now in possession of P. Casey & Son and the Misses Gorsline. The present tenants will probably remain in possession until April, when their leases expire. Mr. White will then take possession of the stores and will convert them into an addition to his present store by removing the partitions which now separate them.

The structures are three stories in height and all the floor space which they contain will be utilized for the needs of the business.

A uniform front, with one central entrance, will be arranged to the stores, and they will be fitted with handsome plate-glass windows and otherwise made attractive and suitable to the needs of a large general store. The front of the new store will then measure 80 feet on Front street, and the floor space will extend back 185 feet. The addition to his floor space which this purchase will give Mr. White will enable him to increase his stock and arrange it with more convenience to his patrons. The general distribution of the different departments of the store will probably remain substantially the same as at present. On the second floor will be placed the ladies' suit department and other features of an up to-date store, and the top floors will be occupied by a large stock of carpets, rugs, matting and other furnishings. Upon the first floor will be placed an enlarged general stock of dry goods, fancy goods, millinery and similar lines, and the basement will be given up to housefurnishing goods.

While it will not be until April 1st that Mr. White will take possession of the entire stores, the work of converting a portion of the second floor into ladies' waiting rooms will be started at once. In connection with the waiting rooms there will be ladies' toilet rooms and a reading and writing room where the patrons may stop and write letters if they wish. A colored matron will be in charge.

The increase in the floor space will necessitate an increase in the force of clerks. A dozen clerks will be employed to take charge of the addition.

A number of expensive improvements, such as new plumbing, steam heating and electric light fittings throughout will be added to the new building, making it one of the most complete establishments of its character in the State.

The announcement of the purchase caused much interest among the business men of the city, who regarded it as an important move in the mercantile development of Plainfield.

At the same time with the announcement of this change, Mr. White tells of the location of a New York agency at 52 Franklin street. There a buyer will be constantly employed to keep Mr. White fully posted with all the happenings in the New York trade and to fill all orders without delay that may be sent from the Plainfield store. He will also look after any orders for the Plainfield store that may be left there.

An Unkind Act.

A sneak thief visited the dooryard to the residence of Edward C. Searing, the popular foreman of the composing room of the Daily Press office, corner New and West Third streets, last evening shortly after 7 o'clock. A choice display of hosiery was hanging from the clothesline. The thief appropriated stockings, socks, clothes pins and all and left without alarming the household. Mr. Searing would be pleased to receive the thief tonight and present him with the clothesline.

Hand Caught in the Safe.

Yesterday morning at the North Plainfield Public School, School Commissioner R. M. Fountain, of Jackson avenue, met with a painful accident while he was closing the door of the big safe in the superintendent's office. His left hand caught in the door and was severely bruised. Mr. Fountain is now carrying his hand about bandaged, and it will be some time before he will be able to use it.

NEW BOARD OF TRADE.

PRELIMINARY MEETING HELD AND TEMPORARILY ORGANIZED.

Owing to the Many Other Meetings the Attendance Was Moderate—Committees Were Appointed—Public Meeting Soon.

The promoters of the new Board of Trade movement were unfortunate in their choice of last night as the time for the preliminary meeting for the organization of the new Board in the old Board of Trade rooms. There were a number of other meetings of importance and the result was only a moderate attendance. When about twenty five had gathered a preliminary organization was effected by the election of James C. Pope as chairman and Harry C. Runyon as secretary.

It was decided that before a permanent organization could be effected it would be necessary to have a constitution and by laws, and a committee, consisting of W. H. Rogers, H. Lounsbury and H. C. Runyon, was appointed to draft the documents in question. The meeting also appointed a committee on rooms, consisting of C. G. French, H. Schwed and F. L. Lancaster, and a nominating committee, consisting of J. F. MacDonald, W. A. Woodruff, Elston M. French, E. M. Laing and J. D. Runyon.

The various committee will prepare reports and present them at a meeting which will shortly be called for the purpose. The petition for the organization of the new Board was exhibited by Mr. Runyon, and it was found to contain the signatures of seventy-six business men of the city.

The meeting also decided to secure the use of Stillman Music Hall and invite Frank Bergen to come to this city and present his county trolley scheme to the citizens. The meeting will probably be held Thursday evening.

SPINOZA'S METHOD OF THINKING

The Subject of a Lecture by Rev. Joseph Silverman, of New York.

The Monday Afternoon Club held its regular meeting in the Country Club Casino yesterday afternoon and listened to an interesting lecture by Rev. Joseph Silverman, D. D., pastor of Temple Emanu El, of New York city, on "Spinoza and his influence upon modern thought."

The lecturer first gave a brief account of the life of Spinoza, so far as it shed light upon his mental development; the philosopher's principal writing and a short description of their contents were then given, and an estimate of his influence upon modern thought ended the lecture. Speaking upon the last portion of his subject, the lecturer stated that in his estimation the influence of Spinoza had been not that of a formal doctrine or system of philosophy, but rather of a habit and method of thinking. Germany gave the first genuine recognition to the philosopher and England had followed. Coleridge, Wordsworth, Shelley, Matthew Arnold and Froude are imitators of his method of thought. His influence may be said to have been second to that of no other philosopher as regards his method of thought.

FIRED AT THE BURGLAR.

Jacob Benner, of Duer Street, Found a Strange Man in His Parlor.

Jacob Benner, of 178 Duer street, had an exciting encounter with a burglar New Year's morning. It was about 3 o'clock, while the family were sleeping soundly, that Mr. Benner was awakened by the sound of someone moving about in the lower part of the house. Catching up a revolver he made his way cautiously down the stairs. The sounds came from the parlor, and creeping stealthily in that direction Benner flung open the parlor door.

Standing in the dim light of early morning was the form of a burly burglar. Quick as a flash Benner raised his weapon and fired, once, twice.

With a howl of surprise and anger the intruder turned and dashed out of the room, making his exit through an open window by which he had gained entrance. Nothing of value was taken from the house.

Cocking Main at South Plainfield.

The sports of this section enjoyed a rousing cock fight at South Plainfield last night. The contest was between birds of South Plainfield and Metuchen, and the former won six of the eleven rounds and captured the purse of $50. The main was held at the residence of one of the local sporting men, and every precaution was taken to prevent a raid by the authorities. A number of sports from this city and New York were present and took an interest in the affair. It is said that another fight is shortly to take place for a purse of $100.

ENGLAND WILL ACT

No Power Can Have Special Rights in Chinese Ports.

A SIGNIFICANT WARNING

What Is Granted to Russia and Germany Great Britain Will Take. Whether China Is Willing or Unwilling—Li Hung Chang.

Manchester, Eng., Jan. 4.—The Manchester Guardian says:

"The Government has categorically stated that Great Britain will refuse to recognize any special rights granted at any Chinese port to any particular power. Any port opened to one power must be opened to all, or open to none. If Russia has been granted the right to winter ships at Port Arthur, Great Britain will enforce her right to the same privilege, and her ships will winter there, whether China concedes or does not concede the right."

Great Britain's Claim.

Continuing, the Guardian says:

"If Germany obtains a naval station at Kiao Chou, Great Britain insists upon having a lease of ground for a naval station at the same port, and she will support every other power making the same claim.

"The contention of the Government is that the most favored nations clause in the British and all other treaties with China forbids any special concessions of the nature contemplated by Germany at Kiao Chou, and prevents nations from acquiring special benefits in which the others have not a share.

Will Use Force if Necessary.

"The Government has also declared that the same principle applies to such transactions as railway and mine monopolies. Taking the stand on the treaties, Great Britain refuses to acknowledge such concessions, and will insist upon similar railway and mine rights, and will use such force to secure or defend them as may be necessary.

"This declaration does not apply to sessions of territory to which the existing treaties do not refer; but, relative to this contingency, the dispatch of Great Britain to China observes that when it occurs graver questions will arise. The Government will then consider the manner in which British interests can best be safeguarded, and the form which the compensation to Great Britain for the special advantages of other nations must take.

Japan's Position Similar.

"It is reported that a similar declaration has been delivered to the Chinese and other governments by Japan."

Russia and Japan Allies.

St. Petersburg, Russia, Jan. 4.—The Novosti publishes an article strongly urging a Russo-Japanese alliance.

It is understood this view is favored in Russian official circles, in which it is felt that such an alliance would contribute to avert serious complications in the far East.

LI HUNG CHANG RECALLED.

Called to Pekin to Assist the Emperor in the Present Crisis.

Tacoma, Wash., Jan. 4.—The steamer Indrapura has arrived from Japan, bringing the latest advices regarding the Oriental situation. Li Hung Chang has been recalled to power at Pekin, the Emperor and the Inner Council desiring his assistance in the present diplomatic crisis. The Government has taken up for serious consideration his memorial on the military and naval defenses of the empire. Thousands of troops are being recruited in the interior, and it is intended to double the number of battalions in all the Chinese maritime provinces within thirty days. The Emperor has received forty-eight secret memorials regarding the defense of the empire from high military and civil officials throughout China. All China is awakening.

Capt. Brussatis and other officers of the German cruiser Cormorant were recently pelted with stones and mud by a Chinese mob while landing at Wuchung in one of the cruiser's boats flying the German ensign. The officers were landing to pay a visit to Viceroy Chang Chi Hung, who, on Germany's demand, has made prompt and satisfactory apology for this insult, the apology including a salute to the German flag of twenty-one guns.

The Jiji-Shimpo, the most influential paper at Tokio, says that, according to reliable authority, Russia, France and Germany have reached an understanding whereby Russia is to take Corea and North China, Germany the Shantung districts, while France will get Formosa and parts of the Foochien coast. This story comes from Hong Kong, and is not generally credited.

The Powerful at Hong Kong.

Hong Kong, China, Jan. 4.—The British warship Powerful has arrived here.

The Powerful is a first class cruiser of over 14,000 tons displacement and 25,000 horse power. She is heavily armed, and is estimated to have a speed of about twenty-two knots. She carries a crew of 840 men.

Miss Willard Much Better.

Janesville, Wis., Jan. 4.—Miss Frances E. Willard was much better yesterday and she left her home, in Evanston, at noon. Her condition is such, however, that she will be compelled to take a vacation. When she fully recovers she will go to New York and Boston in the interest of the Woman's Temple. Within the next six weeks she will go to England, where she will be the guest of Lady Henry Somerset. The European trip was planned for last fall, but was postponed because of Miss Willard's poor health.

Alleged Embezzler Found.

Sacramento, Cal., Jan. 4.—William F. Pope, formerly teller of the First National Bank of Louisville, who was charged with embezzling $60,000 from that institution in 1891, is in this city. It is generally believed in Louisville that Pope died several years ago in the East. A detective has been put on Pope's trail, and his arrest is expected soon.

The Floor of the London, Ont., City Hall Collapses While the Speakers Were Addressing the Crowd—The Building Was an Old One—An Awful Panic.

London, Ont., Jan. 4.—One of the hottest and most stubbornly contested municipal elections ever known in this city culminated last night in a tragedy that has put the city in mourning.

At the close of the polls the crowd, as is usual, gathered in the City Hall, where it has been the custom for years past for the successful candidates to address the electors. The meeting had been conducted in the usual manner and was about to be closed, when the floor in the northeast corner of the hall gave way, and the people situated in that section were precipitated to the floor below.

An alarm of fire was sounded and the brigade soon reported and began the work of removing the debris and taking from the ruins the bodies of the dead and injured. At midnight fifteen bodies had been taken from the wrecked building and identified.

The list of dead follows:

How many were injured will never be known, as those who suffered but slightly at once made for their homes or were taken care of by friends. Those who were more seriously injured were carried to neighboring drug stores, from whence they were taken to the hospital or to their homes after their injuries had been attended to. The dead were taken to the committee rooms of Alderman Parnell, the defeated candidate for Mayor, across the street.

The building was crowded to the very doors, probably 2,000 persons being jammed in its narrow space. There was a lull in the proceedings, the audience called for several of the newly elected Aldermen at once and there was some delay in securing a speaker to address them. Alderman Carrothers joined the Mayor in an effort to secure quiet. In response to numerous calls R. M. Toothe was pushed forward to the platform on which the speakers stood. As he reached it there was an ominous cracking and the raised platform on which the Mayor and newly elected Aldermen were seated seemed to pitch forward to the floor.

There was a sagging of timbers, and the next moment 150 people were hurled twenty feet to the floor below. A beam running twenty feet along the centre of the hall had given way and the crowded mass standing above that section of the floor was thrown in a heap to the bottom. A large safe stood in one corner of the hall and a huge steam coil weighing half a ton came crashing down on the heads of the victims.

Following the crash there was a wild rush for the doors. At the south door, where the majority of the crowd had entered, there was a terrible panic. Those in front were thrown down by the oncoming rush, shrieking and fighting for the door and safety. Only one-half of the rear door, a space of probably three feet, was open, and in the rush no one thought to open the other half of the door, and 500 people struggled through the narrow space, the strong bearing down the weaker.

Within a moment after the floor had fallen in there were not more than three persons in the hall on that portion of the floor which had not fallen.

A glance at the wreck after the catastrophe disclosed the fact that a whole section of the floor had dropped, the joists being as neatly cut off as though the work had been done with a saw. The building was an old one, having been erected early in the fifties, and of late years additional stories had been placed on the old walls.

Poisoned by Ivy

Was in a Dreadful Condition

Happened to Read About a Similar Case—Followed the Other Man's Example and Was Cured.

The following incident is given by Charles Morris, general jobber, 52 Lexington Avenue, North Cambridge, Mass.:

"Several years ago I became poisoned by ivy. I tried many medicines, spending a large sum of money without obtaining a particle of good. My children were also afflicted with the same disease. We were all constant sufferers with an awful itching sensation, and it seemed as if I should tear myself to pieces. I picked up a paper in which I found printed a testimonial from a man in Vermont who had been similarly afflicted and had taken Hood's Sarsaparilla with benefit. I bought a bottle, which we took and it did so much good I purchased another supply. We continued taking Hood's Sarsaparilla until we used five bottles and I can safely say that neither myself nor children have any signs of the poison. It has entirely left us and we are perfectly cured. We give the whole credit to Hood's Sarsaparilla. Before resorting to this medicine I was reduced in weight, but now I weigh 175 pounds. Hood's Sarsaparilla has not only done much good but has been the means of saving me a great deal of money. I would not be without it in my house and I heartily recommend it to all who are afflicted. I have written this statement for publication, of my own will, as I want others to know what Hood's Sarsaparilla has done for us." CHARLES MORRIS.

Me and My Children

HANNA'S MAN BEATEN

Combination of Republicans and Democrats Elects a Speaker.

SENATOR'S STOCK FAILS

Opposition Forces Now Confident They Will Prevent Hanna's Re-election—First Test Vote Shows Him Weaker Than Supposed.

Columbus, O., Jan. 4.—Senator Mark Hanna has been beaten in the first skirmish of his campaign for re-election. His defeat comes from an unexpected quarter. He has failed to elect his candidate for Speaker of the House. Mr. Hanna and his friends had not counted on being able to organize the Senate, but they had confidently asserted that they would control the House of Representatives.

The contest in the House was between Mason, anti-Hanna, and Boxwell, the Hanna candidates. The first ballot, taken at noon yesterday, resulted: Mason, 56; Boxwell, 53. Mason was declared elected Speaker. There was the greatest excitement in the chamber during the voting.

The caucuses last Saturday night were not on the usual lines between the Republicans and the Democrats, owing to some of the Republican members having formed a fusion with the Democratic members for the defeat of Senator Hanna.

The Senate stands 18 Democrats and 18 Republicans, the latter including Senator Voight, who was elected on a fusion ticket from Cincinnati, and who did not attend either caucus. At the Senate Republican caucus, Saturday night, Senator Burks (Rep.), of Cleveland, was not only absent, but he was at the same time nominated by the Democratic caucus for President pro tem. of the Senate. The Republican caucus nominated Senator J. Park Alexander for President pro tem.

The absence of Senator Burke yesterday, therefore, meant not only his election, but the election of Democrats for offices in the Senate. Senator Burke is opposed to the re-election of Senator M. A. Hanna. With party lines drawn in the Senate, Lieut. Gov. A. W. Jones (Rep.) would have had the tie vote to cast, and he has been considered as opposed to Hanna.

The House stands 62 Republicans and 47 Democrats, the former including four fusionists from Cincinnati.

At the Republican House caucus, Saturday night, there were only 52 present and pledged to Alexander Boxwell for Speaker.

Of the ten absentees, Griffith, of Clinton, was the only one offering an excuse. He was sick. The other nine Republican members were absent because they are opposed to Hanna and regarded Boxwell as the Hanna candidate. These nine Republican members met with the Democratic members and indorsed Harry C. Mason, of Cleveland, an anti-Hanna Republican, for Speaker. With these Republican members and the forty-seven Democratic members, Mason would have fifty-six votes, or more than necessary to elect, but some of the Democratic members refused to be pledged to Republican candidates for Senator, Speaker or other offices in the organization of the Legislature.

Owing to the patronage in these offices, as well as the preferences in chairmanships and the composition of all the committees, it was generally believed that the fate of Senator Hanna, as well as of all his supporters, depended on the organization of the Legislature. His opponents claimed that he would be defeated even if the Boxwell ticket was elected, and his friends admitted that the chances were against him if Boxwell was defeated.

Owing to the Senatorship being at stake, there was an unusually large attendance about the Statehouse at an early hour.

It required an hour to examine the credentials and swear in the 109 members of the House, but the thirty-six Senators soon qualified.

All were present in the Senate chamber except Senator Burke, of Cleveland, the Republican who is opposed to Hanna, and Senator Voight, the fusionist from Cincinnati. The vote on organization stood 18 to 17 in favor of the Democrats, who elected all the officers.

Senator Burke was elected President; O. D. Cassell (Dem.) was elected chief clerk over A. C. Caine (Rep.), the latter having expected re-election by Burke's presence, although Burke would not support Hanna. As Senator Burke was absent and could not be sworn in, Thaddeus E. Cromwell (Dem.), was elected President pro tem. of the Senate. It is understood, however, that he will give way to Senator Burke as soon as the latter arrives to take his seat.

The Democratic organization of the Senate was made complete in a very quiet way, while a detachment of policemen were needed to hold back the crowd that filled the hall of the House and pressed about its entrances.

In the hall of the House the wildest scenes were witnessed during the first hour of the session. All of the 109 members were in their seats. After the name of Boxwell had been presented by Representative Jones (Rep.) and seconded by two other Republicans, the Democrats did not participate in the speaking.

As the ballot proceeded there were loud cheers as the doubtful members responded to their names, and when the roll call approached the close and Mason secured the necessary majority, there was a long demonstration that delayed the official announcement of the vote.

The first ballot resulted: Mason 56, Boxwell 53, as had been claimed since Saturday night by the combined opposition to Senator Hanna. The combine then completed the organization of the House.

Hanna Claims Victory.

Columbus, Ohio, Jan. 4.—Late last night Mr. Hanna said that his election was not in doubt, as he asserts to have had assurances that four of the fusion Republicans would vote for him for Senator, and that they only united with the Democrats for the purpose of defeating Boxwell for Speaker. Each faction still has one week to get their fighting strength in line, and such a thing as more recruits to the Hanna side is more than likely.

CHANGE IN PENSION LAWS.

Men Who Really Fought in Favor of an Honest Pension Roll.

Pittsburg, Pa., Jan. 4.—Encampment No. 1, Union Veteran Legion, will hold a special meeting this evening to hear the report of the committee appointed some days ago to consider pension frauds and recommend changes in the present laws. The committee is composed of Captain George W. Skinner, who on Friday last retired as the pension agent of this district; A. B. Hay and E. C. Dorrington. Their report will likely be adopted by the encampment and sent to Washington.

Encampment No. 1 has more than one thousand members. They have an average service of more than three years each. They are opposed to the dependent pension law, and the fight for honest pensions has been indorsed by these men, who represent the better class of soldiers. No drafted men, bounty jumpers or soldiers who did not serve at least two years in the civil war can become members of the Legion, and the fact that the order is worked up over the pension frauds, they say, shows that reforms are needed.

When he turned the pension office over to his successor, Major J. W. Nesbit, on Friday, Capt. Skinner said that during the four years of his administration more than one thousand names had been added to the rolls. This was an increase of two hundred and fifty in the Western Pennsylvania District. A great many veterans, he said, had died, but widows and children had come forward to claim the pensions, and this was the main cause of the increase.

Several frauds were unearthed during the term. One was that of George Conrad, who lived near Sunbury, Northumberland county. He impersonated his cousin, whose name was Conrad also, and who had been in the army. The soldier died of smallpox soon after the close of the war, but a pension attorney, it is said, talked the other Conrad into applying for a pension. Conrad had several affidavits to back up his claim, and his application passed through the bureau.

After he had been drawing a pension for several years, the examiners in Pittsburg received word from one of his neighbors that the man was a fraud. An investigation resulted in Conrad being tried, convicted and sentenced to a term in prison. Had his name been published, he would not have received more than one payment.

Another case was that of James Callaghan, a tailor, living in Elk county. He did not arrive in this country until 1871, but this made no difference to the pension attorney who undertook to push his case. Callaghan afterward testified that he never thought of applying for a pension and would not have done so but for the attorney, who told him it was easy to get the money. He made affidavit to his alleged service, and induced James Fennessey, a neighbor, to make a similar affidavit.

Just about the time the first payment was to be made an examiner discovered a flaw and began an investigation. Callaghan is now serving a term in the Western Penitentiary. The discovery of this fraud was an accident. If the names were published the fraud would have exposed itself.

A fraud that almost went through, and which would have cost the government about seven thousand dollars, was that of Elizabeth Jones, a widow, of this city, who applied for a disability pension. Her husband applied for a pension, but did not push the claim. The widow renewed the claim, through a pension attorney, but an examiner found that her husband had not been injured, notwithstanding three affidavits.

Another fraud unearthed by the pension officials was that of a woman who had been drawing a dependent pension when she had $8,000 in bank and $2,000 her husband's life insurance, invested.

Talking about frauds, Captain Skinner said: "Some of the provisions of the present pension laws are very lame. There can be no doubt that pension attorneys of Washington had much to do with framing those laws, and they have been so framed as to give the attorneys a chance to reap a rich harvest. One of them died recently, leaving an estate estimated at $3,000,000, which he accumulated in a few years pushing pension claims.

"The real soldiers, who were patriotic, entered the service at the beginning of the war, and remained until mustered out, are opposed to the present pension system. They were against the dependent pension bill, which was passed in 1890. It was drawn in the interest of the short-term soldiers, and discriminated against those who did the fighting."

Reward for Producer of Her Body, Dead or Alive.

Chicago, Jan. 4.—Police Inspector Schaak yesterday made a verbal offer of $20,000 in approved real estate to any person producing Mrs. Luetgert, dead or alive. Mr. Harmon, attorney of the defense, has complained that he was prevented from producing Mrs. Luetgert only by a lack of funds, and Inspector Schaak, it is said, chose this method of rejoinder. He also hopes to put an end to the reports from various parts of the country that Mrs. Luetgert has been discovered.

In course of the trial yesterday Mr. Harman entered a motion that the case be taken from the jury and Luetgert released, on the ground that the brief session of court on New Year's Day was illegal. The motion was overruled at once by Judge Gary. No evidence was taken at Saturday's session, court having been adjourned as soon as the defense objected to the trial proceeding on that day.

THE MAYOR'S MESSAGE

Mayor Charles J. Fisk's annual message, which was presented to the Common Council last evening, offers much food for thought. The mayor reiterates some of his suggestions of past years and makes a number of new ones. His attitude toward the present condition of the city jail is very commendable and it is to be hoped that the Council will take early action in doing away with the present jail which has been such a disgrace to the city. Mayor Fisk has shown that his ideas in regard to the jail coincide with those of The Press for the past year.

The suggestions of the Mayor, as expounded in the message, are particularly startling in regard to the work of the street department. The Mayor evidently does not believe in the reorganization of the Plainfield Sanitary Company, for he provides a new and rather novel method of combining the collection of ashes and garbage and the keeping of the streets in repair. While he makes no mention of the future ownership of the crematory, he drops a hint here and there that leads the reader to infer that he hopes to see the city purchase the garbage-disposal plant. The crematory seems to be a success as far as itself alone is concerned, and it is to be hoped that the city will find a way to place it under municipal control.

It seems an excellent policy to give better fire protection to the West End, as suggested by the Mayor in the portion of his message relating to the fire department. Whether the plan he suggests would be the best for the interests of the city, the fire committee should consider. The need of opening the memberships of the different companies to allow a certain number of carefully selected men to be added to take the place of those who can now claim exemption should be the subject for action on the part of the Council at once.

Mayor Fisk has little to suggest regarding improvements in the police force aside from the immediate change in the city jail. There are many other topics touched on that will furnish food for thought for Councilmen and citizens as well. Many of the suggestions may never be heard of again, but some of the important recommendations are likely to bring forth early action on the part of the Common Council.

THE NEW COUNCIL.

The Common Council of 1898 was organized last night. Three of the Councilmen bolted the decision of the conference and joined with Mr. Hetfield in placing the name of Mr. Moffett as a candidate for the presidency of the Board. Mr. Baker, the candidate of the conference was elected, however. Judging from present appearances, Mr. Barrows will act as leader on the floor for the regular Republicans. Mr. Hetfield has already shown a determination to meet him as leader of the opposition. Last night's meeting was, taken altogether, a peaceful one, but exciting times are promised for the future.

City Clerk MacMurray will continue in his present office for another year, at least. Corporation Counsel Marsh offered his long-expected opinion last evening and stated that according to the special law Mr. MacMurray was entitled to one year longer, and according to the old law to two years more of service. A question is being raised as to the constitutionality of the special law.

The buildings are all substantial structures that will add to the prosperity and attractiveness of the town.

There was an interesting musical programme, including solos by Miss Reger and selections by the church quartette. Later in the evening refreshments were served and the greetings of those present were extended to the new year.

Appleton Morgan writes a communication to The Press stating that he has been requested by the National Society of the War of 1812 to organize a New Jersey chapter of that society, and that he therefore purposes at an early date to call a meeting at Springfield, where, upon the old battle ground, the chapter may be created. to the alms committee, as was also the report of the City Treasurer.

Mr. Barrows asked the Council for $1,000 for the use of the committee on streets and sewers until the regular appropriations should be made.

In reply to Mr. Hetfield's question as to how much money there is in the treasury to the credit of the above committee, Mr. Barrows stated that there is not one cent.

Mr. Barrows moved that a special committee be appointed to take into consideration new quarters for a city jail, police court, city offices, etc., and to report at a future meeting of the Council. Mr. Barrows moved that the president appoint the committee, and the latter stated that he would do so later.

Mr. Hetfield took exception to Mr. Barrows' motion on the ground that the committee would conflict with the regular police committee, and he thought it was unnecessary. Mr. Buckle, as chairman of the police committee, stated that he was perfectly willing to have such a committee appointed to work in conjunction with his committee.

After Mr. VanHerwerden moved that the bond of Mrs. Catherine Lounsbury be received and filed, Mr. Barrows moved that when the Council adjourn it be to meet Monday evening, January 17th. The Council then adjourned and the members gathered about in groups to discuss the situation as regards the first meeting of the new Council.

The members seemed to be very well satisfied with the appointment of the committees and many of the committees arranged to hold meetings to arrange for the year's work.

THEATRICAL.

Morrison's superb production of "Faust" will be seen at Music Hall this evening. "Faust," in both operatic and dramatic form, has always drawn large houses in this city, and it goes without saying that Morrison's production will meet with the high favor accorded it in former appearances. The present engagement will have new interest to its patrons from the fact that every bit of scenery, all the costumes, properties and effects of the Brocken scene, which were thought wonderful at the time, have been much elaborated. This is especially the case in the new and startling electrical effects. In the church scene a chime of rich-toned bells and a quartette of experienced singers will be heard, and in the garden scene the stage will be filled with beautiful flowers, ferns and plants, which, by the incantation from Mephisto, will suddenly glow with hundreds of tiny electric sparks. The scene of the Brocken, with its weird apparitions, flashes of lightning and concluding avalanche of electric fire, will be given with wonderful effect. Arrangements have been made to make this scene more elaborate in its terrifying details than has ever been shown on the stage in this city.

Lincoln J. Carter, the author and owner of the "Heart of Chicago" which comes to Music Hall Friday evening, is one of the best equipped men for his business in America. He writes his own plays, designs the scenery and paper, invents his own effects and personally rehearses each of his various companies. He is an actor, author, artist, mechanic and designer. The play to be presented on this occasion is said to be his best effort and will be seen here with every detail of scenic and mechanical effect.

THE NATIVE HAWAIIAN.

His Life One of Leisure and Free From Care—Sort of a Holiday Existence.

The native Hawaiian is a gentleman of leisure. Life to him is a perpetual holiday, and, as a native of paradise, why should he fret about the dull cares of this world? Nature has spread a bounteous feast for him, and like Adam of old, he has only to pluck the fruit which grows without toil, eat and breathe.

The national food of the native is poi, fish, and pork. Poi is made from taro root, a water plant, boiled and beaten to a pulp of the consistency of gruel, and allowed to slightly ferment, when it is very nutritious. The native's table is a mat spread upon the floor or ground, on which lies poi; roast pig and fish are placed in separate calabashes. Squatted or sitting cross-legged about this sumptuous feast the Kanakas proceed to regale themselves, scorning the use of knives and forks. Their dessert is the papaya, oranges, bananas, bred-fruit, strawberries, and other fruit of the tropics.

The primitive Kanaka home is made of grass. There are many grass houses left on the islands. The home is very simple, but at the same time neat. The house is without any means of heating or cooking. The former is never necessary and all the cooking is done in the imu, or pit dug in the earth, where the pig, fish and beef are baked with heated stones, while the boiling is done in pots over a camp fire near the building.

About one half of a grass house is raised to about two and a half feet, cushioned with a mattress on it for a bed, while the remainder is the bare earth. The raised part affords a seat during the day and a bed at night. Here the entire family and visitors, without regard to age or sex, sleep side by side.

The grass-house is said to be not only proof against those troublesome insects, the mosquitoes, but capable of turning rain.—Godey's Magazine.

CRAB THAT ACTS AS DOORKEEPER.

It Has the Instinct of a Watch Dog and Very Rarely Makes a Mistake.

In the West Indies the natives train a rare species of crab to act as a servant. This animal is about the size of a football. One of its claws is nearly as big as the rest of the body. The crab has a fashion of raising this limb in such a way as to give the impression that it beckons or threatens.

In appearance it is a very formidable brute, possessing enormous eyes and feelers. It takes up its position at the front door of the house, and acts in every way as a watchdog, and every bit as faithfully. It is possessed of wonderful strength, speed and stamina easily overtaking an enemy not possessed of sprinting powers.

Its instinct is very acute and it is rarely at fault in spotting a person who approaches the house with any evil intention. Woe to the intruder if he gets into the clutches of the merciless doorkeeper. It will require a sledge hammer to extricate him from the embrace.

This crab is of a very affectionate disposition toward members of the household, and plays with children with the gentleness of an English retriever. It is highly prized by natives on account of its usefulness as a house defender, and is very costly to buy.—New York Journal.

BLACK DEAF AND DUMB WONDER.

Claims to Be a Hebrew and Writes the Language of Moses.

There was in Hartford recently a young African negro who claimed to be a Hebrew. He was deaf and dumb and black. He was trying to accumulate enough money to go back to Africa. If he is what he represented himself to be and if what he claims is true, he is quite an interesting character. He carried a pad of paper and a pencil and answered all questions by writing them in Hebrew and Loschen Khodish. What incited the most wonder was that he wrote Loschen Khodish very rapidly. It is the language of the books of Moses, and is made a special study of, spoken and written with ease only by the rabbis and highly educated Hebrews.

This negro was sent to one of the rabbis of Hartford, who is perfectly satisfied that he is a Hebrew. He said that he came from a large town in Africa, where there are a tribe of about 20,000 black Hebrews who speak Loschen Khodish and are quite prosperous. He also said that his father is a rabbi in that town and that is why his father took the trouble to teach him to write these languages, which needed an extra amount of labor on account of his being deaf and dumb. He said his people do not only write Loschen Kodisch, but it is their speaking language as well. His great surprise was that no Hebrew knows of his countrymen in Africa.—Hartford Courant.

A Canard.

Pluggs—See here, Muggs, what the deuce do you mean by going around saying that I'm a liar, eh?

Muggs—I never said so, my dear boy. Not at all. All I said was that you could be thoroughly depended upon to tell the truth whenever there was any money in it.

A Selfish.

Perkins — Why do you consider Vokes selfish?

Jorkins—He thinks that everything is for the best, and considers himself the best.—New York Journal.

Wilton—Do you agree with David that all men are liars.

Wilby—How can I tell? Just think of the number of men that I never saw!—Boston Transcript.

Want Single Tax.

Chicago, Jan. 4.—The West Side Single Tax Club has sent George's "Social Problems" to President McKinley as a New Year's gift, and memorialized him to try George's single tax theory practically in the Indian Territory. There, they say, there are no established prejudices to combat or any old traditions to contend with. It is a country without taxes, and with little, if any, law. Representative Simpson has agreed to push the matter in Congress.

NOTICE TO ALL INTERESTED IN UP-TO-DATE LAUNDRY WORK.

We run the laundry and take care of all details, but you "boss" it. We do what you tell us to do. It may give you a new sensation to find that you get a domestic finish when you ask for it, and to discover that your collars are actually ironed in the way that the maker intended them to be ironed.

We are running a laundry with the most improved methods and appliances. We use pure water and good soap. We are using two things that are not commonly used in laundries—care and intelligence. If you have found a laundry that pleases you perfectly, we have nothing to say to you. If you have any reason to be dissatisfied, we would like to give you a practical demonstration of our way of running a laundry.

Tell us where and when to call for your work, when you want it delivered, and let us know any particular thing that you would like to have done with it.

We want you to understand that we are running this laundry for you, and that your wishes are to be regarded in every particular. We will give you just exactly what you want, if we can find out what that is. Perhaps you believe that it is impossible to have your laundry well handled without irritation and annoyance to you. We are sure that you are mistaken. May we have an opportunity of demonstrating it?

1897's Crowning Furniture and Carpet Event

—such success has met this sale that it's "still on." Greater reserve Holiday stocks than we'd supposed lets you do amazingly close buying from practically complete lines. Never made such wide, deep-down price-cuts in all our history! Every part of Furniture and Carpet stock included.

Fancy Chairs

98c THIS REED ROCKER

We repeat former statements—NO fancy chair stock compares with this—it's simply phenomenal! Every covering, wood, shape—now ridiculously small prices are made to give this sale a flavor—note the 98c. special!

The Stove Department's Lively too

—the cream of the stove demand has stopped. Must get the range, parlor and heating stove lines thinned out while cold weather does last. Prices are cut to the quick. We've only reliable bakers and economical burners. And in oil and gasolene heaters there's an endless lot. Same with parlor stoves, from the smallest to greatest—all new in style, put at wholesale figures! The famous "Portland" alone is not reduced—can't get enough of them to supply actual needs.

Drop a postal, or look in daily papers for news of the amazing reductions made in the Carpet Dept. Wish we had space to tell of them here.

Can you believe your neighbors?
Read this statement made by a citizen:

Mr. Wm. Swalm, of 603 West Front street, says: "I consider Doan's Kidney Pills an elegant remedy for kidney troubles. I have used them and was greatly benefited. For several years I suffered from a severe pain across my back which annoyed me so much at night that I could not sleep. If I took cold it settled in my back and at such times I could scarcely get about at all. There was also a kidney weakness which was very distressing. I often had to get up at night thus breaking my rest. I read about Doan's Kidney Pills, and thought I would try them. My daughter got me a box at L. W. Randolph's drug store, and after using them a short time I felt much better in every way The pain in my back does not bother me now at all and the other difficulty has been relieved. Other members of the family have used them with equally good results. Doan's Kidney Pills have my endorsement and I will recommend them whenever an opportunity presents itself."

ATTACK BY WEYLER'S ORGAN.

Nacional Refers to McKinley and Woodford in Unmeasured Terms.

Biarritz, Jan. 4.—According to mail advices sent here from Madrid, in order to escape censorship, the Nacional, Gen. Weyler's organ, has published a defiant article pointing out that, although the Government has seized the General's protest, it could not prevent its being read in every barrack room.

The Nacional, it further appears, attacks President McKinley and the United States Minister at Madrid, Gen. Steward L. Woodford, in unmeasured terms. The Nacional has twice been confiscated, but the manager of that paper is a Deputy, and therefore cannot be prosecuted. As he declares himself to be the author of the incriminated articles, no other person connected with the paper can be prosecuted. Moreover, Madrid juries usually acquit persons charged with press offenses.

The number of dinners attended by Gen. Weyler and other officers of high rank is much commented upon, and is regarded as intended to show that the former Captain-General of Cuba is strongly supported by the military. It is even said that on the day he presented to the Queen his protest against the wording of President McKinley's message to Congress eighteen of the commanding officers of Madrid visited Gen. Weyler and congratulated him. Although the Liberal newspapers maintain that Gen. Weyler's proceedings are unimportant, it is recalled that military questions in Spain frequently lead to grave sequels.

The Correspondencia says that Marshal Blanco, the Captain-General of Cuba, computes that, besides the 40,000,000 pesetas required for the war, 20,000,000 pesetas monthly are necessary to pay arrears. Besides the projected issue of 100,000,000 pesetas of Cuban bonds, now held by the Bank of Spain as a guarantee, the Minister of Finance proposes to issue 200,000,000 pesetas in Spanish bonds, the security being the customs.

TREASURE SHIP FROM YUKON.

Klondike Miners Arrive at Seattle with Over $5,000,000.

San Francisco, Jan. 4.—A special from Port Townsend, Wash., says that there was $627,500 in gold dust and nuggets on the steamer Corona, which has arrived from Alaska. The treasure on the steamer was carefully guarded on the trip down by two watchmen day and night. Some of the nuggets weighed as high as fifteen ounces.

A man named J. Davidson, who says he hails from Cripple Creek, Col., has a nugget that weighs fifteen and one-half ounces. One of the drawers in Capt. Carroll's room was packed with nuggets of all sizes. In addition to this, there was considerable more carefully tied up in sacks among the returning Klondikers.

From a careful estimate it is safe to say that in drafts and gold dust there was about $1,200,000 in wealth aboard the Corona. F. Harmon McConnell, of San Francisco, was one of the returning passengers. He verified the estimate that over $1,000,000 was brought down by the miners.

UNCLE SAM TO TAKE A HAND.

Firm Attitude Regarding the Partition of China.

Washington, Jan. 4.—The United States has not been approached by England with any suggestion of an alliance to guarantee the neutrality of Chinese ports, but, on the contrary, our representatives at the courts of the great powers have intimated strongly that this country has commercial rights throughout China which it will not tamely see jeopardized by any policy of territorial aggrandizement which Germany or Russia or any other nation may wish to pursue, and England has fallen into line in support of our notice.

The Government, however, contemplates no alliance with any country, adhering to its historic attitude of independent action to preserve its own rights, although welcoming concerted representations on the part of England or any other interested party.

Senator Stewart's Alarm.

Denver, Col., Jan. 4.—Senator Stewart, of Nevada, resumed his journey to Washington last evening. "The Rothschild syndicate," said he, "is about to divide China among the gold standard nations of Europe. All the nations of Asia are to be reduced to financial slavery. The next movement will be to divide South America. What will then become of the free institutions of our own country? What then can intervene to support the Monroe doctrine? The money syndicate which began its work with the downfall of Napoleon proposes to reduce the world to slavery."

Filibusters in Florida.

Charlotte Harbor, Fla., Jan. 4.—Information has been received on board the U. S. S. Montgomery that during the night of Dec. 27 the revenue cutter McLean chased a suspicious-looking steamer and fired upon her. The supposed filibuster kept on her course. As the Somers N. Smith has not arrived here, it is believed she may have been the vessel fired on.

There are three expeditions fitting out here, one at Plant City, one at Bartow and another at Punta Gorda. All the channels are guarded, and two more revenue cutters are expected.

Counterfeit Silver Certificates.

Washington, Jan. 4.—John Cramer, of the Sub-Treasury at Philadelphia, brought to the Secret Service six one-hundred-dollar counterfeit silver certificates, head of President Monroe. Their general appearance is excellent, and after close examination the officials of the Treasury cash-room were undecided as to their genuineness, and only after the notes had been soaked in hot water, when the two pieces forming the front and back of the note came apart, were they convinced of the fraud.

Butterworth Very Ill.

Thomasville, Ga., Jan. 4.—Benjamin Butterworth, Commissioner of Patents, is seriously ill here. He came several days ago to recuperate from the effects of an attack of pneumonia, and until yesterday had been steadily improving. Yesterday morning, however, he was seized with convulsions and the physicians say his condition is critical. His daughter, Mrs. Howe, is here.

INDORSE THE REPORT.

Mr. Gage Thinks Well of Monetary Commission's Plan.

Washington, Jan. 4.—The publication of the report of the Monetary Commission yesterday created much interest in Washington. A large number of Senators and members called at the White House, and the President informally discussed the report with some of them. While the Administration has not recognized the commission officially, the President and the Cabinet have taken much interest in the work, and the former has always gladly received any information or suggestions from it. He has talked with the various members in an informal way, and so has Secretary Gage.

A copy of the report of the commission was distributed among the members of Congress in town Sunday, and all read it with interest. Some reservations were made in expressions regarding the details of the report, but there seemed to be a very general impression among Republicans and gold Democrats that it presented a well-matured plan, worthy of serious consideration by Congress.

Secretary Gage said: "I have read the report with great interest and much profit. Avoiding abstract terms, it proceeds in plain, comprehensible language to point out the sources of our present financial weakness, and the remedies proposed are so clearly set forth that all may understand. The reform measures recommended I regard as well adapted to cure the ills from which we suffer and which threaten our future. I sincerely hope it will bear fruit in legislative action."

Representative Johnson, of Indiana, a member of the Committee on Banking and Currency, said: "The report commends itself to my judgment in nearly all of its essential features. The declaration in favor of maintaining the gold standard is especially admirable. The enactment of such a provision as this into law by Congress just now would inspire renewed confidence in our financial integrity and ability, and insure us additional credit both at home and abroad. It is high time for us to quit dallying with the chimerical and dangerous theory of bimetallism, either national or international.

"The legislation proposed seems to me to be entirely practicable, and would, in my opinion, if enacted into law, retire the demand obligations of the Government at a minimum of cost and without either shocking the business interests of the country or contracting the currency. The emancipation of the Treasury from the functions of a bank of issue, thus and otherwise sufficiently provided for in the report, is a most desirable and advantageous consummation.

"I heartily indorse the suggestion that the issue of our paper currency be restricted to banks under national control, and that the banks be permitted to issue circulating notes in part upon their assets, but am not sure that the extent to which such issue is contemplated is entirely safe and that adequate provision is made for the security of bank depositors. If, however, these objections are well taken, they can easily be remedied without impairing the utility of the plan. The scheme will insure to the banks proper control over their loanable funds and at the same time supply us with a paper currency which will not only be perfectly safe, but which will also possess the qualities of simplicity and elasticity."

Klondike Strike a Failure.

Winnipeg, Man., Jan. 4.—H. H. Tremayne, of this city, has returned from the Yukon. He left Dawson City on Nov. 27, and made a quick trip to the coast. He says that the miners' strike was a failure, as the men would not combine. Most of them returned to work at $1 and a few at $1.50 an hour. The cold weather, which kept back work, was the prime factor in the defeat of the miners. Tremayne says that there will be no famine in the country, though provisions are none too plentiful.

Bryan for Congress.

Lincoln, Neb., Jan. 4.—A complimentary banquet will be given William J. Bryan upon his return from his Mexican trip this evening. At that banquet the nomination by the Fusionists of the First Nebraska District will be offered to Mr. Bryan. Some of his friends believe that he will accept. They, however, are in the minority. But the nomination will be tendered, and in case Mr. Bryan runs his opponent probably will be State Senator Talbot, Mr. Bryan's former law partner.

To Appeal for Durrant.

San Francisco, Jan. 4.—Theodore Durrant's attorneys will ask Judge Morrow, of the Federal Court, for a writ of habeas corpus, and while this legal contest is being conducted another appeal will be made to Gov. Budd to grant Durrant a reprieve.

In case all efforts to save Durrant fail, which is expected, his father will be at the foot of the gallows to hear his son's last words and witness his death. Mrs. Durrant will not witness the closing scene.

THE MAYOR'S MESSAGE.

done directly by the city or under separate contract. All new work should first be paid for by the property owners, as was the case in Ninth street in report of committee. No new street, unless under special circumstances, should be accepted until graded and macadamized by the parties make the application.

A fund should be created, to be known as the Street Cleaning and Repair Fund. All moneys derived from licenses for hacks, carts, peddlers, street railroad companies, etc., should be credited to this fund; and in addition, if the laws of the state will allow it, a small tax should be levied and collected for every wagon of every description, every horse and every bicycle owned in the city. All such money to be credited to the above fund, and used in keeping the streets clean and in repair. A rebate might be allowed where a broad tire is used.

To keep a macadam street in proper condition it must be sprinkled in dry weather. Before granting permits for this purpose, I suggest that you consider some method of having at least the most important streets sprinkled by the city, or under supervision of the Street Commissioner, and using the horses now owned by the city for use in the fire department for this purpose.

An ordinance should be passed requiring all wagons and carriages, as well as bicycles, to carry a light after dark. Of course this could only apply to wagons or carriages where the owners are residents of the city.

The question of providing a more permanent payment for the streets in the business section of the city, and the means of raising the necessary money required for this purpose should receive your early consideration, as well as the question of putting all wires in this section underground.

SEWERS.

The sewage system and the sewage disposal beds should be put directly under the charge of the Street Commissioner, and he should be held strictly responsible for the care of beds. His authority should be absolute, and he should be given power to hire and discharge all help required to keep everything in perfect order. The success of the system depends wholly on proper care and this can only be accomplished in the way recommended above. The present Street Commissioner, Andrew Gavett, who holds his office under the present laws until March, 1899, is an engineer and understands the whole system. He was engineer during construction and is the proper person to have charge. All trouble of every kind can be obviated if the beds are kept clean and are properly looked after by a competent man.

The part of the farm not used can be rented or left in grass and what hay is cut used for the Fire Department horses. The city should not go into the business of farming; only such crops should be planted and raised on the beds as will help in having them properly worked. The business of the city is to take care of the sewage in a way that will properly dispose of it without causing any nuisance or offensive smell, even to the adjoining neighbors. That this can and must be done there is not the slightest doubt, and it is the duty of the committee in charge to see that it is done.

FIRE DEPARTMENT.

The Fire Department is a credit to our city; the equipment is the best and the discipline is of the highest character for a volunteer department.

Without any further delay, there should be a proper distribution of the apparatus. A fire department building should be built or provided in the west end of the city, near Third street and Grant avenue, and one hose wagon and the old hook and ladder truck located there. The balance of the apparatus can be housed in the present fire headquarters house on East Second street, and the West Second street house taken and converted into a police station and jail, with dormitory and courtroom.

This committee must take up at once the matter of increasing the active force. The Chief reports 81 privates and 12 officers, making 93 in all, but the facts of the case are that today there are only 24 that can be called upon, the rest having served their time and are entitled to exemption papers at any time they wish to ask for them. On May 7th of this year there will be only 7 active members who have not served their time, and in October only 3. If the Council decide to open the doors again and allow the companies to fill up their ranks, it should be done with great care and only such applicants allowed to be elected and confirmed as will agree to do active fire duty.

Another manner would be to select from the present force a number of well-tried and competent men and pay them $1 or 50 cents for each fire. This, I understand, is the arrangement that has been made in Jamaica, N. Y.

The wagon now used by the Alert Hose Company should be purchased by the city at a fair price, say $300. If the Council decide to move one of the present companies down near Grant avenue, as suggested, the new members for that company should be selected from men residing in that district, or a new company should be formed to be known as the West Ends or No. 3.

The fixed expenses of the Fire Department can be easily arrived at, but the extra expenses and small matters which in the aggregate run up to a considerable amount, should be carefully watched, and the committee should not allow expenditure of any money or the purchase of any article, however small, until it has been passed on and considered by them.

As suggested under the heading of streets, the horses used in the Fire Department could be used in sprinkling the streets. If in no other manner, the city could arrange with the respective companies to take up the matter of street sprinkling for which they could charge the property owners the same price that has been paid to the men that have had the privilege, a certain proportion of the amount received to be paid over to the city for use of horses to be used in paying expenses of the Fire Department.

The ordinance relating to the Fire Department refers to the rules and regulations of the Board of Engineers. If there are any such rules or regulations I have never seen them. At any time this may be an important matter and the Board should be directed to adopt such rules and regulations as are necessary for proper discipline of the department, and submit same at an early date to the Common Council for approval.

The report made by the Chief of the Fire Department should be carefully read by the new committee and his recommendations for any improvement tending toward better service in the department given due consideration.

POLICE.

An examination of the report of committee on police, together with report of the Chief of Police, shows that this department is well organized and in condition to give the city the best service. At present the appointment of sixteen regular men is authorized; in addition it has been necessary to employ nearly all the time one special officer and sometimes two. I would recommend that the Council authorize the appointment of at least one additional man on the regular force.

The matter of station house and jail should no longer be delayed. Such a building is a public necessity and should be provided at once. The present jail is a public disgrace to the city, and should not be allowed to exist twenty-four hours in a civilized community. As already suggested, under the heading of Fire Department, the building now used for fire purposes on West Second street could be altered for this purpose, and a proper building erected in the West End of the city for fire purposes.

I recommended in my former message the installment of the Gamewell Police and Patrol System. As soon as the city is in funds that can be used for this purpose, some such system should be introduced, as it not only adds very materially to the service, but as the city grows, will very much reduce the expenses of the department.

I would suggest and recommend that the ordinance entitled, "An ordinance relating to city physician," approved June 4, 1890, be amended by adding a section providing that the city physician shall act also as police surgeon and at the request of Chief of Police an officer in charge shall attend to all calls at the police station for prisoners or others taken there requiring medical attendance.

LIGHTS.

The question of better street lights, particularly in the business section of the city, has been discussed a number of times during the past year. Anything that can be done to bring about an improvement without too much increase in the amount of money to be raised for this purpose, would meet with my approval; and I would suggest that the Council investigate the merits of the Welsbach Street Lighting Company Burner. This light, I understand, has been adopted in certain parts of New York city, in Freehold, N. J., in East Orange and a number of other places, and gives very good satisfaction The Company have an office at 31 Nassau street, New York, where they have samples of the different lamps and burners. They claim that the single burners will give a clear white light of over 60 candle power. They will take contract to furnish lamps and burners and provide on the lamps a place for the names of the streets.

LAWS AND ORDINANCES.

The work already begun of codifying the ordinances of the city and having some printed and bound in book form, should be pushed forward and completed at the earliest possible date. Your committee designated as the committee on laws and ordinances should be instructed to examine carefully all laws relating to the government of cities of the second class. They should also watch all future legislation closely and call attention to any measure introduced in the legislature affecting cities of this class. They can arrange with our representative to have copies of all bills introduced in the Legislature sent to them at once and so put themselves in position to take action to prevent legislation that would be detrimental to our city. To prevent the recurrances of the expense of printing ordinances that are introduced and passed by the Council but are not in accordance with the statutes, I recommend that all important ordinances proposed to be adopted be referred to this committee or to the Corporation Counsel to be passed on as to legality before being ordered advertised.

AUDITING.

Your auditing committee as now organized simply formally pass upon claims already audited and approved by the respective committees. In addition to taking this action I would recommend that in the future they audit regularly each month the books, vouchers and accounts of the Treasurer, Tax Collector and other city officers, and certify to the Council as to their correctness.

ALMS.

The reports of the commitee and Overseer of the Poor will show what has been done in this department during the past year. There are a number of matters that require serious consideration in regard to the future policy to be pursued in relieving the needs of the poor, and the management and care of the Alms House. I will not enter into a discussion of these matters at this time, but as soon as your committee has been appointed, I request that it will meet with me and discuss the question fully before taking any definite action.

TAXES AND ASSESSMENT.

The question of taxes and assessment pending the report of the Commissioners appointed under the act known as the "Martin Act" and other information I have been endeavoring to collect, I will not take up in this communication. However, I expect to make this important question, which will require serious and careful consideration, the subject of a special message to be submitted for your consideration in the near future.

In conclusion, I would remind the members of the Council that in accepting a nomination and election from the people that they voluntarily become servants of the people, that they have accepted a public trust. The people look to them to conduct the affairs of the city in a business-like, just and careful manner. The people have the right to criticize and suggest, and it is the duty of a public official to listen and pay attention to their suggestions, criticisms or complaints, to weigh all in the balance and decide what is best for the interests of the community. The people expect and are entitled, that you should use your best judgment and thought in all matters brought to your attention. No party influences or personal ambitions should be allowed to bias your judgment. What is for the best interests of the city is for the best interests of all parties, and as has been very often quoted, "He that serves the people best serves his party best."

Assuring your honorable body of my earnest co-operation in all matters that are for the best interests of the "Inhabitant of the city of Plainfield," and holding myself in readiness to meet with you and give you my best thought and judgment in regard to any matter upon which you may wish to consult me, I remain

Yours very truly,
Charles J. Fisk.

FROZEN IN HER HOME.

A YOUNG ITALIAN GIRL MET DEATH THUS AT BERKELEY HEIGHTS.

The Guiseppo Family Lived in a Hovel on the Bank of the Passaic River—Died at Dr. Cory's in New Providence.

Armita Guiseppo, an Italian girl, eight years of age, living at Berkeley Heights, was frozen so badly in the severe cold of Sunday night that she died in the following morning without regaining consciousness.

The Guiseppo family live in the Italian settlement on the banks of the Passaic river. Their home is a mere hovel or shed of one room, with an earthen floor and no means of protection from the cold in winter. The horse, which is used by the father in his junk business, is quartered in the same room with the family, at night, with a low partition of boards intervening.

Sunday night little Armita complained of the severe cold, but her murmurings were reproved by the parents, and she was placed on a bundle of straw to sleep for the night. She soon sobbed herself into a sleep that was partly a stupor, and nothing more was heard from the child until morning.

The mother attempted to arouse her in the morning, but there was no response and an investigation showed that the child was unconscious, and frozen nearly stiff. In alarm Guiseppo and his wife hitched up the horse and taking the little form in the wagon, drove hastily to Dr. Cory, of New Providence.

The physician made a hasty examination, but saw almost at a glance that life was ebbing fast. He pronounced the case a hopeless one, and in a few minutes from the time of reaching his house the child was dead.

The funeral was held yesterday, and Armita was buried in St. Mary's Catholic cemetery, at Berkeley Heights.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—The Women's Association of the Congregational church will hold a regular meeting Thursday afternoon in the church parlors.

—Rev. D. M. Stearns stated to his class that when appointing the meeting for last night which he did four weeks before he had overlooked the fact that it came in the week of prayer.

—The arrangement of the new Council for 1898 is as follows: Messrs. Barrows, Andrews, Homan, Van Herwerden, Runyon, Newman, Hetfield, Buckle, Moffett and Liefke, with Mr. Baker in the chair as president.

—There was a large number of interested spectators in the lobby of the city Council room last evening and some of them were ex-Councilmen. As nothing of any great importance took place, little enthusiasm was evidenced by the lookers on.

A Missionary Speaker.

Under the auspices of the Christian and Missionary Alliance, Rev. M. B. Fuller, of India, will address the meeting Thursday evening at 7:45 o'clock, in the rooms of the W. C. T. U. corner Fourth street and Watchung avenue.

Rev. Mr. Fuller is superintendent of the Alliance work in India, and was actively engaged in the distribution of the Christian Herald fund in the famine districts.

He is a cultivated gentleman and an interesting speaker. He sails for India Saturday to resume his work there. A good time may be expected in the meeting.

Talks by Mr. Hadley.

The first meeting in the series being held at Hope chapel under the direction of S. H. Hadley, of the Water Street Mission, of New York, was held last evening and was largely attended. Mr. Hadley's remarks were thoroughly enjoyed and much interest was manifested. Mr. Hadley will be present every night except Saturday night, and a cordial invitation is extended to all to attend the services.

concerning the appointment and compensation of Overseer of the Poor and Commissioners of Appeal in cases of taxation.

WHEREAS, it was enacted by an Act of the Legislature approved March 26th 1892, that in all cities of the second class in this State, it shall and may be lawful for the Common Council to provide for the appointment of one Overseer of the Poor and three Commissioners of Appeal in cases of taxation, to be appointed by the Mayor, by and with the consent of the Common Council, and that the offices of such Commissioners of Appeal in cases of taxation now existing in said cities shall be abolished upon the appointment of said officers under said act, and by Act of March 28th, 1893, the term of office of Overseer of the Poor is fixed at three years.

AND WHEREAS, the Common Council has determined and hereby determines to proceed under said statutes:

The Inhabitants of the City of Plainfield, by their Common Council, do enact as follows:

Section 1. That pursuant to the Act of the Legislature in such case made and provided, the Mayor shall nominate, and by and with the consent of the Common Council, appoint three Commissioners of Appeal in cases of taxation on or before the first Monday in February, A. MARRIED AMID FLOWERS

CHARMING HOME WEDDING OF MISS ROCAP AND W. M. JENKINS.

The Ceremony Was Performed at the Home of the Bride Last Evening—Couple Left for the Southern States.

One of the prettiest home weddings of the season was that of Miss Margaret Rocap, of this city, and William MacGowan Jenkins, of Patchogue, N. Y., which was solemnized last evening at the home of the bride, 615 Central avenue.

The house presented a most charming appearance, being decorated with evergreens, palms, holly and cut flowers. The parlor, where the ceremony took place, was a veritable bower of greenery, the large bow window at the extremity of the room being converted into a green alcove of trailing vines, through which the light broke with fairy-like effect. Pink roses and ribbons of the same color gave an effect of pink and green to the decorations.

The wedding ceremony was private, only the relatives of the bride and groom and a few intimate friends being present. Precisely at 7 o'clock the strains of the wedding march were heard, announcing the coming of the bridal party. Little Marion Rocap made a charming flower girl. Miss Carolyn Moore and Miss Katharyn Rocap unwound the white ribbons forming the aisle, and the bride and groom then entered. The bride was gowned in pearl gray peau de soixe silk, and carried a bouquet of pink bridal roses.

The marriage ceremony was performed by Rev. D. J. Yerkes, D. D., pastor of the First Baptist church, of which the bride is a member.

After the ceremony an informal reception was held, and Mr. and Mrs. Jenkins received the congratulations of their many friends. During the reception, which lasted from half past seven to half-past nine o'clock, the guests were served with refreshments in a manner that was unique and homelike. The bride followed the old-fashioned custom of cutting the bride's cake. Mrs. Charles E. Rocap and Mrs. W. H. Moore served the coffee and chocolate, assisted by Mrs. John D. Titsworth, Mrs. L. T. Rogers, Mrs. George Titsworth and Mrs. Arthur Titsworth. The wedding presents were numerous and of great beauty and value.

The bride and groom departed on the 10 o'clock train upon their wedding journey. The honeymoon will be spent in the southern states, and upon their return Mr. and Mrs Jenkins will reside at the bride's home on Central avenue, and in the spring they will leave for Patchogue, where they will spend the summer months.

ANOTHER MISSION FOR PLAINFIELD.

A Danish Lutheran Mission to be Started Next Week.

The meeting for organization will be held in the German Lutheran church on Grove street next Monday evening at 8 o'clock.

The mission will gradually enlarge the work among the Scandinavians and Danes in this city. The first step will be to increase the services from one to two a month.

The promoters of the movement have issued a notice inviting all Scandinavians and Danes to co operate in the work of establishing the mission.

WAVED TROUBLES ASIDE

NOW HIS PARTNER HAS ASKED FOR A RECEIVER FOR THE FIRM.

The History of the Firm of Verrette & Maccaroni, Brickmakers, Has Been Warm and Exciting—The Culmination.

The troubles which have beset the firm of Verrette & Maccaroni, the proprietors of a brickyard at New Providence, have been engaging the attention of the public for several months past. Yesterday they culminated in an application for a receiver for the firm, made by Verrette through his solicitor, William Newcorn, of this city, before Chancellor McGill.

The history of the firm has been a troublous one from the time of its organization. Last summer there were frequent strikes of the employes and the parties were in the courts several times in attempts to settle their differences. The present proceedings are based on a bill for accounting and the appointment of a receiver. In it Verrette alleges that on the first day of last June he and Maccaroni formed a partnership in New Providence and erected the plant for manufacturing brick.

The agreement when the enterprise was started, he claims, was that each of the partners was to share equally in the expenses and the profits. Trouble soon arose between the two men, as Verrette was dissatisfied with the course pursued by Maccaroni, claiming that he was being defrauded of his share of the profits. The bill for a receiver calls attention to this fact, alleging that over 800,000 brick have been burnt by and disposed of by the firm, and that Maccaroni has pocketed the cash resulting from the sales of the brick and has persistently refused to make an accounting to his partner.

The debts which the firm has contracted since its organization have been allowed to remain unpaid, and have accumulated into a considerable sum. When spoken to regarding these obligations Maccaroni waved them aside with a flourish of the hand.

FOR THE GOSPEL'S SAKE

A HELPFUL DISCOURSE BY REV. DR. J. L. HURLBUT.

He Spoke at Last Night's Service in Monroe Avenue M. E. Church—A Practical Illustration of His Text.

The services in connection with the first anniversary of the Monroe avenue church were continued last evening, and the speaker of the evening was Rev. Dr. Jesse Lyman Hurlbut, formerly pastor of the First M. E. church, but now of New York, where he is engaged in the work of the denomination at their headquarters in the city. The service opened with a service of song under the direction of Augustus Rose, the "Pilgrim Singer," of Australia. Mr. Rose also sang several solos.

Dr. Hurlbut took for his text 1 Corinthians, 9th chapter, 23d verse: "And this I do for the Gospel's sake." These words, the speaker said, were uttered by Paul who was a true follower of Christ. In the regular routine of church work there is an occasional call to some special duty, and it is necessary that the call should be answered at once. It is highly important that the people of God should be doing something for the Gospel's sake. This church is the place of duty for the members of this portion of God's kingdom. There are many reasons why God's people should do something for the Gospel's sake. The church is like any other society or people. If the members are lukewarm or cold, the whole church will be that way. Each member should be filled with the Spirit of Christ and thus set on fire those with whom they come in contact. Each member should see to it that someone is helped to keep the fire on God's altar burning within their heart. There is not one single person but what receives a hundred times more from a church than they give.

Speaking personally Dr. Hurlbut said that for sixteen years his family had occupied a pew in the First M. E. church on Front street, and that when they left Plainfield it was very difficult for them to get used to any other church. He considered that the Monroe Avenue church is the medium to Christ for the children attending that House of God, that Christians are pledged to serve Christ faithfully and honestly. The holy life of a Christian he considered was the best advertisement for the religion of Christ.

In conclusion Dr. Hurlbut made several practical applications of his text to the edification of those present, and urged all to live holy lives for Christ's sake and for the Gospel's sake. After singing a hymn and listening to a solo by Mr. Rose, the meeting closed.

This evening the meeting will be conducted by Dr. R. R. Doherty, of New York, who will give a Gospel talk. Mr. Rose will also sing and have charge of the music.

IN MEMORY OF A LOVED ONE.

Funeral Services of the Late Mrs. Joseph N. Bogart Held.

The funeral services of the late Mrs Joseph N. Bogart were held Monday afternoon from the house, 305 East Sixth street. There was a large attendance of relatives and friends who held the deceased in the highest esteem and regard. The services were conducted by Rev. Cornelius Schenck, Ph. D., pastor of Trinity Refomed church, who spoke words of comfort and consolation to the bereaved ones. He also spoke in the highest praise concerning the deceased whose model Christian character was an inspiration to all with whom she came in contact.

Several vocal selections were rendered by a quartette under the direction of Horace J. Martin, and the rendition of "Jesus Lover of My Soul," a favorite hymn of the deceased, was very effective.

The display of flowers was beautiful. FEELING AGAINST HAND

SO HIS APPLICATION FOR A HOSTELRY WAS WITHDRAWN.

He Wanted to Start Another Hotel in Dunellen—Mayor, Council and Many Citizens Opposed It—Judge Strong's Remarks.

The petit jury of Middlesex county met at the court house in New Brunswick yesterday morning and a large number of witnesses, indicted people and lawyers were also present. Judge Strong presided. Licenses and criminal matters were disposed of.

The application of Fred W. Hand to keep a bottling establishment in Dunellen was considered. H. B. Willis presented a remonstrance on the ground that the applicant is a resident of North Plainfield, not of Dunellen, that he intends to put Michael Watson, a man to whom the court had refused a license, in charge of the place, that the place would attract disorderly persons, that an increased police force would be required, and that there are already two hotels in Dunellen.

The remonstrance was signed by Mayor Peter W. Brakeley, all the members of the Borough Council and a number of other representative citizens. Mr. Willis was about to enter into a more elaborate protest against the place, when Judge Strong interrupted him by saying that of his personal knowledge of the liquor supply for that locality that he would reject the application and that it would require a very strong case on the part of the applicant to overcome his almost conclusive conclusion.

Howard MacSherry, who represented Mr. Hand, asked permission to withdraw the apdlication. This was allowed. It is the second time that the application has been before the Court. Then followed other applications and several trials.

WORK AT M'CALL MISSION

Mrs. Le Gay, the Founder of the Plainfield Auxiliary, Made an Address.

The McAll Auxilliary of this city has been in existence for twelve years, and has done a noble and successful work, interesting itself in and contributing to the well-known McAll Mission which was begun in Paris in 1872. The regular meeting of the Auxiliary was held this morning in the parlors of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, and the members and their friends, who attended in unusually large numbers, had the pleasure of listening to an address from the founder of the Plainfield organization, Mrs. Le Gay, of Paris, who has borne an active part in the work of the mission.

Mrs DeGay's address dealt largely with the work done by the three mission halls which the Plainfield Auxiliary supports in the large city of Limoges, a city entirely under the control of Roman Catholic priests, at the time the halls were opened, but where a great work is now being done, especially among the soldiers stationed there. She also told something of the good done by the other stations of the McAll Mission, and of her own work, the conducting of mother's meetings, which have had a vast influence in refining and Christianizing the rough women among the lower classes of Paris.

Mrs. LeGay complimented the Plainfield women on their successful work and urged their continuance in it, as France is now far more open to Protestant influences than ever before.

The Silent Eight.

The Silent Eight Old Maids' Sewing Circle held a meeting at the residence of Miss Pangborn on Chatham street yesterday afternoon.

THE PASTOR'S SALARY.

SEVERAL OF THE TRUSTEES WANTED TO REDUCE IT.

The Congregation of the Scotch Plains Baptist Church Decided Otherwise—The Action Caused by a Large Deficit.

The members of the historic Scotch Plains Baptist church are considerably disturbed in mind and temper over the question of the amount which they shall pay their pastor, Rev. J. S. Braker, for his labors in the church. The matter came to a climax at a special parish meeting, held last night, when a motion was made to reduce the salary of the pastor. The result of the vote was the defeat of the motion and a substantial victory for the pastor.

The suggestion to reduce the pastor's salary arose not from any dissatisfaction with Mr. Braker, who is popular with his congregation, but it was thought to be necessary by some members of the board of trustees in order to enable the church to meet the expenses of the recent sesqui-centennial celebration of the church. This cost $400, and a history of the church prepared in connection with the celebration cost an additional $150. The revenues received from the congregation have not been as large as was anticipated, and the result has been a deficit in the church treasury. Several of the trustees favored reducing the pastor's salary from $1,300 to $900, without consulting the members of the congregation, but a strong minority protested so loudly that it was decided to call a special parish meeting to decide the matter.

The church corporation is the owner of a very large estate, and many of the church members demand that the money to defray the outstanding debts be taken from the estate. This the trustees are unwilling to do, claiming that the principal should not be impaired, and that one of the conditions under which the money was given was that it should be used in the spread of the gospel. Centennial celebrations, they say, are not strictly in the line of gospel services.

Entertained Their Classes.

Mrs. John H. Carney, Miss Margaret Schuck and Miss Della Voehl entertained their Sunday-school scholars with a pleasant social affair at the residence of Mrs. Carney, 40 Craig place, last evening. The guests were treated to an amusing exhibition of ledgerdemain by Professor Sherwood and his assistant, Mr. Boelin. George Voehl gave a number of selections with his Edison phonograph, and John H. Carney closed the programme with a comic selection upon a flour seive. Refreshments were then served.

Those present were: Fred Voorhees, Fred Conroy, Louis Stites, Frank Stites, Robert VanNest, Walter Layton, Willie Higgins, Fred Monford, George Conover, Edward Shroop, John Carney, Grover Shuck, Bennie Rutledge, Percy Gaddis, Sherman Haberle, Walter Vail, John Valiant, Harry Shuck and Robert Kirch.

THE CONTEST IN OHIO

Republicans Are Fighting Hard to Save Mark Hanna.

HE STILL LACKS TWO VOTES

Opposition Cannot Agree on a Candidate to Oppose the Senator—The Democrats Refuse to Accept Any Republican Yet Suggested.

Columbus, O., Jan. 5.—Previous to the assembling of the Legislature there were conferences on both sides in the Senatorial contest. The Hanna men claimed to have secured pledges from Representatives Griffin, of Union, and Joyce, of Carroll, who voted for Mason on Monday for Speaker; but with these doubtful accessions, they were still short two votes of enough to elect.

While Hanna's friends are working here the Republican County committees, clubs and other organizations at the homes of the doubtful Republican members have been enlisted, and many delegations of "visiting statesmen" are arriving, one of the first being from the home of Gov. Bushnell, of Springfield.

The combined opposition to Hanna claims to have enough votes to defeat Hanna, but they have not yet claimed enough votes to elect any one Senatorial candidate mentioned by the combine.

The trouble is not only to hold their present forces in line against Hanna, but to get them to agree upon their man for Senator. The work of the Hanna men has been devoted to skirmishing for two or more votes.

In the House yesterday all sorts of bills were introduced against corporations. These measures were regarded as thrusts at Senator Hanna, whose business interests are varied. An amendment to the Nichols law, which taxes the earnings of express, telegraph, telephone and other companies, was introduced so as to include street railways, electric light and power equipment, artificial and natural gas, sleeping-car and all other corporations.

There was also a bill introduced to repeal the law for a new State House. This was regarded as returning the compliment to the Columbus people who have expressed their disapprobation of the course of Gov. Bushnell.

The House adjourned at noon to-day. There is much unfinished business, but the combine does not intend to announce any of the standing committees till after the joint Senatorial caucuses to-night.

THE NEWS IN WASHINGTON.

Mr. Hanna's Friends More Encouraged—Secretary Sherman Talks.

Washington, Jan. 5.—The news from Columbus received in Washington from private sources is a little brighter. Mr. Hanna's friends have somewhat recovered from their surprise over the defeat of Roxwell for Speaker, and advices show that all the Republicans who bolted on the Speakership contest will not refuse to vote for Mr. Hanna. There is great indignation over the course of Gov. Bushnell, and many telegrams have been sent from this city protesting against his action.

It is said here that Mr. Hanna has received assurances from several gold Democratic members of the Legislature that they will vote for him should the silver Democrats combine with the anti-Hanna Republicans to elect a silver man.

Secretary Sherman, in talking about the matter, said: "I can well understand from the press reports which I have read that there must be great excitement in Columbus. No, I cannot predict what will be the outcome. I have no sources of information beyond what I see in the papers, and the situation does not warrant any offhand comment."

Assistant Secretary Day still insists that he will not be a candidate, nor could he accept an election in place of Mr. Hanna. He believes that Mr. Hanna will be elected, notwithstanding the opposition.

The President Confident.

Washington, Jan. 5.—At the meeting of the Cabinet yesterday the Senatorial situation in Ohio was alluded to, and the President expressed not only his deep concern in the result, but also his belief that Mr. Hanna would succeed himself.

Fourth-Class Postmasters.

Connecticut—North Colebrook, Litchfield, John S. Hall.

New Jersey—Cookstown, Burlington, John H. Shinn.

New York—Allen Falls, St. Lawrence, Albro E. Bloss; Broome Centre, Scoharie, Floyd C. Gordon; Cadyville, Clinton, James Hopkins; Chazy, Clinton, Henry J. Hinman; Ellenburg Center, Clinton, Wm. H. Gordan; North Boylston, Oswego, George W. Rudd; Patria, Scoharie, Charles A. Chase; Remsen, Oneida, R. R. Janes; Silver Bay, Warren, James Adams; Yorkville, Oneida, George T. Seelye.

Pennsylvania—Six Points, Butler, Laura E. Parks; Stonersville, Berks, O. M. Richardson.

President May Ignore Paxson.

Washington, Jan. 5.—While no information of an official character is to be obtained at the White House regarding the successor to Colonel W. R. Morrison on the Interstate Commerce Commission, the belief is general that the President has not yet decided whom he will appoint. It was supposed for a time that Judge Paxson, of Pennsylvania, had been determined upon definitely, but the indications now are that the President will appoint a Western man, probably a man from Illinois.

Major Roe for Major-General.

New York, Jan. 5.—Major Charles F. Roe's name was submitted to Governor Black in Albany yesterday as the choice of Adjutant General C. Whitney Tillinghast and the National Guard of the State for permanent Major General of the State troops, under the scheme for the reorganization of that body. The Governor, of course, will not be bound by this selection, but necessarily it will carry great weight.

"MALSTER" MEN BOLT.

Some Republicans in Maryland Legislature Oppose McComas.

Annapolis, Md., Jan 5.—What promises to prove a serious split among the Republicans in the Legislature developed last night when an attempt was made to caucus for officers of the General Assembly, which meets to-day.

Twelve of the eighteen members from Baltimore refused to take part in the caucus, and after waiting for an hour beyond the appointed time the other Republicans met without them.

The recalcitrants are Malster men, adherents of the faction which recently dethroned United States Senator Wellington from the leadership of the party in the State.

Last night's action is looked upon as a protest against the election of Judge McComas to the Senate. It is asserted that the "Malsterities" will combine with the Democrats and organize the lower house to-day unless their demands are complied with.

Shaw's Trial Postponed.

Camden, N. J., Jan. 5.—The trial of Eli Shaw for the murder of his grandmother, Mrs. Emma Zane, has been abandoned until the April term of court. This decision was reached yesterday after a conference between the Court and counsel for both sides. No reason is officially assigned for this action. It is known, however, that Shaw belongs to an order of which one of the jurors is also a member. The branch to which Shaw belongs recently passed resolutions expressing belief in his innocence, and these facts are thought to have had a bearing upon the fixing of the trial date. Shaw was also accused of the murder of his mother, but the prosecutor elected to try the two murder cases separately.

To Be Hanged Feb. 16.

New York, Jan. 5.—Edward Clifford, the former West Shore Railroad detective who on March 5, 1895, shot and killed William Wattson, superintendent of that railroad, in his office in Weehawken because the superintendent would not reinstate him as detective, was arraigned in the Hudson County Court of Oyer and Terminer in Jersey City yesterday for resentence. Clifford was convicted of the murder and sentenced to be hanged. Judge Lippincott sentenced Clifford to be hanged in the Hudson County Jail, Jersey City, on Wednesday, Feb. 16, next.

No Hope for Recovery.

Thomasville, Ga., Jan. 5.—The death of United States Patent Commissioner Benjamin Butterworth is momentarily expected. He is lying unconscious in his room at a hotel here, and the physicians say there is no hope whatever for his recovery.

Since he was stricken on Monday he has gradually been growing weaker, and, although the resident and New York doctors are exhausting themselves in an effort to save his life, they say the only thing they can accomplish is to ease his pain. Telegrams of sympathy are pouring in from all sections.

Famous Baseball Manager Dead.

New York, Jan. 5.—Charles H. Byrne, the baseball magnate and manager of the Brooklyn baseball team, died yesterday at his residence, 107 West Eleventh street. Mr. Byrne had been ill for a month, suffering from a complication of diseases. He was unconscious for two days before his death. Byrne was born in this city in 1848. He had always been interested in outdoor sports, especially in baseball, and in 1883 he became president of the Brooklyn Baseball Club. He held that office up to the time he was taken ill.

Fitz Is Very Angry.

Oshkosh, Wis., Jan. 5.—"The statement to the effect that I was mixed up in a bar-room fight in Sheboygan, Wis., Sunday night, in which Attorney Hughes was injured by a blow from Edward B. McDaniels, a comedian with my troupe, is a lie," said Robert Fitzsimmons last night. "I was not present when the trouble occurred, but was sound asleep in my room at the hotel. The trouble did not occur in the bar-room, but in the billiard hall of the hotel. I think it is a rank shame to connect my name with the affair, to make me out a bar-room loafer."

Fatal Feud of Farmers.

Lewiston, Ill., Jan. 5.—George Calender and Elwood Moore, farmers, living three miles northeast of here, became engaged in a quarrel and Calender struck Moore over the head with a club, cutting his head to the bone. Calender then sent his wife into the house after his rifle, and he shot Moore under the right shoulder. Moore died in a few hours. Calender came in and gave himself up to the Sheriff.

Ignatius Donnelly to Marry.

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 5.—The announcement is made that Hon. Ignatius Donnelly, the well-known Populist leader, famous also as the upholder of the Baconian authorship of Shakespeare's works, will in six weeks marry Miss Mirian Hansen, who has been stenographer in the office of his newspaper. Mr. Donnelly is 66 years old and Miss Hansen is 20.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

GOV. BLACK'S MESSAGE

Synopsis of the Document Read Before New York Legislature.

FAVORS THE EXCISE LAWS

And Preservation of the Forests—The Governor Will Make Every Effort to Have the Capitol Completed During His Term.

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 5.—Nearly every member of the Legislature was present when that body was called to order at 12 o'clock to-day by Lieut.-Gov. Woodruff. The Assembly Republicans renominated Mr. O'Grady for Speaker, Col. Archie Baxter for Clerk, James C. Crawford, of New York, for Sergeant-at-Arms and Henry C. Laurmert, of Brooklyn, for stenographer.

The message of Gov. Black was presented to the Legislature about 1 o'clock. It was short, containing about 2,000 words. Here is a synopsis of its most interesting features:

It sets forth in some detail the policies of the administration, and generously reflects the honor which Republican achievements have shed upon the people of the State. It states the Executive's position on many important matters that are to be considered before the close of the legislative session.

Considerable space was given to the finances of the State. The message points to the surplus of over $7,000,000 which existed in the State Treasury on Sept. 30, and to the reduction of two mills in the tax rate for the current year. The increase in the valuation of real and personal property from $4,368,712,923 to $4,506,985,694 was pointed out.

The large revenues derived from the liquor tax and collateral inheritance tax laws, especially the former, which will show a large increase over that of the preceding year, were mentioned.

The members were cautioned against extravagance and the forgetfulness which sometimes cloud their duty to the State when their particular localities are in quest of appropriations from the public funds.

His Excellency will advise the Legislature not to make any changes in the existing prison labor laws. Officials of the various State prisons have requested that this advice be inserted. Commendation was meted out to those officials for the success which met the scheme to manufacture supplies in the prisons for the State departments. The Governor said in substance:

"The prisoners are all employed; the products manufactured are excellent; the removal of the prison products from competition with those of honest labor in the open market has been accomplished, and a system has been introduced which within a short period promises to make the prisons self-supporting."

A central prison for killing capital offenders was recommended.

Gov. Black expressed a desire that the law governing State reformatories and the system of intermediate sentence be modified. He believes that defects in the system have resulted in injustice and unnecessary hardships. This belief accounts for the large number of pardons during the past year.

Again, he recommends biennial sessions of the Legislature. It is his opinion that the people will largely benefit by such a scheme; that it will lessen the burdens of the taxpayers and do away with much turmoil.

The great stride made since last Spring towards the completion of the Capitol called for special comment. The Governor will make every effort to have the building completed before the end of his term.

The demands of the bicyclists and good roads associations were attended to in the message.

The message recommended that the Forest Preserve Board be continued, and that an appropriation of $1,000,000 be made to carry on the purchase of Adirondack lands. With the money appropriated last Winter about 250,000 acres were purchased. The Governor pointed out the fact that in order to preserve the forests and the watersheds of the rivers which arise therein the land must be purchased, and as it is increasing in value each year, the sooner the purchases are made the more profitable will be the transaction to the State.

The liquor tax law, which resulted in a total collection last year of over $12,000,000 tax, of which $4,000,000 went into the State Treasury, was considered at length and with favor.

The message contained a paragraph recommending the Legislature to provide means for completing the improvements begun on the canals; $7,000,000 will be required. If it is accorded the total amount appropriated for this purpose will be $16,000,000.

The Governor spoke in terms of praise of his "merit" and "fitness" system of civil-service reform. A few recommendations were suggested.

UNREASONABLE TAXATION.

The scheme of Mayor Fisk, as suggested in his annual message, regarding the taxation of bicycles, horses and carriages, for the improvement of the public highways, has not met with general approval. On the contrary, the public sentiment is rightly against such a method of taxation. The plan has been characterized by one prominent citizen as Utopian, another suggests that a tax on pedestrians' shoes would be just as reasonable. The wheelman are united against such a measure, as they consider that bicycle travel improves rather than injures the surface of a road. There is little need for worry on that score, however, for with the present council, it would be impossible to pass any such ordinance despite the best endeavors of the Mayor. It is not likely that Mayor Fisk will attempt to push such a scheme when he finds how unpopular it is among the people of the city.

The Mayor's idea of compelling all residents to place lights on their carriages is a measure worthy of the support of all. Many of the citizens have done so already but there is a large number of carriages and hacks that are as dangerous at night to wheelmen and pedestrians as the bicycle without a light. With such an army of wheelmen in the city, the danger from carriages is greatly increased. The introduction of rubber tires makes the danger tenfold more and the attention of the Common Council is called to the matter and it hoped that action will be taken in regard to the matter at an early date.

CREDITABLE ENTERPRISE

Despite the rush of other important news, The Daily Press was able to provide its readers in yesterday's issue with the full text of Mayor Fisk's message. The message was a particularly important one, and was read in the columns of The Press with great interest in many Plainfield homes. The question of good city government is not one of interest to the Councilmen alone, but to the citizens as well. The Press will make a special aim to keep its readers thoroughly in touch with all the doings of the municipal government so that they may judge for themselves whether the city government is being administered as it should be.

A NEW CANDIDATE.

A new candidate has appeared in the field for the position of postmastership, which falls vacant in June. The new candidate for the National appointment is Elias H. Bird, the present Tax Collector of this city. The news of Mr. Bird's candidacy came as a great supprise to most Plainfielders, who had little idea that he was in the race for the appointment.

Joined Another Church.

Miss Lucy Swain, who was the complaining witness in the trial of Rev. P. S Gibson, the former pastor of the Mt. Olive Baptist church, for adultery, has joined the Fillmore Avenue Baptist church. She joined on confession of faith last Sunday. She formerly was a member of the Mt. Olive church, but eight months ago her name was dropped from the roll.

Many New Members.

The popularity of the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club was evidenced at the meeting of the board of directors last evening. The new by-laws, proposed sometime ago, providing for an increase in the membership of fifty was passed. At the same meeting applications for membership were presented by thirty-eight, leaving only twelve vacancies in the club.

An Excellent Showing.

The Board of Directors of the Plainfield Building and Loan Association held a meeting last evening, and decided to declare the second series matured. They will be payable after January 15. It has now continued for ten years and four months, which is an excellent showing.

Work Nearly Completed.

The Martin Act Commissioners met last evening and considered a few additional cases. The work of sending out notices to the delinquents on the list is nearly completed.

Westfield Lodge, I. O. O. F., holds its regular monthly meeting in the lodge rooms tonight.

Charles B. Peddie is the Westfield member of the Grand Jury of this county for the present term of court.

Empire Engine Company held a meeting in the company's rooms on North avenue last evening and transacted routine business.

Marian, aged 18 months, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Kennedy, of South avenue, died suddenly of pneumonia, after an illness of only an hour, Monday evening. The funeral services were held at the house last evening, Rev. Henry Ketcham, of the Westfield Congregational church, officiating.

The services in observance of the week of prayer were begun in Westfield last evening with a prayer meeting in the Baptist church, led by Rev. W. H. Ruth, pastor of the Methodist church. The meeting this evening will be held in the Congregational church, and will be led by Rev. Henry Ketcham, pastor of the church. The annual woman's prayer meeting, which is held in connection with the other services of the week of prayer, was held in the Methodist church this afternoon. Much interest is being manifested in these meetings, and it is proposed to continue them another week.

The Westfield Board of Education held its monthly meeting in the Prospect street building last night. All the trustees were present with the exception of the president, John B. Green. S. W. Reese was elected chairman. A communication was received from the trustees of the Springfield school district regarding the bill of that district for $200 against Westfield for allowing several of the scholars living in the Westfield district to attend the school at Branch Mills. The bill was ordered paid. A number of bills, some of which had remained unpaid for several months, were ordered paid. The clerk of the Cranford school district submitted a report of the school at Garwood, which is operated jointly by Cranford and Westfield on the basis of the percentage of pupils sent by each township. The expenses of running the school, according to the report, will be $203.81, and as Westfield sends nine of the thirty-six pupils, her quota is $50.95. This amount was ordered paid. A notice was received from the Tax Collector that unless the taxes on the school property of the township is paid at once the property will be sold for taxes. The amounts due the Collector are $92 53 on the Prospect street building and $243 14 on the Lincoln High School building. After the adjournment of the meeting a request was made upon District Clerk Coger for the customary statement of the condition of the finances, so that the trustees might be prepared at the February meeting to act intelligently in making up the budget for the coming year, which will be presented at the annual meeting of the voters of the district in March. The Clerk refused to prepare such a report, and some hot words followed between him and the former District Clerk.

THEATRICAL.

Lincoln J. Carter's "The Heart of Chicago," said to be an unusually strong melodrama, will be the attraction at the Stillman Music Hall Friday night. "The Heart of Chicago" is said to be exceptionally well put on and to present some extraordinary stage pictures. The story of the play opens on the night of the great Chicago fire, and shows Madison street before, during and after the fire, reproduced from photographs. The next important scene represents the roof of the Masonic Temple and also shows a panoramic view of the city to the south and west. The roof garden scene affords opportunity for the introduction of a number of clever specialties. An absolutely new railroad scene is also a feature of the play.

GOLF SEASON OVER.

Links of the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club Closed for the Winter.

The golf season in Plainfield has come to an end for the winter. The golf links of the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club are now closed for the winter and will not be used again until spring. Letters of Thanks to the Good People of Trinity Reformed Church.

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—I ask the use of your columns to express my sincere thanks to the members of Trinity Reformed church for their liberality in presenting me with a purse of money. It assisted me greatly in my distress and leads me to believe that my services as sexton were appreciated.

Very truly yours,
Clarkson F. Mundy.

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—Permit me through the columns of your paper to express to the members of the congregation of Trinity Reformed church my deep appreciation of their kindness, as shown by the substantial present made me by them New Year's morning. I desire also to state that my services for them during the past four months have been made more agreeable and less difficult than they would otherwise have been, by the courtesy and thoughtfulness instantly shown toward me.

Yours respectfully
John Getelsen.

HOPE CHAPEL HISTORY.

Mr. Squires Tells How the Building Came to Be Used.

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—Please allow me to correct a misstatement that appeared in your report of the Hope chapel anniversary. The old building was not purchased by me but belonged to the trustees of the Crescent Avenue church and they had offered it to anyone who would take it away. I did purchase the lot upon which the chapel now stands and caused the old building to be moved upon it and put in order.

When a man who afterwards became a respected and beloved member of our chapel, asked who the crazy individual was who moved that old tumble down affair to that end of the town—to escape the shafts of his ridicule I charged it on the session of the Crescent Avenue church, and now after ten years have passed I take pleasure in again asserting that whatever was done in the early history of our chapel worthy of commendation was done by that body working through its own chosen instruments.

Yours very truly,
Jan. 3, 1898. Henry C. Squires.

CHRISTMAS AT THE CHILDREN'S HOME

Thanks to Those Who Assisted in Giving the Children Pleasure.

To the Editor of The Daily Press: The Sunday-school of the Church of the Redeemer invited all children to their Christmas entertainment. The slight illness of some of the younger ones prevented their going out, but a gift for each child was on their tree. Mrs. Van Boskerck, of Seventh street, also asked the entire household to a tree Monday evening, December 27th. As the children could not go out Miss Elizabeth VanBoskerck kindly brought a large basket of dolls, toys and games for our own tree, which greatly increased its beauty. She also gave most valuable assistance to our Christmas committee, which is gratefully acknowledged with all favors from all friends who in any way contributed to the Christmas joy of our children.

ANGLO-CHINESE LOAN

Negotiations Being Carried On in London for £16,000,000.

ASKS GREAT BRITAIN'S AID

Said that England Will Insist on a Concession of Territory—Views of Senators Teller and Frye on the Annexation of Hawaii.

Berlin, Germany, Jan. 5.—The Cologne Gazette, on authority from the best-informed quarters in Paris, announces that since Thursday last important negotiations have been proceeding in London for a Chinese loan the attempts made in Paris and St. Petersburg to arrange a loan having failed.

China offered to contract for £16,000,000 in London, at the same time asking the good offices of the British Government. China contemplates offering as security the land tax, under the control of Englishmen, and that an Englishman shall succeed Sir Robert Hart as Director of the Chinese Imperial Maritime Customs. In addition, Great Britain will insist upon a concession of territory, relative to which secrecy, according to the informant of the Cologne Gazette, must be temporarily observed.

The Cologne Gazette adds that it is understood Russia has renewed her offer to China to conclude a loan in Germany on more favorable terms than obtainable in Paris or London.

The Situation at Peking.

Peking, China, Jan. 5.—The Ministers and the Tsung-li Yamen (Chinese Foreign Office) spent the whole of one night in discussing the deposition of the Chinese commandant of Tsao-Chou, province of Shan-Tung, who is accused of having used threatening language to a German missionary. The commandant has not been summoned to Peking for examination, as previously cabled, the difficulty having been smoothed over.

The general situation remains unchanged. Hostilities are feared. The German Minister, Baron Von Heyking, is understood to be temporizing until the arrival in China of Prince Henry of Prussia.

INTEREST OF THE UNITED STATES.

Situation in China an Argument for Annexation of Hawaii.

Washington, Jan. 5.—The developments in the East are having considerable effect upon the members of Congress, especially in regard to the annexation of Hawaii. The friends of the treaty believe that the situation in China has materially improved annexation prospects. Senator Frye said:

"This country is vitally interested in the situation in China. We have very great interests there now and will have much greater in the future, which would be destroyed by the partition of the empire. I do not think I have sufficiently considered what we ought to do or what we could do to protect our interests to warrant me in publicly expressing an opinion. Our interest in the matter cannot be exaggerated. The injury to us resulting from a partition of the empire would be almost incalculable. I fancy, however, that the dismemberment will not occur. It will not unless all the powers, excluding the United States, reach an agreement to share the territory. While England and Japan resist, I think, there can be no partition of China."

"Would we suffer less from a partition thus agreed upon than we would from one in which England and Japan did not participate?" was asked.

"No. On the contrary, we would suffer more, because that would mean an agreement of policy between the foreign powers, and that policy would be antagonistic to this country. Our moral influence should be used to prevent such a consummation. If Japan and England continue to oppose the dismemberment of China, our moral support must naturally be with them.

"The situation in China emphasizes the importance of the annexation of Hawaii. If we act promptly and annex Hawaii the whole world will accept that as the first step in the direction of exercising our moral influence to preserve the integrity of China. It will be indicative of a policy of watchfulness over our interests on the Pacific, and all nations will understand that we are not indifferent to the policy they may pursue in the Orient. This view of the case will, I think, cause some Senators to hesitate about opposing the annexation treaty. I believe the importance of the question will cause them to look at the matter differently, and that the treaty will be ratified. Men who might be opposed to annexation under different conditions should see in the recent events in the Orient a reason why Hawaii should be annexed."

Senator Teller's Opinion.

Senator Teller said that he thought the country would soon see what a serious menace was the proposition to dismember China. If this dismemberment was permitted American treaties with China would fail, and America would have to deal anew with the powers who took possession of the Chinese territory. Russia would get the biggest slice, and if she is not particularly a competitor of the United States now she would then become one. Germany and France were not likely to get much out of the division of the empire. Russia would be the great power; but however it should be divided, a barrier would be erected against American trade.

"After the dismemberment has occurred," continued Senator Teller, "we cannot say to the governments that have taken possession of China that we have certain treaty rights. They will reply that there is no China and there are, therefore, no treaties. But that is not the worst of it. If this dismemberment occurs the people of what is now China will become the producers for the whole world. A competitor in production and trade will be introduced against which neither we nor any other people can successfully contend. The economic conditions of the whole world will be changed. The people of China have a greater power of production than have any other like number of people in the world. All they need is to be aroused to the effort and to have their efforts properly directed.

"The country is immensely rich in natural resources. They have a great mineral wealth, a territory suited to diversified products and a population capable of the greatest skill and industry, and habituated to a mode of life which would enable them to do what no other people could. Their labor and their development would contribute to the wealth and power of the nations possessing the dismembered empire. The commerce and wealth of other nations would shrivel up.

"Russia, with her dominion extended over the greater part of China, would practically overrun the earth. It is against the interest of nations, and perhaps even threatening to our civilization, to have China dismembered. It would be as destructive to Great Britain as to us. If China goes the entire Oriental territory there will go. It is not improbable that the hand of Russia would extend into India. When it is said that the United States cannot interfere it should be understood what a failure to interfere will involve. The dismemberment of China means the cutting off of our commerce in the Orient and the introduction of a competitor who will deprive us of the commerce of the rest of the world and even supply our own people. We cannot permit this without sinking to a position of a third or fourth rate nation, helpless, degraded and without influence among the nations of the earth. We would have to submit to the domination of an absolutism among nations. Our own institutions would decline, and the civilization represented by this Government and the English Government would cease to progress. We would suffer more than any other people. We have more involved and would be more directly injured. It is folly, therefore, to say that we should have nothing to say. It is our duty to prevent this dismemberment of China, as it is that of Great Britain. We should join with Great Britain in a notice to Russia and Germany that the dismemberment of China will not be permitted. Even without Great Britain we should give such notice. Almost our very existence as a nation is involved."

THE NEW COUNTERFEITS.

Chief Hazen Goes to Philadelphia to Take Charge of the Case.

Washington, Jan. 5.—The Treasury Department has received another counterfeit one-hundred-dollar silver certificate from the Philadelphia Sub-Treasury, and Chief Hazen, of the Secret Service, has gone to Philadelphia to take charge of the case. He hopes to be able to trace the counterfeiters, although the department has no clue.

The Secretary of the Treasury has issued his order calling in all the one-hundred-dollar certificates of the issue of 1891, and all that are good will be replaced by a new issue. All the notes of the issue counterfeited will be destroyed. There are about $26,000,000 outstanding.

To experts the one hundred dollar counterfeit is slightly thicker than the genuine. This is caused by the face and the back being printed separately and pasted together, with the silk fibers between. When the note is subjected to steaming it separates. The genuine note is printed on one piece of paper and will not separate.

A Dying Man.

SAVED BY THE BLOOD OF A CALF.

Mr John Shields, of Teddington, London, whose foot was crushed under a heavy wagon while driving through a lonely lane became unconscious and continued to lose blood and grow weaker for nearly thirty minutes before he was discovered. Blood was drawn from a calf, and injected into Mr. Shields' arm with instantaneous results. He is today a healthy man. It was this case that prompted Dr. Campbell to extract the iron or Haemoglobin from bullocks blood and put it up in the form of Capsuloids, for pale and weak people. One Capsuloid represents two-thirds of an ounce of pure blood.

Dr. Campbell's Red Blood Forming Capsuloids are sold by all leading druggists—50 cents per large box, six boxes for $2.50 or sent direct at the same price by The Capsuloid Company, Downing Building, 168 Fulton Street, New York.

Why not give the carting of your ashes to the poor men of your city, who have served you faithful for the last 17 years and are willing to continue. I know of hundreds of families who have been getting their coal from the dumps, which they have been deprived of by the Sanitary Co., and the low lands of our city should be filled in. I hope the citizens of Plainfield will look into this matter.

NOTICE TO ALL INTERESTED IN UP-TO-DATE LAUNDRY WORK.

We run the laundry and take care of all details, but you "boss" it. We do what you tell us to do. It may give you a new sensation to find that you get a domestic finish when you ask for it, and to discover that your collars are actually ironed in the way that the maker intended them to be ironed.

We are running a laundry with the most improved methods and appliances. We use pure water and good soap. We are using two things that are not commonly used in laundries—care and intelligence. If you have found a laundry that pleases you perfectly, we have nothing to say to you. If you have any reason to be dissatisfied, we would like to give you a practical demonstration of our way of running a laundry.

Tell us where and when to call for your work, when you want it delivered, and let us know any particular thing that you would like to have done with it.

We want you to understand that we are running this laundry for you, and that your wishes are to be regarded in every particular. We will give you just exactly what you want, if we can find out what that is. Perhaps you believe that it is impossible to have your laundry well handled without irritation and annoyance to you. We are sure that you are mistaken. May we have an opportunity of demonstrating it?

THREE STARVED TO DEATH.

Startling Statement by the Chicago University President.

Chicago, Jan. 5.—At the first convocation of the University of Chicago President Harper made the startling statement that of the five deaths which have occurred in five years at the university three were directly traceable to starvation. These deaths, the president said, were due to insufficient nutrition, that, in turn, being the result of the poor food supplied in the district surrounding the university. The president argued for an addition to the university, in which the students can be supplied with nutritious food and lodgings.

Several important announcements were made by President Harper. One was the gift of $200,000 by John D. Rockefeller to enable the university to swell its income for the year beginning July 1, 1898, to $729,000, the sum needed to carry out its work as planned. Another important announcement was that a college of commerce and politics would be inaugurated under the auspices of the university. The affiliation of Rush Medical College, one of the pioneer medical institutions of the West, with the university was also announced.

DURRANT'S LAST REQUEST.

Wants Rope Destroyed After Execution and No Autopsy Held.

San Quentin, Cal., Jan. 5.—Theodore Durrant has rehearsed the scene of his own death. At his own request, made absolutely without emotion, he has been told every incident that will mark his last hours of life.

The condemned man has made the following requests concerning his execution:

First, that the rope used to hang him shall be destroyed immediately after his death, so that no person can say that he holds a piece of it as a memento.

Second, that none of the spectators shall be allowed to gaze upon his features after he is executed.

Third, that no autopsy shall be held after death, and that no physician be allowed to examine his body.

Fourth, that after he is pronounced dead his remains shall be delivered to his parents as soon as possible.

The father of Theodore Durrant has received from Meridian, Tex., a document whuch purports to be the original alleged confession of Joseph E. Blanther to the murders of Blanche Lamont and Minnie Williams. It will be used in the final effort to secure a stay of execution.

TWENTY-FIVE KILLED.

List of Dead in Canadian Accident Reaches that Number.

London, Ont., Jan. 5.—No new victims of Monday night's accident have been found in the City Hall ruins. Daylight revealed a scene devoid of the horrors of the night before, the victims having all been removed to their homes, but the City Hall presented the appearance of a wreck, and the street in front of it was crowded with the curious and sorrowing citizens.

The list of dead numbers twenty-five, but it is feared that it is not yet complete, as many of the injured are not expected to recover.

Looking at the ruins, the wonder is that there were so many escapes among the 300 persons who made the fearful drop. A fear prevails that the gallery of the hall, which is just above that portion of the wall which gave way, may also fall; but there is no one in the building and ropes have been stretched along the street to prevent the passing of pedestrians, and the iron doors of the arcade, which is a public thoroughfare, have been barred.

SECRETARY ALGER VERY SICK.

His Illness Has Been Protracted and His Condition Is Critical.

Washington, Jan. 5.—Secretary of War Alger has now been confined to his room for three weeks with a serious attack of the grip, and his friends are alarmed concerning his condition. He has grown weaker instead of stronger, and is unable to take exercise.

Gen. Alger, on Feb. 27 next, will attain his sixty-second birthday, and he has always been a man of physical vigor. His physician believes that he will recover, but admits that great care must be taken in every particular.

$87,000,000 Involved in Wire Trust.

Chicago, Jan. 5.—The American Steel and Wire Company, one of the most mammoth combinations of capital this country has ever produced, has almost decided to be born an Illinois corporation. Its capital stock will be $87,000,000, and its headquarters will be in Chicago. It means the combination of all the big steel and wire companies in the United States. It is being financed by a crowd of heavy Eastern capitalists, with J. P. Morgan at their head.

An application for papers of incorporation has been made. The fee for incorporation in Illinois will be $87,045. It is said that many of the features of the old steel rail pool agreement are incorporated in the wire and nail trust agreement.

Punishment by the Score.

San Bernardino, Cal., Jan. 5.—A. P. Revis, a member of the Salvation Army in Redlands, who was arrested for wholesale thievery, appeared before the Superior Court with a Bible in one hand and a tabulated statement of his thefts committed since 1888 in the other. He pleaded guilty to the crime charged in the information, and insisted that punishment be administered for each theft committed as per schedule, which appeared by the score. In that way only, he said, he could atone to a just God. The defendant presented so novel a case, without any attorney to advise him, that the Court refused to pass sentence without further consideration, and continued the time for sentence two days.

Will Watch Blanco.

Washington, Jan. 5.—The Times says that the President intends to give careful attention to the Spanish scheme of autonomy that has been inaugurated in Cuba, and will send Joseph P. Smith, Director of the Bureau of American Republics, as a personal representative to the island to watch the reforms that Capt.-Gen. Blanco has been instructed to put into operation.

"BRICKS WITHOUT STRAW."

Do you ever ask yourself why you keep chickens?

Is it for pleasure? If so, would not a little profit add to the pride and pleasu e?

Possibly it is because you wish to be sure of absolutely fresh eggs on your table. If so, would you not prefer to get the eggs during the winter rather than in the spring, "when everybody's eggs are fresh?"

We can make bricks in these days without straw, but no one can make hens lay eggs in the winter months unless he supplies special foods and care.

We aim to carry in our different stores everything that is necessary for the "Business Hen"—that is, the hen that pays for her board—and we would be pleased to hear from either large or small poultry raisers.

Among other things we would suggest:

Granulated Charcoal,	Poultry Feed,
Ground Oyster Shells,	Buckwheat Grain,
Chicken & Pigeon Grit,	Barley,
Granulated Bone,	Hemp Seed,
Meat Meal,	Millet Seed,
Clover Heads,	Sheridan's Powder.

PARKS BADLY DEFEATED

THE BOWLERS OF THE E. A. C. WON THREE.

The Games Were Rolled on the Elizabeth Athletic Club Alleys—Parks Lost Two by Close Scores—The Results.

The bowlers of the Park Club are rapidly learning to philosophize on the barren honors of this world. Last night they added three more defeats to their credit in the Central Journal League. They anchored themselves still more firmly to the bottom of the list, where they are likely to stay for some time to come.

Last night the Park team went to Elizabeth and met the team from the Elizabeth Athletic Club on the latter's alleys. The "Immortal Five" of the Elizabeth Club were not there, and the aggregation that did represent the county seat were not particularly strong. It did not matter to the Parks, however. They have a particular fondness this year of losing to anybody, and they kept their reputation last night by dropping three games, two of them by very small margins.

The Parks took the lead at the first frame of the first game and then lost it. The E. A. C. team rolled along and won out by over a hundred pins. The second game was an improvement and the Parks took the lead. It was the poor rolling of the home team rather than their own, however. The Parks led by a small margin for the first six frames, and then the Elizabeth boys rose to the occasion and secured the lead, to keep it to the end, winning out by 33 pins.

The Parks made their best showing in the last game. They captured the lead in the fourth frame and again in the eighth by hard fighting. The game was a close one, but the windup of the home team carried the day and victory was theirs by 24 pins.

F. H. Ball had an off day, his highest score was 134. Nobody bowled a particularly steady game, and strikes and spares were missing when most needed. Worth was high man for the team with 189.

It is to be hoped that the team will improve considerably before they meet with any other of the teams for a few more defeats like that of last night will mean that the Parks will have to wind up at the foot of the list, a place she has never occupied nor coveted. Her chances now for the lead are extremely slim.

The individual scores were as follows:

BEST OF HUNTING DOGS.

The Beagle in the Future to be the Sportsman's Delight.

Beagles are useful little hounds, and not at all common in this country, although bound to be in the near future, that is, where hunting is a sport. The beagle may be kept with little trouble at no very great outlay. This in itself is one of the reasons that they are the hunting dog of the future.

You must have three couple at least, but to take a fair average, five couple is the best, and with this number one may have many a stirring run. Indeed, there is no member of the canine species with which so much may be done as the beagle. He is a very clever dog; his qualities are patience, reflection and endurance; invariably the pack hunt in a lump, and seldom straggle away from their companions.

The great thing is to let him have his own way. He understands far better than you do the twists and the doubles, the shift and dodges, to which the hare resorts when pursued.

When it is purposed to take the beagles out hunting on the following day, they should be fed about 1 o'clock, and then be shut up until they are wanted. The start should not be delayed a moment later than 10:30 o'clock. The sooner you are at work the better, as, if your beagles have been fed at the proper hour on the preceding day they will be quite ready for their work.

Judiciously handled, many a day of most delightful amusement may be obtained with a few couple of beagles, but do not, on any pretense whatever, allow people on horseback.—Chicago Inter-Ocean.

ECCENTRICITIES OF A CAT.

Always Ascends in the Elevator When Wishing to Visit an Upper Floor.

A slender black cat in the Boston Postoffice building has developed a number of traits that make her a most interesting study. She is fearless and independent, and yet quiet and tame as a lady's pet. She has a number of places in the building to visit, particularly on the third floor, where there is a young lady whom she likes to call upon at frequent intervals, and instead of running up and down the stairs, as other cats naturally would do, she takes an elevator. With an air of imposing dignity, she takes up a position among the rest of the passengers waiting for the elevator and when she gets on board the elevator she looks earnestly through the door as the elevator ascends. Lacking means to signify where she intends to get off she remains in the car until it stops at her desired destination, and even force, unless it is irresistible, cannot make her leave the elevator till it reaches the floor where she wants to go. The elevator men know her habits so well that if she hapens to be the only passenger going up they generally offer her the third floor first. As she returns from a visit, she again avails herself of the elevator service, whether she wishes to go up or down for it is a matter of course with her to complete her round in the upper part of the building while she is up that way.

It is recorded that once Senator Mason propounded a query to Senator Morgan. "How long could you talk," asked Mason, "on a subject of which you knew absolutely nothing?"

"Well," answered Morgan with a smile, "if it was a matter about which I knew absolutely nothing, I do not think I could talk more than two days."—Washington Post.

A Honeymoon at a Farm House.

It is no longer fashionable for the bridal couples to go to large cities or on a trip to Europe for their wedding journey, says the Indianapolis Journal. The sentimental period must be spent in some country place, a wayside inn or in some quiet old town. A couple who desired to go to a country place near by advertised in a paper that is distributed well over the state for just what they would like in the way of an ideal resort for their honeymoon. Not more than a week or ten days after the advertisement appeared they received a dozen or more answers. Previous to the wedding the husband-to-be visited several of those whose letters read the most invitingly and selected the place he liked the best. The four weeks they spent there were more like a story book than a reality. The rooms were large and airy, the table was exquisite in its cleanliness and the viands that were spread before them were deliciously tempting. A horse and carriage were at their disposal, the river not more than a mile away, and scenery and loafing spots were so plentiful that a new one could be found every day.

O'Grady's Easy Victory.

Albany, Jan. 5.—The prompt manner in which the preliminaries were arranged last night augurs well, not only for a business-like, but for an aggressive session of the Legislature. Balanced almost evenly in numbers as the Assembly is, the fight between the two great parties for a record will be a stubborn one. The vote for the Speakership last night indicates that there will be seventy-eight Republicans who will abide by caucus action, sixty-nine rock-ribbed Democrats who will follow Tammany wherever it may wish to lead, one National Democrat who confesses to follow conscience, and two Citizens' Union adherents who will display independence as they interpret it.

James M. E. O'Grady is the Republican caucus nominee for Speaker. He received seventy-five votes on the first roll call, and Henry Marshall of Kings got two. O'Grady's nomination then was made unanimous. Marshall's votes were cast by Davis and Tiffany. They made their protest and then accepted the decision of the majority.

NEWS IN BRIEF.

One of the Havana papers says Gen. Blanco will take the field within the next two weeks.

Burglars cracked and robbed the Standard Oil Company's safe at Syracuse yesterday morning.

The contracts for guns for the Turkish navy will be given to the Krupps, and the contracts for ironclads to the Armstrongs.

The replies of the members of the Cabinet to the Senate resolutions calling for information regarding the civil-service law will be sent to the Senate to-day.

A delegation of Gov. Bushnell's neighbors from Springfield, headed by Congressman Weaver, invaded his office at Columbus yesterday and remonstrated with him for his opposition to Senator Hanna.

On the Watch for Bogus Notes.

New York, Jan. 5.—Officials of the Sub-Treasury in New York city are on the watch for the new $100 counterfeit note which, according to advices from Washington, is the most dangerous ever seen by the men of the Secret Service. Four of the counterfeits were received in the Philadelphia Sub-Treasury, and one passed muster as genuine at the Treasury in Washington. In fact, every Secret Service officer except Chief Hazen accepted the counterfeits as genuine.

"We have been officially notified of the existence of the $100 counterfeit," said Deputy Assistant United States Treasurer M. L. Muhlmann, "and our tellers are keeping their eyes open for them. So far none has come our way."

Cashiers and tellers in the banks are also on the watch for the bogus certificates. According to the best information obtainable, they have not been circulated in New York.

ONE MORE AMERICAN COUNTESS.

Count Von Goetzen Makes Mrs. May Stanley Lay His Bride.

Washington, Jan. 5.—Count Von Goetzen, Military Attache of the German Embassy, was married at noon yesterday to Mrs. May Stanley Lay at the residence of the bride. The ceremony was performed by a justice of the peace, in accordance with the official custom in Germany, and later by Rev. Dr. Menzel, of the German Lutheran Church.

The Count had as his witnesses the German Ambassador, Dr. Von Holleben, Baron Hermann, Mr. Von Bruenig and Mr. Von. Reichmann, of the Embassy staff, while the bride's witnesses were members of her family. The wedding breakfast following was participated in by Sir Julian Pauncefote, the British Ambassador, and diplomats generally. After a short trip the couple will go to Berlin, where the Count will rejoin his regiment, now stationed at Potsdam, near the Emperor.

Countess Von Goetzen is the widow of the late William Mathews Lay, of this city. She is a native of Baltimore, where she was first married, and her beauty has always made her admired.

Bismarck's Condition.

London, Jan. 5.—The Berlin correspondent of the Daily News says: "There is unfavorable news from Friedrichsruh. Dr. Schweninger has expressed the opinion that Prince Bismarck's gout is taking its normal course and will soon pass over. It must not be forgotten, however, that his medical advisers are doing their utmost to prevent any unfavorable report from reaching Bismarck, who takes a very pessimistic view of his condition."

Aid For Suffering Cuba.

Washington, Jan. 5.—It was announced from the White House last night that more than $1,500 had been collected in Cleveland to swell the fund for the Cuban sufferers. The National Relief Association for Cuba has appropriated an additional sum of $300 to be sent to Consul-General Lee for the relief of distress in the island.

HUSBAND IN TROUBLE.

MRS. HENRY CLAIMS THAT GEORGE HENRY ASSAULTED HER.

There Was Trouble Between the Couple and They Agreed to Separate—They Met Again and Had a Quarrel.

George W. Henry, a colored man whose home is on West Third street, is a much sought after individual in this city at present. The reason for this anxiety concerning the whereabouts of Henry is that Tuesday Justice Mosher issued a warrant for his arrest on the charge of brutally assaulting his wife, who now goes by her maiden name of Jennie Arch.

The present trouble is the culmination of a long series of marital infelicities which have pursued Henry and his wife since their marriage six years ago. Jennie was a preposessing colored woman, and rather popular among her race, while her husband cared nothing for society.

Several times there were altercations between the couple, and of late affairs had come to such a pass that six weeks ago they agreed to separate. Henry kept possession of the house on West Third street, and his wife went to housekeeping for herself on West Second street, and took her maiden name again.

Jennie went on her way quietly, and paid no attention to her erstwhile spouse. Henry was not so well satisfied with the new arrangement of things, however, and he soon began to send letters to his wife, asking her to reconsider her resolve to live alone, and return to share his house. To these letters the woman paid no attention whatever, and then Henry sent messages by his friends, but these, too, were unavailing. Monday night he went himself to the house on West Second street to have a talk with his wife.

"You done sent word you wanted to see me," said Henry, when in response to his rap on the door his wife appeared.

"No I hasn't," returned Jennie tartly, "I's done sent word for wo'thless individu's like youse to stay away from h'ar."

The woman's coldness seemed to maiden Henry, for, according to his wife's story, he struck her a stunning blow on the head with his clenched fist. She fell to the floor senseless, she says, and her assailant fled.

The constables are keeping a sharp lookout for Henry, and it is thought that his capture will be effected to-night.

Henry is a member of the firm of Henry & Johns, the building movers, and has always had the reputation of being a reputable, hardworking man.

J A DEMAREST'S SUCCESSOR.

Appointment of the New Consul at Brockville, Ont., Made.

A Washington dispatch says that yesterday among other nominations sent to the Senate was that of Charles W. Merriman, of Wisconsin, to be United States consul at Brockville, to succeed J. A. Demarest.

It is perhaps but natural that the above announcement, while by no means unexpected, will be received by the people of Brockville with considerable regret. It is quite well known of course that in compliance with the American doctrine that to the victors belong the spoils, our present consul was likely to be relegated to private life with the incoming Republican administration, but in this instance the "offensive partisan" axe has been held in mid air sufficiently long to engender a hope, at least in the minds of many of our citizens, that it was not likely to fall at all.

Had this been the case, and we say it without any disparagement whatever to the gentleman named for the position, considerable satisfaction would have been felt by many of our people. Both Mr. and Mrs. Demarest, during their five years' residence here, have made extensive and warm friendships, the partial severance of which is likely to be keenly felt on both sides. It is safe to say, however, that the ties thus formed are not likely to be wholly broken, and no matter where their lot may be cast, the present consul and his excellent helpmeet will carry the best wishes of a host of Brockville friends.—Brockville Recorder.

A Compromise Effected.

A settlement has been effected in the case of Noll against Lambertson, in which judgment was rendered some time ago in favor of the plaintiff, and a contest was made to avoid the payment of the judgment on the ground that there were judgments against the plaintiff which should offset his claims. The result was a compromise by the contesting parties. The attorney for the defendant was William Newcorn, of this city.

L. L. Manning was in Boston on business yesterday and today.

ALLAN FOR THE LEADER

DEMOCRATIC ASSEMBLYMEN HELD A CAUCUS AND MADE PLANS.

They Will Push Equal Taxation on Lines Similar to Those in the Queen Bill Last Year—Larshe for the Speakership

The Democratic Assemblymen held a caucus last night at the Hotel Washington, Jersey City, and in addition to selecting the minority candidates to be voted for the reorganization of the Legislature next Tuesday mapped out a programme for the guidance of the members during the session.

Robert Davis, the Democratic leader in Hudson county, was present on the invitation of the Assemblymen, but of course he did not take part in the proceedings.

With the exception of Mr. Simpson all the Democratic members were in attendance.

Assemblyman Horace L. Allan, of Hudson, was unanimously selected for minority leader and he presided at the caucus. Assemblyman Donahue, of Passaic, acted as secretary. The slate for House officers was agreed upon, with David Larshe, of Hunterdon, as speaker, and William F. Harkins, of Middlesex, as clerk.

The only subject of legislation discussed was equal taxation, which it was decided should be made a caucus measure. Every effort will be made to push the bill through. It has been prepared and follows closely on the lines of the Queen bill of two years ago.

Leader Allan told his colleagues that the session promised to be an unusually interesting one, as the Democrats were determined that the Republicans should live up to their ante-election promises.

NEWS OF THE TROLLEY.

The Brunswick Traction Company Planning to Come to Plainfield.

There is much reason to believe that the line of the Brunswick Traction Company will be extended from Metuchen to Plainfield in the spring. The completion of a square with New Brunswick, Bound Brook, Plainfield and Metuchen at the four corners, has long been the ultimate aim of that company.

The probable route for the trolley line from Metuchen will be from the terminus of the present line on the county road to the first turn this side of Metuchen and thence through the back road to Woodland avenue, past the new golf links, the Hillside Cemetery and the Plainfield Driving Park and connect with the lines of the Plainfield trolley system at the corner of Putnam and Kensington avenues.

A meeting of the Sterling Building Loan Association was held at the office of the president, Harry C. Runyon, in the Babcock building, last evening. The regular business of the association was transacted, and 48 shares of stock subsribed for. The association reported being in a prosperous condition, and has several thousand dollars on hand ready to loan. A committee was appointed, consisting of L. L. Lancaster, H. H. Jessup and A. H. Stryker, to attend to the making of loans.

The Pennsylvania Railroad Company has bought from Frank Campbell the Campbell homestead at New street and Railroad avenue, New Brunswick. The land is needed to permit the widening and straightening of the tracks of the company through New Brunswick.

PARKS WON AT WHIST.

DEFEATED THE ELIZABETH ATHLETIC CLUB FOR STATE TROPHY.

The E. A. C. Team Won at Elizabeth Last Week—The Parks Turned the Tables Last Night—The Score by Rounds.

The Park Club whist four redeemed themselves last evening for their defeat of last week by defeating the same team by four points after a very closely-contested game. The match was in the series for the champion ship of this section for the New Jersey Whist Association's trophy.

Last week the Parks met their first defeat of the season for that trophy at the hands of the team from the Elizabeth Athletic Club. That game was played at the clubhouse in Elizabeth. Last night the Elizabeth Athletic Club played a return game in this city. Their team was composed of Messrs. Weeks, Lane, Maxfield and Saltonstall. The Park four was composed of Messrs. McCutchen, Townsend, Howell and Rogers.

The first round was very closely played, both sides being on the alert not to allow their oponents to gain the slightest advantage without a lively fight. The round ended with the Parks one trick in the lead, the score being 3 to 2. The fight in the second round was equally close. The Parks played in their old time form while the Elizabeth team were at their best. The superiority was again evident as they gained another point in the lead. The result of the second round was 3 to 2 in favor of the Parks.

The third round was the hardest fought of all, but the Parks had the lead and they were bent on keeping it. They were anxious to retrieve themselves for their former defeat. Two tricks was the small majority by which the Parks won the last round, the score for the round being 4 to 2. The total score was 10 to 6 in favor of the Parks. The Elizabeth team acknowledged themselves fairly beaten and departed to the county seat after enjoying the light refreshments that Steward Jones prepared.

The Parks are still in the lead for the trophy, having lost only one game, and they will probably win out in this section and have a chance to meet the winners in the other sections of the State to fight out the last round for the trophy.

AKLUND GUILTY.

Somerset County Court Decided That He Stole Dolliver's Wheel.

Charles Aklund, the young Swedish laborer, charged with stealing a bicycle belonging to Chas. M. Dolliver, of Manning avenue, December 14th, was given a trial in the Somerset County Court, at Somerville, yesterday.

On the night in question a thief visited the shop of G. Q. Dolliver, 17 Manning avenue. In the shop was an Apollo bicycle, model of 1895, belonging to Charles Dolliver. The wheel was carried away and later on it was found in the Quaker churchyard. The following day Aklund was arrested, charged with the theft. He admitted having had the bicycle in his possession, but claimed that he had found it in the churchyard and had taken it to the home of his employer. As his employer was not at home he decided to take the wheel back and place it where he had found it.

Aklund was given a hearing before the Borough Recorder, but the evidence was not considered sufficient to hold him upon.

The charge was one of grand larceny, but the jury found Aklund guilty of petty larceny, and he was remanded to jail to await sentence, which will be pronounced upon him Friday, the 14th. F. J. Blatz, of the firm of Murphy & Blatz, of this city, defended Aklund.

Case Against Sanitary Company Dropped.

The trouble between the Plainfield Sanitary Company and their engineer which culminated in the suit, Clark against the Plainfield Sanitary Company, in Justice Mosher's court, has come to a sudden stop. The case came before Justice Mosher yesterday, after an adjournment of a month, and was dismissed. The reason or the sudden stoppage in the proceedings against the company was on account of the fact that the company is now in the hands of a receiver and the matter will be left with him for settlement.

To Accept the Bridge.

The Somerset County Board of Freeholders will meet in Plainfield Monday morning at 10 o'clock for the purpose of accepting the new Watchung avenue bridge. The new Sycamore avenue bridge has already been accepted. It is quite likely that the Union County Board of Freeholders will meet with the above Board and act jointly in the acceptance.

THE JURY DISAGREED.

THE TROUBLE OF WILLIAM FRANCISCO NOT YET SETTLED.

Francisco Claims That He Was Deceived, But Johnson Says That He Did Not Say Where the Lots Were.

All New Market that did not have anything else to do turned out yesterday to attend the case at Justice Storms' court. The suit was that of Wm. H. Francisco against Charles W. Johnson and Peter Staats, in tort. The jury was composed of twelve men from New Market and Dunellen. After being locked in a room together for an hour they refused to agree, and the Judge turned them out and decided to try the case again. The jury stood 9 to 3 for the plaintiff.

Readers of The Press will remember the cause of the trouble. Francisco traded four horses for a deed to some property on Long Island. Francisco claimed that Johnson said that the property was within five minutes walk of the Brooklyn trolley cars, while it proved to be eighty miles from a trolley line. It was found out in the wilderness and was valued at less than $5 by people living in the neighborhood.

Francisco, through his attorney, S S. Swackhamer, of the firm of Codington & Swackhamer, put witnesses on the stand who claimed to have investigated the location of the lots and found them in the midst of a scrub-oak wilderness.

Johnson was represented by Judge Cowenhoven, of New Brunswick. He claimed that he knew nothing of the location of the lots and made no claim to Francisco as to where they were located. The trial began at 11 o'clock and did not end until 7:30 o'clock. The case will be retried next Saturday morning before a new jury.

BRIGHT BOROUGH BLAZE.

Barn of Lewis Wyckoff, on Howard Street, Destroyed by Fire.

Last evening about 8:20 a fire broke out in a barn located on Howard street in the borough and owned by Lewis Wyckoff. Mr. Wyckoff was away from home at the time and he has no knowledge as to what caused the fire. The supposition is that the building was set on fire. The barn was well-filled with hay. A large quantity of paint was stored there. It was not long before the structure and contents were entirely destroyed. The fire was discovered by a member of Mrs. Hudson's family, who live close by, and the alarm was sent in from box 145.

The department was on hand soon after the alarm, but owing to the great distance from the nearest hydrant on Regent street, the firemen were unable to save the barn. There was about 1,500 feet of hose laid, some of which belonged to the West End Hose Company, and the firemen were delayed owing to the necessity of getting additional hose. After the hose was laid the firemen were then about fifty feet from the fire. They were, however, able to save the adjoining buildings.

While the West End hose carriage was on its way to the fire the horse slipped and fell on the ice at the corner of Greenbrook road and Somerset street. Fortunately the animal was not injured and was able to proceed to the fire. It is understood that the building and contents were covered by insurance, but as yet the loss has not been estimated.

HOW TO BE BORN AGAIN

POWERFUL ADDRESS BY DR. R. R. DOHERTY LAST NIGHT.

It Was the Continuation of the Celebration at Monroe Avenue M. E. Church—Music a Feature of the Service

The service at the Monroe Avenue church last evening was in charge of R. R. Doherty, Ph.D., of New York. Previous to the remarks of the reverend gentleman, Augustus Rose sang "Jerusalem," from "The Holy City," with much effect. He was accompanied on the piano by Stephen Haff.

Dr. Doherty based his remarks on the subject of "The New Birth," and he delivered a powerful discourse. He spoke of the ruler of Israel, who was unable to understand the new birth and could not see how a person could be born a second time. The speaker said that he was glad that this ruler sought information on the subject, for it resulted in its being made very plain, and in this day no one ought to marvel at the new birth.

Dr. Doherty considered that men of literature, music and art are not made, but born. He said that God had something to do in making a Newton and a Mozart. Goodness comes from Heaven and cannot be made. God knows the real fruit, if man does not. The new life is very essential to everyone. Man cannot begin goodness in his own heart. The moral nature in man is not good. Let a boy or girl alone and they will grow up to be bad. Everyone needs the Divine Power to change the soul, and make it love the better things. If one has that communion with God, nothing can separate from the love of Christ, not even outside influences. It is very important that all should be established in the faith, and let all strive for that position.

At the close of Dr. Doherty's remarks, Mr. Rose sang a solo very sweetly. Rev. W. C. O'Donnell then gave a short talk, making a practical application of Dr. Doherty's remarks and urging the unconverted to accept Christ.

This evening the meeting will be addressed by Rev. S. Parkes Cadman, of New York, who is one of the best speakers in the metropolis.

GIBSON'S FRIENDS MET.

PLANNING TO FORM A NEW CHURCH FOR HIM.

Last Night They Met, Passed Resolutions of Sorrow at Gibson's Recent Treatment, and Then They Took Up a Collection.

The last link that bound Rev. P. S. Gibson to his former charge, the Mt. Olive Baptist church, has been severed. Yesterday the former pastor moved out of the parsonage next to the church to allow the next pastor, when he shall be selected, to take possession. The friends of Gibson claim that the trustees have shown a very unchristian-like spirit in compelling Gibson to give up the parsonage, when he had no other place in which to lay his head.

It is this act, as a final culmination of the others that have preceded it, that has caused the dissatisfaction among the friends of the colored preacher that may result in the formation of another colored church in the city. There are those in Pastor Gibson's former flock that say that, after all that has happened, they feel that they can never return to the old church. They are now scattered among the other colored houses of worship in the city, but only waiting for a movement to start to form a new church with Gibson at the head of it.

Gibson is very resigned, apparently, over the action of the people of his former charge. He declares that it is not for him to start a new movement in opposition to the church from which he has been driven out. But he is not responsible for the acts of those who still believe in his innocence, he continues, and what they do, he has nothing to do with. If they consider it their duty to separate from their brothers and sisters who demanded his dismissal, it is their own lookout and a question for them alone to settle. If, however, they decide to start another church and invite him to the pastorate, he will accept, for he is a minister of the Gospel and must earn a living. Then he would be glad to be with those who appreciate his hard position and sympathize with him in this hour of affliction. Yes, he would rather earn his salt among his true friends than among strangers.

So far the movement toward the organization of a new church has reached no head. It has been heard in whispers among the followers of Gibson. It took a more pronounced form yesterday, however, when the word was passed about that Rev. Mr. Gibson had been turned out of the parsonage and was a weary wanderer on the face of the earth without a place on which to lay his head. His pocketbook was empty and he had no way in sight in which to replenish it.

Philip Johnson and Hampton Probasco, two colored adherents of Gibson's, took the matter in hand and called a meeting of the friends of Pastor Gibson at Reform Hall last evening. The friends of the dusky preacher claim that they number about 125 in all, but the short notice served to bring only fifty of their number out to the meeting.

Johnson called the meeting to order and acted as chairman and secretary. There were great expressions of sorrow at Brother Gibson's plight. The friends were informed that something more substantial than expressions of sorrow were needed. The hat was passed and a collection amounting to nearly $10 was taken. This was donated to the needy minister.

The meeting also passed a resolution expressing great regret and sorrow at seeing their old pastor turned out in the cold without money to pay his way.

CHIEFS RAISED UP.

A Big Time at the Meeting of Iona Council Last Night.

District Deputy Mrs. James Radin, of this city, assisted by Mrs. Westphal and Miss Lizzie Dunlap, raised up the newly-elected chiefs in Iona council, Degree of Pocohontas, at a meeting of the council held last evening. The officers installed are as follows:

The work of the installing officer and her assistants was very highly complimented by the members of the council present. A social time followed the transaction of business, after which refreshments were served.

CHINA YIELDS TO FORCE

Lease Kiao Chou to Germany for an Unlimited Time.

LOAN LIKELY TO SUCCEED

Thought that the British Government Will Guarantee It—The Matter to Come Before the Cabinet on Monday—Situation Improved.

Pekin, China, Jan. 6.—The Kiao Chou difficulty has been settled at a conference of the Tsung-li Yamen (Chinese Foreign Office), which made the necessary concessions.

THE CESSION OF KIAO CHOU.

Takes the Form of a Lease to Germany for an Indefinite Period.

Berlin, Germany, Jan. 6.—The Reichsanzeiger announces that an understanding has been reached between Germany and China regarding the cession of Kiao Chou Bay to the former.

It is intended by the cession to render possible for Germany "the fulfillment of her just wish for the possession in the same way as other powers of a base for trade and navigation in Chinese waters."

The cession takes the form of a lease for an indefinite time. Germany is at liberty to erect on the ceded territory all the necessary buildings and establishments, and to take the measures required for their protection.

The Reichsanzeiger says the ceded territory comprises the whole of the inner basin of Kiao Chou Bay, so far as the high-water line; the larger headlands situated south and north of the entrance of the bay, to the point where they are naturally bounded by mountain ranges, and also the islands situated within and in front of the bay.

The ceded territory comprises an area of several square miles, bounded by a larger zone around the bay, within which no measures or arrangements may be made by China without the consent of Germany. In particular, no obstacles are to be raised by China to any measures Germany deems necessary for the regulation of the water courses.

Finally, "In order to avoid conflicts which might disturb the good understanding between the two powers," China has transferred to Germany, for a period, a lease of all sovereign rights over the ceded territory.

If for any cause, Kiao Chou Bay should prove unsuitable for the objects Germany has in view, China, after arriving at an understanding with Germany, will cede the latter, at another point of the coast, a piece of territory which Germany may regard as more suitable for its purpose. In that case, China will take over the buildings and establishments constructed by Germany at Kiao Chou Bay, and will refund their cost.

SITUATION CONSIDERED IMPROVED.

British Government Will Probably Guarantee the Chinese Loan.

London, Jan. 6.—There is a general feeling in England, which is reflected on the Stock Exchange, that the situation in the East is improving. It is believed the proposed China loan of £16,000,000 will be guaranteed by the British Government, although the final decision is not likely to be reached until the meeting of the Cabinet on Monday next.

The Pall Mall Gazette refers to the "ascendency of money over the mailed fist," and says:

"Great Britain's ships are anchored off Chemulpo and at Port Arthur. This is quietly implying that Great Britain will have a voice in the future arrangement. Further, the latest telegrams clearly indicate she has plenty of friends.

"Aside from the Japanese, nations like the United States, whose interests are purely commercial, are well disposed toward our Government and are opposed to trade exclusiveness."

Mr. Ernest Terah Hooley, who negotiated with China simultaneously with the syndicate organized by Mr. J. Pierpont Morgan, is not concerned in the present loan. He said to a representative of the Associated Press:

"The Chinese take more dealing with than any people on earth. I had my loan of £16,000,000 all agreed upon with China and the money arrangements practically completed in London. In accordance with the terms, I paid a deposit of £100,000 into Lloyd's Bank. China demanded that the deposit be put up in Pekin to the order of the Chinese Government. Then I stopped. Had I done so, they would have used the money, and when any hitch arose we would have lost it for years. The Chinese are not good enough. No loan can be a success unless the Government takes a hand. The Government should do it, and promptly."

Saved by Bayard's Dog.

Wilmington, Del., Jan. 6.—Mrs. Thos. F. Bayard's collie Rob Roy MacGregor distinguished himself yesterday and saved a woman and child from serious injury. The dog was outside of Delaware Place, Mr. Bayard's residence, when a horse attached to a carriage containing a woman and a child, came dashing down. The dog ran alongside the horse, jumped and caught the bridle. He held on until the horse came to a standstill. Rob Roy then trotted home.

Former Politician Kills Himself.

Philadelphia, Jan. 6.—John L. Baldwin, formerly actively identified with politics in this city, committed suicide yesterday in the office of the Atlantic Refining Company, by whom he was employed, by shooting himself through the heart. Baldwin represented the Twenty-ninth Ward in Common Council for twelve years, retiring in 1894. Financial loss, it is said, led to the shooting.

Maher and Jackson Preparing.

San Francisco, Jan. 6.—Peter Jackson and Peter Maher are to meet. The managers of the colored man and the Irish champion have been in correspondence for some time, and have finally come to an agreement. The articles have been drawn up and forwarded to Maher for his signature. They call for a twenty-round contest, and it probably will be held in this city.

M'KINLEY MISSES WEYLER.

Sarcastic Comment of a Madrid Paper on Our Cuban Policy.

Madrid, Jan. 6.—In a recent editorial El Imparcial said:

"The United States Congress has adjourned for sixteen days, during which no threats or accusations or insults to Spain by the Senators or Representatives will maintain the hopes of the Cuban insurgents. As a compensation our excellent friend, our almost protector, McKinley, has ordered an American squadron to the Gulf of Mexico.

"McKinley's action," El Imparcial ironically continues, "is most opportune. The Washington Government is earnestly anxious that the Cuban war be brought to an end. But now that the establishment of a liberal regime has caused many Cuban autonomists who were in political seclusion to return to the island, now that Gen. Blanco's treatment of the reconcentrados is as humane as possible, now that military action is carried on energetically, McKinley has been struck with the idea of making a naval demonstration in the Gulf of Mexico in order to keep up the Cubans' hope of American intervention. This is much like calling out the reserves, in view that the probabilities of an early pacification are now greater than ever. Those who always find an explanation for the proceedings of the Yankees will not be able now to deny the moral effect that this measure, which was never considered necessary, will cause among the insurgents.

"None of the Cuban leaders, Maximo Gomez, Calixto Garcia or Rabi, ever imagined that the insurrection could alone throw Spain out of Cuba. All their hopes lie in intervention by the United States. McKinley's message to Congress, as well as the sending of warships to the Gulf of Mexico, will maintain those hopes, and with it the struggle.

"The liberal policy of our Cabinet upset the plans of McKinley, who had relied upon the continuation of Gen. Weyler in Cuba. The United States takes a longer course, but she always aims at the same end. As long as a wise policy be carried out in Cuba, interference by the United States would be monstrous.

"They who were frightened at the presence of a number of German men-of-war off Hayti surely lack the courage necessary to brave Europe's indignation. For this reason McKinley's policy is now reduced to encouraging the rebellion, and thus prolonging the war, foreseeing, as he does with more or less reason, that our internal troubles in time will bring about a change which will permit of his intervention with the acquiescence of Europe.

"We must oppose this plan by the following means: Common sense on the part of Spain, loyalty to the colony, activity in our docks and energy in the Government. We do not mention our people's patriotism, because it is unnecessary. The patriotism of the Spanish can always be relied upon."

INTERSTATE COMMISSIONER.

The Successor of Col. Morrison Still in Doubt.

Washington, Jan. 6.—There is still considerable doubt as to the successor of Col. William R. Morrison as Interstate Commerce Commissioner. Senator Quay, who saw the President Wednesday in behalf of Judge Paxson, is inclined to the opinion that the President has made up his mind to select him for the place. The friends of Mr. Littler, of Illinois, however, are still very active, and are working to get the President to delay the nomination.

Judge Paxson is regarded as a very strong candidate, and he is loyally backed by the entire Pennsylvania delegation in Congress, who regard him as in every way fitted for the responsible post. In addition to this influence, it is said that the Judge is an old personal friend of President McKinley.

The Illinois Senators believe that the nomination should go to a Western man, as the present commissioner comes from that section, which is being used as a strong argument for Littler. It is said the two Senators are trying to form a combination of the Western Senators to secure the appointment of a man from that section.

There is some talk of opposition to confirmation in case Paxson secures the nomination, and if opposition develops it will probably be made solely upon the ground that the nominee comes from a wrong section of the country, and that the interests of the commission require that the commissioner should come from the West.

I was so weak I could not attend to my household duties, and I then determined to try Hood's Sarsaparilla. After I had taken this medicine a short time I began to gain strength. I

MR. GAGE TO CONGRESS

Recommends Exemptions From Civil Service Rules.

THEY WORK AN INJUSTICE

He Includes Deputy Collectors of Internal Revenue, Legal Advisers and Commissioners—The Debate in Congress—President Will Act.

Washington, Jan. 6.—Secretary Gage sent a reply to the Senate resolution of Dec. 18, calling upon the heads of the several executive departments for information as to what positions in their respective departments should be excepted from the Civil-Service law and rules. Secretary Gage's reply in part is as follows:

"I believe experience has taught that the order of May 6, 1896, was too sweeping, and that there should be taken out of the classified service a considerable number of places that were at that time classified. The most important of those places are in the internal revenue service. The difficulties which the department has experienced in the administration of the rules as they now exist, as applied to the internal revenue service, have become intolerable. I believe all positions of deputy collectors of internal revenue should be made excepted places, subject, however, to non-competitive examinations.

"The collectors who appoint the deputies are personally responsible for the conduct of their subordinates. This responsibility covers not only the fidelity and integrity of these subordinates in their relation to the Government, but extends to a personal liability to those who may be injured in person or in property by inconsiderate or malicious trespass committed by such subordinates in the course of their duties.

"It is obviously wrong that a collector, after assuming this heavy responsibility, should be tied down to an eligible list (the names of which he may know nothing about) from which to select his subordinates, each of whom is officially his other self.

"There is no desire on the part of the department to make the test of fitness in the smallest degree less searching than it is under the system of competitive examinations, but I believe it desirable that the collectors be free to select their subordinates, within the lines which a rigid test of fitness will permit, from among men concerning whose personal characteristics and integrity they have knowledge.

The Secretary goes on to enumerate—all custodians of public buildings and all manual laborers in them, lighthouse employes, counsel for boards of appraisers, paymaster in the New York Custom House and shipping commissioners everywhere are proper ones to be removed from the classified civil service. He also recommends that the rules be modified as to permit the head of a department to transfer any person in the classified service of one branch of his department to the classified service of another branch without regard to apportionment.

The Civil-Service Debate.

Washington, Jan. 6.—Congress was called to order promptly at noon yesterday. In the House the postponed Civil-Service law debate began at once. Owing to the absence of Gen. Grosvenor, who, it was supposed, would take charge of the debate, Representative Moody, of Massachusetts, took the lead and tried to divide the time of debate between friends and foes of the law, not on party lines.

Hepburn, of Iowa, objected, saying there were three sides to the question—those who were opposed to any change in the law, those who wanted it wiped out entirely and those who wanted it modified in some ways. He therefore thought the time for the debate should be divided among these "three sides," instead of all time for debate against the law being put into the hands of Mr. Dockery and the Democrats.

Mr. Cannon hoped the debate would end by Saturday, so that the bill could be passed then. Bailey and Dockery objected to a limit to the debate, and after some discussion, the House agreed to the limit and no dividing of time. Representative Hopkins, who was in the chair, recognized ex-Speaker Grow, of Pennsylvania, who began the debate. He believed that the President's appointive power should be confined to judges and foreign representatives. The heads of departments should appoint their confidential advisers, while clerks should be under a rigorous civil-service system.

It was noticed that, with one or two exceptions, the members of the Ohio delegation, both Democrats and Republicans, were absent. Those who are not in Washington are at Columbus taking part in the Senatorial contest.

In the Senate Mr. Davis, chairman of the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations, gave notice that he would call up the Senate Hawaiian annexation treaty in executive session on Monday next and ask the Senate to consider it each day thereafter until the treaty shall be disposed of.

Senator Teller, of Colorado, introduced a concurrent resolution declaring that the bonds of the United States, principal and interest, should, at the option of the Government, be paid in standard silver dollars, and that such payment is not a violation of public faith or in derogation of the rights of the public or creditor. The resolution was referred to the Finance Committee.

The President Will Act.

Washington, Jan. 6.—The Cabinet officers have made their reports in regard to the changes in the Civil-Service law, and these will be sent to Congress by the request of the Senate resolution Meanwhile the President will prepare his order exempting the places recommended by the Cabinet officers from the Civil-Service law, but he will not make it public until the agitation over the law ceases in Congress.

To Accept Mr. Rice's Resignation.

Washington, Jan. 6.—The President has determined to accept the resignation of Commissioner Rice, of the Civil-Service Commission, and to appoint a Republican to the place, thus making the commission of the same political complexion as the Administration. The President has selected a man from the Northwest for the vacancy, but it may be some time before he is appointed.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Hall's Family Pills are the best.

Fred Barker, of the local office of the New York and New Jersey Telephone Company, is stopping for a few days with relatives in Newark.

"My daughter, when recovering from an attack of fever, was a great sufferer from pain in the back and hips," writes Louden Grover, of Sardis, Ky. "After using quite a number of remedies without any benefit she tried one bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm, and it has given entire relief." Chamberlain's Pain Balm is also a certain cure for rheumatism. Sold by T. S. Armstrong, apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

Jacob Kirkner and Deputy Grand Commander William Sebring, of Trinity Commandery, No. 17, K. T., went to Burlington, this State, Monday evening, where Mr. Sebring paid an official visit to the commandery at that place.

Persons who are troubled with indigestion will be interested in the experience of Wm. H. Penn, chief clerk, in the railway mail service at Des Moines, Iowa, who writes: "It gives me pleasure to testify to the merits of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy. For two years I have suffered from indigestion, and am subject to frequent severe attacks of pain in the stomach and bowels. One or two doses of this remedy never fails to give perfect relief." Price 25 and 50 cents; sold by T. S. Armstrong, apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

Mayor Charles J. Fisk is stopping at Lakewood with his family for a few days.

The progressive ladies of Westfield, Ind., issued a "Woman's Edition" of the Westfield News, bearing date of April 3d, 1896. The paper is filled with matter of interest to women, and we notice the following from a correspondent, which the editors printed, realizing that it treats upon a matter of vital importance to their sex: "The best remedy for croup, colds and bronchitis that I have been able to find is Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. For family use it has no equal. I gladly recommend it." 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by T. S. Armstrong, apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

Former Councilman G. H. Frost and wife, of Watchung avenue, will spend most of this winter at Washington, and during the next two years expect to travel. It is their intention to go around the world.

Mothers whose children are troubled with bad colds, croup or whooping-cough will do well to read what Dr. R. R. Robey, of Olney, Mo., says on this subject, He writes: "For years we have used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, and always keep it in the house. It is regarded in our family as a specific for all kinds of colds and coughs." The 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by T. S. Armstrong, apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

"HE IS NY SON," SAYS BOOTH.

Salvation General Insists That He Still Loves Ballington.

London, Jan. 6.—Six thousand persons, most of them members of the Salvation Army, took part at Albert Hall last night in a demonstration of farewell to General William Booth, who is about to sail for the United States to "assist in organizing great additions to the army." Three brass bands led the music, and in the body of the hall were a thousand Salvation lasses who performed theatrical movements with red white and blue scarfs.

General Booth, on entering the hall received a tremendous welcome, the lasses forming themselves into figures representing the American and British flags.

Commissioner Coombs presented an address from the English Salvation Army to be delivered to the American army.

General Booth, in the course of a long speech, said:

"I am going where I shall unquestionably receive a generous welcome Whatever jealousies or antiquated antipathies may be in the hearts of others, the Salvationists on both sides of the water have only affection and confidence for each other. We have had our sorrows and storms. In the United States one of the greatest sorrows that could come to a general of God has come to me. One of my own sons has departed from his father's side and from the Salvation Army.

"I do not bear him ill will; for though I think he is very much in the wrong, he is still my son. Of controversy or disputation I'll have none. I am the friend of all men."

The meeting cheered a cable dispatch from John Addison Porter, on behalf of President McKinley. In the dispatch Mr. Porter said:

"The report of the progress of your philanthropic work is one of which you have a right to be proud. I can assure you the President fully realizes the effective relief work now being done on such a large scale."

Killed His Mother-in-Law.

New York, Jan. 6—Philomena Charlo was stabbed over the heart and killed last night by her son-in-law, Luigi Casiello, in the basement hallway of No. 195 Elizabeth street. Luigi went home at 10:30 o'clock last night from his bootblack stand at Ridge and Delancey streets, and in a few minutes he and his mother-in-law were having their usual quarrel. He started from the room to go into the street, saying he would find refuge there, but she followed him into the hall. Just outside the door he drew a stiletto and buried it in her breast. He escaped. She died in a few minutes.

New York's Chief of Police.

New York, Jan. 6.—John McCullagh will be made Chief of Police of the Greater New York by the Board of Police Commissioners, and will assume command of the largest body of municipal peace officers in the United States.

Chief McCullagh was born in Ireland in 1845, and came to this country when a boy. He was advanced from a patrolman to the duties of a roundsman three years after his appointment. In 1876 he was made a sergeant, and in 1883 he was advanced to a captaincy. He is a Republican in politics, and has a long and honorable record as a member of the force.

Grady as the Protector of the Flag.

Albany, Jan. 6.—Senator Grady introduced yesterday his Flag bill, which prohibits the use of the American flag by any political party or for advertising purposes. The bill was a feature of last session, but it did not pass. In the last campaign, Tammany Hall, of which Grady is a shining light, made extensive use of the flag by displaying portraits of Judge Van Wyck upon it.

Talked 1,500 Miles.

Nashville, Jan. 6.—It is believed the long distance telephone record was broken yesterday when John H. Connor, representative of the Bell Company at Gallatin, Tenn., talked with the operator at Norfolk, Va. The circuit used passed through Nashville, Evansville, Terre Haute, Indianapolis, Pittsburg, Philadelphia, Washington and Richmond to Norfolk, making fully 1,500.

Reprieve Durrant's Only Hope.

San Francisco, Jan. 6.—United States Circuit Court Judges Morrow and De Haven yesterday denied the application of Durrant's counsel for a writ of habeas corpus, and refused to sign an order for an appeal to the United States Court. The Supreme Court at Washington or a reprieve are the only means of delaying the execution beyond to morrow.

$85,000 for St. Louis Club.

St. Louis, Mo., Jan. 6.—The St. Louis Browns have been sold to a syndicate composed of John T. Brush, the Indianapolis baseball magnate; Messrs. Talbot and Schmidt of that city, and Frank De Haas Robinson, president of the Cleveland Club. The price paid was $85,000, of which $60,000 is in cash and the remainder in notes.

Insurance Company Wins.

Albany, Jan. 6.—The Third Appellate Division has declared against David C. Robinson, of Elmira, in his appeal from decisions in five cases from judgments awarding the Mutual Life Insurance Company of New York foreclosure on $50,000 worth of mortgages. Counter claims of Robinson for $1,000,000 are dismissed.

AN EXCELLENT REPORT

City Treasurer W. F. Arnold completed his first year's work for the city by publishing his annual report in a manner different from his predecessors, but far more intelligible to the reading public. The report was so arranged as to occupy two columns instead of one, giving very plainly the debit and credit side of every account of the city. The report was compact and yet very plain. Much favorable criticism has been heard on all sides for the City Treasurer, and he certainly deserves great credit for introducing a method that makes his work of the year far more intelligible to the citizens of the city, who are the interested ones.

TROLLEY EXTENSION.

The net work of trolley lines that is gradually covering the central part of this State, is now creeping toward Plainfield. Plainfield has its trolley road, it is true, but so far, it has no connection by trolley with the outside world, but the day is not far off when the trolley cars will run from Plainfield all over this and adjacent counties. It is well known that the proposed trolley lines are approaching this city from the east and the west, but The Press is now able to state on good authority that in the spring a movement will be made to enter Plainfield from the south and connect it by trolley with Metuchen and thus New Brunswick.

President McKinley made the announcement yesterday that he had appointed David D. Bragaw as postmaster at Newark.

SARAH LANE PARDONED.

A Somerville Colored Women Who Attempted to Shoot ex-Senator Corle.

Sarah S. C. Lane, a colored woman who was sent to State's prison from Somerset county in 1896 for a term of three years for attempting to shoot ex-Senator Calvin Corle, of Somerville, was pardoned by the Court of Pardons at a recent meeting.

Mrs. Lane is about eighty years old, and it was this fact and her previous good character that led to her release. Mrs. Lane belonged to the better class of colored people. Her husband was a well-to-do man residing at Neshanic. Corle was made his executor when he died. He found it necessary to sell the homestead, and to this the widow objected. She bought the place in at the first sale, and as she had no money to pay on it, it was sold again. Then she refused to leave the house, and after using all legal methods, constables were sent to the house, and they carried her out in a chair. Her furniture was set out in the yard. The woman became angry at Corle, and one morning as he came out of the Second National Bank, in Somerville, she drew a revolver from the folds of her dress and attempted to shoot him.

THE DIFFERENCE.

A Correspondent Asks Some Questions Regarding the Shoplifting Case.

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—In your Friday's edition I noticed an article about a prominent lady who stole a piece of china from J. W. Gavett's store. How kindly the clerk followed her to the postoffice to find out if she wished to pay for it. I should just like to know if it was a poor woman who stole the article, would the clerk be so kind to her or would he call the first policeman he could find and hand her over to the law? Why should people favor the rich and be so hard on the poor? That woman was a thief in every sense of the word. Why should she not be punished as she deserves? She stole without an excuse. A poor woman has an excuse, but look at the difference in the treatment they receive.

THEATRICAL.

Lincoln J. Carter's new play, "The Heart of Chicago," which will have its first presentation at Stillman Music Hall Friday night, promises to be on the road as long as were its predecessors. The play opens during the great Chicago fire and ends the World Fair year. During the conflagration a man is murdered and robbed by his partner in the heart of the city. The accomplice of the murderer turns up in the second act—20 years having elapsed—and another murder is attempted. There's only a fight or two in the third act, but in the next the villain attempts to kill a trainload of people. Popular melodrama nowadays seems to be going the way of farce comedy—the plot is not permitted to interfere with specialties. The specialty of these melodramas is the scenery and realism. "The Heart of Chicago" is practically a panorama. There's enough scenery to stop three or four of the dramas of other days. And the work of the scenic artist in Mr. Carter's new play is admirable. There's a fire view of Chicago, as seen from the top of the Masonic Temple; several of the principal sections of the city are reproduced; and the fire scenes not only depicted the burning buildings, but showed the crowds around the fire engines. The chief scene in the piece is one in which a train is about to run into the river. The locomotive used, and the scene as a whole have rarely been excelled in the realistic line.

The Castle Square Opera Company at the American Theatre, New York city, may be written down a virtually settled feature of the New York theatrical season. The success of their initial production of "Opera in English" namely, "The Queen's Lace Handkerchief," has been continued this week in "Il Trovatore." A series of packed houses has greeted every performance and the general concensus of opinion is that Verdi's masterpiece has never had a more satisfactory all-round rendition. The various roles fit the capabilities of the different artists. The chorus ensemble work has come in for a special commendation, and very much praise has been lavished upon the stage production. In fact, the principal dailies have widely commented upon the fact that the Castle Square management gave "Il Travatore" entirely new scenic surroundings. While this may have been altogether unexpected on the part of the critics and the public, still it is but a pursuance of the general plan outlined by the management. Each production will be made as bright as scenery, costumes, electrical effects and properties will allow. For the week of January 10th, DeKoven & Smith's romantic comic opera "The Fencing Master" is underlined. A great deal of interest is attached to his work on account of the very great success with which both DeKoven & Smith have met in their former works of "Robin Hood" and "Rob Roy," and in their present reigning triumph of "The Highwayman."

Mrs. S. M. DANCING TO CURE AILMENTS.

Curious Mediæval Custom in a Little Town in Luxembourg.

Modern civilization is fast improving ancient customs off the face of the earth, yet a unique ceremony still takes place in the little old world town of Echternach, in the Grand Duchy of Luxembourg. Every Whit Tuesday a vast multitude of persons from far and near assembles and forms the procession of dancing saints (Springende Helligen) in order to induce heaven to cure all their ailments. Rich and poor, young and old, weak and strong, halt and maimed, take their stand up on the Pursian side of the Sure bridge at 8 o'clock, and after listening to a sermon dance to the abbey and thrice around the tomb of St. Willibrod, the patron saint. The procession is headed by the town beadle, dressed in red and surrounded by small boys; next come choristers, chanting litanies; then a large body of clergy, 700 strong, and last the rank and file. There are placed in rows of seven, kept in line by handkerchiefs, sticks and umbrellas, and interspersed with the motley crew are musicians playing dance music upo nevery conceivable instrument, while the dancers sing the classic tune as they perform a polka step, three steps forward and two back.

More than 1,000 years ago, when Willibrod, the hero saint of Luxembourg, died at Echternach, a terrible affliction smote all cattle; they were seized with a dancing madness, a frenzy destructive alike to themselves and their owners. The people danced in order to prevent their animals doing so. The effect was marvelous; the cattle regained their sanity, and, seeing this, the people continued to dance on their own account for all kinds of illness, but especially for hysteria and St. Vitus' dance. Everybody danced and the old and infirm unable to foot it themselves, performed the pilgrimage by proxy, with an equally good result. From time to time efforts were made to stop the ceremony, but this resulted in a return of the cattle plague, showing that the saint was not to be defrauded of his annual homage, so that it had to be resumed, and the number of pilgrims increases yearly. —From Gentleman.

COLLEGE BOYS IN GERMANY.

Vastly Different Conditions Under Which They Study in That Country.

Student life in Germany is very different from what it is in the United States. The Faculty of the university assumes no responsibility for the punctuality or the studiousness of the pupils. When a boy enrolls his name, passes his entrance examinations and pays his fee he is his own master, and can do whatever he likes until the time arrives for another examination, when he must present himself and endure the ordeal. If he succeeds he goes on with his class. If he fails his name is dropped from the rolls and he goes home in disgrace or makes another trial at a different university. He is not compelled to attend lectures, he is never called upon to recite, as the students in American colleges are, two or three times a day in the classroom. His professors never ask him questions until he becomes a member of what is called a "seminar," which is a selected class for original research under the direction of a member of the Faculty.

At some of the lectures you will find only a dozen students, where there are perhaps 200 or 300 pursuing the course of which it is a part. At other lectures you will find the room crowded with attentive listeners numbering twice as many as are on the professor's roll. The attendance is governed by the interest of the students in any particular line of inquiry and the ability of the professor to make himself interesting.

WILLIAM TELL OUTDONE.

A Dangerous and Daring Feat of a Kansas Rifleman.

Tom Smith, the famous Kansas rifleman, has again been giving exhibitions of his skill at Wichita. The shooting so far outdid anything attempted by the late William Tell, sr., that musical Kansas is daily expecting that the op[illegible] named in honor of the Swiss patriot will be changed to that of "Tom Smith." Smith stood in position with an apple on his head and a gun pointed over his shoulder.

Carefully sighting the gun, he pulled the trigger. The bullet struck the trigger of another gun placed thirty feet behind him; the second weapon having been fired in this novel fashion, discharged its bullet at the trigger of a third gun thirty feet in front of the marksman. The shot from the third rifle struck the trigger of a fourth gun at the back, and a little higher than the second; and, finally, the shot from the fourth gun went through the apple on Mr. Smith's head. —New York World.

A Remarkable Timepiece.

Japan possesses a remarkable timepiece. It is contained in a frame three feet wide and five feet long, representing a noonday landscape. In the foreground plum and cherry trees and rich plants appear in bloom; in the rear is seen a hill, from which flows a cascade, admirably imitated in crystal. From this point a threadlike stream meanders, encircling rocks and islands in its windings, and finally losing itself in a stretch of woodland. In a miniature sky a golden sun turns on silver wire, striking the hours on silver gongs as it passes. Each hour is marked by a creeping tortoise. A bird of exquisite plumage warbles at the close of the hour, and as the song ceases a mouse sallies forth from a neighboring grotto, and, scampering over the hill to the garden, is soon lost to view.

METHODS OF THE JAPANESE.

You Are Never Sure of Getting What You Pay for.

An American manufacturer, writing from Japan, says that those alarmists who would make the world believe that the Japanese can do everything don't know what they are talking about, and that the people of the Flowery Land, unless they change their entire nature, or at all events their methods, can never become formidable commercial rivals with any civilized Power. The real fact is that the Japs do nothing; they only half do it, and therein lies the cause of their failure.

The Japs think of nothing but the present; of what he can make now, and how, by making his commodities a little inferior, he can add a few more cents to his profit. There is no such a thing as standard quality. You are never sure of getting the quality you are asked to pay for. So much is this so in Japan that a man seldom buys an article without unwrapping and examining it on the spot. The correspondent continues:

The Japanese mind is so small that it is difficult to weigh it with American scales; in fact, it may be said that it is made up of trifles, and it is the attention—the labored attention—the Jap gives to these trifles which makes him incapable of ever becoming anything more than a unit in whatever he may be concerned in. As an illustration of what I mean, I will give examples which are of daily occurrence. You want to buy an article, and you ask how much it is. The answer is, say, 1 cent. Then you ask how much the articles are by the dozen, fully expecting that you will get them for 10 cents. You are not a little amazed when the merchant tells you thirteen cents the dozen. You get mad, call the man a fool, and insist that you ought to get a reduction by taking a quantity. Not so with the Jap; that is not his way of doing business. It is the same with the manufacturer. You give him an order for a hundred of a kind, and then wish to make it a thousand. Immediately he demands an advance in the price. Should he, however, reluctantly agree to take the increased order at the original price, you will probably get the first hundred articles fairly up to sample, but as the delivery goes on the quality is sure to fall off. And this smallness is not confined to small people. It permeates the whole country.—Boston Transcript.

A TREE THAT SLEEPS.

The Transformation Takes Place in About Twenty Minutes.

Near the western border of Dupont Circle, in Washington, D. C., stands a tree that goes to sleep promptly every night at 7 o'clock. The tree is known as the Albizzia Julibrissan, having been christened so by an Italian botanist in honor of the Albizzi family in Florence. The tree, however, is an original of Japan and is known there as the Japanese silk tree, probably on account of the silky appearance of its blossoms. Soon after 7 o'clock in the evening a general motion is noticed in the foliage, a quiver or trembling of the bipinnate leaves. Each leaflet begins to stand up on edge and pairs with the one oposite. They clasp each other tightly and then close up with the other on the petiole, so that each becomes a coverlet over half of the preceding one. The entire transformation takes place in about twenty minutes, and usually at about 7.30 the respiratory organism of this tree hangs limp or droopy on the branches.

WIT AND HUMOR.

"I admire the machine very much," she said, as the agent trotted out a new '97 model for her inspection. "It matches my riding costume splendidly."

"Yes," responded the dealer, "our concern rather prides itself upon the enameling of its machines."

"Well, I'll take it, if you will guarantee me one thing."

"What is that?"

"That the color won't fade."

After some thought he gave the guarantee, and she gave up $100.

The Parson—Why, Willie, don't you know that good little boys never fish on Sunday?

Willie—Yes, sir; that's just the reason I'm a-fishing. I stand more show of gettin' a bite when the good fellows are to Sunday-school.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Mr. Pneumony—I'll have two pounds of that sage cheese, and I'll have a pound of impunity, too.

Grocer—Marm?

Mrs. Pneumony—One pound will be enough, I guess. Dr. Koddle says that sage cheese can be eaten with impunity.—Boston Transcript.

"Say, you're a hard-hearted old bloke."

"What do you mean?"

"Why, dat poor old horse is just a practicin' de Kneipp cure, dat's what."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Casey.—I called wan av thim doods a liar and he says to me, says he, "tu quoque." Now fwat might that mean?

Walade—It means "you are another."

"Fwat! An I let um get away with out hittin' um. Ah, that is fwat a man gits for havin' no education."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

"There is one queer thing noticeable at all picnics."

"What's that?"

"The man who makes the most fuss about carrying the basket always eats more than anyone else."

NOTICE TO ALL INTERESTED IN UP-TO-DATE LAUNDRY WORK.

We run the laundry and take care of all details, but you "boss" it. We do what you tell us to do. It may give you a new sensation to find that you get a domestic finish when you ask for it, and to discover that your collars are actually ironed in the way that the maker intended them to be ironed.

We are running a laundry with the most improved methods and appliances. We use pure water and good soap. We are using two things that are not commonly used in laundries—care and intelligence. If you have found a laundry that pleases you perfectly, we have nothing to say to you. If you have any reason to be dissatisfied, we would like to give you a practical demonstration of our way of running a laundry.

Tell us where and when to call for your work, when you want it delivered, and let us know any particular thing that you would like to have done with it.

We want you to understand that we are running this laundry for you, and that your wishes are to be regarded in every particular. We will give you just exactly what you want, if we can find out what that is. Perhaps you believe that it is impossible to have your laundry well handled without irritation and annoyance to you. We are sure that you are mistaken. May we have an opportunity of demonstrating it?

Can you believe your neighbors?
Read this statement made by a citizen:

Mr, Wm. Swalm, of 603 West Front street, says: "I consider Doan's Kidney Pills an elegant remedy for kidney troubles. I have used them and was greatly benefited. For several years I suffered from a severe pain across my back which annoyed me so much at night that I could not sleep. If I took cold it settled in my back and at such times I could scarcely get about at all. There was also a kidney weakness which was very distressing. I often had to get up at night thus breaking my rest. I read about Doan's Kidney Pills, and thought I would try them. My daughter got me a box at L. W. Randolph's drug store, and after using them a short time I felt much better in every way The pain in my back does not bother me now at all and the other difficulty has been relieved. Other members of the family have used them with equally good results. Doan's Kidney Pills have my endorsement and I will recommend them whenever an opportunity presents itself."

Doan's Kidney Pills are for sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Mailed by Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the U. S.

CAN FIX THE SEX.

Professor Says He Can Influence Offspring of Human Beings.

London, Jan. 6.—A dispatch to the Chronicle from Vienna says that Dr. Schenk, a professor in the Vienna University and president of the Embryological Institute, says he has discovered the secret influencing the sex of the progeny of men and animals. He has been studying the question for twenty years, and just completed his researches. He will submit the result to the Vienna Academy of Science, meanwhile withholding the details of the secret.

He discloses, however, that his theory is based on the nature of the food consumed by the female during gestation. He began his researches among the lowest invertebrates, gradually rising to the highest animals and to human beings.

Dr. Schenck asserts that he has experimented with entire success in the families of consenting friends.

New York, Jan. 6.—News of the discovery is received here with the greatest interest among medical and scientific men, who for years have been awaiting the results of various experiments along this line by horse and cattle breeders.

France has been the field where most of these experiments have been conducted up to the present time, and the efforts of scientists have in most cases been urged along the line of surgery. Operations of many descriptions have been performed upon the lower animals with more or less success, but nothing absolutely definite was obtained. It gradually became patent that the sex of offspring depended principally upon the respective vitality of the male and female animals, and, it is presumed here, Dr. Schenck has been conducting his experiments along these lines, endeavoring to produce by the consumption of foods the requisite ratio of vitality prior to the period of gestation.

There is no doubt that the Government will order a most careful inquiry into the discovery of Dr. Schenk, as the possible results of such a revolution in the controling of nature are almost beyond human comprehension.

CRANK AT THE WHITE HOUSE.

Westchester County Farmer Has a Message from Christ to McKinley

Washington, Jan. 6.—Jacob Clements, a German, from Westchester County, New York, caused considerable excitement in the White House yesterday When denied permission to see the President he became very violent, and was with difficulty restrained by the guards and police. He is now confined in prison and will be held pending an inquiry as to his sanity.

Clements says he has a message to President McKinley from Christ. He is a heavy-set farmer, 58 years old, and speaks little English. He says he has a wife living on his farm near Westchester. He left home Sunday night and arrived in Washington Tuesday. He went to the Executive Mansion and asked to see the President. The doorkeeper told him he had better write a letter.

Clements went away, returning an hour later with a communication. He returned yesterday and insisted that he must see the President. He declared that New York was under the control of Tammany and he could live there no longer. Becoming violent he was arrested.

MORE BOGUS $100 BILLS.

Fears that Large Numbers Have Been Foisted on Sub-Treasuries

Washington, Jan. 6.—Treasury Department officials are still greatly worked up over that $100 counterfeit silver certificate. They believe that a gang worked simultaneously in all of the large cities, as one of these certificates has been received from the Chicago Sub-Treasury, and another in the St. Louis batch, and still another in the Philadelphia budget, while one was brought to light in the cash of the National Bank of Washington.

Of the $18,000,000 in the Chicago Sub-Treasury, $1,500,000 is in $100 silver certificates. The Sub-Treasury in St. Louis has $1,750,000. It has been the practice at these two offices to take the certificates and store them away. The officials are anxiously awaiting the shipment from these places, which it is expected will be received here on Thursday, as it is feared that a number of the counterfeits will be found in these vast hordes. Comparatively small amounts are held in other large cities, New York holding about four hundred thousand dollars.

Named by the President.

Washington, Jan. 6.—The President has sent the following nominations to the Senate: Francis C. Lowell to be United States District Judge for the District of Massachusetts; Henry L. Burnet, Attorney of the United States for the Southern District of New York; Leander P. Mitchell, of Indiana, to be Assistant Comptroller of the Treasury; J. G. Ward to be Collector of Internal Revenue for the Fourteenth District of New York; Owen I. W. Smith, of North Carolina, to be Minister Resident and Consul General of the United States to Liberia; James G. Stowe, of Missouri, to be Consul General of the United States at Cape Town, Cape of Good Hope, and Herbert G. Squires, of New York, to be Secretary of the Legation of the United States at Pekin, China.

Type Foundry Destroyed.

New York, Jan. 6.—Fire last night destroyed the type foundry of A. D. Farmer & Son, at Gold and Beekman streets, one of the oldest and largest concerns of the kind in the United States. The blaze started at about 8.30 o'clock on the third floor near the elevator and spread to the upper floors. The fifth and sixth floors were completely gutted and the fourth and third floors badly damaged. The damage to the first and second floors was from water. The loss was estimated at $50,000.

Bryan Named for China.

Washington, Jan. 6.—The name of Charles Page Bryan to be Minister to China was presented to the Senate in executive session yesterday, and referred to the Committee on Foreign Relations. The nomination has been held up for three weeks or more. Mr. Bryan's friends accept the release of the nomination as an indication that the President desires confirmation.

THE CONTEST IN OHIO

Senator Hanna's Friends Disturbed at the Situation.

A DEADLOCK IS PREDICTED

Speaker Mason Using His Influence Against the Senator—Several of the Members Reported to Be Wavering.

Columbus, Ohio, Jan 6.—Senator Hanna's friends are certainly alarmed. They confess that the desperate tactics of the Kurtz conspirators are now sure to produce a deadlock. This has been the fear of Senator Hanna since Election Day. The temptation to thwart the will of the majority was too great to be overlooked by his enemies.

At Hanna's headquarters there is, of course, considerable gloom, but extraordinary efforts will be made to bring about a reaction of loyal Republican sentiment. That there will be no Senatorial caucus is seized upon by the Kurtz crowd as a confession of weakness.

Senator Hanna has received innumerable protests against the action of Gov. Bushnell. In many counties Republicans have held indignation meetings, and no man in this State has been so unmercifully scored as the Governor.

It is denied at Hanna headquarters that he thinks of withdrawing, but many friends, who realize the danger of defeat, are urging that it would be better to select some one friendly to Mr. McKinley rather than let the Kurtz conspirators send a Senator opposed to the President.

Mason, the new Speaker elected by bolting Republicans and Democrats, is sure to exercise a strong influence against Senator Hanna in the appointment of committees. Already two Hanna men, allured by Mason's promises, are wavering, and the Kurtz combination expects to convert them.

Even Snyder, of Greene, who published a card announcing himself for Mr. Hanna last week, has almost been persuaded to desert. His wife came up from Xenia at the suggestion of Kurtz sympathizers, and she has been very active in trying to take her spouse away from the Senator.

Addicks After Hanna.

Wilmington, Del., Jan. 6.—State Senator Robert J. Hanby, who has two relatives in the Ohio Legislature, has gone to Columbus for the purpose, it is understood, of assisting in the defeat of Senator Hanna, who, the Addicks men say, has given aid and comfort to the regular Republicans in their contest with Addicks. It is said that Addicks will put $50,000 where it will do the most good in the Ohio contest in his efforts to get revenge by defeating Hanna.

DUEL IN CHICAGO STREETS.

Judge's Nephew Shot and Killed an Ex-Deputy Sheriff.

Chicago, Jan. 6.—Edward M. Hunt, an ex-deputy sheriff, was shot and killed yesterday by W. Ray Smith, a bailiff in Judge Horton's court, and a nephew of the Judge. The men had quarreled over a small sum of money due from Smith to Hunt to-day, as Smith was walking along the street, Hunt jumped from behind a building and opened fire.

Smith held up a quart brick of ice cream, which he was carrying, to protect himself, and Hunt's first bullet was stopped by it. He then drew a revolver, and both men fired as rapidly as they could. Hunt was hit in the side and died in a few minutes. Smith was shot in the left hand and right leg. He surrendered to the police.

Circus Row in London.

London, Jan. 6.—According to an application made at Bow street yesterday by Walter Butler, described as a clown, and two others, there are 150 employes of Barnum & Bailey's circus, who, after three weeks of unpaid rehearsals, have been dismissed with a week's notice.

Sir James Vaughan, the Presiding Magistrate, said the matter must be investigated by a Civil Court, and advised the men dismissed to combine and employ a lawyer. George Starr says the men dismissed were all incompetent; that they were paid during rehearsals, and that their places were filled by new hands. They were not replaced by Americans.

SPORTS

STRIKES AND SPARES.

All lovers of good bowling are reminded of the great game to be rolled next Saturday evening at the Park Club, between the Bachelor and Benedict teams. A great time is promised and former Mayor B. A. Hegeman, Jr., the mascot of the Benedict team, has promised that his team shall win the contest.

The various monthly contests at the alley of the Park Club have come to an end for December. William J. Roome, Jr., again secured the greatest number of scores over 200. He rolled six F. H. Ball and Clarence L Murphy were tied for the high score of the month, both rolling 235. The tie will be settled as the bowling committee may decide.

The third and deciding match between the Bachelors and the Benedicts of the Park Club will be rolled on the alleys Saturday evening. The date of the game was changed from to night to Saturday night for the reason that many of the participants find it difficult to be on hand tonight. Saturday is always a big night at the club and a large audience will be there to witness the match. Both teams have won a game and both are equally certain of winning the deciding one. The Benedicts will have their team greatly strengthened for the game, and will have some of the famous team that won such great victories in past encounters. The Bachelors are hunting about for their best men, and Peter Matthews promises to excel any score ever made on the alleys.

BASKET BALL.

A physical examination was held at the Y. M. C. A. last week to give all who failed at the previous examination a chance to pass.

The Y. M. C. A. basket ball team will play against the Summit Y. M. C. A. in the Plainfield gymnasium Friday, Jan. 14th.

The members of the basket ball team have all been successful in passing the examination necessary to qualify as registered athletes, and each member will be registered by the athletic committee today. All games played by the team hereafter will necessarily be sanctioned by the A. A. L, the A. A. U. and the L. A. W., and this will insure gentlemanly play on the part of each team coming here to play.

WINTER SPORTS.

The hockey team of the Plainfield High School is soon to be organized. There are a number of candidates who are anxious to make the team.

A game of hockey has been arranged between the team from the New Jersey Military Academy and the Alis team for some afternoon this week if the ice continues to be good.

Two exciting games of hockey were played on Holly's pond last Monday morning. The contesting teams were the Alis team and the team from Leal's School. The Alis team won the first game by a score of 2 to 0, and the second by a score of 3 to 1.

WITH ROD AND GUN.

Isaac Randolph and James Stryker, of West Front street, have returned from the south, where they have been on a hunting trip

Alfred I. Smalley, A M Griffen and Herbert Johnston, of this city, started yesterday morning for Marlville, N. C., where they will remain for some time on a reserve owned by Mr. Griffen.

WHIST.

The thirteenth match this season for the American Whist League trophy was played in Baltimore Saturday between the Baltimore Whist Club and the New Jersey Whist Club. The former won by a margin of three tricks, and thus evened matters up with the local players, who, three months ago defeated this Baltimore team.

CYCLING COMMENT.

A HEIFER IN THE CASE.

Mintz Claimed it Was the Property of His Daughter and a Suit Followed.

The case of James Mintz against Stephen Fitzgerald, in tort, was tried in Justice Mattison's court yesterday. The plaintiff, who is a butcher living on Pearl street, alleged that the defendant had agreed, some time ago, to sell him a heifer for the sum of $18 and that he had paid the defendant $3 when the agreement was made, to bind the bargain.

Later on when Mintz called upon Fitgerald to deliver to him the animal in question the latter refused to do so saying that the heifer was the property of his daughter and he was not at liberty to sell it without her consent which he could not secure, He claims to have offered to return to Mintz the three dollars which the latter had paid him, but Mintz refused to accept it.

Fitzgerald denied that he had ever made a contract to sell the heifer, and claimed that he had merely promised the plaintiff that he would try to get it for him but could not promise, as the animal belonged to his daughter In court Fitzgerald stated that the plaintiff was well aware at the time the alleged contract was made that the heifer was not the property of the defendant. The action was brought for $50 damages, and the counsel in the case were H. C. Runyon for the plaintiff and Murphy & Blatz for the defense.

After hearing the evidence the Justice reserved his decision for one week.

AN OLD RESIDENT GONE.

Peter E. See, of the Borough, Died this Noon of Heart Failure.

The death of Peter E. See, of 116 Somerset street, occurred today at noon. The news of his death was a great shock to his many friends and acquaintances. Death was due to heart failure.

Mr See was well advanced in years and was not able to do any work. He has, however, been able to go out for short walks, and it was only this morning that he was seen on the streets. He was an old resident of the borough and for many years conducted a grocery store at the corner of Somerset street and Manning avenue, afterwards selling out to W. H. VanWinkle.

Mr. See was well known throughout Somerset county and was respected by all. Announcement of the funeral will be made later.

TO TALK ON THE TROLLEY.

Frank Bergen Will Speak in Music Hall Tuesday Evening.

The citizens of Plainfield who have been anxious to hear the county trolley scheme of Frank Bergen presented in this city will have their wishes realized shortly, as Mr. Bergen has been invited to come to this city and explain his ideas on the subject. The meeting for the purpose will be held in Music Hall Tuesday evening of next week.

There has been a desire on the part of a large number of persons to have the promoter of the county trolley project come to this city and present his views, and it was in response to this feeling that a committee was appointed by the organizers of the new Board of Trade, Monday night, to communicate with Mr. Bergen and arrange for his appearance in Plainfield.

Mr. Bergen has appeared in nearly every other town along the line of the proposed new trolley route to this city, and has made very thorough explanations of his views. He is said to have felt that his ideas were misrepresented and not very well understood in this city.

Successful Meetings at Hope Chapel.

The series of evangelistic meetings now being held at Hope chapel, under the charge of Colonel Hadley, of the Water Street mission, New York, are being crowned with success. The meeting last night was more largely attended than any that preceded it, the room being crowded to the doors, and a profound impression was made.

The meeting this evening will be conducted by the pastor, Rev. G. Kennedy Newell, but tomorrow night Colonel Hadley will again take charge and will relate some of his personal experiences

Bryan Will Not Run.

Lincoln, Neb., Jan. 6.—William Jennings Bryan, who has just returned from Mexico, says the report that he is to run for Congress from this district is unfounded.

"I don't think I am ready to enter politics again," is the way he puts it.

Mr. Bryan and Mrs. Bryan are profuse in their expressions of appreciation for the manner in which they were received in Mexico, and of gratitude for the courtesies shown them. Mr. Bryan will remain in Lincoln until Jan. 8, on which date he will be the guest of the Jacksonian Club, of Chicago, at its annual banquet.

Plan to Oppose Quay.

Philadelphia, Jan. 6.—The Republican Business Men's League yesterday adopted resolutions calling for a meeting of Republicans to organize a movement against the re-election of Senator Quay to the United States Senate, and to oppose any selection of a candidate for Governor which may be made by what the league terms the State machine.

The proposed meeting is to be held within two weeks, and the branch leagues throughout the State are to be invited, in addition to many prominent Republicans opposed to Senator Quay.

Buterworth Better.

Thomasville, Ga., Jan., 6. — Benjamin Butterworth regained consciousness for the first time since his attack yesterday morning, and the physicians now express a more hopeful view of the situation. His wife and two sons, with their wives, are at his bedside, and everything possible is being done for his relief.

$59,000 in a Bureau.

Hazleton, Pa., Jan. 6.—In a long-discarded bureau in the house of John Arnold, Sr., deceased, his executors found two drawers nearly full of gold and silver coin. The amount of the cash is a little over fifty-nine thousand dollars.

Spinners Vote to Fight.

New Bedford, Jan. 6—Out of five hundred mule spinners assembled in City Hall last evening no one raised his voice in opposition when an informal vote was taken on the question whether the union should resist the proposed reduction of wages. It was a unanimous declaration in favor of a strike rather than submission to the cut-down, but it was merely taken to ascertain the prevailing sentiment of the mule spinners, and is not final.

Weyler Goes Free.

Madrid, Jan. 6.—The question of calling Gen. Weyler to account for protesting to the Queen Regent against the wording of President McKinley's message to Congress and for allowing the document to become public is closed. The public Prosecutor has informed the Supreme War Council that he has decided there is no ground for prosecution.

Explosion in a Colliery.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., Jan. 6.—Jacob Powell and William Jones were killed by an explosion in Avondale colliery yesterday afternoon, and William Brennan and John E. Jones were so badly hurt that they will likely die.

THE CZAR AND THE DOLLS.

Emperor "Nicky" Had a Strong Desire to Understand Their Machanism.

As every one knows, M. Faure was bearer of some extraordinary Paris dolls to the little Grand Duchess Olga when he went to St. Petersburg recently, but now comes the droll story of the reception given them by the Emperor himself. The baby Grand Duchess, it seems, was not more entranced than her august papa with these sweet dollies who carried on a squeaky dialogue as between mother and child, but after an hour passed in their society nurse was obliged to take the little Princess to bed, and the Emperor was then left alone with the two clever artificial ladies. In an adjoining room the Empress, M. Faure and some ladies and gentlemen of the court were talking, when suddenly a strange noise like that of an infernal machine was heard, followed by a loud exclamation of dismay. Everybody rushed to see what it was. There was the Czar safe and sound, but with a dismal face, looking at the dolls, which he had partly undressed, to find ou. the secret hidden in their bosoms, while the dolls were chattering away as though they would never stop! The gentle Empress quite lost her temper; snatching up the carpeted board on which the precious ladies were standing she gave it to a gentleman near her, "Please take it away," she cried, "it is too bad. Indeed; the Emperor spoils everything he touches," but as "Nicky" looked very penitent and the situation was so funny, she could not help laughing. "You see how it is," said the Emperor, "I am not permitted to talk with my own daughter's doll!" At this sally the company laughed heartily, and peace was at once restored. It is hoped that Miss Olga's new possession will be no more interferred with, or, at least, the French people will send another doll for the Emperor's own entertainment.—Boston Herald.

THE USE OF THE GREAT TOE.

It Serves the Negroes of the West Indies in Climbing.

The negroes of the West Indies use the great toe constantly in climbing. Several years ago, while spending some time at one of the famous resorts in Jamaica, a writer in the Overland Monthly says: I had an opportunity to observe the skill with which the black women, who do a great part of the menial labor, carried stone, mortar and other building materials on their heads to the top of a five-story tower, in a part of the hotel not then finished.

Much of the unerring accuracy with which they (women and girls) chased each other up and down the long ladders, with heavy loads skillfully poised on their woolly pates, was due to the firmness with which they grasped each rung of the ladders with the great toe. They did not place the ball or the hollow of the foot on the rung, but the groove at the juncture of the great toe with the body of the foot, and they held fast by making the back of the other toes afford the other gripping surface. In much the same way the Abyssinnian native cavalry grasp the stirrup. And I have seen a one-armed Santo Domingan black, astride the near ox in a wheel yoke, guiding a lead mule with a rein held between his great and second toes, while his only arm was devoted to cracking his teamster's whip.

Settled the Question of Age.

D. W. Caldwell, the late President of the Lake Shore, and John F. Miller, general superintendent of the southwest system of the Pennsylvania, were friends all their lives, but there was one thing on which they could never agree, and that was as to which was the older. One day they were driving up to Caldwell's country home in a buggy.

"John," said the Lake Shore man, "you have always insisted that I am older than you."

"Why, of course, I was born in—

"That's all right, John; if you are younger than I am suppose you open the gate."

Without a word Mr. Miller climbed from the buggy, opened the gate, and Mr. Caldwell drove through. And then he did not stop, but went on to the house, leaving Mr. Miller to follow through the dark and mud as best he could. When the house was reached the soil was scraped off Mr. Miller and nothing more was said. He had proved that he was the younger man of the two.—St. Louis Globe Democrat.

Redmen on the Matrimonial Question.

Two items are furnished by our red brothers of the wildwood apropos of the matrimonial question. Mrs. Black Hawk, the wife of Black Hawk, the noted Cheyenne chief, cut her throat because she felt that her husband needed a younger wife. In Vancouver, Skookawak, another Indian chief, finding that his squaw was growing old, tied her to a pony's heels and then started the pony. This proved effectual, and he is now ready for a younger squaw. The methods of the chivalry of the forest differ materially from the white man's. When the latter wants another squaw he doesn't bother about the old one. Nor does the old one cut her throat. The slow advance of civilization among the Indians is shown by their repugnance to paying alimony.

Measurable.

"And," asked the sociologist, "when you are alone at night under the starry sky, are you never filled with immeasurable longings?'

"W'y," admitted Dismal Dawson, after the idea had been a little more explained, "I do have them feelings, I guess; but they can't be called immeasurable. About a quart measure would cover 'em—er half a gallon anyhow."—Indianapolis Journal.

DENOUNCED BAZAARS.

SPOKE AGAINST THEM AS A METHOD TO AID CHURCHES.

Rev. M. B. Fuller, of India, Addressed the Christian Alliance on the Work in the Missions and Methods of Raising Funds.

The Christian and Missionary Alliance are always eager for fresh news from the foreign mission field, and their regular weekly meeting last night in the W. C. T. U. rooms was well attended, in spite of the threatening evening, in order that the members might listen to an address on missions, from Rev. Mark B. Fuller, of India.

The meeting was opened with a song service and devotional exercises, Miss Cara Peck presiding. Rev. Mr. Fuller was then introduced, and delivered an address which deeply interested his hearers, and put the facts of missions before them in a striking manner. He said that the work of the missionary was not to convert everybody; it was to bring the gospel before each one in such a way as to put the responsibility for his salvation or condemnation on himself. The worst feature of the problem, he went on to say, is that Christian people do not feel their responsibility to do their part by giving the gospel; they have become used to the thought of the unsaved millions, and their prayers are of the sort that say "God bless me and my wife, my son John and his wife, us four and no more." Most people, though few would admit it, think that these heathen nations are not of much account, anyway; one American is worth more than ten Chinamen or Hindus. But they have souls to be saved, and there is Christ's command staring His people in the face. In India the harvest is waiting to be gathered.

In every part of the country some mission work has been done, but it is very little, when one thinks of the thousands yet unreached. Mr. Fuller said that a missionary felt like a sparrow on a housetop, when he looked out over the work to be done. He told of the various mission stations in India, and described the tours made by the workers, sometimes visiting several villages in one day. In contrast with this he told of an American town of 700 people, with thirteen churches, and expressed the wish that things might be evened up somewhat. He hoped soon to see more money in the missionary treasuries, but expressed himself very strongly against the practice of holding bazaars, suppers, etc., for the raising of money. He said no decent man would want his family, when in distress, to be helped by such affairs, and yet he would rather help raise money for a poor man's funeral than for the church of Jesus Christ. In closing, Mr. Fuller spoke of the Alliance principles as peculiarly appropriate for mission work, and urged his hearers to spread them abroad in their various churches.

BERGEN'S FORCES ROUTED.

Their Proposed Plan to Increase County Road System Defeated.

A plan advocated by Frank Bergen, to extend the system of county roads in Union county was the entering wedge of a trolley war into the meeting of the Union County Board of Freeholders, held at Elizabeth yesterday afternoon. It is well known that Bergen is pushing the scheme of having a trolley road built between Elizabeth and Plainfield on the county road by the county. The Elizabeth and Westfield Electric Street Railway Company wishes to connect Plainfield and the county seat by a trolley line, not on the county road, and have met with considerable success.

Mr. Bergen got Freeholder Swain to spring a resolution on the Board of Freeholders to make Broad street, where it runs through Westfield, North avenue, where it runs through Westfield and Fanwood townships, and Richmond and East Third streets in this city county roads.

The effect of this resolution, if adopted, would be to embarrass the rival company, which wants to use part of these streets.

Freeholder J. Martin Roll, of Springfield, made a furious onslaught on the resolution, denouncing it as a dark, sinister scheme against the residents of the township by wanting to burden them with additional taxation.

Freeholder Robinson said his constituents in Fanwood would be bitterly opposed to the matter. Freeholder Clark, of Westfield, spoke in a similar strain.

Mr. Bergen urged the passage of the resolution and was seconded by Comptroller Carlton, of Elizabeth, but the Board, by a vote of 10 to 7, laid the resolution on the table, where it will probably remain.

—An important business meeting of the Epworth League of Grace M. E. church will be held in the church tonight at 8 o'clock.

MASS-MEETING IN PLAINFIELD.

To Hear Frank Bergen's Ideas of the County Trolley System.

Plainfield will have a chance to thoroughly understand the county trolley system as proposed by Frank Bergen. The mass meeting, as already announced, will be held in the Stillman Music Hall Tuesday evening of next week. It is called for 8 o'clock. Everybody in Plainfield is invited to attend and get a more clear idea of just exactly what Mr. Bergen wants to do.

Addresses will be made by Mr. Bergen, A. B. Carlton, of Elizabeth, and others. Stereopticon views of the route will be shown during the address to make it clear in all points. The admission is free. The meeting will be held under the auspices of the new Board of Trade.

OUTWIT AT ELECTION.

SCOTCH PLAINS ENGINE COMPANY ELECTED THEIR WHOLE TICKET.

Their Rivals of the Excelsior Hook and Ladder Company Were Not Notified of the Election in the Department.

The members of Bucket and Engine Fire Company, of Scotch Plains, are jubilant this week over a victory which they gained Tuesday over their rivals in the village, the Excelsior Hook and Ladder Company. The cause of so much rejoicing on the part of the Bucket and Engine boys is that they were allowed to have things all their own way at the annual election of the fire department Tuesday night, and they filled all the department offices with members of their own company, not giving the Excelsior boys so much as a sniff at the coveted places of honor in the organization.

The knowledge of the result of the meeting was a surprise to the townspeople, as the Excelsior Company is stronger in votes than its rival, and in past years has always managed to capture all the choice offices of the department. The real reason why the rival company was able to scoop all the offices was kept a secret among the members of the department for a time, but it has now leaked out, and is the cause of considerable merriment among the friends of the interested parties.

It is the custom for the township clerk to notify the proper officials of each company as to the date on which the annual department election will be held, and these officers in turn notify the members of their respective companies. This year the notices were sent by the township clerk as usual, but the officers of the Excelsior Company failed for some reason to notify the members of their company, and not a man was aware that the election was to take place.

The members of the rival company were apprised of the joke and gathered quietly at the time set by law. It was the work of only a few minutes to elect a ticket selected entirely from their own company, after which they quietly adjourned.

THE NEW LEGISLATURE.

THE OAGANIZATION OF BOTH HOUSES HAS BEEN SETTLED.

Senator Voorhees Will Be Chosen President of the Senate, to Vacate on Governor Grigg's Resignation—Work To Be Done.

The legislative session will open Tuesday afternoon next at 3 o'clock, and probably will keep going for ten or twelve weeks. The organization of both Houses has pretty generally been agreed upon, with the exception of some minor offices. The Republican Senators held a caucus last night at Trenton to discuss their policy concerning legislation. The Democratic Assemblymen met Wednesday night, as has already been stated.

Senator Foster M. Voorhees, of Union county, will be formally chosen President of the Senate, and will vacate that office to become Acting Governor as soon as Gov. Griggs resigns. A movement is on foot to give a dinner to the Governor and Senator Voorhees early in the session, and there will also be a public reception in the executive chamber to mark the change in administration. Senator William H. Skirm, of Mercer county, will be chosen President pro tem. of the Senate, and will preside after President Voorhees moves into the executive department. These arrangements have been informally agreed upon by the Republican Senators.

There will be but few changes in the Senate's clerical staff. Henry B. Rollinson, of Rahway, has been secretary for three years, and will give way. Frank Frey, a Camden newspaper man, is the only prominent candidate for the place. Other places will become vacant by reason of the failure of the Republicans to elect Senators in a few counties. It is unwritten law in Jersey that no man can retain office if his county goes back on the party in power.

David O. Watkins, of Gloucester county, will be Speaker of the House. Ex-Assemblyman Thomas H. Jones, of Essex, is slated for the clerkship. Theodore Gaddis, of Essex, will be assistant engrossing clerk, and the county also asks for the places of sergeant-at-arms, eight doorkeepers and a dozen pages. Charles H. Folwell, of Burlington county, will be engrossing clerk. The disposal of the minor House places will be made at the caucus to be held the evening of the organization. Ex-Assemblyman Charles F. Hopkins, of Morris county, will be reading clerk.

Half a dozen Commissioners appointed to revise and codify as many different subjects in the State laws will report. Senator Johnson, of Bergen county, will reintroduce his bill providing for railroad commissioner, to secure the abolition of grade crossings, and to settle matters now controlled by the various municipalities through which the railroads pass.

Before resigning Gov. Griggs will make nearly all the appointments that are to be made during the session. These will include a judge and prosecutor in Hudson county to succeed Judge Hudspeth and Prosecutor Winfield, a chief of the bureau of labor statistics to succeed Charles H. Simmerman, judges and prosecutors in several counties and a number of members of State boards. The Governor and Senator Voorhees have conferred on the subject. Appointments not requiring Senatorial confirmation, and to places likely to be affected by legislation during the session, will be left to Acting Governor Voorhees.

A FAMILY MARRIAGE.

An Elderly Couple Quietly United at the Bride's Home in Dunellen.

Last evening at the home of the bride in Dunellen occurred the marriage of Mrs. Sarah Ann Wagner to John W. Wagner, formerly of Plainfield, but now of Dunellen. The bride is fifty-four years old and the groom is sixty-four years old. The marriage was celebrated in the presence of a few intimate friends and relatives. The ceremony was performed by Justice of the Peace W. E. Mattison, of North Plainfield, who tied the knot according to the laws of New Jersey. Thomas F. Boyle and Mrs. Mary H. Wagner, the wife of the bride's son, stood up with the bride and groom.

The groom was born in Rome, Italy, and came to this country when a young man. He served in the late war and made a splendid record. The bride was a wife of her present husband's brother, who died some time ago, hence both names are the same. The groom is engaged in contract work in Dunellen, and he and his wife will reside at that place. After the wedding a pleasing supper was served and the rest of the evening was passed in a social manner.

—The contract case of Gold against Polack will be tried in the District Court at Elizabeth on the 18th.

A FENCE NOT A FENCE.

REMARKABLE TESTIMONY IN A CASE IN THE UNION COUNTY COURT.

The Paul T. Norton Company Sued Their Landlady for Six Cents Damages—Both Sides Satisfied With the Verdict.

Last April the Paul T. Norton Company, of Elizabeth, rented from Mrs Martha L. Suydam, of Newark, the store situated at 133 East Front street, in this city. The lease, which was drawn in the office of the Norton Company, provided the rent should be paid one year in advance, and that the term should commence when the building was in a tenantable condition, connected with city water, sewer connection made, and the landlord to "remove all outbuildings and the division fence from the rear yard and grade the latter so as to enable trucks to be backed in from the adjoining alleyway, etc."

These repairs and alterations were alleged to have been made by Mrs. Suydam, who thereupon demanded the rent of the Norton Company, who, claiming that the terms of the lease had not been complied with, refused to make payment of the same. Mrs. Suydam, through her attorney, Irving L. Brady, of this city, levied upon all the goods of the Norton Company in their Plainfield store, he advising her that the lease had been fully complied with and that the rent was due and could be collected. Through their counsel, Craig A. Marsh, of this city, the Norton Company immediately replevined the goods and brought suit at this term of the Union County Court at Elizabeth. Inasmuch as the repairs and alterations had all been made under Mr. Brady's supervision and direction, and he would therefore be the principal witness for the defence, Senator Charles A. Reed, of this city, was retained as associate counsel.

The trial, which occupied the court's attention during almost all day Wednesday, was very exciting and at times amusing. All the damages asked was the sum of six cents.

The question as to whether the fence had been removed or not was the principal point of the case and to establish their contentions both parties produced photographs, and a drawing made by Surveyor H. L. VanEmburgh.

The defence insisted that the fence had been removed and what now remained was not a fence, but a partition or wooden structure; that even if it was a fence, it was not the "division fence" referred to in the lease.

Another point was whether the yard had been graded so as to enable trucks to be backed in, and much evidence was given on this point.

The Court left it to the jury to say whether the landlord had made the repairs called for in the lease, and directed the jury to find for the landlord if she had, otherwise to find for the tenant. On motion of Mr. Marsh, the Court also left it to the jury to say which side should pay the costs of the suit, or whether each side should pay its own costs.

The jury, after being out six hours yesterday afternoon, decided the first question in favor of the landlord and the second in favor of the tenant. The verdict being for Mrs. Suydam, but Mrs. Suydam to pay the costs of the suit on both sides.

Both the landlord and the Company say they are satisfied.

A DARING ACT.

Horace Huff Stopped a Runaway Team at the Risk of His Life.

Persons who happened to be in the neighborhood of Madison avenue and Front street at 9 o'clock this morning witnessed a daring act in the stoppage of a runaway team by Horace Huff, bookkeeper for Garret Q. Packer, the furniture dealer.

The team, which belongs to Oscar Huff, of Centerville, a brother of Horace Huff, was attached to a wagon loaded with poultry and eggs. It was left standing on Madison avenue while its owner went into a shop to transact some business. While the owner was in the shop his horses took fright and started upon a hard run toward Front street.

Horace Huff was at his desk in the store opposite when the horses started to run, and he quickly ran to the entrance of the store, on Front street. He reached the curb just as the team wheeled around the corner, and, making a spring, he caught the bridle of the near horse and clung fast. He was dragged a distance of about forty feet, when the team finally came to a standstill in front of the First Methodist church. Joseph A. Gavett assisted in bringing the animals to a standstill. The damage resulting from the runaway was slight.

—George Egel, of the Grandview meat market, purchased four pigs yesterday weighing 1,360 pounds. They were raised by Dr. J. H. Cooley, of the borough.

PLAINFIELD TROLLEY CASES IN COURT

Three Cases Settled and Two Yet to Be Settled or Tried.

The Plainfield Street Railway cases brought against the company for injuries received by Catharine Manning, James Cashen and Jacob Mints, respectively, have all been settled by the company paying damages agreed upon. Craig A. Marsh for plaintiffs, and Riker & Riker for defendants. The case of Rev. Dr. Simpson, for the killing of his valuable St. Bernard dog, is likely to be settled before this term of court ends.

The case of Sturtevant against the Consolidated Traction Company for $10,000 damages, will be tried at the next term. Craig A. Marsh for Mr. Sturtevant, and Joseph Coult, of Newark, for the Traction Company.

A DISCIPLE OF CHRIST.

REV E. EVERITT JONES QUIETLY PASSED AWAY LAST EVENING.

He Has Been a Faithful Worker in the Ministry for Thirty-Three Years—Preached in New Market Ten Years.

In the midday of a life well spent as a disciple of Christ, Rev. Edward Everitt Jones, aged fifty-four years, passed away at his home on Grove street last evening after a year of suffering from a complication of diseases. It was just a year ago that Mr. Jones and his family moved to this city, and during that time he has been more or less confined to his home. He was well known in this city and throughout the State of New Jersey, where he has held various charges. He was in the ministry thirty-three years, and all but ten years of that time he lived in New Jersey, where he preached in the Baptist denomination.

He was a man of strong character, and possessed many Christian qualities that were greatly admired by all who knew him. During his illness he exhibited that strong Christian fortitude so much admired. He was as patient as disease would allow, and his faith was strong to the end.

Rev. Mr. Jones was born in Philadelphia, June 15th, 1843, and his early years were spent in that city. He graduated from the Philadelphia High School when a very young man. He then entered Bucknell University, where he prepared himself for the ministry, and graduated in 1865. October 26th, 1865, he was married. His first charge was at the Rahway Baptist church. He afterwards went to Bridgeport, Pa., where he labored faithfully, and from there he was called to the New Market Baptist church. He remained at the latter place ten years and his work resulted in large additions to the membership and an increased interest in spiritual matters. He then went to Coatesville, Pa., and served the Baptist church at that place faithfully. He took a charge at Middletown, this State, and remained there some time His health was not good and he resigned the pastorate to take a much needed rest. At the end of two years he accepted a call to the Baptist church at Clinton, Hunterdon county, where he remained until his health became so poor that he was forced to give up entirely. It was then that he and his family came to Plainfield, where they have resided ever since.

Mr. Jones has held several positions in the different associations connected with the Baptist church in this State, and for seven years he was clerk of the East New Jersey Association, while for six years he was clerk of the New Jersey Sunday-School Convention. He was a kind and loving husband and father, and in the home he will be greatly missed. He leaves a wife, a son, Burton Jones, and two daughters, Mrs. Percival Cooke, of Lewisburg, N. C., and Miss Jones. The children have all been home during their father's illness.

The funeral services will be held next Monday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from the First Baptist church. Rev. Dr. D. J. Yerkes, pastor, will conduct the services and will be assisted by several prominent Baptist clergymen. Interment will be in Laurel Hill Cemetery, Philadelphia, Tuesday.

THE WRONG MAN.

George L. Henry, of Henry & Johns, is Not in Trouble.

The Press was in error yesterday in stating that the George W. Henry who was charged with assaulting his wife, was a member of the firm of Henry & Johns. The senior member of that firm is George L. Henry, of East Third street, a reputable citizen who bears no stain on his character. He and his wife are living peacefully together, and have not the slightest idea of separating. The two Henrys are entirely different men.

—A meeting of Senate Lodge, Knights of Honor, was held last evening. One new member was initiated and two propositions were received.

TROLLEY IN FANWOOD.

CITIZENS INSTRUCTED TOWNSHIP COMMITTEE TO GRANT FRANCHISE.

A Meeting of the Citizens of Fanwood Township Committee Was Held Last Night—Representatives Explained Plans.

The Elizabeth and Westfield Electric Street Railway Company had an inning at the meeting of the citizens and the Township Committee, in Fanwood last evening. The meeting was called by the Committee to give the citizens an opportunity to express their opinions upon the question of granting the company a franchise to run the tracks through the township.

The meeting was well attended, and matters had not progressed far before it was evident that the sentiment of those present was strongly in favor of granting the franchise. A resolution was finally passed instructing the Township Committee to grant the company's application.

The meeting was called to order at 8:30 o'clock by T. J. Nichol, chairman of the Township Committee. Col. E. W. Hein, secretary of the railway company, was the first speaker. He explained how the company had modified its plans in deference to the wishes of the people, giving up the idea of running their tracks upon the county road and taking North avenue between Westfield and Fanwood, and South avenue between Westfield and Cranford. There were several conditions, he said, which he presumed the people would insist upon in giving the company a franchise. They were—cheap fare, frequent trips of cars and a location of the tracks convenient to the village. There was an objection sometimes made against granting franchises to fill the pockets of a corporation. His company was willing to remove this objection by paying to the township a share of its gross profits, amounting to five per cent. The speaker then read the franchise and a map was presented to the clerk of the meeting, showing the proposed route through the township.

The question of when the road should be completed was then brought up, and Col. Hein stated that the company would agree to have the tracks laid by July 1st. As to the rate of fare, adults would be charged 5 cents into any part of the township. School tickets for children would be sold thirty for $1.

Nothing was said in the meeting about the county trolley scheme of Frank Bergen.

The Committee announced to the trolley company's representatives that it will shortly hold a meeting and grant the franchise.

Before adjournment Col. Riker, the president of the company, appeared in the meeting and thanked the citizens for their confidence in his company. The best service possible would be given the town, he said.

Ex Sheriff George Kyte has been working to secure the consents of the owners of property along the proposed route of the trolley, and it is stated that he now has the consents of the owners of a majority of the land on the proposed extension of East Second street, from this city to the Fanwood line.

Rev. Dr. Cadman Was the Speaker at Monroe Avenue Church Last Night.

The anniversary service at Monroe Avenue church last evening was one of special interest. In addition to the vocal solos by Augustus Rose, instrumental music was rendered by Lindley Hillman, violinist, Walter Serrell, flutist, and Stephen Haff, pianist. The speaker of the evening was Rev. S. Parkes Cadman, of New York, who spoke briefly from several verses to be found in the 32d chapter of Isaiah. His main theme was concerning the "Shadow of a Rock in a Weary Land."

The words from the Scripture, "Man shall be as a hiding place from the winds," was beautifully illustrated by the speaker. Dr. Cadman said that Martin Luther, a simple German monk, was a God made and Christ-redeemed man, who, with the aid of God's spirit, stood firm in the face of all opposition. Men are thrown about by every little wind. If they were only as firm as the Rock of Ages they would be a safe-guard to all with whom they come in contact.

There is one thing, Dr. Cadman said, that Christ can and will do and that is arrest the drift of sin. He took sin as a mass and arrested it, and all people can shelter beneath Him, as beneath the shadow of a great rock in a weary land.

Following Dr. Cadman's remarks there was a short time given for testimony, and an opportunity was given the unconverted present to come out for Christ. This evening the series of meetings will close and Rev. G. C. Wilding, of Jersey City, will be the speaker.

HANNA MAY BE BEATEN

Senator's Friends Struggling to Hold Their Present Strength.

BRIBERY IS NOW CHARGED

Hanna's Supporters Concede that the Opposition Has a Majority of Three or Four on Joint Ballot. Women Participate in Contest.

Columbus, O., Jan. 7.—The Senatorial contest is changed somewhat. The anti-Hanna combine is on the defensive. As the count of votes stands now with the steering committees, Senator Hanna seems to be beaten. The opposition has a majority on joint ballot of three or four, on the concessions of Republican members who are supporting Hanna. The opposition claims from six to seven majority against Hanna, and that secret concessions are being made. The opposition is kept busy in defending its ranks, as the Hanna workers are after the doubtful members constantly and are starting hot fires for some of them at their homes.

The Republicans in some of the counties are aroused to intense indignation against Gov. Bushnell, the bolting Republican legislators and others. These demonstrations have disturbed some of the Republican members who are cooperating with the Democrats. The opposition workers will be required to keep up the closest vigilance for another week or more to hold all their men in line. The pressure from the constituents of the bolting Republican members is increasing every day and is likely to be overwhelming by next week.

So far as his own and the efforts of his managers are concerned Senator Hanna would be beaten if a ballot was taken to-day. The organization against Hanna is the most compact and most complete that was ever known in Ohio, but it has much yet to withstand from the popular revolution that is setting in.

A feaure of the contest is the participation of women. Since Mrs. Griffith induced her husband to change from Hanna to the opposition it is reported that Mrs. Snider, the wife of the member from Greene County, is now in sympathy with the opposition, although her husband is pledged to Hanna. Mr. Snider was in the Republican caucus Saturday night and voted for Boxwell on Monday, but Mrs. Snider has induced him to give a hearing to the opposition workers. The wives of several Democratic members are urging their husbands to vote for a straight Democratic nominee for Senator rather than for a Republican.

The Hanna managers admit now that Representative Rutan is pledged against Mr. Hanna. He bolted the Republican caucus, but up to this time it has been claimed that he would support Mr. Hanna.

The press said yesterday that affidavits had been placed in the hands of Prosecuting Attorney C. W. Voorhees, charging that Hanna managers have attempted to bribe members of the Legislature—further corroborating the story given in a special edition of the Press Wednesday evening that Prosecutor Voorhees had the matter under consideration.

It is rumored here that the next play of the anti-Hanna men would be to unseat the three Republicans members of the House. These are Norris, Smith and Leland. These men were elected by very slender pluralities—less than 100 altogether—and Norris' right to the seat has already been contested in the courts. If they are ousted on Monday, Mr. Hanna will lose three votes.

$100 COUNTERFEIT SCARE.

First Shipment Under the Retiring Order Received in Washington.

Washington, Jan. 7.—The first shipments to the Treasury under the recent order of Secretary Gage, retiring all $100 silver certificates in consequence of the discovery of a dangerous counterfeit, were received yesterday. They aggregated about $350,000, and came from Boston, New York, Philadelphia and Baltimore. A careful estimate by the Treasury experts was made but none of the spurious notes were found. A number of telegrams from sub-treasuries have been received, asking for authority to decline to receive all silver certificates of the $100 denomination, but in each instructions have been sent declining the request, and giving instructions that all genuine notes be received as usual, but in cases of doubt they may be received subject to examination by the Treasury experts.

Several of the Assistant Treasurers have notified the department that a large number of notes of this denomination are being presented and asking for remittances in small notes to meet this unexpected demand. These shipments are being made as rapidly as possible.

Experts who have been examining the counterfeit $100 silver certificates declare it to be an engraving. This is much more dangerous than if the bills had been photographed, as at first alleged. The engravers of the country who can do such fine work are known to the Government officials, and already it is said the guilty man has been found. Fear is entertained that spurious notes will be found of smaller value. Treasury employes are examining carefully all denominations of silver certificates.

Provisions for the Klondike.

Portland, Ore., Jan. 7.—United States Paymaster James McFarland, with 21 pack-mules, who arrived here Wednesday from Fort Washikie, Wyo., left immediately for Vancouver Barracks, where preparations will be made to proceed to Alaska for the purpose of assisting in taking rations to the Yukon miners. One hundred and two pack mules have been shipped to Vancouver by the Government to be used in this expedition, and as soon as the contract for the supplies is let the pack animals will be shipped to Skaguay.

Capt. B. Eldridge, Second Lieutenant E. W. Clark and fifty enlisted men of the Fourteenth infantry have been detailed for duty in Alaska by Gen. Merriam, Department Commander.

CIVIL SERVICE DEBATE.

Gen. Grosvenor Attacks the Law on the Floor of the House.

Washington, Jan. 7.—The House yesterday resumed the debate on the civil-service question and Mr. Grosvenor, of Ohio, took the floor with an elaborate speech in opposition to the law. In opening Mr. Grosvenor disclaimed any leadership of the anti-civil-service reform forces and any purpose to speak for any officer of the Government, executive, legislative or judicial.

"All efforts to entangle me in a collision with the President," said he, "wastes so much powder. If I believed that my relations to the executive would be changed or modified because I differ with him in any representative capacity I would despise him as he would despise me if I faltered in my convictions."

Mr. Grosvenor proceeded to pay his respects to the National Civil-Service Reform League and to Carl Schurz, its president. His excoriation of the latter was the most scathing that has been heard on the floor of the House in months. He denounced unsparingly those who sought to read out of the Republican party those who believed in the repeal of the civil-service law. With virulent language he sketched the political career of Mr. Schurz, which he characterized as the "checkered, spotted, leprous career of one who betrayed every party and every duty to which he was bound, and whose betrayals had been his only stock in trade in the arena of politics."

He traced Mr. Schurz's political history and defied any one to point out a point in the trail which was not tainted with the political corruption. Yet, he said, he was a man who, with other "foul political demagogues" at Cincinnati, under the name of the National Civil-Service League, had denounced him and those who thought with him on this question. He read the resolutions adopted at the Cincinnati meeting branding him as infamous beyond description.

"I give the members of the Civil-Service Commission notice," said he, "that we have a majority on this floor, and you cannot strangle a majority in the American Congress."

He argued that when the St. Louis platform was adopted the extensions contained in the Cleveland order of May, 1896, had not been understood. It was not until November, 1896, that the enormous scope of that order covering 46,000 officials was publicly declared.

ANTI-SCALPING BILL.

Washington, Jan. 7.—The Senate Committee on Interstate Commerce gave the opponents of the anti-scalping bill another hearing yesterday, and the attorney for the ticket brokers, George M. McKenzie repeated, for the most part, his argument made last month. Prof. P. E. Dow, of Binghamton, N. Y., also spoke against the bill.

The committee expected to hear arguments from the railroad officials in favor of the bill, but the "scalpers" took up almost all the time, and so the committee decided to hear the railroad men to-day. Speeches in favor of the bill were heard, however, from W. F. King, president of the New York Merchants' Association; J. B. Dill, counsel for that association, and A. M. Compton, representing the Chicago Merchants' and Travelers' Association. These associations have adopted resolutions in favor of the bill, and the gentlemen representing them spoke earnestly for its passage.

Among the prominent railroad men present were: General Passenger Agent Daniels, of the New York Central; George W. Boyd, assistant general passenger agent of the Pennsylvania; B. W. Wrenn, of the Plant system; Commissioner Farmer, of the Trunk Line Association; S. H. Harwick, of the Southern; Joseph Richardson, Commissioner Southeastern Passenger Association; S. F. More, Southern Pacific; W. H. Truesdale, Rock Island; H. M. Emerson, Atlantic Coast Line; Collins Studds, Pennsylvania, and others.

Both Senate and House committees give hearings to-day to the advocates of the bill. Messrs. Daniels and Boyd will be the principal speakers.

Mr. King, in his speech, said he had fought the railroads for years and would continue to fight until proper rates should be secured. He was opposed to discrimination, however, hence he favored the pending bill. He characterized as forgery the dealing in railroad tickets. He said there were very few firms that would employ a man as a traveler who would deal with ticket brokers.

Mr. Dill declared that of the 1,100 firms in the New York Merchants' Association, representing $50,000,000, there had not been one vote cast against the proposition to support this bill, and of the 30,000 firms outside New York, representing another five hundred million dollars, only eighteen had opposed it.

Comstock Gets 6 Cents Damages

New York, Jan. 7.—The suit for $50,000 damages brought by Anthony Comstock against Dr. Montague R. Leverson for slander was ended yesterday afternoon. The jury brought in a verdict of six cents damages in Comstock's favor, after a few moments' deliberation. Eleven of the jurors, it was said, wanted to make the verdict 1 cent damages, and two ballots had to be taken.

Doubts About Sex in Offspring.

Berlin, Jan. 7.—Professors Rudolph Virchow, Hertwig, Gusserow, Munk and Ohlshausen are all skeptical as to the professions of Dr. Schenk, professor at the University of Vienna and president of the Embryological Institute, that he has discovered the secret of exercising an influence over animals and men so as to fix the sex of offspring.

THE OUTLOOK IN CUBA

Gen. Segura Disgusted with Pando's Method of Campaign.

SAYS THE ISLAND IS LOST

Believes War Inevitable Between Spain and the United States. Canalejas Will Advise the Government to Abandon Its Colony.

Havana, Cuba, Jan. 7.—Senor Canalejas was coldly received at Santiago de Cuba. The Spanish Casino refused to tender him a banquet and he was hissed on the streets. It is understood that the opposition to him is due to the fact that he is the editor of El Heraldo de Madrid, which has violently attacked Gen. Weyler. It is reported that his impressions regarding Cuba are pessimistic, and that he will advise the Spanish Government to abandon the island.

Gens. Blanco, Parrado and Pando called on Gen. Segura at the Hotel Florinda to try to induce him to remain in the island. He refused. He does not wish to be responsible, he declares, for the future development of the "disgraceful Spanish rule in Cuba."

Gen. Segura is an intelligent and honest fighter, and is wholly disgusted with Gen. Plando's method of campaigning. He says Pando spends more gunpowder in getting autonomy than in fighting insurgents, and adds that, in his opinion, Cuba is lost to Spain unless the Government sends Gen. Polavieja or returns Gen. Weyler. The latter he considers out of the question. Gen. Polavieja he holds in high esteem, believing that this officer could end the war if an extermination policy were adopted. Gen. Segura also believes war inevitable between Spain and the United States, and that the pretext for it will be the filibustering expeditions.

Insurgents Burn Cane.

The insurgents are carrying out the orders of Gen. Gomez not to allow grinding, and they set fire to the cane fields wherever possible, from one end of the island to the other.

Gen. Pando sailed yesterday by the steamer Panama, going eastward. He will probably go first to Nuevitas Puerto Principe, and from there by steamer to Gibara, thence proceeding to Santiago de Cuba. The insurgents recently made a strong attack upon Nuevitas in considerable force, with loss on both sides. It is believed that this is the reason why Gen. Pando is going there. The insurgent Gen. Ducasse is in sight of Bahia Honda, with 350 men. Troops have been sent to meet him.

Senor Vasallo, Civil Governor of Puerto Principe, sent Senor Prinelles to the insurgent camp to induce the insurgents to accept autonomy and to get a permit to drive away his cattle. He was held by the insurgents, but fortunately met a former servant in his household, now an insurgent chief, who saved him from certain death.

Capt. Cabalcarri, chief of the guerillas, who captured the insurgent leader Villanueva, left Cajmito, this province, soon after and was seized by the insurgents, who macheted him and fifteen others.

Senor Marcos Garcia, Civil Governor of Santa Clara, reports that 890 reconcentrados died in that city during December last, and over one thousand in November. He predicts that about the same number will die during the present month from lack of food, clothing shelter and medicine.

Gen. Pando's campaign along the Cauto River was a total failure. Gen. Molina will probably soon return to Spain.

A Cold Greeting.

The local conservative press comments editorially upon the circumstances of the swearing in of the new Colonial Ministers. The company that assembled to witness the function was small and very cold, and there were no crowds in front of the Palace, as usual. The new Cabinet hesitate to remove the existing office-holders, who are acquainted with the work of the departments, and to substitute new officials. More than this, among the old employes are many Cubans.

Consul-General Lee called upon Gen. Blanco with regard to the distribution of food and relief to the reconcentrados in Santiago de Cuba. At Serrayo, that province, five persons are sick in a small hut, without medicine or food. According to reports from Pinar del Rio, many reconcentrados there live in caves for lack of other shelter, and one family of three women is living under a tree.

The report of the death of the insurgent leader Luis Delgado is believed to be unfounded. It is understood that he is now in Carmen Hills, this province, where he was summoned by Gen. Alejandro Rodriguez.

FOR IRELAND'S CAUSE.

John E. Redmond, the Great Leader, in New York.

New York, Jan. 7.—Hon. John E. Redmond, member of Parliament for Waterford, the leader of the Parnellite party, arrived here yesterday on the White Star Line steamer Teutonic, and was met at Quarantine by Edward O'Flaherty, the chairman of the Committee of Irish Societies that has been appointed to make the visit of the noted leader an enjoyable one.

The ship had an unusually rough trip, but Mr. Redmond, who is a good sailor, never missed a meal, and arrived looking a great deal better than when he was here last year. He intends to spend but twelve or fourteen days this time, during which time he will deliver lectures, taking for a subject the historical questions of 1798, a date famous in Irish history. The first of these lectures will be given at the Broadway Theatre next Sunday evening, the second at Boston on Jan. 16, and a third two days later at New Haven.

In addition to the lectures another object of his visit is to lend zest to the proposed pilgrimage to Ireland from this country in July under the auspices of the '98 Centennial Association.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Hall's Family Pills are the best.

Peter Brokaw, of this city, has been visiting at Centreville.

Mr. and Mrs. Horace Huff, of Coddington avenue, were the guests of relatives in Centreville the first of the week.

"My daughter, when recovering from an attack of fever, was a great sufferer from pain in the back and hips," writes Louden Grover, of Sardis, Ky. "After using quite a number of remedies without any benefit she tried one bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm, and it has given entire relief." Chamberlain's Pain Balm is also a certain cure for rheumatism. Sold by T. S. Armstrong, apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

Miss Fannie Williams, of North Branch, has been visiting in Plainfield.

Persons who are troubled with indigestion will be interested in the experience of Wm. H. Penn, chief clerk, in the railway mail service at Des Moines, Iowa, who writes: "It gives me pleasure to testify to the merits of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy. For two years I have suffered from indigestion, and am subject to frequent severe attacks of pain in the stomach and bowels. One or two doses of this remedy never fails to give perfect relief." Price 25 and 50 cents; sold by T. S. Armstrong, apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

—The regular meeting of the Somerset County Board of Freeholders will be held in Somerville Tuesday afternoon.

The progressive ladies of Westfield, Ind., issued a "Woman's Edition" of the Westfield News, bearing date of April 3d, 1896. The paper is filled with matter of interest to women, and we notice the following from a correspondent, which the editors printed, realizing that it treats upon a matter of vital importance to their sex: "The best remedy for croup, colds and bronchitis that I have been able to find is Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. For family use it has no equal. I gladly recommend it." 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by T. S. Armstrong apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

—The recently-elected officers of Perseverance Lodge, Knights of Pythias, will be installed at the meeting this evening.

Mothers whose children are troubled with bad colds, croup or whooping-cough will do well to read what Dr. R. R. Robey, of Olney, Mo., says on this subject, He writes: "For years we have used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, and always keep it in the house. It is regarded in our family as a specific for all kinds of colds and coughs." The 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by T. S. Armstrong, apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

DURRANT HANGED AT LAST.

Pays the Penalty of His Terrible Crime on the Scaffold.

San Francisco, Jan. 7.—Theodore Durrant, the murderer of Blanche Lamont and Minnie Williams, was hanged at 10:30 this morning, after the most remarkable fight for life in the history of California.

Nearly 200 persons witnessed the hanging. Before Durrant was brought into the death chamber Warden Hale made a speech to the assembled crowd, demanding absolute silence and order during the execution.

Durrant's father has not decided what disposition he will make of the body. Owing to the fact that some of the cemetery associations refuse to receive it on account of the notoriety that would result, the elder Durrant threatens to bury the body under the broad waters of the Pacific Ocean. Friends are trying to induce the parents to have the body cremated.

Yesterday afternoon every barrier that had kept him from the gallows so long was swept away.

Gov. Budd, to whom a last appeal had been made by the attorneys for the young murderer, announced that he would not interfere in the case, and that the law must take its course.

In Washington an attorney for Durrant made a forlorn appeal to Justice Brewer, of the United States Supreme Court, to interfere and grant a stay in the proceedings, but Justice Brewer, after looking into the subject thoroughly, announced that he could not act. This sealed the murderer's doom.

EXPRESS COMPANY ROBBE

Clerk Has Disappeared with $10,582 in Cash and Bonds.

New York, Jan. 7.—The sum of $5,582 and five $1,000 bonds of the Consumers' Gas Company of Chicago were stolen from the American Express Company yesterday morning. A clerk in the employ of the express company is accused of the theft.

The bonds and money were stolen from a branch office of the company at Forty-seventh street and Madison avenue. The theft was first discovered when a messenger went from the Grand Central station to the office yesterday morning to get the packages which were to go out on the early trains.

He arrived at the branch office at 6 o'clock and, to his surprise, found the doors standing wide open. No one was in the place. The messenger investigated and found that the doors of the safe were also open. He then reported the facts to General Manager Julier, who, upon examining the safe, found that the five bonds and the money were gone.

Mr. Julier also thinks that securities valued at $1,500 were taken. The clerk had been in the employ of the company for several years. So efficient was his work and so trustworthy was he considered that the officers of the company sent him up to the branch office on Madison avenue to take charge as night clerk three days ago because the regular night clerk was sick. Both the police and private detective agencies have been notified of the theft, but as yet no clew to the whereabouts of the missing clerk has been obtained.

Contest for Interstate Commissioner

Washington, Jan. 7.—The contest for Interstate Commerce Commissioner is still on. Senators Quay and Penrose and others of the Pennsylvania delegation are working earnestly for Judge Paxson, and despite the opposition of the laboring element are hopeful of securing his nomination. The Illinois people seem to be a litle disconcerted and it is asserted that Littler has withdrawn from the race. There are several Illinois men in the field, among them being Judge Pickney, of Peoria; W. J. Calhoun, of Danville, and George A. Lawrence, of Galesburg. Others in the contest for the appointment are S. C. Hedges, of Mansfield, O.; D. K. Watson, of Ohio, and G. M. Lembertson, of Lincoln, Neb.

COMING EVENTS.

January 9—G. M Rittenhouse will speak and Charles L. Lewis will sing at the Y. M. C. A. meeting at 4:15 p. m.

AN EXPLANATION NEEDED.

This evening the first meeting of the fire committee of the Common Council will be held. Nobody knows what plans the committee will favor. All interested in the fire department are anxious to learn what action will be taken on the recommendations of the Mayor in his annual message. Some of his suggestions were timely and deserve the attention of the committee at once. There is considerable talk as a result of the Mayor's suggestion that the horses of the fire department be used for street sprinkling purposes. There seems to be some doubt as to exactly the method the Mayor favors and how his proposition is intended to work. The officials of the department are much opposed to the plan in any form and declare that it has been tried before and its inefficiency proved. The advocates of the scheme explain that the Mayor meant to use the horses only in the business section of the city around the headquarters. As all the apparatus never goes out for the first alarm, they say that by only using one team for street sprinkling, there would always be enough horses in the headquarters to take the apparatus that answers the first alarm. A more complete explanation by the Mayor of his proposed scheme might help to straighten out the difficulty.

WATCHED WITH INTEREST.

There is no portion of the municipal machinery of Plainfield that is watched with greater interest than the street department. Since the message of Mayor Fisk was received, containing as it did such startling recommendations to the street committee, the plan of campaign of that committee has been the topic of much conjecture. The members of the committee have been approached regarding their plans but they have had little to say. Their work for the coming year, they explain, will depend largely on their appropriation and it will be impossible to outline the work until the amount of the appropriation is learned. Nevertheless, the first meeting of the committee for organization, which will be held next Tuesday evening, is awaited with much eagerness.

THE POLICE DEPARTMENT.

Mayor Fisk found very little to criticize in the police department. The Press is able to state with authority that the new police board will make no radical changes in the department this year. The members of the board consider that the policy of lasts year's board was satisfactory and will need little if any change. There will be several changes in the personel of the force, however, for the board considers that several officers need dicipline. One will loose his badge and another may be suspended for a period. It is probable that Chief Grant will retain his position at the head of the force.

The building and loan associations of New Jersey continue to promote industry and economy, and to give that substantial satisfaction which has resulted from them ever since they were organized. The bureau of labor and statistics reports that there are 318 building and loan associations in New Jersey, with about 116,000 shareholders, and the capital represented is $44,500,000.—Elizabeth Journal.

The Next University Lecture.

The next lecture in the University Extension Course will be delivered Monday evening of next week, instead of Tuesday, as was stated in The Daily Press of Wednesday night. The lecture will be given by Professor Sumner, of Yale University. The change of date is on account of the second concert of the New York Philharmonic Club, which will take place Tuesday evening.

To Visit the Home.

Today the new alms committee from the City Council will visit the Industrial Home in company with W. A. Westphal, former Councilman and chairman of that committee.

A NEW POSTAGE STAMP.

Commemorative of the Holding of the Trans-Mississippi Exposition.

For the third time in the history of the Nation, in recognition of the importance of a brilliant enterprise, Postmaster General Gary has decided to order a series of special postage stamps, commemorative of the holding of the Trans-Mississippi and International Exposition at Omaha in 1898. The stamps will be issued in denominations of 1 cent, 2 cent, 5 cent, 10 cent and $1, making it possible for the public to use these stamps on all outgoing foreign as well as domestic mail matter and packets of merchandise.

In issuing these special stamps it is not designed by the Postmaster-General to withdraw from sale the current series as was the case during the World's Fair.

The new issue of special stamps will be of marked artistic order in design, symbolical of the great Trans-Mississippi region and its tributaries. The designs contemplate portraits of distinguished persons identified with the country, appropriate historical events as illustrated by existing paintings or engravings.

The stamps will be different in color from the regular series. In shape they will resemble the Columbian stamp issued in commemoration of the World's Fair. The new ones will be twice the size of the present postage stamp.

THEATRICAL.

Lincoln Carter's new play, "The Heart of Chicago," which will be seen at Music Hall tonight, is replete with graphic scenes of the great western metropolis, with its many incidents both pathetic and laughable. Act one takes place in the office of two partners during the great fire that nearly destroyed that city. Then the scenes of the drama change to twenty years later. One of the most realistic scenes is that of a drawbridge, and attempts to wreck a fast train by sending it through an open drawbridge. Just as it seems that the fatal train is to be wrecked, the heroine appears and sets the signals at "danger," and the train comes to a stop within a few feet of the open draw. The scenery is beautiful and in abundance. The vivid picture of the great fire, the Court of Honor, a reproduction of the great feature of the World's Fair, and a bird's eye view of Chicago, looking south from the roof-garden of the Masonic Temple, are three of the splendid stage pictures.

—There will be special services at Warren chapel Sunday afternoon.

The Westfield Italian mission held its Christmas exercises in the mission building on Prospect street last night. The attendance of Italians was very large, and the exercises consisted of singing, recitations, an address by the pastor and the distribution of presents. The work was started by the W. C. T. U.

Much comment is being caused in Westfield over the financial complications of the school trustees. It is an open secret that through some oversight on the part of the district clerk in keeping track of the amount of money expended, the Board has already been led to expend more money than was permissable, and the indications are that when the school year is ended it will have exceeded its annual appropriation by several hundreds of dollars. Since this fact became apparent an effort has been made by the trustees to devise a way out of the difficulty. All attempts in this line have failed, however, and investigation has revealed the fact that the trustees are expressly forbidden by the law to exceed the annual appropriation of monies made for school purposes by the voters of the township. The demoralized condition of the finances is thought to explain the unwillingness of the district clerk to issue the customary financial statement for the use of the trustees in making up their annual budget for the school meeting in March. A request for the report was made by a member at the meeting this week and the clerk stated that it would not be issued.

INTERNATIONAL SERIES, WITH COMMENTARY BY DR. STEARNS.

Golden Text—For in that he himself hath suffered being tempted, he is able to succor them that are tempted.—Heb. ii: 18. Jan. 7, 1898.

1. "Then was Jesus led up of the Spirit into the wilderness, to be tempted of the devil." From the beginning to the end He was under the guidance and control of the Holy Spirit most fully. The Father having testified to the fact that He was His beloved, well pleasing Son, the Spirit now leads Him into this great conflict with the devil, at the very beginning of His public work, that He may meet the adversary face to face and overcome him. And now, in that He himself hath suffered, being tempted, He is able to succor them that are tempted (Heb. ii., 18).

2. "And when He had fasted forty days and forty nights, He was afterward an hungered." Luke iv., 2, says, "in those days He did eat nothing." This was not a new thing on the earth, for Moses passed through it twice, and Elijah once (Deut. ix., 9, 18; I. Kings xix., 8). On the Mount of Transfiguration we find the three who fasted forty days. There must be some wondrous significance connected with it which we have not yet had revealed to us. In Mark xi., 12, we read of another occasion on which He was hungry, and one of His last utterances on the cross was, "I thirst" (John xix., 28), but what an awful thirst that must have been!

3. "And when the tempter came to Him he said, If thou be the Son of God, command that these stones be made bread." God had testified, "This is My Beloved Son," but the devil questions it to His face, with this "if." As in the garden of Eden he questions the word of God with his "Yea, hath God said" (Gen. iii., 1), and has ever since been doing the same thing, so he does not hesitate to face the Son of God Himself with his devilish doubts. Think it not strange then if he oft approaches you in this way, but receive not his doubts; it is better not to listen to him.

4. "But He answered and said, It is written, man shall not live by bread alone, but by every word that proceedeth out of the mouth of God." Not the gratification of our desires, but the will of God, is the great thing. Just as in our words we show our loved ones our hearts, so God in His word has given us His heart for us, and God is love. Shall we be satisfied with His heart and His way and thus live on His word, or shall we insist on having all things minister to our comfort at all costs?

5. "Then the devil taketh Him up into the Holy City and setteth Him on a pinnacle of the temple." Up to Jerusalem, the city of the great king (chapter v., 35). Do not stop to ask how, but simply believe and consider the temptation and the victory, and ask the Spirit to apply it to your own soul. The wilderness, and the hunger, and the stones suggest the hard and lonely and commonplace things in daily life, but the Holy City, the temple and a pinnacle thereof suggest holy things and the heights thereof not so common, but far more dangerous ground because more holy.

6. "And saith unto His, If Thou be the Son of God, cast Thyself down, for it is written, He shall give His angels charge concerning Thee and in their hands they shall bear thee up, lest at any time Thou dash Thy foot against a stone." The devil can quote Scripture, and sometimes quite freely and at great length, but never to glorify God nor to help a soul to know Him. He always perverts it with the purpose of working ruin. The man who thinks that because he is a child of God and controlled by the Spirit therefore he cannot sin, nor even make a mistake, is on a pinnacle of the temple listening to the devil. He would do well to consider these words, "If a man think himself to be something when he is nothing, he deceiveth himself."

7. "Jesus said unto him, It is written again, Thou shalt not tempt the Lord thy God." Scripture never contradicts Scripture, but explains it and instructs us how to avert its abuse. Jesus quoted it from the heart to the glory of God, believing every word, but the devil uses it only wickedly. We may be said to tempt God when we make a self-willed demand for His help, or in any way claim His promises for selfish ends. Our Lord lived that the Father might be glorified, and taught us that when we are willing to live thus we can ask what we will and receive it.

8. "Again the devil taketh Him up into an exceeding high mountain, and sheweth Him all the kingdoms of the world, and the glory of them." The first temptation was to satisfy His physical need, to satisfy Himself, on the ground that He was entitled to it; the second was to show Himself, and what a great one He was; the third was to accept the world without the way of the cross. The prince of this world offers it simply on condition that it be accepted as from him and that he be thanked for it.

9. "And saith unto Him, All these things will I give unto Thee if Thou wilt fall down and worship me." The time will come when the antichrist, the man of sin, the beast of Rev. xiii., will accept this offer of satan and for a brief period will do wondrously, but, oh, how brief his dominion, how fearful his fall and how awful his eternal doom, the lake of fire and brimstone forever! (Rev. xix., 29).

10. "Then saith Jesus unto him, Get thee hence, satan, for it is written, Thou shalt worship the Lord thy God, and Him only shalt thou serve." "True worshipers worship the Father in spirit and in truth, for the Father seeketh such to worship Him. God is a Spirit, and they that worship Him must worship Him in spirit and in truth" (John iv., 23, 24). The word of God is the only guide, the Holy Spirit the only teacher, the Lord Jesus the only way to God the Father; so as to worship in spirit and in truth means that in all things Jesus is acknowledged as Lord to the glory of God the Father.

11. "Then the devil leaveth Him, and behold angels came and ministered unto Him." Luke iv., 13, says that the devil departed from Him for a season. How thankful we should be that our Lord did not conquer satan in what we might call a miraculous way, but in such a way as He will through us conquer him also. He has left us His sword, the Word of God, and we are told in Eph. vi., 16, 17, that these, the shield of faith and the sword of the Spirit, will surely overcome the adversary.

1897's Crowning

Furniture and Carpet Event

—such success has met this sale that it's "still on." Greater reserve Holiday stocks than we'd supposed lets you do amazingly close buying from practically complete lines. Never made such wide, deep-down price-cuts in all our history! Every part of Furniture and Carpet stock included.

Fancy Chairs

98c THIS REED ROCKER

We repeat former statements—NO fancy chair stock compares with this—it's simply phenomenal! Every covering, wood, shape—now ridiculously small prices are made to give this sale a flavor—note the 98c. special!

The Stove Department's Lively too

—the cream of the stove demand has stopped. Must get the range, parlor and heating stove lines thinned out while cold weather does last. Prices are cut to the quick. We've only reliable bakers and economical burners. And in oil and gasolene heaters there's an endless lot. Same with parlor stoves, from the smallest to greatest—all new in style, put at wholesale figures! The famous "Portland" alone is not reduced—can't get enough of them to supply actual needs.

Drop a postal, or look in daily papers for news of the amazing reductions made in the Carpet Dept. Wish we had space to tell of them here.

FOR CURRENCY REFORM

Monetary Commission Bill Introduced in the House.

ITS BANKING PROVISIONS

Referred to the Banking and Currency Committee, Before Which a Hearing Will Be Given to Ex-Senator Edmunds.

Washington, Jan. 7.—Representative Overstreet, of Indiana, introduced in the House yesterday a comprehensive bill for carrying out the plan of the Monetary Commission. The bill was referred by Speaker Reed to the Committee on Banking, and Chairman Walker has arranged to give early hearings to ex-Senator Edmunds, the chairman of the Commission, and perhaps to other members. The bill contains forty-seven sections, and embodies in legislative form every feature of the recommendations of the Commission. The earlier portion, relating to the maintenance of the gold standard, the creation of the Bureau of Issue and Redemption, and the gradual retirement of legal-tender notes, are embodied in the bill in almost the same language as in the report.

Banking Features.

The banking features are more elaborate and carefully define the character of the guaranty fund for the protection of the notes issued upon assets and the manner of redeeming the notes of failed banks. The section dealing with the guaranty fund is as follows:

"Section 20. That every national banking association shall at all times keep and have on deposit with the Division of Issue and Redemption, for the purpose herinafter specified, a sum in gold coin equal to 5 per centum of its outstanding circulation. The amounts so kept on deposit shall constitute a fund to be known as 'The Bank Note Guaranty Fund,' which fund shall be held for the following purpose, and for no other, namely:

"Whenever the Comptroller of the Currency shall have become satisfied by the protest of the waiver and admission specified in Section 5,226, or by the report provided for in Section 5,227 of the Revised Statutes of the United States, that any association has refused to pay its circulating notes on demand in lawful money, he shall direct the redemption of such notes from the bank note guaranty fund aforesaid, and such notes shall thereupon be so redeemed. After the failure of any national banking association to redeem its notes shall have been thus ascertained, the bonds deposited with the Treasurer of the United States shall be sold, as provided by law, and the proceeds of such sale shall be paid into the bank note guaranty fund. The Comptroller of the Currency shall forthwith collect, for the benefit of the fund, from the assets of the bank and from stockholders thereof according to their liabilities, as declared by this act, such sum as with the bank's balance in the bank note guaranty fund shall equal the amount of its circulating notes outstanding. And for this purpose the United States shall, on behalf of the bank note guaranty fund, have a paramount lien upon all the assets of the association; and such fund shall be made good out of such assets in preference to any and all other claims whatsoever, except the necessary costs and expenses of administering the same."

The next section of the bill provides "that whenever the Comptroller of the Currency shall ascertain what deficiency, if any, exists between the aggregate collections for the benefit of the bank note security fund in the case of any failed bank and the amount of its outstanding notes, redeemed and to be redeemed from the said fund, he shall assess such deficiency upon all the national banks in proportion to their notes outstanding at the time of the failure of such bank."

Tax Assessment.

The provision for the assessment of the tax upon the circulation above the authorized limit is as follows:

"Section 25. That every national banking association shall pay, on or before the last day of every month, to the division of issue and redemption, a duty imposed at the rate of 2 per centum per annum upon the average daily amount of its circulating notes outstanding in excess of 60 per centum of its capital stock, and not in excess of 80 per centum of such capital stock, and a duty imposed at the rate of 60 per centum per annum upon the average daily amount of such notes outstanding in excess of 80 per centum of its capital stock. Circulating notes of any national banking association shall be deemed and held to be outstanding whenever they shall have been supplied by the Comptroller of the Currency to such association in blank, registered and countersigned according to law, and shall have been returned to the Comptroller for cancellation or covered by an equal amount of lawful money deposited with the Assistant Treasurer in charge of the division for issue and redemption for the retirement of such notes."

The present restrictions upon the amount of circulation which may be withdrawn monthly, and also upon new issues of bank notes by banks having made withdrawals within six months, are repealed.

Section 34 of the bill provides for redemption of notes in multiples of $1,000 in lawful money, upon the presentation at the Treasury or Sub-treasuries designated for redeption purposes, but it is provided that "nothing in this act shall be constructed to impose upon the United States any liability for the redemption of the notes of any national banking association beyond the proper application of the redemption and guaranty funds deposited with the Division of Issue and Redemption, and the enforcement of the remedies by this act provided."

The Reserve.

Section 35 contains the provision that one-fourth of the reserve shall be held in coin, with the specific mandate "that nothing in this section except as expressly provided shall be construed to alter or in any way affect the provisions of existing law governing the maintenance of reserves."

Section 37 authorizes the establishment of banks with a capital of $25,000 in towns not exceeding 4,000 inhabitants, and section 38 declares, "that it shall be lawful for any national banking association to establish branches under such rules and regulations as may be prescribed by the Comptroller of the Currency, with the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury."

Section 41 provides for at least two examinations of national banks each year, for the rotation of examiners, and for fixed salaries for examiners. The amount of the salaries is to be collected by assessments upon the banks.

Provision is made for the entry of State banks into the new system, Section 45 reading:

"Any bank or banking association incorporated by special law of any State, or organized under the general laws of any State, and having a paid-up and unimpaired capital sufficient to entitle it to become a national banking association under the provisions of the proposed act, may, by the consent in writing of the shareholders owning not less than two-thirds of the capital stock of such bank or banking association, and with the approval of the Comptroller of the Currency become a national bank under this system, under its former name or by any name approved by the Comptroller of the Currency. The directors thereof may continue to be the directors of the association so organized until others are elected or appointed, in accordance with the provisions of the law. When the Comptroller of the Currency has given to such bank or banking association a certificate that the provisions of this act have been complied with, such bank or banking association and all its stockholders, officers and employes shall have the same powers and privileges, and shall be subject to the same duties, liabilities and regulations, in all respects, as shall have been prescribed for associations originally organized as national banking associations under the proposed act."

REPRESENTATIVE CLARK'S PLANS.

A New Monetary Bill Making the Gold Dollar the Unit of Value.

Washington, Jan. 7.—Representative Clark, of Iowa, introduced a bill making the gold dollar the sole unit of value, directing every national bank to redeem its notes in dollars of such value, restricting the denominations of Treasury or national bank notes to $10 or its multiples, those outstanding of less denominations being called in and reissued in such denominations.

Silver certificates are to be called in and standard silver dollars given in exchange and certificates destroyed, while after July 1, 1900, the Treasury is to refuse all such certificates as payment of public dues. The national bank acts are amended for charter banks, with a paid-up capital stock of $20,000, which may issue currency to the amount of the face of the secruties they deposit with the Government and the tax on circulation to be one-half of one per cent., payable annually in January.

RICH MAN SHOOTS HIMSELF.

William T. Buckley Dies of Self-Inflicted Wounds.

New York, Jan. 7.—William T. Buckley, a member of the firm of Dunham, Buckley & Co., the large dry goods firm of 340 Broadway, this city, shot himself in the head at his home in Wave Crest, Far Rockaway, yesterday. All the circumstances surrounding the case indicate that the shooting was done with suicidal intend. Mr. Buckley had been home from business for the past three or four days suffering from a severe cold.

At about 8 a. m. a pistol shot was heard in Mr. Buckley's room, and on some of the inmates going there, they found Mr. Buckley bleeding from a bullet wound in the head. He was breathing heavily and soon became unconscious. He died at about 9 o'clock without regaining consciousness.

The Buckley residence is one of the largest and handsomest in that fashionable resort known as Wave Crest. The family consisted of Mr. Buckley, Mrs. Buckley, and a son, Townsend Buckley, who is a student in Princeton University. The son is at home on his vacation.

Mr. Buckley was about 55 years of age and was not only well known in New York business circles, but also among the clubmen. He was a prominent member of the Cedarhurst Hunt Club and other organizations. His stable is one of the finest and most costly on Long Island.

The members of the family are shocked over the tragic affair, and they are reticent about giving information as to the cause of the shooting. It is said that Mr. Buckley has been despondent for some time past, but this did not prevent him from attending to business up to a few days ago. It is not known whether it was business trouble or ill health which caused him to become depressed.

Mr. Buckley was reputed to be a millionaire, and until a few days ago was an active member of the firm of Dunham, Buckley & Co.

Currency Hearing Arranged.

Washington, Jan. 7.—The House Committee on Banking and Currency has made arrangements to hear representatives of the Indianapolis Monetary Commission on Jan. 12 relative to the bill for currency reform prepared by that body. Those to appear will be Judge Edmunds, representing the commission, and also representing the North and East; Judge R. S. Taylor, of Terre Haute, Ind.; representing the Middle West; J. W. Frees of Salem, N. C., representing the gold Democratic sentiment of the South, and ex-Secretary Fairchild, of New York.

Blackballs for American Consul.

Montreal, Jan. 7.—United States Consul-General Bittinger was blackballed last night by the St. James Club, the leading social organization of the city, which numbers among its members the present and past Governors General of Canada, many prominent Canadians and the principal citizens of Montreal. It is said that no less than fifty blackballs were cast against the election of the representative of the United States Government in this section of Canada.

Mr. Woodford's Banquet.

Madrid, Jan. 7.—Gen. Stewart L. Woodford, the United States Minister, is preparing to entertain the diplomatic corps at banquet upon the occasion of the arrival here of M. Jules Patenotre, the new French Ambassador to Spain, who was formerly French Ambassador at Washington

"BRICKS WITHOUT STRAW."

Do you ever ask yourself why you keep chickens?

Is it for pleasure? If so, would not a little profit add to the pride and pleasu e?

Possibly it is because you wish to be sure of absolutely fresh eggs on your table. If so, would you not prefer to get the eggs during the winter rather than in the spring, "when everybody's eggs are fresh?"

We can make bricks in these days without straw, but no one can make hens lay eggs in the winter months unless he supplies special foods and care.

We aim to carry in our different stores everything that is necessary for the "Business Hen'—that is, the hen that pays for her board—and we would be pleased to hear from either large or small poultry raisers.

Among other things we would suggest:

Granulated Charcoal,	Poultry Feed,
Ground Oyster Shells,	Buckwheat Grain,
Chicken & Pigeon Grit,	Barley,
Granulated Bone,	Hemp Seed,
Meat Meal,	Millet Seed,
Clover Heads,	Sheridan's Powder.

HOSPITAL TOMMY GONE

DIED LAST NIGHT AFTER TWENTY YEARS AT THE HOSPITAL.

Thomas Fitzgerald, the Kind-Hearted Old Engineer, Was a Great Favorite With All Who Knew Him—Sketch of His Life.

During the past twenty years no person has entered Muhlenberg Hospital that has not in some way heard of the kind-hearted Thomas Fitzgerald, familiarly known as "Tommy." When his death was reported this morning, there was a host of friends and acquaintances that were greatly shocked and grieved at the news.

"Tommy" was admitted to the hospital nearly twenty years ago as a patient, and ever since he has served as an employe, working faithfully as long as he was able. Early in his career he worked at the Elizabethport shops of the Central Railroad, under the late Samuel M. Moore, who was master mechanic of the road at the time. John O. Stevens was superintendent of the road at the same time. Later "Tommy" took the position of fireman on the Central Railroad, working in that capacity on the engines "Clinton" and "Easton," wood burners.

In 1852 he came to Plainfield and worked on a gravel train, under the late Stephen O. Horton, and was afterwards employed as a track-walker from Dunellen to Cranford. This position he held until his eyesight weakened, then he entered the hospital for treatment, and has been there ever since. He worked at the latter place as an engineer until his sight became so poor that he was hardly able to see. At the time of his death he was totally blind, in which condition he has been for several months past. Every comfort that could be given him was provided by the hospital attendants, and his death was peaceful and calm. So far as can be learned he leaves no relatives. Arrangements will be made today for his burial. He will be greatly missed by all at the hospital, and those who have been associated with the institution will also miss him. He was a great favorite among the members of the Woman's Auxiliary of the board of managers.

CHARGED WITH ASSAULT.

Kuhn Was Locked Up on This Side of the Brook.

John Kuhn, of Stiger's alley, was arrested by Patrolman McCarty today on a warrant issued by Recorder Thomas and endorsed in this city. The warrant was issued on the complaint of Michael Motley, of Manning avenue, who charges that Kuhn assaulted him last Wednesday in Hyde's woods. Last summer the two men had some trouble and the affair was never settled.

Motley's face shows some evidence that he received the worst of the scrimmage. The defendant was turned over to Chief Marshal Wilson who promptly locked the offender up until this morning, when he was taken before Recorder Thomas. Kuhn was given the choice of $10 or thirty days His mother promised to pay the fine for her son.

An Evening of Euchre.

CLOSED THE SCHOOLS.

THE APPEARANCE OF SCARLETINA IN SCOTCH PLAINS THE CAUSE.

The School Trustees Deemed It Safer to Close the Schools to Prevent Infection—The Disease is Now Under Control.

The village of Scotch Plains has been somewhat disturbed of late over the appearance of a light form of scarletina among the children of the place. There have been one or two cases of the disease in the place continually for several months, but no serious thought was given to the matter by the majority of the citizens until about two weeks ago, when the number of cases began to increase in rather alarming fashion.

When the Scotch Plains Public School was closed for the Christmas holidays it was announced by the trustees that the work of the different classes would be resumed last Monday. It was during the holiday week that the increase of the disease occurred, however, and the school trustees were petitioned not to reopen the school, as it was feared that the infection would spread more rapidly if the children were allowed to come together in the class rooms and the school playgrounds.

The trustees considered the matter and finally decided to keep the school closed for another week, at least, to see if the epidemic would not abate somewhat in that time. The school has accordingly remained closed.

The scarletina is fortunately not of a severe or malignant type, and the children who are suffering from it are nearly all able to be about their homes throughout the attack. The disease is now held in check, and there are not more than a dozen cases at most in the village. Among those who are now suffering with the scarletina are children in the households of Henry Guierre, Charles Messler, Edward Brandt and John Lines.

County Physician Westcott, when interviewed by a Daily Press reporter yesterday, confirmed the statements made above to the effect that the disease is of a very mild character, and that there is no danger of a serious epidemic. He stated that the school had not been closed by order of the Board of Health, but that the trustees had taken their action voluntarily, thinking it advisable for the health of the children of the village. He stated that the disease is fully under control.

The Fanwood Board of Health held a meeting last night and discussed the situation. It was decided that the present status of the disease in the township was not such as to cause serious alarm. It was the opinion of the Board that it would not be necessary to keep the public school closed after this week.

Red Domino Party.

Miss Eva Benton entertained a number of her friends in her rooms in the Babcock building last evening, with a "Red Domino" party. The guests were all attired as red dominoes for the first part of the evening. They afterwards unmasked and spent the rest of the evening in dancing. There were twenty-five young people present. The music was furnished by Miss Mabelle Force, of Watchung avenue.

STRUCK BY A TRAIN.

FARMER VOORHEES, OF OAK TREE, INSTANTLY KILLED

He Did Not See the Approaching Locomotive Until Too Late—The Remains Were Taken To South Plainfield.

A farmer named Richard Voorhees, living at Oak Tree, was struck by a train on the Lehigh Valley Railroad at that place this morning and instantly killed.

The accident occurred at about 9:25 o'clock. Voorhees was crossing the track at a place known as Kelley's crossing on his way to the house of a neighbor, where he was to work for the day.

As the unfortunate man stepped on the track a fast east-bound express train whirled around the curve. His attention was attracted by something happening near the crossing at the time and he did not see the approaching locomotive until it was upon him. He was struck and thrown several feet from the tracks. He was deaf and did not hear the train.

Several bystanders rushed to the assistance of the injured man, but life was gone when they reached the place where the body lay. The remains were taken to South Plainfield on the train. A. M. Runyon & Son, of this city were notified and took charge of the body.

Voorhees was a man about sixty years of age. He was in good circumstances, being the owner of a farm, on which he lived with his family.

Henry Placed Under Bonds.

George W. Henry, who was accused of assaulting his wife, as described in yesterday's Daily Press, was arrested last night by Constable Rockafellow and arraigned before Justice Mosher. After hearing the evidence in the case the Justice placed Henry under $100 bonds to keep the peace for three months.

Big Glass Trust Now.

Brighton, N. J., Jan. 7.—An English syndicate, it is learned, is hard at work forming a gigantic glass trust, and before the end of 1898, may own and operate every glass factory east of the Alleghenies. Options have been obtained and the alleged plan is to close all smaller concerns, while the scope of larger, more important factories is to be expanded. One firm alone is said to have refused absolutely to give the syndicate's agents any option on its plant.

Fitz Was Defeated.

Oshkosh, Wis., Jan. 7.—Oshkosh has a strong man, August Shane, a Dane fisherman, over six feet tall, and weighing over 300, who, while Fitzsimmons was here, challenged him to an arm-twisting contest. Fitz accepted. The two men clasped hands and braced their elbows upon the counter. At every trial the pugilist's hand was forced down to the counter. Fitz acknowledged his defeat and accepted it good-naturedly.

Delay for McKenna.

Washington, Jan. 7.—The Senate Judiciary Committee, to which the nomination of Attorney-General McKenna to the United States Supreme bench has been referred, will meet next Monday. The indications are that the McKenna nomination, on account of the protests that have been filed, will be laid aside until the nominations against which there are no protests have received attention. There is little probability that McKenna will be rejected.

BOROUGH SOLONS ARE ANXIOUS ABOUT SOMERSET STREET.

Senator Reed to Investigate the Street Railway Company's Share in the Expense —Other Borough Business at the Council.

The regular January meeting of the Borough Council, held last evening, was attended by Mayor Wilson and all of the members. As usual the session was called promptly at 8 o'clock.

The clerk's monthly financial report was presented as follows:

	Balance	Deficit
Borough	$ 1,857.51
Lights	1,693.67
Roads	384.34	$ 14.18
Fire		470.81
Poor
	$ 3,935.52	$ 484.99

Total balance $3,450.53; paid county and State $2 084 12; cash balance $1,366.41. Mr. Arnold also reported the collection of $252.60 from fines, etc.

The monthly report of Collector Spencer was read as follows, showing amount of money collected since last report: 1888, $21.10; 1889, $48 77; 1890, $98 61; 1891, $153 93; 1892, $173 65; 1893, $131 00; 1894, $115 15; 1895, $508 57; 1896, $140.64; 1897, from December to January 1st. $17.546 58; January 1st to date, $2,925.96. The following money was collected from township duplicates: 1885, $71.55; 1886, $50.33; 1887, $67.01; 1888, $529.08; 1889, $295.75.

The officers of West End Hose Company notified the Council that William Barry had been expelled from the company for non-payment of dues and fines.

Residents of Sycamore avenue asked for two electric lights to be located on that avenue between Green brook and Myrtle avenue.

Mr. Woolston, chairman of the street committee, stated that during the past month $134 60 was expended on streets, which work included cleaning streets, filling in, cleaning snow from walks, etc.

A discussion arose as to the difference in grades in the borough. This was accounted for by the fact that the borough streets had been surveyed by two different surveyors. Regarding the question as to who is to pay for the cleaning and keeping in repair of Somerset street, Mr. MacLaughlin moved that Counsel Reed investigate the same and give an opinion whether the street railway is to pay one-third of all work, or whether the company is to pay for the cleaning of the street as well as their share of keeping it in repair.

Mayor Wilson appointed James Baglin and Jacob Sneider as special marshals, and they were confirmed by the Council. The Mayor also appointed Andrew Love and L. E. Barkalew members of the Board of Health for a term of four years.

Mr. Love was appointed to succeed himself, and Mr. Barkalew was appointed to succeed Mr. Curtis, whose term has expired. The Council confirmed the appointments.

At this point some correspondence which had passed between W. J. Roome and George F. White regarding the question as to who is expected to open Sycamore avenue, was introduced by Mayor Wilson. It seems that Mr. Roome and Mr. White have had a misunderstanding regarding the work to be done on the street and the Council was appealed to for assistance. Mr. Reed, who is in a measure interested, made a few remarks on the subject, as did also Councilmen MacLaughlin, Woolston, and Former Mayor B. A. Hegeman, Jr., who is also interested. After much discussion on the matter it was finally referred to the street committee and they will report at a subsequent meeting.

The Mayor asked Counsel Reed concerning the laying of sidewalk in front of Mr. McFarland's property in the West End, and the former advised the latter to instruct the collector regarding the sale of property for the payment of the walk which has been laid.

Mr. MacLaughlin offered a resolution that a warrant for $17,190 19 be drawn to pay the State and county tax. This resolution was adopted, as was also another one offered by the same Councilman to the effect that the action of the street committee in laying a crosswalk at the corner of Somerset and Regent streets, be confirmed. The last resolution was somewhat unusual, but the members enjoyed the joke.

Mr. Woolston offered a resolution that a warrant for $800 be drawn to pay the interest on the $32 000 loan secured for the opening of Watchung avenue, and due Feb. 7th. Another resolution by Mr. Woolston provided that when the Council is in funds crosswalks be laid on Chatham street, Manning avenue, Race street and Brook avenue.

There being no further business to come before the Council the members went into executive session at the suggestion of Mr. Rogers.

RIGHTEOUSNESS VS. SIN

THE CHOICE MUST BE MADE, SAID REV. MR. WILDING.

The Closing Service of the First Anniversary Celebration at Monroe Avenue M. E. Church Held Last Evening.

The celebration of the first anniversary of the Monroe Avenue M. E church has ended. The last service was held in the church last night The audience was a very large one, filling all the available seats. The meeting was conducted by the pastor, Rev. W. C. O'Donnell. Rev. George C. Wilding, of Jersey City, was the speaker of the evening. Augustus Rose, the "Pilgrim Singer," of Australia, was in charge of the music and sang several solos. At the close of the meeting he repeated "The Holy City," by request.

Rev. Mr. Wilding was a convincing speaker. He interested his hearers at once and held their attention. His text was from the 15th verse of the 24th chapter of Joshua, "Choose ye this day whom ye shall serve." The speaker made two statements: Service of God is a matter of choice; choice of God is a matter of service. In regard to the choice, he said that it was utterly free.

The only pressure was made by the Devil, who made sin as attractive and enchanting as possible in the beginning. To choose rightly, he explained, it is only necessary to have a full knowledge of righteousness and sin and what each brings. Everybody will have to choose. The three things entering into choice were investigation, decision and action. Without the last it was of no use. There were many, he said, who believed that the path of Christ was the best but they did not take it. Hell is paved with good intentions

The choice of God is a matter of service. Many people had the idea, he continued, that all that is necessary for them was to indorse the church of God. They must give unwavering obedience to the commands and not stop to debate them. They must study the wishes of the Master and anticipate them.

He spoke of the necessity of making the choice at once. Sin is deceitful, it is hardening, it is unsatisfying and it grows by increasing indulgence. Then life is uncertain. There is an antagonism against righteousness on all sides. All these things combine, he said, to make it necessary to choose at once.

An impressive service followed in which all who had not decided for Christ were asked to take the important step.

WANTED $3,000; GOT $1

END OF A DISPUTE IN COURT BETWEEN TWO JEHUS.

John Keely Awarded a Nominal Sum and Will Have to Pay the Costs of Prosecution Against William Callahan, the Defendant.

The famous quarrel which occurred between John Keely and William Callahan, two hackmen, in this city February 14th of last year, was exploited in the Supreme Court at Elizabeth yesterday and a verdict of one dollar was rendered for the plaintiff.

The history of the case is a long and interesting one. The quarrel occurred at the Central Railway station as the 6:20 train from New York arrived here. The wagon of Keely was said to have collided with Callahan's horse as a passenger was being assisted into Callahan's cab. The defendant asserted that this was done intentionally, and that it was one of a series of similar indignities which he has suffered at the hands of Keely.

The story of Keely was to the affect that the defendant had viciously assaulted him on the evening in question and that he had given no provocation whatever for the attack, except that he had gotten into a position next to the curb, where the defendant wished to station his hack.

The case was cited for the October term of court, last year, but on motion of the plaintiff it was allowed to go over until the present term. It came up for final trial at Elizabeth yesterday before Judge Magie and a jury of twelve men. Several witnesses were called on both sides, and everything rested upon the attempts of the parties to prove that the other side was the aggressor.

The case was given to the jury at 2:30 o'clock, and after being out fifteen minutes they returned with a verdict for the plaintiff for one dollar

The verdict was a substantial victory for the defendant, as by it the costs are thrown upon the plaintiff, the statute in the case being to the effect that in cases of assault and battery in the Supreme Court, where the damages awarded are less than $50, the plaintiff can claim costs only to the amount of his verdict.

Keely sued for $3,000 damages.

S. S. Swackhamer, of Codington & Swackhamer, was the attorney for the plaintiff, and McNabb & Clark appeared for the defendant.

Entertained Friends.

Miss Libby Joseph, of Manning avenue, entertained a few friends at her home last Thursday. The entertainment consisted of a "Yankee Musical," and the guests had a delightful time in a novel way. Andrew Carpenter was present and played a number of musical selections and the guests were supposed to give the names of the selections. This feature caused much fun. Refreshments were served during the evening and it was a late hour when the happy young people retired for their homes. Miss Bessie Giles, Miss Mabel Moore, J. K. Arnold, Jr., and John Dilts won the prizes offered by the hostess for the guessing contest.

HE SERVED THE PAPERS.

PASQUELLE MACARONI OUTWITTED BY HIS FORMER EMPLOYE.

Epler Was First Turned Out of Macaroni's Saloon, and Then Arrested For Stealing Brick—Served in Court Room.

The troubles of Pasquelle Macaroni and John Verrette continue to multiply. Several days ago Verrette asked that a receiver be appointed for the firm of which they are the only members. The serving of the papers in the case yesterday was the signal for more trouble.

While part of Maraconi's capital is invested in the brick-making business, which is conducted by the firm, he also runs a saloon in Berkley Heights and it is there that he lives. To go back in the history of the firm several months, it will be remembered that the workmen struck for their pay several times.

On one occasion Oliver Epler was the ringleader. He has lately risen to the dignity of timekeeper and was a special adherent of Verrette's. Thus it came about that Epler was given the bill of complaint and order made by Vice-Chancellor Emory, to show cause why a receiver should not be appointed for the firm, to serve them on the dealer in bricks and liquors. The papers had to be served yesterday and Epler was particularly impressed with that fact by Wm. Newcorn, solicitor for Verrette.

Yesterday morning bright and early, Epler went to Macaroni's saloon and tried to serve the papers. He was promptly ejected from the place and told to keep away. The papers still remained in his pocket. Now Macaroni decided that the time had come for him to act. He harnessed his horse and hied himself away to Justice Kelley at Summit, before whom he swore out a warrant for the arrest of Epler on the charge of stealing brick.

A constable returned with Macaroni and before Epler was aware of it, he was en route to the Justice's office. There Macaroni appeared against him. Then Elper had a brilliant idea. He drew forth the papers and served them on his former employer before the latter realized what had happened The Justice was considerably impressed at the sight of Court of Chancery papers and decided that the case ought to be laid over for investigation. He set down the hearing in the case for Wednesday, the day after the hearing at the Court of Chancery.

FRANK BERGEN'S PLAN.

It Will Be Explained to Plainfield Citizens Tuesday Night.

The movers in the new Board of Trade are now completing their arrangements for the appearance of Frank Bergen in this city Tuesday evening, to explain his county trolley scheme. The meeting will be held in Music Hall and all citizens are invited to attend and hear what Mr. Bergen has to say in favor of a scheme which is attracting attention everywhere.

Mr. Bergen has appeared in every town along the route of his proposed improvement, with the single exception of this city, and he has accepted promptly the invitation to speak here, as he is under the impression that his ideas have been somewhat misunderstood in Plainfield.

Gifts For All.

A departure from the usual routine was inaugurated at the meeting of the Woman's Relief Corps held last evening. It was in the form of a Christmas tree and the best part of all was that every member, as well as the members of the G. A. R., present, received a gift from the tree. Some of the gifts were of an amusing character, while others were very useful. The tree was a beautiful one, and after it was illuminated the other lights in the room were extinguished making a pretty scene. Mrs. Cox acted as Santa Claus and she caused much fun for the members and their friends when she presented the gifts. After the Christmas tree festivities the committee in charge served refreshments to all.

Men's Meeting.

G. M. Rittenhouse will address the young men's meeting at the Y. M. C. A. at 4:15 p. m., Sunday. Charles L. Lewis will sing. There will also be a cornet solo. Good singing with cornet accompaniment. WORK IN ARABIA.

Mrs. Zwemer, a Returned Missionary, Told of the Needs in That Country.

The Young Women's Mission Band of Trinity Reformed church held a meeting in the lecture room of the church yesterday afternoon, at which there was an excellent attendance of members and their friends. Mrs. S. M. Zwemer, a returned missionary from Arabia, addressed the meeting, telling in a simple but touching manner of the degraded condition of womankind in that heathen land.

The speaker emphasized the need of more missionaries, stating that at the present time there are but two missionaries along the Persian Gulf for a distance of 800 miles. Mrs. Zwemer, with her husband, is stationed on the island of Bahren, and they are the only white people among 50,000 Arabs.

A contrast was drawn between Mohammedanism, the religion of the Arabs, and Christianity. The five cardinal points of the former religion were described as the creed, prayer, fasting, alms and the pilgrimage to Mecca. Mohammedanism does not produce holiness of life. Its disciples pray at certain hours of the day, always in public places, with their faces toward Mecca, with never a thought of their petitions being answered.

The fast of thirty days means that the Arabs abstain from food during the day, and at night indulge in riotous feasting. They exhibited a costume, which one of the girls donned, thus showing in effective manner the dress of the Arabian woman.

At the close of the lecture the band expressed its thanks to Mrs. Zwemer for her interesting talk, and prayers were offered for her success in the work in which she is engaged.

CHIEFTAINS RAISED UP

After the Installation Ceremonies the Chiefs, Braves and Guests Adjourned to the Banquet Hall—Speeches Followed.

The council fire burned brightly in the wigwam of the Miantonomoh Tribe of Red Men last evening. The braves gathered in large numbers, among them several from other tribes. The event of the evening was the raising up of the new chiefs who were chosen at the last council fire.

District Deputy Great Sachem Greichen was to be present, but as he could not come the work of raising up the chiefs was done by Great Sannap Wm. Newcorn, assisted by Past Sachems Allen, McGinnis, Leahy and Fulmer. The work was done in a proper manner and to the satisfaction of all.

The chiefs installed were: Prophet, Robert Siorah; sachem, Joseph Johnson; senior sagamore, Robert Hanglighter; junior sagamore, Joseph Green; keeper of records, Charles Holstein; collector of wampum, A. J. Stiglitz, keeper of wampum, William A. Westphal; trustee, three years, D. C. Allen; representative to great council, George McGinnis; alternate, M. Leahy.

The appointed chiefs were also installed as follows: First sannap, George McGinnis; second sannap, George Fulmer; first warrior; John Cashman; second warrior, David Thompson, third warrior, Michael Leahy; fourth warrior, Peter Krog; first brave, Harry Dreier; second brave, John Staats; third brave, J. R. Hartpence; fourth brave, George Houseman; guard of the wigwam, Frank Sowden; guard of the forest, N. C. Mague; trustee, David C. Allen.

An Interesting Paper.

The Christian Endeavor Society of the Seventh Day Baptist church held a monthly business meeting Wednesday evening. The annual appropriations for the tract and missionary societies were made. An appropriation was also made for the education of a girl from Alabama at Alfred University.

Ministers' Association Meeting.

The members of the Ministers' Association will be entertained Monday evening at the home of Rev. J. W. Richardson, who will read a paper.

NEW FIRE-ALARM BOXES

DECIDED ON AT FIRST MEETING OF FIRE COMMITTEE.

The Recommendations in Mayor Fisk's Message Were Informally Discussed, But No Action Was Taken on Them.

If anybody expected anything sensational to be done at the first meeting of the new Councilmanic fire committee last evening they were grieviously disappointed. It was the first meeting of the committee and they had to get acquainted before they took any action of the usual run of business. The committee is composed of Messrs. Runyon, Moffett and Newman, all of whom were present. Mr. Runyon is chairman. Of course there was an informal discussion of the recommendations of Mayor Fisk in his message, but no action was taken on any of them. Exactly what the ideas of the committee are in regard to the suggestions it is impossible to state, as they are reticent on the subject

The only business of importance was the location of two new fire alarm boxes to give better fire protection in the West End. In the western part of the Third ward the only alarm box is located at the corner of West Seventh street and Spooner avenue. It leaves a large territory unprotected. The committee decided in favor of locating a box at the corner of Sherman and Grant avenues. Another box will be located at the corner of West Front street and Rock avenue, for the protection of that section of the city.

SCHOOL FOR LANGUAGES.

Another Educational Institution to be Established in Plainfield.

The announcement is made that Miss Hellwig and Mr. Lacasse have formed a partnership in order to found a school of languages in this city. This institution is a timely one, as the interest in the study of foreign languages has been steadily increasing, owing to traveling and its demand in business. Every opportunity will be offered at the school to those wishing to study either privately or in classes. Evening classes will be organized at low rates.

A special feature of the school will be the social gatherings and circles for reading French and German classics, together with lectures.

Both the principals, assisted by Mme. Lacasse, will continue teaching at their respective schools, Miss Scribner and Miss Green's, the Plainfield French Kindergarten, of which Miss Hellwig is co-partner, and the New Jersey Military Academy, together with their private pupils and classes.

BEE TREE BURNED.

Percy Ohl Lost One at His Place on Park Avenue.

Quite a serious loss occurred to Percy Ohl, yesterday, at his home on Park avenue, when a valuable bee tree was almost destroyed by fire, causing the loss of about 200 pounds of honey. The fire was not discovered in time to save it. The honey was stored away in the tree, about forty feet from the ground. The hive was an extra large one, the space or hole occupied and filled, being over eight feet in length and ten inches in diameter. Bee trees are getting scarce in these parts, but Mr. Ohl has always been able to find one among his willows every year. He feels the loss of the bees more than he does that of the honey.

NEW ROAD-HOUSE

George Thatcher Has Secured License For One on Terrill Road.

George Thatcher, the well-known minstrel, decided some time ago to open a road-house at the corner of South avenue and Terrill road, just across the city line. He rented the place formerly conducted by John Benner, and remodeled and thoroughly renovated the house and grounds. This morning he made application at the Union County Court at Elizabeth for a hostelry license for the place, and his application was granted.

Like the Rest of Us.

The present condition of the police force of this city shows that policeman are subject to sickness the same as common people. Policemen Lunger and McCue are off duty today because of sickness, and Policeman Watson is just able to be out again after being laid up for several days.

Administrator Appointed.

J. Fred MacDonald, of East Front street, has been appointed administrator of the estate of Harry Williams, who was drowned while on his way to Portland, Me., some time ago. The estate amounts to several thousand dollars.

—There will be a regular meeting of Mizpah Lodge, U. O. of I. O. L., Monday evening.

ANTI-SCALPING BILL

George H. Daniels Argues for the Proposed Measure.

GREAT FRAUD EXPOSED

George W. Boyd, of the Pennsylvania Railroad, Also Gives Reasons Why the Law on the Subject Should Be Enacted.

Washington, Jan. 8.—The Anti-Scalping bill had a double hearing yesterday The Senate and House committees heard the railroad representatives alternately. In the Senate hearing, General Passenger Agent George H. Daniels, of the New York Central Railroad was heard first, and then George W Boyd, assistant general passenger agent of the Pennsylvania Railroad, gave his argument. In the House hearing Mr. Boyd was heard first and Mr. Daniels last. There were other speakers, including Paul Morton, of the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe, and A. M. Compton, of Chicago.

The hearing before the Senate was especially lively, and the railroad men were interrupted frequently by Senators Tillman and Chandler, who are opposed to the bill. At one time Senator Cullom, the chairman of the committee, had to call Senator Tillman to order, saying that he was making an argument against the bill, and was out of order. Senator Tillman replied that he had a right to question the witnesses in any way, as he desired. Mr. Daniels' testimony at times was startling in respect to the method of the scalpers.

Mr. Daniels said the railroad companies would not make any effort to reply to the ticket brokers, but for the fact that the represenations made by the ticket brokers were false. He represented, he said, not only the New York Central, but practically all the railroad lines of consequence in the country. He presented specimen forged tickets sold by brokers, which represented, according to his claim, a loss of at least fifty thousand dollars to the railroads east of Chicago. He also filed affidavits from thirty or more railroads as to how scalping was carried on; how the brokers induced conductors and others to steal tickets.

Methods of Fraud.

Senator Tillman asked how it was possible that tickets could be stolen without the immediate spotting of the thief.

Mr. Daniels explained that one plan was to approach brakemen, who handled for conductors the tickets of sleeping-car passengers during the night. The plan was to get the number of a pass and use this in the reports instead of tickets, which would be stolen and sold. He cited a case, saying that a brakeman on the Michigan Central had been approached by a broker and incited to this theft.

"Does the broker admit this?" asked Senator Chandler.

"No, sir," responded Mr. Daniels. "He lies about it."

Mr. Daniels said that passengers were generally in collusion with the ticket brokers, and he stated in reply to a question by Mr. Tillman that passengers would often, after getting aboard a train on a valid short-distance ticket, produce a fraudulent ticket and ride for an indefinite distance on it. They thus evade the gateman in the large cities. He said that the holes in tickets were often plugged, and he presented specimens of such tickets.

Mr. Daniels also presented an affidavit from Charles H. Wooley, now of Cincinnati, who stated that last Spring he was employed by a Chicago ticket brokerage firm, giving a detailed account of the method of manufacturing tickets. A favorite method was, he said, to prepare a skeleton ticket on a road which had no existence. Mr. Daniels said he had gotten this affidavit through a friend in Cincinnati, and that Wooley could be brought before the committee if necessary.

Senator Chandler asked where the discrimination came in, and Mr. Daniels replied that it was through the use of the fraudulent tickets, which were not redeemable. He explained that not all conductors, nor even all passenger agents knew the names of all roads, and in the strife for business all roads honored the tickets of other roads. He admitted, in response to a suggestion by Senator Cullom, that the custom was a reprehensible one. "It could not," he said, "occur in any other country, nor would the practice outlined be tolerated in any other country. Why, the Emperor of Germany would hang a man caught in such a practice and the Czar of Russia would send him to Siberia."

Explaining the use of these fraudulent tickets, he said it was the practice to issue them to a point beyond which when the traveler should reach his destination his ticket would not be taken up and the passenger could send it back to his ticket broker, thus preventing its ever going into the hands of the railroad official. He said that the opportunities for this species of fraud were especially good on the Western roads, where a coupon often covered from one thousand to two thousand miles. A favorite plan was to make tickets to passengers bound for San Francisco good to Los Angeles.

Mr. Boyd's Speech.

Mr. Boyd argued that railroad tickets were mere evidences of a contract between the purchaser and the railroad of an agreement to carry the passenger to a place of destination, and could no more be bought and sold than baggage checks. He said that the price of tickets was fixed by the railroads as low as possible consistent with a reasonable profit and that the offer of a broker to sell a ticket at less than the company's rate was evidence in itself of dishonesty.

Then the existence of scalping offices is, according to Mr. Boyd, an incentive to dishonesty on the part of railroad employes. He gave specific examples of fraud where the railroad employes had been arrested and convicted, but the scalpers, who were the real criminals, went unpunished. There was great need of prompt and effective legislation.

The Chinese Loan.

London, Jan. 8.—The Standard says it is now rumored that Great Britain will lend China £16,000,000 direct, without the issue of a guaranteed loan.

WOULD STOP PENSION BILLS.

A Senator Thinks the Remedy of Abuses Should Begin in that Way.

Washington, Jan. 8.—Senator Gallinger, chairman of the Senate Committee on Pensions, says that he has no intention of preparing a general pension reform bill. In an interview he said:

"No additional legislation would prevent a recurrence of the few frauds which have crept upon the pension roll, and the only other step remaining is the repeal of some of the present pension statutes. It is needless to say that it is hardly worth while to try to repeal any of the existing laws. The task would be futile. We can get at the matter by piecemeal.

"The indiscriminate passing of pension bills by Congress ought to be stopped. The introduction of these bills has become a national shame and a nuisance. Every person whose claim has been turned down at the Pension Bureau, no matter how excellent the reason, comes to Congress for special relief.

"Senators and Representatives bundle the bills of their constituents into the hopper and expect laws to be ground out without giving the least consideration to the merits or demerits of the case. The first thing, therefore, is to see that no pension bill passes Congress unless it is absolutely meritorious.

WAITE'S DAUGHTER TRIED SUICIDE.

Colorado's Ex-Governor Her Father —Never Lived with Him.

Washington, Jan. 8.—Miss Mary Waite, daughter of ex-Governor Waite, of Colorado, attempted to commit suicide yesterday afternoon by taking strychnine at the residence of her brother, an employe in the Government Printing Office. The young lady has melancholia, and this is her fourth attempt to kill herself within the past month, laudanum and chloral having been the drugs previously used. She was taken to the hospital, where she was soon placed out of danger.

Denver, Jan. 8.—Miss Mary Waite, who attempted suicide in Washington, was the second daughter and youngest child of ex-Governor Davis H. Waite by his first wife. She was the sister of Mrs. B. Clark Wheeler of Aspen, and when in Colorado always made her home with Mr. and Mrs. Wheeler. She never lived with her father after his second marriage, and even when he was Governor she never was seen at his home. She always was known as "May" among her friends in Aspen.

MONEY ORDER FRAUDS.

Government May Have Been Robbed of Millions of Dollars.

Washington, Jan. 8.—Auditor Castle, of the Postoffice Department, has discovered that there have been many frauds or mistakes in the money-order system, which has opened up the startling fact that it is possible that the Government has been robbed of millions of dollars.

Whether the Government has lost much money or not has not yet been ascertained, although enough cases have been discovered to show that if the Government has not been robbed of a large amount of money it has been due to the honesty of the officers in charge of the issuance of money orders and not to any precautions taken by the Government. The fault, according to Auditor Castle, is due to the bad system of checking accounts in vogue under the previous Administration.

Men Roasted and Eaten.

Paris, Jan. 8.—The Government has received information that the Bondjos have attacked the French Congo post at Yakole, and massacred the garrison, together with fifteen natives and four women. After slaughtering the soldiers, natives and women, the Bondjos roasted their bodies and ate them. The Bondjos secured a large quantity of booty, including 30,000 cartridges. The French Congo authorities are unable to punish the Bondjos, as troops are not available.

Weyler Hasn't Escaped.

Madrid, Jan. 8.—The Cabinet Council decided yesterday to submit Gen. Weyler's conduct, with reference to the protest against President McKinley's message and to other matters, to a fresh inquiry, under the direction of the general commanding the First Army Corps, Lieut.-Gen. Daban. There is a possibility that a Ministerial crisis may thus be averted.

A Tumor Formed

Finally It Broke Inwardly and Discharged

Trouble Began With Dyspepsia and Impure Blood

Thorough Course of Hood's Sarsaparilla Completely Cures.

There is danger in impure blood. Disease and suffering are surely coming to those who neglect this threatening symptom. Read this:

"Gilliam, Missouri.

"C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.:

"Gentlemen:—My troubles began with nervous headaches, which would last me for two or three days. The doctors pronounced my trouble dyspepsia, but they could not do anything for me, and advised a change of location. At the age of 55 a tumor formed on my spine, which but did not rise or discharge. The doctor thought best to cut it out, but I objected. It finally broke and discharged a great deal. The doctors said they could do nothing for it. Then the tumor began to rise inwardly and discharge. I read much about cures by Hood's Sarsaparilla and thought I would try it. Before I had finished taking one bottle I was much relieved. I continued the use of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and after taking 12 bottles I was entirely cured. I am now well, have a good appetite and feel that I owe my life to Hood's Sarsaparilla." W. D. FORE.

Was Very Painful

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Capsuloids.

Dr. Campbell's Wonderful Method of Restoring Natural Iron to the Blood, and Thus Curing Disease, Successfully Introduced in America.

Capsuloids, the great medicine which has cured thousands in London, England, and which is endorsed and prescribed by the most eminent English physicians, has come to America. It is not a patent or secret medicine. Capsuloids are little, soft pointed globes of pure gelatine filled with the only natural iron yet discovered. This iron is exactly the same as the iron in your blood when healthy, and is not like the iron in any pills or mixtures that you have ever taken. The well-known London physician, Dr. Campbell, found that iron medicine disagreed with almost every person, and after a series of experiments discovered that the iron in human blood, which is called Hæmoglobin, is identical with the iron in the blood of cows and bullocks. A means of extracting this natural iron or Hæmoglobin from the blood of healthy bullocks was discovered. It was re-dissolved, enclosed in a covering of pure gelatine in the form of a small pointed globe, known to physicians as Capsuloids. Many experiments made by Dr. Campbell and other London physicians demonstrated that when a Capsuloid was swallowed, the gelatine covering melted in a minute, and the dissolved iron or Hæmoglobin passed directly into the blood vessels, and within a few minutes was giving richness and color to the fluid of life, renewing the strength of all the nerves and tissues of the body.

Dr. Campbell's Red Blood Forming Capsuloids are sold by all leading druggists at 50 cents per large box, six boxes for $2.50, or sent direct at the same price from the office of The Capsuloid Company, Downing Building, 108 Fulton Street, New York City.

M'KENNA'S RECOMMENDATIONS.

His Reply to the Senate Regarding Civil-Service Law Changes.

Washington, Jan. 8.—At the opening of the Senate yesterday the reply of the Attorney General to the Senate resolution calling upon members of the Cabinet to inform the Senate what, if any, changes should be made in the administration of the Civil-Service law, was read. The Attorney General recommended that attorneys employed by the Department of Justice and deputy United States marshals ought to be excepted from the operation of the law.

Mr. Cockrell (Mo.) said that these recommendations ought to be made to the President of the United States, as he had full power to act regarding them. He gave notice that he would move to refer all the replies of Cabinet officers to the Senate resolution to the President himself.

Mr. Hoar (Mass.) said that the trouble with all these communications arose from the ill-advised action of the Senate itself.

"It seems to me," said he, "a most extraordinary proceeding for the Senate to direct the heads of departments to give their opinions as to the wisdom of the President's order. That is what we have done, inadvertently, no doubt. Had my attention been drawn to it, I should have moved to rescind the order."

Mr. Allen (Neb.) introduced a free-coinage resolution and made a speech on the subject.

Mr. Teller (Col.) made a silver speech on the subject of a report that was going around to the effect that the friends of silver were trying to bring about a rupture between the President and the Secretary of the Treasury. Mr. Teller declared that the Republican party to-day was for the gold standard and said there was no difference between the President and Secretary Gage upon the subject.

THORN JURY NOT SOBER.

Lawyer Will Move for New Trial on This Ground.

New York, Jan. 8.—A new phase of the Thorn case has been brought into prominence by William F. Howe, lawyer for Martin Thorn, that may give Thorn another trial. This is an allegation by the attorney that the jury in the case were not sober, and counsel proposes to show this by the hotel bills, where it may be seen that the liquor bill for a day amounted to $30 and $48.

The bill of expenses for the jury in the Garden City Hotel during the trial of Martin Thorn in Long Island City amounted to $1,811.25. In the nine days' duty the jury consumed $239.95 worth of wine, their cigars cost them $186.20, while their billiard bill amounted to $54.25.

Counsel found that on Thanksgiving Day the jury bill for wine was $47.80, $32.70 for cigars and $18.25 for billiards. With this wine bill Lawyer Howe will move before Judge Maddox in a few days for a new trial. He says he will urge that the debauchery of the jury made them unfit to determine the solemn issue of that trial.

The case of Mrs. Nack comes up on Monday. She will plead guilty and will probably be sentenced to a term in prison.

SHAW MURDER CASE.

Alleged Relative Says the Accused Will Never Be Tried Again.

Lancaster, Jan. 8.—A strange story is told by James Heywards, who says he is a resident of Stockton, N. J., and a relative of Eli Shaw, who is accused of the murder of his mother and grandmother in Camden. Heywards asserts that the reason the prosecution abandoned the case so abruptly the other day was because the public prosecutor had received information that the defense was prepared to prove the innocence of the prisoner and the guilt of another person, said to be now serving a term for robbery in the Eastern Penitentiary, in Philadelphia.

Heywards, who is a watchmaker, was on his way to Canton, Ohio. He stated that Shaw's attorneys had at no time any apprehension regarding the outcome of the case. Heywards further says that there was no attempt at "jury fixing," but that that story was given out to cover up the real reason for the sudden termination of the case. Heywards carries a letter showing that he is a relative of Shaw.

Three Murderers Hanged.

New Orleans, Jan. 8.—Three negro murderers died on the scaffold in Hahnville, a small town in St. Charles parish, yesterday Louis Richards, alias Pierre, alias Creole; George Washington and Felix Morris murdered and robbed a Jewish peddler named Zeigler last June on Ellington plantation, near Hahnville. The murderers were traced by the discovery of goods in possession of their female companions which had belonged to Zeigler.

Woman Hangs Herself.

Bridgeton, N. J., Jan. 8.—Mrs. Hope L. Johnson, aged 39 years, committed suicide yesterday by hanging herself with a clothes line in the cellar. The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Runyon and family, who have been visiting at the home of Mr. Runyon's parents in Pennsylvania, have returned to their LaGrande avenue home.

The progressive ladies of Westfield, Ind., issued a "Woman's Edition" of the Westfield News, bearing date of April 3d, 1896. The paper is filled with matter of interest to women, and we notice the following from a correspondent, which the editors printed, realizing that it treats upon a matter of vital importance to their sex: "The best remedy for croup, colds and bronchitis that I have been able to find is Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. For family use it has no equal. I gladly recommend it." 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by T. S. Armstrong apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

Franklin P. Noble, of East Fifth street, has gone to Mendham to spend Sunday.

Miss Edith Annin, of Liberty Corner, has returned home after spending several weeks in this city.

Mothers whose children are troubled with bad colds, croup or whooping-cough will do well to read what Dr. R. R. Robey, of Olney, Mo., says on this subject, He writes: "For years we have used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, and always keep it in the house. It is regarded in our family as a specific for all kinds of colds and coughs." The 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by T. S. Armstrong, apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

FOR STARVING CUBANS

The Central Relief Committee Calls for Help.

ACTS FOR THE PRESIDENT

Sufferings of the People of the War-Harried Island Detailed and Money and Supplies Asked For—200,000 Have Already Died.

New York, Jan. 8.—The Central Cuban Relief Committee appointed by the President and acting under the direction of the Department of State, has issued the following appeal:

"The President of the United States, by recent proclamation, has laid before our sympathetic people the sad condition of affairs now prevailing in Cuba. Multitudes of the peasantry, who have taken no part in the war, are suffering for the barest necessities of life, and thousands have already died of starvation. In consequence of the stringent martial laws, tillage was prohibited, and there has been neither sowing nor reaping for several seasons. The result is widespread famine, which is gradually becoming worse, and unless substantial help is soon extended the sacrifice of human life from hunger alone will be appalling.

Statistics of Misery.

"According to the figures published in the press of Havana by the Diario, an influential newspaper, there are now 99,312 persons in a single province—Matanzas—who are absolutely without resources. Up to Nov. 30, 1897, 20,044 had perished of hunger, while 17,456 had disappeared, many of whom had doubtless also succumbed to want. At this time there are in the same province over sixty thousand persons, of whom 20,000 are women and 24,000 are children, actually starving. Of these, it is declared by the physicians, a majority will surely die of the diseases induced by famine. The same authority adds that in all the provinces fully two hundred thousand pacificos (noncombatants) have already died of hunger, and an equally large number must miserably perish from the same cause unless relief is speedily afforded.

"These revelations must awaken a deep sympathy for this unfortunate people, regardless altogether of the military and political aspect of the struggle now going on in that island. The question is one of humanity alone: Shall these unhappy sufferers be permitted to perish miserably of want and starvation while we have abundance? It is not desired by this appeal to excite any feeling that may be hostile to the Spanish nation, but solely to invoke public sympathy for human suffering, and we are confident that the people of this free and prosperous republic will not hesitate to respond promptly and generously.

Call for Relief.

"The committee, in the name of the President of the United States, earnestly appeals to the Governors of States, the Mayors of cities and officials of every village; also to the public press and religious bodies, to organize relief committees and engage in a systematic gathering of money, food, clothing and medicines. This committee will cheerfully furnish all information relative to the formation of relief committees, the remittance of funds and the free shipment of supplies.

"It is a work that should be conducted with great promptitude and vigor, as the need is extremely urgent. We ask the public to contribute liberally for this laudable purpose, making the gift in all cases as generous as hearts touched with sympathy for human suffering may dictate. Remember that even a single dollar, small though it may seem, will save life and avert hunger for a time, in at least one poor Cuban home, while ten, a hundred or a thousand dollars will rescue the starving and produce beneficent results in due proportion. Every contribution will be duly acknowledged by official receipt.

"All money and material contributed will be immediately forwarded to United States Consul-General Lee, in Havana, under whose supervision the distribution will be made and reach all parts of the island.

"Checks and drafts for Cuban relief should be made payable and addressed, 'Treasurer Central Cuban Relief Committee, Temple Court, New York City.'"

LEE TO GO AFIELD WITH BLANCO?

Rumor That It Is for a Conference with Gomez.

Havana, Jan. 8.—It has been rumored that Gen. Lee, the United States Consul-General, will accompany Capt.-Gen. Blanco when the latter takes to the field. It is further reported that Senor Estrada Palma, the Delegate to the United States of the Cuban insurgents, will arrive here shortly and accompany the Captain-General and Gen. Lee to the field, and that a conference with Gen. Maximo Gomez will follow.

The reports have caused a sensation in this city.

Philadelphia, Jan. 8.—At the Cuban mass meeting held here last night to protest against the plan of autonomy presented by Spain, Estrada Palma read a telegram from Havana which said that Gen. Fitz Hugh Lee, United States Consul-General; Capt.-Gen. Blanco and Estrada Palma would make a trip to the insurgent camp of Gen. Maximo Gomez to present the autonomy plan to the insurgent chief. He characterized it as a Spanish joke and said there was not the slightest truth in the report.

No Pardon for McKane.

Albany, Jan. 8.—It is asserted positively that Gov. Black will not pardon or commute the sentence of John Y. McKane, the former political leader of Gravesend, whose term of six years at Sing Sing will expire in April next by limitation.

Montreal Man Commits Suicide.

COUNTY TROLLEY SYSTEM.

Plainfield has heard much about the proposed county trolley system that Frank Bergen is championing, but the information has been scattered and has been heralded here from other cities. While Mr. Bergen has appeared in all the other towns of importanee along the line of the proposed trolley system, Plainfield has not yet heard its details from the men who are engineering the project. The new Board of Trade has opened its campaign by proposing to give the citizens of Plainfield a chance to hear the arguments that the promoters of the scheme are advancing. With that idea in view, they have called a public meeting for Tuesday evening at Stillman Music Hall, which will be addressed by Mr. Bergen and other of the advocates of the plan. It behooves every citizen to be present and get a comprehensive idea of just what is intended. When the matter comes up for action an intelligent view of the subject will aid greatly in seeing to the interests of the county.

The New Brunswick Daily Fredonian, the only Republican daily in New Brunswick, has changed hands again and this time passes into the control of a stock company. The paper has heretofore been owned by George W. Burroughs, also owner of the Cranbury Press, under whose energetic guidance it has grown rapidly. Articles of incorporation were filed with the County Clerk of Middlesex county at New Brunswick yesterday afternoon. The new company is to be known as the New Brunswick Publishing Company, and starts business with a capital stock of $50,000.

Improvement in the Reform Club.

Friends of the Plainfield Reform Club are glad to know that for some time past that organization has been taking on new life and is doing a good work. President Smith is a good man for the leading position. Every Thursday evening the club is furnishing an entertainment both pleasant and helpful to all who can find the time to attend. Nearly every week there are new signers to the pledge, and the audiences number from one hundred to two hundred people.

"The Temple of Fame."

On the evening of February 17th the scholars of the Borough Public School of the high and grammer departments will present a sketch entiled "The Temple of Fame," in the Y. M. C. A. hall. The affair is an elaborate one and the money received from its production will be devoted to library purposes.

Library Books Secured.

Four teachers of the Borough Public School have arranged to secure books from the Plainfield Public Library by paying $25 for the rest of the year. Some people claim that the borough teachers should be allowed the use of the library free the same as the Plainfield teachers.

Completed its Trunk Line.

The Somerset Telephone Company has at last completed its trunk line into Newark from Bound Brook by the way of Greenbrook and Washingtonville. It has connected with the exchanges of the Newark Telephone Company and the Hudson County Telephone Company.

To Act on Trolley Franchise.

The Board of Commissioners of Somerville will hold a meeting Monday evening, when the application of the New York and Philadelphia Traction Company for a franchise will be considered.

Counterfeit Coin in Morristown.

A large number of counterfeit 25 cent pieces are floating about Morristown, and the authorities seem to think the difficulty is local. The Westfield Township Committee at its meeting last night failed to take up the consideration of granting the trolley franchise, and nothing definite will now be done until next Friday evening, at which time the final public hearing will be held in Etta Hall. The most important matter considered by the Committee was the relations of the township with the Union Water Company, whose contract with the Committee expired Jan. 1st. Committeeman Harden took advantage of the opportunity to ease his mind on the water question. He said that he was convinced that Westfield was paying more per hydrant for her fire protection than some other places nearby; the water company had agreed to furnish a pressure of 65 or 70 pounds on the hydrants, and actual tests of the pressure shows that it never amounts to more than 30 or 35 pounds. Lawyer John W. Frech, of Somerville, appeared before the Committee and presented a claim for $500 damages caused to the horses and carriages of John F. Dorvall by the bad condition of the roads near Dorvall's residence. A claim for $60 damages was also presented by John Collins, whose horse and wagon are said to have been damaged by an open sewer trench on the night of December 14th. Civil Engineer H. C. VanEmburgh appeared before the Committee and submitted drawings and specifications for the draining of the lowland fronting on Quimby street. The two plans most recommended were the filling up of the property or the running of a pipe drain to the brook. It is probable that the former plan will be followed. A communication was received from Clarence Lambert accepting the Committee's offer of $15 in settlement of the damages caused to his ice wagon by a washout in Broad street. Bills amounting to $755 were ordered paid and the Committee adjourned for one week.

Wherever they have appeared they have won golden opinions from press and public, and their advent here as the first genuine minstrel company of the season will undoubtedly be welcome.

Robert Hilliard, the well known New York artist, will appear in a new play entitled "A New Yorker" at the Stillman Music Hall, Saturday, the 15th inst. Mr. Hilliard will be supported by a host of good people, including Louise Thorndyke Boucicault, Gladys Wallis, Jennie Weathersby, Dore Davidson, Cuyler Hastings, and Gertrude Gheer, an English actress from Drury Lane Theatre, London.

Plaintiff Was Not There.

The attachment case of Frazee against Cory, which was to have been tried in Justice Mosher's court today, was postponed on account of the inability of the plaintiff to be present. Lawyer H. C. Runyon appeared on behalf of William Newcorn, who has entered a claim to the funds attached, and made an argument against the adjournment. Judge George W. DeMeza is the attorney for the plaintiff, and the argument for an adjournment was made by William G. DeMeza.

Election of a Corporal.

The Plainfield High School Cadets held their first drill since the Christmas vacation, Thursday afternoon. The company was in charge of Captain Henry W. Brower and did unusually good work. Abbott Brainard resigned as first corporal and the other corporals were promoted according to rank. Charles Fountain was elected fourth corporal to fill the vacancy at the end of the list.

Married Life.

Of course we all believe with Grover that married life is one grand, sweet song, but in order to sing it properly you've got to be able to read the notes, and you cannot do this unless your eyes are all right. Remember this, and if the song don't seem to be going right, just run into Collier's and find out the reason why. All optical examinations absolutely free.

BLOUSES DECILEDLY IN EVIDENCE.

Stitching a Distinctive Feature as Trimming on Gowns.

(By special arrangement with the N. Y. Sun.)

The new dress skirts are in every way commendable for comfort and grace as well. The linings, which to be really up to date must match the outside, are made with a knife-plaited frill set in on the edge entirely without stiffening, and quite separate from the dress skirt except at the waistband Skirts are scant in comparison with those we have been wearing, but they are cut in such a way as to give them the pretty, becoming flare around the feet. The new sleeves are proportionately small, quite close, in fact, with very small puffs or frills at the top The length-wise shirring is not so much used as it was. Every search after exclusive designs and some really new variety in style is met again and again by some form of the ubiquitous blouse. To be sure, it may have a guimpe attachment which is charming, but it is a blouse still, diversified by trimming in all the elaborate, intricate patterns which can be fashioned.

It is of no use to protest against this style of bodice, for apparently there is nothing else to have except the close-fitting coat bodice, tailor made, and the boero, which is to be worn again this season, with the additional blouse vest. It appears on some of the latest cloth gowns, either high in the neck or cut V, or round in shape, to show the under bodice. The lower edge is usually cut out in blunt points or squares. The arm-holes are finished with narrow, plain epaulettes, and the whole jacket is braided in the most fascinating manner. Revers of velvet are the finish on some of the new boleros, but with braiding all over they are very pretty, with only a row of buttons down either side of the front.

Stitching is decidedly a distinctive feature of dress trimmings, and is applied to velvet, cloth, satin, and the thinnest materials. Cloth gowns are stitched in straight lines or curling designs all over the blouse bodice and around the panels in the skirt, very much like some of the patterns worked out on the old-fashioned bed quilts. Shirring on cloth and velvet is done in a very clever manner for all sorts of trimming, and velvet which has been gathered on the machine and the stitches in which have been pulled out, leaving only the effect, is sold by the yard. Narrow bias bands of satin stitched on in rows on the skirts and bodices are unmistakably the fashion this season, as fashion is represented at the moment, and the only argument against them—for they are very effective—is the possibility that they will become very common, in poor satin and careless work. To be pretty the satin must be of good quality and perfectly put on.

A LILIPUTIAN ENGINE.

Can Be Carried in the Vest Pocket—A Perfect Working Piece of Mechanism.

The smallest steam engine in the world is one that was made by an American boy when he was sixteen years old. It can easily be carried, and with room to spare, in an ordinary vest pocket, and it weighs less than half an ounce.

Yet, notwithstanding its microscopic dimensions, it is a perfect machine, and when the few drops of water its tiny silver boiler will hold are converted into steam the engine will run at the rate of 3,000 revolutions per minute. In type it is a high-pressure beam engine, and it is constructed principally of gold and silver. All told there are over 150 pieces in its make-up, some of them so small as be be almost invisible without the aid of a magnifying glass. The diameter of the cylinder is one-sixteenth of an inch; diameter of flywheel five-eights of an inch. The boiler is made of silver in five distinct plates, or sheets. There are no rivets in either the boiler of any other parts of the engine, The separate parts are all held together by screws. Nothing about the entire construction of this curious piece of mechanism is more remarkable than these screws. They are perfect in form and detail and hold the separate parts of the machine together as firmly as though they were riveted, and yet each of these screws is so small it can only be picked up by the aid of a magnifying glass and a sharp-pointed pair of pincers.—New York World.

WANTED HIS JADE DECORATION IN.

Then He Couldn't Understand Where the Other Eye Was In the Profile.

Mr. Landor, in his entertaining book, "The Land of the Morning Calm," tells this story of the eminent Prince Min of Corea, who induced Mr. Landor to paint his portrait. The artist thus describes the scene:

For three hours he sat motionless and speechless like a statute.

"It is finished," I finally said, and he sprang up in a child-like fashion and came over to look at the work. His delight was unbounded, and he seized my hand and shook it most emphatically.

After this he suddenly became grave, stared at the canvas, and then looked at the back of it. He seemed horrified.

"What is it?" I inquired of his royal highness.

"You have not put in my jade decoration," said he, almost in despair.

I had, of course, painted his portrait full face, and as the Coreans have the strange notion of wearing their decorations in the shape of a small button of jade, gold, silver, or amber behind the left ear, these, of course, did not appear thereon. No explanation of the theory of European art would satisfy the sitter, so to pacify him I executed a rapid sketch of his profile, bringing in the ornament.

"That is all very well," he said, "but where is the other eye?"

Getting in on the Ground Floor.

Travelling Passenger Agent Tom Campbell says that a Swede came into a lawyer's office one day and asked:

"Is hare ben a lawyer's place?"

"Yes, I'm a lawyer."

"Well, Mais er Lawyer, I tank I shall have a paper made."

"What kind of a paper do you want?"

"Well, I tank I shall have a mortgage. You see, I buy me a piece of land from Nels Petersen, and I want a mortgage on it."

"Oh, no. You don't want a mortgage; what you want is a deed."

"No, Maister; I tank I want mortgage. You see, I buy me two pieces of land before, and I got deed for dem, and 'noth-- faller come along with mortgage and take the land; so I tank I better get mortgage this time."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

An Easy Way to Capture a Tarpon.

A peculiar incident happened to the steamer Florida, says the Star, which runs from Pensacola to Choctawatchie. On her trip up the steamer had a lighter in tow and one lashed alongside, and in some mysterious way a tarpon or silver fish got fast between the steamer and the lighter which she had alongside, and in trying to free itself it jumped aboard the steamer. The monster weighed 175 pounds and measured 6 feet, 4 inches in length. This is one of the gamest fish in Southern waters when caught with a hook and line, and is the first one that has been caught in this vicinity in fifteen years.

No More Crawling.

One of the results of the advanced ideas of the present King of Siam has been the abolition of the crawling indulged in by courtiers in the monarch's presence. It used to be the custom at Bangkok for no one to advance towards the king except on all fours, and when, forty years ago, the Siamese ambassadors were received by our Queen, it was in this ridiculous fashion that they came, bearing presents in what hands they could spare, from the difficult process of peregrination.

A Medical Item.

"What do you consider the most absolutely certain way to distinguish toadstools from mushrooms?"

"Cook them, get some other man to eat them, and then watch his symptoms."—Chicago Tribune.

"Johnny," said the teacher to the humorist's little boy, "how do we know when autumn comes around?"

TO BECOME ELECTRICAL ENGINEERS

Must Start With the Simplest Part of the Business and Work Upward Slowly.

The winner of a prize essay on "How to Become an Electrical Engineeer" says the boy whose ambition points that way should be kept at school until he is 17 years of age, spending the last few years at a commercial college where he will get a good general education, including geometry, algebra, trigonometry, freehand drawing, physics, inorganic chemistry, magnetism and electricity, practical plane and solid trigonometry. He should then start in a small shop, where not more than twenty to thirty hands are employed; never, on any account, in a large shop. To begin with, he will get all sorts of odd jobs, playing hammerman to the black-smith, or tending the boiler and engine, but he will be picking up indispensable knowledge all the time. In a few weeks he will start on fitting and erecting, learning to use all the machines, such as milling, planing, drilling, slotting, shaping etc. One advantage of being in a small shop is that a man has to learn to make his own tools, an accomplishment which is apt to come in remarkably useful on occasions. Other points of training will be screw cutting, shaft turning, boring wheels, pinions, bearing blocks, turning crank sharts and innumerable other jobs. Parents may think that this is not electrical engineering, but the electrical engineer must first be a thorough mechanical engineer. Four or five years may be spent in such a shop, and classes in mathematics, machine drawing and design, steam, applied mechanics, inorganic chemistry, mechanical engineering, statics, dynamics and physics should be attended meanwhile, and the use of the slide rule should be acquired. His next step should be to enter an electrical shop. Before doing so, however, he must decide on his specialty, for electricity has expanded so widely in its application that the would-be electrical engineer finds it to his advantage, even if it be not an absolute necessity, to take up one branch and stick to it. It may be the manufacture of dynamos, motors or other electric power plants; electric lighting, electric heating, the manufacture of electric fittings, the wiring of buildings and vessels, or one of a score of other branches, but the more he concentrates himself on his chosen line, the better will be his chance of success. The young electrical engineer should constitute as a guiding principle the fact that the great object aimed at nowadays is to produce the best results with the least cost, and in a specified time.

THE EARLIEST MINERS.

Astonishing Record Goes Back to 5,000 Years B. C.

The earliest miners and metal workers of whom we have record were the Ayron people of Euro-Asian origin, who, though of pastoral and arboreal habits, were familiar with the metals and worked with them—at least with the metals, gold, silver, and bronze. Chaldeans and Assyrians, as we now know from the cuneiform inscriptions which go back 3,000 years B. C., were undoubtedly expert in the use of metals, while the Egypians had an intimate knowledge of the arts and sciences. In the brick and other inscriptions recently discovered artisans are seen at work with curious details of their methods and tools. Potters, indeed, had attained eminence in their art, and the Egyptians had certainly a knowledge of chemistry, as the samples of their glass blowing the stone pictures of tools, forceps, blowpipe, etc., prove.

Gold was largely used at an early period—between 4,000 and 5,000 years B. C., as we find from some newly discovered and ingenious weighing balances. Many centuries older than the pyramids, which date from fifty to sixty centuries back, we have examples of engineering in Memphis, which could not have been constructed without tools and necessarily an acquaintance with metals. The word "metals" is of Semitic origin—the Hebrew word "metal" to forge indicates an early acquaintance with the fusing of ores and the malleability of metals.—Self Culture.

He Had an Unbroken Service of Eighty-One Years.

Lincolnshire possesses the oldest bell-ringer in England. At Tetney lives Matthew Laking, who was born in 1801, and is therefore ninety-six years old. He started bell-ringing fifteen years of age, and his therefore an unbroken service of eighty-one years in the parish belfry. It means that Matthew Laking rung a muffled peal for the death of George III. in 1820, and celebrated the accession of George IV. in the same year, officiated at the monarch's death in 1830, and again took part in the accession of William IV. and his death in 1837. Beginning with the accession of Queen Victoria, he has been connected with every subsequent important epoch in her life, and on the jubilee day formed one of three in ringing a peal of thanksgiving. Although born just outside Tetney, he has practically lived in the village all his life. A world of local reminiscence in himself, he has had to retire from his ordinary avocation as a laborer through advancing years.

Familiar Instance.

"You see," argued Uncle Silas, the rugged and uncompromising free silver advocate of Buckheart Township, "how the trusts an' monopolies are runnin' everything. In the cities, I'm told, they can't even open the big iron safe in a bank without a blamed combination!"—Chicago Tribune.

SELLS MICE FOR A LIVING.

A Woman Whose Clients Include Some of Europe's Great Physicians.

Verily one half the world does not know how the other half lives. Equally true is it that never before were there so many curious ways of making a living as there are at present. There have been physicians in Paris for several centuries, but not until quite recently did any of them think it necessary to make a contract by the terms of which they are to receive a certain number of mice during the current year. The general public was rather surprised when it heard of this contract, for the reason that the physicians, who act in this matter as a committee of the Faculty of Medicine, agree to pay a good price for the mice, whereas there are many persons in Paris who would be only too glad to make the doctors a present of these ravenous little animals. Physicians, however, know what they are about. They want mice, but they don't want ordinary, everyday mice. Only cultured, well fed, dainty mice will suit them, and they have given the contract to Mme. Alexandre, because they know that she is the only person in Paris who can supply on demand any number of such desirable animals.

Yes, Mme. Alexandre's business in life is to furnish mice to Richet, Chantemesse and several other leading specialists in Paris and elsewhere. She also keeps rabbits and guinea pigs, but mice are her specialty. It is fifteen years since she first began to supply animals to the Pasteur Institute, the Municipal Laboratory and several other such places. She has hardly any competitors, and she has more orders than she can well fill. She feeds her mice exclusively on bread and milk. Her clients insist that the animals must be white and plump, and she finds this diet the best for them. When they are three months old they are ready for the doctors, and she seldom has any on hand after that age. She disposes of these hapless victims, not only to her regular clients in Paris, but also to several persons in London and Geneva. The little mice are well able to stand a long journey, and they are as fresh when they arrive in London as they were when they left Paris.

Madam is never short of mice. At present she has about a thousand on hand, and as these animals multiply very rapidly she will have double that number in an incredibly short time.—New York Herald.

ANGORA GOATS IN SOUTH AFRICA.

Profitable Flocks of Them Raised in Cape Colony.

One of the most lucrative industries in the Karoo districts of South Africa is Angora goat farming, and, although it has only been established for less than forty years, the Cape bids fair to become the most important centre of mohair production in the world. The early attempts to import this goat from Angora were attended with great loss of money and great disappointment, nearly all the goats dying either on the way to the Cape or very soon after landing, in fact, of the early importations only a very small number survived. But in 1879, a large importation was successfully made by three different firms or individuals, who landed a large number of pure-bred Angora goats at Port Elizabeth.

The Angora in the colony is not now pure-bred; the original imported rams were crossed with carefully selected pure white Boer goat ewes, and from the succeeding in-breeding the present flocks have sprung, and a fine glossy, silky fleece secured. Indeed, it is accepted that mohair can now be produced in Cape Colony as perfect in quality and as beautiful in lustre as any produced in Angora itself.

The goat itself is a pretty-looking little animal, looking, with its long white wavy fleece, more like a sheep than a goat. The beard, too, so characteristic of the goat, is almost hidden in the long hair about the neck and face. The head is small and narrow, with drooping or "lop" ears. The small body is thickly covered with a beautiful long fleece of white, lustrous, wavy, silky hair, which in well-bred goats nearly reaches the ground; and, in addition to this long hair, there is an inferior undercoat of hair, or second coat, which has its own separate market value.—Black and White.

A Positive Parting.

"We have parted forever," said the young man, sadly. "She is never going to even write to me again."

"Are you sure of that?" asked his sympathetic friend.

"Yes. She told me so in each of her last three letters."

The Limit Found.

"There," said the man of schemes, 'is a limit to the toleration of the public."

"And you found it?"

"Yup. I met a total frost when I started out with a lecture on 'How I Intend to Find the North Pole."—Indianapolis Journal.

I hope the citizens of Plainfield will look into this matter.

THE BATTLE IN OHIO

Hanna Men Confident of the Result of Monday's Meeting.

MORE CHARGES OF BRIBERY

Claimed that $5,000 Was Offered to a Supporter of the Senator to Induce Him to Join the Conspirators—Bushnell Remains Firm.

Columbus, Ohio, Jan. 8.—Ohio Republicans are aroused. The call for the mass convention here on Monday next was issued by the Republican State Committee at the urgent appeal of Republican leaders in every county, not, as alleged by the opposition, by order of Senator Hanna. It was the response to a flood of telegrams, demanding a powerful public demonstration in behalf of Republican loyalty.

The call has created consternation among the anti-Hanna conspirators. They try to denounce it as an attempt to intimidate the Legislature, but the fact remains that no such political revolution has ever been known in this State. The convention will be held in a big hall immediately after Gov. Bushnell's inauguration.

There is a better feeling at the Hanna headquarters. The Senator has great faith in the people, and his friends believe that the demonstration of Monday will teach the traitors a lesson.

There is trouble in the conspirators' camp. They are worried lest through the efforts of ex-Senator Brice's friends the Democratic ranks may be broken. So alarmed were the conspirators that, after reading the call for a mass convention, they issued a wild proclamation denouncing Brice as a traitor and calling upon Democrats in the State to stand firm.

Brice has many friends in the Legislature, and they resent the aspersions cast on him, the more because he has hitherto carefully kept out of the fight. The attacks upon him may bring him into it in a way the conspirators will deplore.

Mr. Hanna's managers indignantly deny the charges of attempted bribery, and claim that they have the stenographic report of an attempt to buy a Hanna member with a direct offer of $5,000. It is charged that a stanch supporter of Hanna allowed himself to be approached and arranged the interview so that a stenographer was secreted in a bathroom to take down every word. At the proper time this sensational and desperate attempt at bribery will be exposed.

Gov. Bushnell remains firm in his position, declaring that after the attacks upon him he will make no concessions. The threat of the anti-Hanna legislators to re-district the State for Congress has created an indignation which will help the Senator. As conceived, the plan is petty spite work and aimed particularly at Congressman Grosvenor.

The announcement that there will be no Democratic caucus is taken to mean that every Democrat has secretly signed a pledge to vote for a Kurtz Republican, possibly Kurtz himself. If this is true, and no Democrat bolts, Hanna will be defeated; but ex-Senator Brice's friends are here working to divide the Democratic vote. Brice is said to have advised his friends to vote only for a Democrat. Such action would bring about the deadlock predicted at Hanna headquarters and would play havoc with the hopes of Kurtz.

The Republican newspapers have attacked Gov. Bushnell so fiercely that he tartly remarks, "The attacks on me leave no further room for any concessions." This means a vendetta to the death and no hope of electing a compromise Senator friendly to Hanna or the Administration if the Kurtz crowd is successful.

The latest phase of the case is that two fusion-silver Republicans of Cincinnati will vote for Mr. Hanna provided they cannot get their silver-Republican choice elected Senator. In that event Mr. Hanna would still need some votes.

Barry to Fight Again.

New York, Jan. 8.—Jimmie Barry, the bantam-weight champion, who arrived from England Thursday, has decided to re-enter the ring. Barry retired while in a despondent mood after his fatal battle with Walter Croot. The jury, however acquitted the little Chicagoan of all blame, and this, coupled with the fact that Casper Leon has reclaimed the championship which he lost to Barry caused him to re-enter the roped arena. He is out with a challenge to meet any man in his class in the world.

The New Code of House Rules

Washington, Jan. 8.—The new code of House rules has been under consideration by Speaker Reed and the Rules Committee during the holiday recess. It is substantially the same as the present code. The rules will probably be reported to the House as soon as there is a lull in the debate on the appropriation bills.

Representative Bailey of Texas says that the new code will not go through the House without full discussion on the Democratic side.

To Search for a Wreck.

Washington, Jan. 8.—Representative Simpkins, of Massachusetts, received information that the schooner Julia A. Warr, lumber laden, was lying bottom up about one hundred and seventy-five miles off Cape Cod. It is feared several officers and crew are in the wreck. Mr. Simpkins immediately placed the matter before Capt. Shoemaker, chief of the revenue cutter service, who wired the captain of the cutter Manning, now at Boston, to proceed at once to sea and search for the wreck.

Union Pacific Payment.

Washington, Jan. 8.—The final payment of $8,538,401 from the Union Pacific Reorganization Committee, was covered into the Treasury yesterday, making a grand total of $58,448,223 paid for the Government's interest in the Union Pacific Railroad.

Four Killed in an Explosion.

Glasgow, Jan. 8.—During a fire yesterday at Hatrick's chemical works, an explosion, which killed four firemen and injured a number of other people, took place. The damage done is estimated to amount to £50,000 ($250,000).

Nature makes the cures after all.

Now and then she gets into a tight place and needs helping out.

Things get started in the wrong direction.

DUN'S WEEKLY REVIEW.

Last Year Was the Best So Far as to Its Failures Ever Know.

New York, Jan. 8.—In failures 1897 was not only the best year since 1892, but on the whole the best ever definitely known. With 13,522 failures, in number 11.5 per cent. less than 1896, and $182,581,771 defaulted liabilities, 34.6 per cent. less than in 1896, the year's banking failures counted for $28,249,700, and the commercial failures were but 13,351, with liabilities of $154,332,071, the average per failure being only $11,559, the lowest ever known except in 1892. But even in that year the failures during the last half averaged liabilities of $10,477 per failure, while in the last half of 1897 the average was only $9,593. The returns by branches of business show that in fifteen out of twenty-eight classes the failures were lower than in any previous year of which there is record, with especially large decrease in the great number of unclassified manufacturing and trading failures. Moreover, the year showed remarkable decrease, as some other prosperous years have shown increase, comparing the second with the first half.

The new year began with disappointment for speculators in stocks and grain, which is not a bad sign. Prices of stocks have gained a little, after yielding at first, and close 73 cents per share higher for railroads, and $1.05 per share higher for trusts. Earnings reported in December, including seventy roads with a third of the entire mileage of the United States, were 10.6 per cent. larger than in 1896, and 4.3 per cent. larger than in 1892, and eastbound tonnage from Chicago in four weeks was 313,445, against 258,045 in 1892. New railways covered 1,938 miles, against 1,997 last year, while the most complete returns of receiverships in 1897 covered but 1,537 miles, with $92,909,000 stocks and bonds, against $275,597,000 in 1896; over $360,000,000 in 1895, and about the same in 1894, and $1,781,000,000 in 1893.

With current rates 3½ per cent. abroad and 2½ per cent. here, deferred claims against foreign bankers naturally increase, although the amount of deferred exchange known to be held as collateral remains about twenty million dollars. With exports from this city about 3 per cent., and imports about 16 per cent. smaller than last year for the opening week, balances in favor of this country seem to be still on the increase. Failures for the week have been 322 in the United States, against 471 last year, and in Canada, thirty-two, against sixty-two last year.

PENSION FRAUDS TO LIGHT.

Able-Bodied Policemen Drawing "Disability" War Money.

St. Louis, Jan. 8.—The recent crusade to expunge from the pension list all persons who are not entitled to pensions may cause an upheaval in the police force of this city. It is stated, on the best authority, that at least fifty men on the police force are drawing disability pensions from the Government and at the same time drawing salaries as able-bodied policemen. The Police Board will investigate the matter.

Colored Preacher in Limbo.

Chicago, Jan. 8.—James Howard, colored, who says he is a Methodist minister, has been held to the Federal Grand Jury on the charge of violating the United States Pension law. His bail was fixed at $1,000, in default of which he was sent to jail. Eleven years ago Howard applied for a pension, asserting that he had been a soldier during the Civil War and was suffering from inflammatory rheumatism and an old saber wound. Thursday he admitted he had sworn falsely and had never been a soldier. He said he was willing to be punished.

Devoe, military Secretary of the United States Secretary for War, who has been in London for some time past with Dr. Sheldon Jackson, engaged in providing transport for the reindeer, Laplanders and their families, for the Yukon Valley relief expeditions, has chartered the Allen line steamer Manitoba, on board of which he sails for Alton, Norway, on Monday next. The Manitoban will call at several Norwegian ports to embark reindeer and Laplanders, after which she will sail direct for New York.

LANDED ON HIS HEAD.

Thomas McGrath Took a Lively Tumble Near the Industrial Home.

Thomas J. McGrath, a plumber in the employ of George J. Tobin, was thrown from a wagon near the Industrial Home last evening and narrowly escaped serious injury. McGrath and a fellow-workman had been busy at the Home completing some repairs to the plumbing, and about 5 o'clock they got in the wagon and started to drive away. The horse was very impatient at standing in the cold so long and in starting swung the wagon suddenly to one side, throwing McGrath from his seat. He struck upon his head on the hard roadway and for a few minutes was stunned. He recovered soon, however, and was assisted to his home on South Second street. He received a number of bad bruises, but no bones were broken.

KILLED A MAN A MINUTE.

Private Fontaine of Mississippi Kept This Up for Sixty Minutes.

Lamar Fontaine, of Mississippi killed sixty men in sixty minutes during the war. He bears a written certificate to this effect from General Robert E. Lee. Now Mr. Fontaine does not care to be called colonel.

It was in the battle of Waterloo Bridge, just below Warrenton, Va., in August, 1862, and immediately before the second battle of Manassas, that General Lee witnessed Fontaine's feat of killing "sixty Yankees in sixty minutes."

Stonewall Jackson, under whom Fontaine served, was flanking Pope. The Confederate sharpshooters had possession of a long frame building, and were pouring death into Pope's ranks, when Lee rode up.

The General had heard of Fontaine's wonderful ability as a marksman, and paid him a visit. A Federal battery was then directed on the sharpshooters.

"Train your glass on No. 1, at gun No. 1," Fontaine said to General Lee, "and you will see him jump up in the air in a minute and another man will have to take his place."

Then he went on and killed sixty men, one after another, each in about a minute, until Lee told him to stop.

"Doesn't your conscience ever hurt you when you do work of this kind?" inquired Lee.

"Why, General," replied Fontaine, "when I enlisted in the army it was with the understanding that I was to kill as many of the enemy as I could. If I had any conscientious scruples against it I would quit the army. Don't you expect us to kill?"

Fontaine served also with Generals Stewart and Johnston. He took part in twenty-seven pitched battles, fifty-eight skirmishes and over a hundred individual skirmishes. He was reputed the best marksman with rifle or revolver in either army.

Fontaine was wounded sixty-seven times and thirteen times his lungs were pierced. Twice his heart was grazed and these scratches caused that organ to be so enlarged that physicians who examine him to-day without knowing his history say that he is in danger of immediate death. But he feels well enough. So often has he been wounded that he cannot remember where he got such and such a scar without consulting the record.

The bloody and amazing incident of the "sixty men in sixty minutes" is very far from being the only astounding one in Fontaine's career. He has had more adventures and more perilous ones than any writer of romance, even Dumas, ever dared attribute to his hero.

He possesses the following startling testimonials from "Stonewall" Jackson:

"I believe that during his service with me as sharpshooter, Lamar Fontaine killed more of the enemy than any company in my command."

DANIEL WEBSTER'S LAST DAYS.

He Desired a Farewell Look at His Stock When He Knew Death was Near.

An aged husbandman at Marshfield, Mass., who remembers Daniel Webster in his latter days very well, has given some one a very interesting reminiscence of the statesman as an agriculturist, and incidentally drawn a touching picture of his farewell to the acres and the possessions he loved so well. Webster, according to this ancient, loved every tree and flower on the place. He knew all the stock and could tell the name of every animal upon the farm. He was an enthusiastic breeder, and was a fine judge of everything pertaining to farm life and live stock, although he never made a financial success of them. When the end came, and every one, including himself, realized that he had but a few days more to live, he ordered the relator of this incident to drive up to the farmhouse all the stock two by two, and there he reviewed them, passing his hand lovingly over the smooth, glossy coats and patting their flanks affectionately. When the last had passed by he turned with a sigh into the house, giving one longing look behind and never spoke again. Unconsciously the old farmer has given here a picture worthy of a painter or a poet.—Chicago Chronicle.

His Creditors Waiting.

"I had a mighty queer surprise today," remarked a local broker last night. "I put on a winter suit on account of the cold snap—one of my suits of last year—and in one of my vest pockets I found a big roll of bills, which I must have forgotten, you know."

"Were any of them receipted?" asked a sad-eyed bystander. And the look he received sent the mercury down about ten degrees further.—Chicago Times-Herald.

Bag Carrier (to keeper)—"What does the maister aye ask that body tae shoot wi' him for? He canna hit a thing!"

Keeper—"Dod, man, I dauer say he wishes they was a' like him. The same birds does him a' through the season."—London Punch.

"Poor Wakeley leads a dog's life."
"Indeed?"
"Yes, his wife spends all her time waiting on him and calling him pet names."

EX-MAYOR'S RED NECKTIE BLAMED.

Mr. Hegeman Should Have Attired Himself in More Sedate Colors—Fair Sex Out in Numbers to Encourage the Contestants—Pete Matthews Happy—The Score in Detail Given Below.

"There was a hot time in the old town" Saturday evening at the Park Club, when the Bachelors and Benedicts rolled the deciding game in a series of three. It has been many a day since the club's alleys presented such a lively scene. The fair sex was out in such numbers that there was scarcely room to accommodate all of them. As each side was so anxious to win the deciding game, it required one hour and a half for them to practice, consequently it was 9 o'clock when the great contest started.

The ever-popular former Mayor B. A. Hegeman, Jr., was present to look after the interests of the Benedicts. Although his score of 127 was not so small, many said it was the result of his gorgeous attire. His brilliant red necktie was accounted the fatal hoodoo that was to be blamed for the failure of his side to win out. Even the appearance of the newly-married bowler, William J. R. Thiers, was not sufficient to overcome it and bring the score of the Benedicts up to what it should have been.

Another thing that, no doubt, worked against the Benedicts was the appearance on the blackboard of the famous "Yellow Kid," of the Bachelors, that figured in bygone contests. During the game the Benedicts tried real hard to keep up their courage by giving their tuneful yells of the most approved style.

Although the married men overcome the Bachelor's lead and were one pin ahead in the seventh, they lost heart during the frames, but just at the wind up they made a grand effort to win out. The men on the Benedict team that were depended on at the last were found lacking and the game went to the single men by the score given below. There were many amusing features about the game that called forth any amount of fun, and the crowd gave its aid by constant applause to both sides.

The best score was rolled by Blanchard Randolph, better known as "Clinton avenue." He put up 223, and his bowling throughout the game was of a championship order. He made plenty of strikes and brakes were few and far between. "Papa" Thiers was next with a score of 197; following him was Dryden with a score of 196. Peter Matthew's score of 132 was not the largest, but it was better than last week, and then his enthusiasm made up for it. Allen Laing completely collapsed and failed to keep even with his frame.

At the close of the contest the Bachelors gave three rousing cheers for their opponents and all was over. The result makes the Bachelors champions of the series. Below is the score in detail:

SORROW OF CHANCE ACQUAINTANCE.

A Telephone Lineman Took a Walk With a Dusky Damsel and Lost Money and Jewelry.

There is a party of linemen in the employ of the New York and New Jersey Telephone Company, who are now making this city their headquarters. Saturday night, one of the linemen, his name it has been impossible to learn, was robbed of some $64 in cash and a valuable gold ring in a rather remarkable manner.

Saturday evening the lineman, having nothing in particular to do, walked out to see the town. Being in a particular jovial mood, he became acquainted with a passing dusky damsel and suggested to her that they enjoy the beautiful night by taking a walk together. After strolling about the city for some time, they found their way out to West Third street. While he talked to the dusky belle, her deft fingers went through his pockets and abstracted his pocketbook, containing $64 in bills, and a gold ring that he had placed there for safe keeping.

He reported the matter to Sergeant Kiely. A search was made for the woman, but she could not be found. It is supposed that she is now in Trenton.

A Press reporter interviewed Chief Grant regarding the case this morning, but the Chief was very reticent and refused to have anything to say.

A HORSE STOLEN IN WESTFIELD.

Andrew Dickson, of Willow Grove, drove to Westfield with a companion Saturday night, and while the two were transacting business about the town the horse and carriage were allowed to stand in the sheds at the rear of Grogan's Hotel, on North avenue.

Dickson and his friend finished their business about 11 o'clock and were preparing to return home. On going after their horse and carriage they found both missing from the shed. The authorities were notified and a description of the stolen rig was telegraphed to surrounding towns.

At an early hour yesterday morning the police of Newark arrested the thief and recovered the stolen property on the road between Elizabeth and Newark.

Dickson went to Newark and identified the rig, and the prisoner was then sent to the Elizabeth jail where he is now held.

His name is not known, but the proprietor of the horse and carriage recognized him as a man who has worked as a farmhand about Westfield recently.

HELD UP BY FOOTPADS.

JOHN STEWART HAD AN EXCITING EXPERIENCE IN THE WEST END.

Said He Was Walking Along South Second Street When Two Men Suddenly Leaped Upon Him and Stole All His Valuables.

On one of the principal thoroughfares of the West End, John Stewart, of Spooner avenue, reports that he was sandbagged and robbed by two strangers Saturday evening. He was on his way from his home to Cullen's store on South Second street and had reached the letter thoroughfare when he met with the unpleasant adventure.

Stewart reported the matter to Sergeant Kiely, late Saturday evening. His story was that he left his house bound for the store already mentioned. He reached a dark place on South Second street, he said, when two men sprang out from behind a shadow. One of them struck him with what he supposes was a sandbag and he fell to the sidewalk half stunned. They quickly rifled his pockets and took from them $8.50 in cash. They disappeared by the time he had fully recovered his senses.

Stewart was not seriously injured, only a little dazed, and he came down town at once to report the matter to the police. There was no clue to the identity of the strangers.

While the attack was so sudden that Stewart had little time to think, he remembers that one of the men was a short, stout man and the other tall and heavily built. They wore slouch hats that completely hid their faces. One of them wore an overcoat. They looked like rough characters.

The policemen were notified to keep a lookout for two men answering the descriptions, but they failed to find any during that night or last night.

IN MEMORY OF A CHRISTIAN.

HEAVENLY REST CHURCH TABLET.

Dedicated to the Late Charles S. Lewis Who Had Worked Earnestly for the Episcopalians.

Yesterday morning at the Church of the Heavenly Rest the service was of unusual interest. It was a memorial service in honor of the late Charles S. Lewis, lay reader at the church. Rev. Edward S. True, rector of All Saints' church, Scotch Plains, was in charge of the service. A beautiful tablet had been placed in the wall near the front of the church, bearing the following inscription: "In memoriam, Charles S. Lewis, born July 10th, 1838, died September 25th, 1897. As the founder of this church, and for many years a trustee, he showed by his courage and exemplary Christian conduct, a character for us to emulate."

Dr. True made a short address following the presentation of the tablet by William Moore, Francis Moore, A. H. Leivers, Mr. Morgan and Charles Graves, trustees of the church. The doctor's remarks were very interesting and he spoke kind and loving words regarding the life of the departed brother who accomplished so much for the church. During the service several hymns were rendered by the congregation that were favorites of the departed.

POLICE MET THEIR SUPERIORS.

The Force Told That the Old Rules Would Be Strictly Adhered To.

The police board met the members of the department last Saturday afternoon and a formal instruction took place. The members of the force were given to understand that in the future the same strict rules and regulations would be enforced and that they would be expected to live up to the same. It is worthy of note that three members out of the five that compose the board are military men, and they will see that strict discipline is enforced in the department. The board assured the members of the force that they would be supported in making the department efficient. The force seemed to be well pleased with the introduction and the outlook for the coming year.

A BLUE LINER IN PERIL

THERE WERE NO SERIOUS RESULTS.

The Steel Missile Smashed the Steam Pipes on the Locomotive and Caused Some Damage to a Combination Car—Three Men Were Slightly Injured—Train Delayed One Hour and a Half.

The breaking of a tire to one of the huge driving wheels on a Blue Line locomotive at Netherwood yesterday noon resulted in the injury of two passengers, the fireman and the partial demoralization of the locomotive itself and one of the coaches. That the results of the accident were not more serious, is one of the things for which the passengers of that train can be very thankful.

Every morning a Royal Blue line limited train leaves the Jersey City terminal of the Jersey Central Railroad at 11:42 o'clock to make the trip to Washington in five hours. The train is not scheduled to stop until it reaches Wayne Junction. Yesterday the train made a stop which was not on the schedule. It is considered one of the fastest trains on the road. It usually passes through Plainfield at 12:15, going at the rate of seventy miles an hour.

Yesterday, as usual, the train was drawn by engine 450, the one which was on exhibition at the World's Fair. It was in charge of engineer Charles Houston, of Somerville. Frank McManus, of Jersey City, was the fireman. The train was in charge of Conductor John Merlette, of Bound Brook, one of the oldest conductors on the road.

With one hand on the throttle, Engineer Houston sat in the right hand side of the cab gazing steadily at the tracks ahead. The train was right on time as it passed Fanwood and also at Netherwood. McManus was occupying the other side of the cab. The train had just passed the Netherwood station, and the passengers were getting their first glimpse of Plainfield, when something happened. Above the roar of the train, Houston heard a crash. The sound of escaping steam followed. With great promptitude the engineer applied the emergency brakes. The speed of the train slackened and the train finally came to a standstill just east of the Park avenue bridge.

Engine 450 has two driving wheels on each side in which it differs from the so-called "bicycle" engines. For some inexplicable reason the tire to the rear driver broke into several pieces and went careering off on their own account. The speed of the train at the time of the accident gave them great velocity and force. The tire altogether weighed nearly a thousand pounds.

Fireman McManus heard the crash and the next instant he was thrown against the top of the cab with great violence. He fell in a heap on the floor of the cab, partially dazed. His head was considerably bruised. One portion of the tire crashed into the part of the locomotive directly above and behind it. Water and steam pipes were cut and that part of the machinery wrecked. The steam from the broken pipes rushed out with much force, half-blinding the fireman when he attempted to look out and see the cause of the trouble.

Directly behind the locomotive was the combination baggage and smoking car, the smoking compartment being first. U. Nessi, chef at the Hotel Castleton, New Brighton, S. I., was sitting in the front seat on the left hand side. It was Nessi's first trip over the road and he was admiring the beautiful country. His face was close to the window. There was a crash ahead and Nessi looked that way. Suddenly something big went by the window. With it the glass and part of the sash disappeared. A shower of fragments of glass struck Nessi in the face. His nose and cheeks were cut by the glass. A quantity of it went down his back. A fragment of the steel tire had carried away the window.

After striking the window the steel fragment rebounded and struck the car again about in the middle. John Wymer, of Sunbury, Pa., was occupying a seat on the left side of the car behind. He saw something strike the window by the little Frenchman and heard him yell. Wymer made a dive for the other side of the car. As he dove the steel fragment came through the side of the car and knocked the seat out from under him. His left leg was cut below the knee. A hole was torn in the side of the car four feet high and two feet wide. The seat was wrecked.

The excited piece of steel still went on. It darted for an eastbound coal train that was passing. A small coal

SITUATION IN KLONDIKE

LACK OF FOOD SUPPLIES

Gold Hoarded Up in Sacks, but Men Are Physical Wrecks and Cannot Buy Eatables Even for a Fortune.

Seattle, Wash., Jan. 10.—During the past week upward of 100 men have returned to Seattle by various steamers from the Klondike gold mines. These men spent from four months to three years there. Most of them had been there less than a year, their residence dating from the first discovery of gold on Bonanza and Eldorado creeks. Their experience is varied, but nearly all have been more or less successful in securing claims and in opening them up. The older Klondikers, with few exceptions, acknowledge that they have been driven from the country through a shortage of provisions and fear of starvation. They prefer losing their Winter's work and handsome Spring clean-up to taking the risks of an Arctic Winter and half rations.

Among those men was Charles Shade, of Juneau, who located claims on Boulder, Hunker and Moosehide creeks, and where he was taking out good pay dirt as high as $200 a day to the man. Finding his provisions running short, he went to Dawson to lay in a supply, but sacks of nuggets were not to be considered when it came to an exchange for the necessaries of life. and he was compelled to choose between sticking to his mines and a trip over the rugged trails to the country of plenty, and he chose the latter. Being asked as to his opinion regarding the probability of starvation, he said:

"It is a wise precaution in the Government in sending a relief expedition. It will save many a poor fellow's life. The stories you hear about gold dust being piled up in stores and cabins are not exaggerated, for I have seen it corded up like salt sacks on a grocer's counter. At the mouth of the Eldorado Creek in one of the early sluicings they took it out at the rate of an ounce a minute. I have seen it piled up in sluice boxes so that you could scoop it out by the double handful. I intend returning in March, and will carry in a large amount of supplies. I know a great many miners in the country and know of but few who have not done well.

"Zack Hickman, who went in early in July, returned after securing valuable interests in claims. He also came out because of shortage of supples, but will return with a printing outfit and provisions and will start a newspaper. He thinks it the most wonderful mining country in the world."

While it is asserted by all late Klondikers that the output of claims this Winter will be lessened on account of the lack of sufficient food, it is also asserted by the best-informed that $25,000,000 in dust and nuggests will be shipped down the river in the Summer. New districts opened this Winter are reported as panning out well. Claims on Beram Gold Bottom, Last Chance, Boulder, Dominion, Sulphur, and Moose Hide creeks and Irish Gulch that are being worked are prospecting well, and rich strikes in pay streaks are reported on all the streams named; on Bonanza and Eldorado the mines are yielding heavily. Men in camp who have food enough are working like beavers and dumps are being stacked high with rich dirt from the pay streaks.

J. M. Kempner, a well-known broker and banker of Chehalis, who left Seattle in July with eleven other men is one of the last men from Dawson. Said he:

"I know people are saying that there will be no suffering at Dawson, on account of food shortage, but you can quote me as saying that there is not enough food in Dawson to feed people who will be forced to live there this Winter. It's not necessary to say that there will be starving. There is no need of making matters worse than they are or of giving needless alarm to people who have relatives and friends there. But the truth is bad enough. I know hundreds of miners who will suffer before Spring opens the Yukon River to the Trading Company's boats, and it will be because they have not enough food to keep them well this Winter. Men who went through last Winter at Dawson are physical wrecks. I know hundreds of miners in Dawson who are facing the long Alaskan Winter with a little more than a sack of flour and other provisions in proportion.

"The trading companies gave men who bought a season's supply of provisions one sack of flour when they came after the food they had purchased and no more. They gave them a proportionate amount of beans, bacon and coffee. A sack of flour lasts one man six weeks. What these poor fellows will do when they eat that up nobody knows. Some people say they will not starve. I want to take no such chances. It is true that a great many people left Dawson, going down the river to Circle City and Fort Yukon. Hundreds came out over the ice, and are on the trails yet. Still, it is my belief that there are between 5,000 and 7,000 people here in the camp."

Ex-Policeman Roberts, of Seattle, replying to inquiries of the Government officials, said:

"If there is no danger of starvation in Klondike, why is it that so many people are coming out over the snow and ice? The truth of the matter is that provisions are scarce, suffering is ahead and people are coming out because they have not enough food to carry them through Winter. Some are well supplied and will go through all right, but there are more who are not. I would not be surprised if people died in the Klondike from starvation. The Government is certainly doing right in sending a relief expedition."

GOING TO THE KLONDIKE

First Expedition Will Start from Philadelphia Jan. 17.

Philadelphia, Jan. 10.—The first expedition to leave Philadelphia for the Klondike will sail Jan. 17, carrying twenty-four persons. The vessel that is to convey the incorporators of the company to their destination is the former Government pilot-boat, J. S. Baird, which has been purchased by them from the Government.

The little craft in which the intrepid fortune-hunters will proceed to the Yukon River by way of the Straits of Magellan, is schooner-rigged, 187 tons burden, 100 feet long and 25 feet beam, with a draught, when loaded, of 10 feet.

Every member of the crew is a stockholder in the company. They will all be on an equal footing. In order to get on the boat each man had to put up $1,000 toward the expenses of the expedition and to provide his own outfit at a cost of $250 more. Men taking their wives had to pay $1,000 extra and also to provide their outfit.

On the voyage and after reaching their destination the women will do their part of the work by taking charge of the culinary end of the business, and will also wash and mend for the whole party.

TO STOP BAD MONEY.

Chief Hazen to Search Personally for Counterfeiters.

Washington, Jan. 10.—The discovery of two more counterfeit one hundred dollar silver certificates in Philadelphia, and the first clew in the matter furnished by the fact that one of them came from a bank in the interior of Pennsylvania, has caused the Government to take extraordinary measures to run down the criminals.

Chief Hazen, of the Secret Service Bureau, has been relieved of all routine work temporarily. Chief Brackett, of the appointment division of the Treasury Department, will act as chief and Mr. Hazen will be at liberty to devote his whole time to the counterfeiters.

The chief is on his mettle. The case furnishes him with a great opportunity for detective work of a high order. The counterfeit is regarded as the most dangerous one that ever appeared, and the officials fear the engraver, now that his secret is out, will turn his attention and his art to notes of other denominations.

It is understood that Chief Hazen's work in this case will have an important bearing on his official future. The picked men of the Secret Service will second his efforts.

When the counterfeit was first examined it was decided by Chief Hazen that it had been made by the photo-mechanical process. It is now believed by the Treasury experts that it is the work of a skilful engraver. Indeed, the back of the counterfeit is so nearly perfect that it is pronounced by Assistant Treasurer Meline and other experts to be identical with the genuine.

There is a belief that the plate used by the counterfeiters is genuine and was stolen from the Bureau of Engraving and Printing. Chief Johnson, of this Bureau, says the bad notes show a minute imperfection and that no plate has been stolen from the Bureau.

ALIVE IN A COFFIN.

Strange Case Comes to Light in Shamokin, Pa.

Shamokin, Pa., Jan. 10.—Whether Lucas Homiak was dead or living when placed in a coffin is a question which is agitating this place.

Homiak is a miner, and died, so the authorities say, at the hospital. He was placed in the dead house, where he lay for three hours; was packed in ice and shipped to his friends. When the body was received at Homiak's late residence the house was full of friends.

Before these the lid was lifted, and it is the claim of these friends that Homiak was then alive. He died, however, again, or really, five minutes later.

This at any rate is the story which the now surely dead Homiak's friends swore to before a justice. On the other hand, the hospital authorities assert that Homiak was dead when laid in the deadhouse, and as Homiak has been buried the principal witness is absent, after all.

RELIEF REACHES CUBA.

First Distribution of Necessities to Dying Reconcentrados in Havana.

Havana, Jan. 10.—The first distribution of supplies received from the United States Consulate for the reconcentrados took place yesterday at the residence of Dr. Villiosola, of the special committee appointed by Senor Bruzon, Governor of Havana, and Consul-General Lee to superintend the work.

La Discusion expresses profuse gratitude for this American charity. It published a special supplement, the proceeds of the sale of which will be turned over to the relief fund.

In a leading editorial La Discusion asks the insurgents, in the name of humanity and for the sake of their mothers, wives, sisters and children dying of starvation, to lay down their arms and to make peace with the Government.

Object to Such a Hospital.

Philadelphia, Jan. 10.—A proposition to establish a foundling hospital in Philadelphia has met with formidable opposition from a number of women conspicuous in the high social circles. They take the ground that such institutions have a tendency to encourage immorality. Bishop Whitaker, of the Protestant Episcopal diocese of Pennsylvania; the Rev. Dr. McVickar, Bishop Coadjutor of Rhode Island, and Dr. S. Weir Mitchell have taken an active part in the movement.

THE LION IS SNARLING

War Cloud Darkens Owing to the Chinese Situation.

CLASH OF ARMS EXPECTED

Report That a Flying Squadron is Being Equipped for Service, Owing to a Break of Faith by Germany.

London, Jan. 10.—The Far Eastern crisis still overshadows all public questions throughout Europe. A rumor is current that England is about to send out another flying squadron, stronger even than the one equipped at a few days' notice just two years ago for the Kaiser's contemplation. This suggests sufficient reason for imperial anxiety at Berlin.

The rumor is denied at the Admiralty Office, of course.

When the Germans seized Kiao-Chou Bay, England protested, as is already known, but it was not know until today that the German Government gave certain assurances, which ordinary persons would call extremely vague, but which, in the language of diplomacy, would be described as satisfactory. It now transpires that these assurances by no means square with the terms of the bargain secured by Germany, and a fresh protest therefore will have to be made in London. It was doubtless for the purpose of hearing Lord Salisbury's new note to Germany and of discussing the scheme for guaranteeing the new Chinese loan that the Ministers met to-day.

It is likely that the German Foreign Office has armed itself with precedents for its "lease of sovereignty" which forms the basis of the Chinese arrangement, but so far as ascertained Lord Salisbury has been unable to find one, and this will stiffen his back, for he is essentially orthodox in diplomatic methods.

The Foreign Office experts are agreed that the German lease is elastic enough to enable Germany to exploit the whole of the densely-populated Shang-Tung Peninsula, and German exploitation means the keeping of everybody else out. To this England will never agree. That is why preparations have been made for calling out the naval reserve.

It is nearly a fortnight since the announcement of such preparations was made, and it remains uncontradicted for the reason that it was virtually made at the request of the Government itself.

Your correspondent is now enabled to complement the original statement by the announcement that mobilization plans have been sent to the naval commanders at Chatham, Sheerness, Portsmouth and Devonport. Doubtless the British stations abroad have been similarly instructed, but your correspondent's informant can answer only for the home stations.

Of all the curious rumors which have been current the past week in connection with the Chinese question the queerest is surely one which declares that the tiny squadron commanded by Prince Henry of Prussia, now en route to China, is being secretly followed all through its long voyage by three British warships. This rumor has not found its way to the newspapers, but it has taken possession of the West End social, naval and military clubs. The suggestion, of course, is that the position is so critical that before Prince Henry gets to China there will be war between England and Germany, in which event the Deutschland and Gefion, Prince Henry's ships, will be forthwith gobbled up by the mysterious following warships.

SECOND APPEAL FOR CUBANS.

Secretary Sherman Asks Aid of Municipal and Other Corporations.

Washington, Jan. 10.—In a second appeal issued Saturday on the question of Cuban relief, Secretary Sherman, on behalf of President McKinley, announces the appointment, with the cooperation of the American Red Cross, the New York Chamber of Commerce and one of the leading representatives of the religious community, of a central Cuban Relief Committee, with headquarters in New York. The committee is composed of Stephen E. Barton, chairman, second vice-president of the American National Red Cross; Charles A. Schieren, treasurer, a member of the New York Chamber of Commerce, and Louis Klopsch. The proclamation says:

"It will be the office of the committee so organized not only to receive and forward to the United States Consul-General at Havana such money and necessary supplies as may be contributed by the people of the United States, but to invoke in its own name and through the three great interests it fitly represents the concurrent effort of local relief boards throughout the United States and to invite the kindly aid of the transportation agencies of the Untied States for the prompt conveyance of the contributed supplied to the seaboard and their shipment thence to Cuba.

"By direction of the President the undersigned appeals to the people in every city and town, to the municipal authorities thereof, to local boards of trade and transportation, to corporations and others producing necessities of life, and to all whose hearts are open to the cry of distress and affliction, to second the generous effort now being made, and by well-directed endeavor make its success truly responsive to the sentiments of charity that have ever characterized the American people.

"JOHN SHERMAN,
"Secretary of State."

Gov. Hastings' Appeal for Cuba.

Harrisburg, Jan. 10.—Gov. Hastings, on Saturday, issued a proclamation calling upon the people of Pennsylvania to aid the destitute inhabitants of Cuba "according to their respective inclinations and well-known philanthropy, and as God has prospered them." Mayors Warwick, of Philadelphia; Ford, of Pittsburg; Bailey, of Scranton, and Patterson, of Harrisburg, are designated as depositaries to whom donations should be sent.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

"My daughter, when recovering from an attack of fever, was a great sufferer from pain in the back and hips," writes Louden Grover, of Sardis, Ky. "After using quite a number of remedies without any benefit she tried one bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm, and it has given entire relief." Chamberlain's Pain Balm is also a certain cure for rheumatism. Sold by T. S. Armstrong, apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

Charles Dupee, of Rockview avenue, has returned to Yale University after spending the holidays at home.

Persons who are troubled with indigestion will be interested in the experience of Wm. H. Penn, chief clerk, in the railway mail service at Des Moines, Iowa, who writes: "It gives me pleasure to testify to the merits of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy. For two years I have suffered from indigestion, and am subject to frequent severe attacks of pain in the stomach and bowels. One or two doses of this remedy never fails to give perfect relief." Price 25 and 50 cents; sold by T. S. Armstrong, apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

William M. McCutchen, of Rockview terrace, returned to his studies at Yale University this morning.

The progressive ladies of Westfield, Ind., issued a "Woman's Edition" of the Westfield News, bearing date of April 3d, 1896. The paper is filled with matter of interest to women, and we notice the following from a correspondent, which the editors printed, realizing that it treats upon a matter of vital importance to their sex: "The best remedy for croup, colds and bronchitis that I have been able to find is Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. For family use it has no equal. I gladly recommend it." 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by T. S. Armstrong apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

Mrs. M. E. Whiton, of Central avenue, has gone to visit her daughter in Massachusetts.

Mothers whose children are troubled with bad colds, croup or whooping-cough will do well to read what Dr. R. R. Robey, of Olney, Mo., says on this subject, He writes: "For years we have used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, and always keep it in the house. It is regarded in our family as a specific for all kinds of colds and coughs." The 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by T. S. Armstrong, apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

BUSHNELL THREATENED

Arrangements Made to Protect Ohio's Governor To-Day.

HANNA IS VERY CONFIDENT

His Supporters Claim That They Have the Necessary Votes to Elect Him—Serious Trouble Feared During the Inauguration.

Columbus, O., Jan. 10.—Special arrangements have been made to protect Gov. Bushnell from personal violence during his inauguration to-day.

Serious trouble is feared during the inauguration, and at the mass meeting and especially to-night, after both of these events are over. The attendance will be much greater than ever before on an inauguration day. The railways report their inability in some places to furnish sufficient cars.

Senator Hanna thinks that his election is sure. His managers say they see the necessary 73 votes for him, and that the tide of popular sentiment will make his vote larger than is necessary. One week ago Saturday night, the Hanna tickets for the organization of the Legislature were defeated in the Republican caucus. On last Monday the Senate was organized by a vote of 19 to 17 against him, and the House by 56 to 53 against him, a total of 75 to 70 against Hanna. The Senator's managers claim that the standing is now the reverse, and if there was a ballot to-night, Hanna would be elected by 75 to 70. The opposition concedes the loss of Representative Manuel, of Montgomery County, and claim that they still have votes to spare in defeating Hanna.

There have been a list of bets posted at the Neil House, ranging from $500 to $5,000, or any parts thereof, for even money on the election of Hanna. Other private wagers are offered, but none have been taken. There were $3,000 deposited at the Neil House office for even bets on Hanna and it remains there.

Reports from indignation meetings in the counties are pouring into the Hanna headquarters. These meetings of the clubs, county committees and other organizations at which speeches are made and resolutions adopted against Gov. Bushnell, the bolting Republican members and others, will not be continued unless there is a deadlock this week. Those who have been holding meetings at their homes the past week will be here to-day, for the general mass meeting that has been called by the Republican State Committee.

The ceremonies of the inauguration of Gov. Bushnell occur at noon to-day, and the mass meeting is announced for 2.30 p. m. As the inaugural exercises will not be over when the mass meeting begins there is intense feeling among the friends of Gov. Bushnell. Mr. Kurtz and others because this meeting was called at a time when it will conflict with the inauguration.

The State Committee explains that many who will be here to-day expect to leave on the evening trains and that no later hour could be fixed for the meeting, at which strong resolutions will no doubt be adopted against the newly-inaugurated Governor, the bolting Republican members of the Legislature and others. The clubs that refuse to participate in the inauguration will attend the mass meeting in bodies, and there are fears of serious collisions on the streets.

At some of the meetings resolutions have been adopted insisting that Harry C. Mason resign as speaker and that all other Republicans elected to legislative offices by the bolting Republicans combining with the Democratic members give up their places or get out of the Republican party.

While the doubtful Republicans seem to be drifting toward the Hanna column there is still trouble with some of the Democratic members who do not want to vote for any Republican for Senator. It is believed that the Democratic members will hold a joint senatorial caucus to-night, so as to try to enforce the unit rule in the senatorial vote. Unless this is done, it seems certain that no one except Hanna can be elected on the first ballot. The Hanna men are confident that if any of the doubtful men should not vote with them on the first ballot, no one else can be elected on that ballot, owing to the Democratic vote being scattered.

"The incorrectness of claims by Mr. Hanna was proven by the test vote in the matter of House organization. He claimed the organization up to the time the test vote was taken and lost. The same claims are being made again on the senatorship, and the result will be the same. Mr. Hanna will not be elected."

Price of Vote $7,000.

Columbus, O., Jan. 10.—Heretofore, it is said, the price of a vote in the Ohio Legislature for the United States Senatorship has been $5,000, but the advent of women in the political contest has been the means of raising the limit to $7,000. It is understood that one of the Representatives whose vote is needed by the Hanna faction is willing to accept $5,000 for his ballot, but his wife insists on getting $2,000 additional to allow her husband to deliver the goods to Senator Hanna to-morrow in the Legislature.

PLAINFIELD A MODEL.

The observing editor of the Morristown Chronicle, one of the best newspapers in New Jersey, read some of the reports submitted by city officials at the recent meeting of the Common Council, and he was so favorably impressed that he wrote the following editorial comment:

It might be a wise step for the committee recently appointed by the Board of Trade of this city to visit Plainfield with a view of inspecting the various methods which are doing so much in the way of adding to its attractiveness as a place of residence, as well as establishing a healthy home trade.

Mayor Fisk, of Plainfield, suggests in his annual message that bicycles, horses and carriages be taxed for the improvement of the public highways. As far as the proposition concerns bicycles it is sound, but people who own horses and carriages are taxed now for personal property, if the assessor is not derelict. There is no more reason for a special tax on horses and carriages, because they use the highways, than there would be in a tax on pedestrians' shoes.—New Brunswick Home News.

Collector Spencer, of the borough, will enter upon his new duties as Surrogate January 25th. No doubt a special meeting of the Borough Council will be called this month to appoint George F. Brown as Collector to fill the unexpired term. The announcement that Mr. Brown would be appointed to the office was published in these colums some time ago.

Death of a Youth.

John Charles McDonnell, the eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh McDonnell, of Park avenue, died at his home yesterday after a long illness. He was nine years of age. He has been very ill with pneumonia and it was feared that the end was at hand. He was a great favorite with all who knew him, as he was a smart, plucky little lad.

car was wrecked by the contact. The fragment of the tire continued its flight over in a neighboring field where it half buried itself in the soil

The passengers heard the crash and became greatly excited. The little Frenchman in the first car was so frightened that he could not say a word at first. Everybody was shaken up by the sudden application of the brakes. When the train stopped most of the passengers jumped out to see the cause of the trouble. Engineer Houston remained at his post as cool and composed as if nothing had happened. His fireman was still dazed.

As soon as the news of the accident reached the North Avenue station, Owen Smith, who was in charge of the telegraph station, sent word to Jersey City. Engine number 1027, of the Atlantic City Railroad, was started from Jersey City to take the train to Philadelphia. Engine 450 was not in condition to continue and was sent back to Jersey City for repairs. The combination car was taken out of the train and left on a siding. The passengers were transferred to the other coaches. The two Blue Line coaches and the Pullman parlor car, which composed the rest of the train, were sent on to Washington at 1:20 o'clock, drawn by engine 1027.

Nessl recovered sufficiently before the train started to tell a Press reporter his story and explain what an unpleasant thing glass was to have down the back. He did not care to sit down. The wounds on his face bled freely at first. They were not serious. He closed his eyes in time to prevent any of the fragments of glass from entering them.

THEATRICAL.

Washburn's Minstrels, announced to appear at Stillman Music Hall Thursday night, is meeting with great success enroute to this city. A Chester, Pa., paper in speaking of the performance of the company one night last week, says: "The house was packed to its utmost capacity last night, the crowd being drawn by the announcement of the appearance of Washburn's big double minstrel enterprise. Long before the rising of the curtain the house was packed, the rush being drawn by the reputation of the unparalleled organization. The show throughout was highly enjoyable and the large audience attested their pleasure by frequent outbursts of applause." Reserved seat tickets are now ready at box office.

Robert Hilliard and Company appear Saturday night in a revised edition of his play "Lost 24 Hours," entitled "A New Yorker."

An Execution Issued.

Execution was issued by Justice Thomas in the case of Thatcher against Debele before the time in which the defendent is allowed to file an appeal bond had expired. BRYAN ATTACKS SECRETARY GAGE.

Discusses the Silver Situation at a Chicogo Banquet.

Chicago, Jan. 10.—William Jennings Bryan attended the Jackson Day banquet, given under the auspices of the William J. Bryan Club, at the Tremont Saturday night, and made the principal address. Among the other speakers were Samuel E. Morse, editor of the Indianapolis Sentinel; Mayor Taggart, of Indianapolis; Congressman Cobb, of Georgia; Congressman Lewis, of Washington, and D. J. Campau, Democratic National Committeeman from Michigan.

In the course of his address at the club banquet Mr. Bryan said:

"It seems that every generation presents a combat between the producers of wealth and the money changers. The latter, conducting their campaign in secrecy, fasten themselves upon the body politic, and prey upon industry until their hold is broken by an awakened and indignant public.

"The present Secretary of the Treasury, Mr. Gage, is eminently fitted to be the instrument of the financiers in their effort to complete the scheme commenced twenty-four years ago and continued without interruption.

"He possesses a sublime faith in the superiority of money over man and a supreme contempt for the rights, the interest and the opinions of the people at large.

"He knows that in the campaign of 1896 the party composed of bolting Democrats was the only party which dared to declare the gold standard a blessing.

"He knows that at the polls 99 per cent. of the voters registered their opposition to a single gold standard, differing only as to the means of securing bimetallism. He knows that the President sent a commission to Europe to beg other nations to help us get rid of the gold standard.

"He knows that the maintenance of the gold standard means unmerited advantage to the money owning and the bondholding classes and undeserved punishment to the vast majority of the people of this country and of the civilized world.

"Yet in spite of his knowledge of all these facts he is deliberately planning to fasten the gold standard permanently upon the people of the United States.

"Mr. Gage knows these facts, and yet he is seeking to organize a money trust more dangerous not only to the industries, but to the liberties of the people, than all the other trusts combined. Under such circumstances the memory of the hero of New Orleans ought to be invoked in every State, county and hamlet to arouse the people to a sense of their danger."

He referred to the reductions of wages of cotton operatives in New England, and said:

"Is this the result which they proclaimed would follow 'the opening of the mills instead of the mints?' If our enemies boast that they have buried bimetallism we point to these wage reductions as the weeping willows which have sprung up about its temporary tomb. Why is not some court asked to enjoin the employers from uniting together to reduce wages?"

"Since the last celebration of Jackson's Day," he said in closing "thousands of political prodigals have returned to the old home, and thousands more are growing weary of the husks. The reception of those who have returned has depended upon the spirit which animated the prodigals.

"Those who have come back acknowledging the binding force of the Chicago platform and willing to work harmoniously side by side with the brethren who went not astray, have been taken into full fellowship and their wanderings forgiven. But those who have swaggered back, boasting of their intention to remodel the house and revolutionize the method, have found neither the fatted calf nor the banquet hall.

"Unless all political omens fail, the twentieth century will open with the money of the Constitution restored and the motto, 'Equal rights to all and special privileges to none,' the controlling principle in all departments of the Government. Then will all our people sing a new song of a nation redeemed."

Mr. Bryan's address was frequently interrupted by applause, and a hearty cheer marked its close.

DID HIS DUTY AND DIED.

Doctor's Blood Poisoned Through His Peforming an Operation.

Camden, N. J., Jan. 10.—Dr. O. W. Braymer died from blood poisoning yesterday morning after a few hours' illness. He was on the staff of surgeons of the Cooper Hospital.

On last Friday he officiated at an operation in the hospital by which a dangerous abscess was removed from a patient. It is supposed that the doctor had a scratch on his forehead over the right eye and that unconsciously he touched it before washing his hands.

By Saturday morning an abscess had begun to form over his eyes. On Saturday afternoon he was obliged to take to his bed. The poison acted rapidly, and yesterday morning at 8 o'clock he died.

Train Falls Fifteen Feet.

Montgomery, Ala., Jan. 10.—At 10 o'clock yesterday afternoon a day coach on west-bound train No. 36 of the Western Alabama Railroad went through Cubahatchie Bridge, twenty-one miles east of Montgomery, falling fifteen feet. The conductor and flagman were injured seriously and eighteen passengers received bruises or other injuries, none of which are serious.

Boston, Jan. 10.—The Executive Committee of the Mule Spinners' Union yesterday gave permission to the mule spinners of Lowell and New Bedford to strike, and an assessment of 25 cents per week was levied on the members of the union. The Executive Committee also ordered $500 from the national funds to be placed at the disposal of the Strike Committee.

MAJOR HANDY DEAD.

He Expired After a Long Illness at Aiken, S. C.

Washington, Jan. 10.—Major Moses P. Handy, Commissioner of the United States to the Paris Exposition of 1900, died at noon Saturday. His body has been taken to Berlin, Md., for burial.

Mr. Handy has been ill several months. He went to Paris in the Summer to secure space for the American exhibit at the exhibition, and was taken ill there with nervous prostration.

Major Handy was a Virginian and served in the Confederate Army. He was director of the Department of Publicity and Promotion at the Chicago World's Fair.

Career of Major Handy.

Major Handy was born in Missouri in 1847. He served in the Confederate Army in the War of the Rebellion. His newspaper career began in 1867, when he joined the staff of the Richmond Dispatch. He was sent to Key West by the New York Tribune in 1873 in anticipation of trouble between this country and Spain over the Virginius affair, and his work in reporting the surrender of the Virginius resulted in his being placed on the editorial staff of the Tribune.

MOSES P. HANDY.

After serving as a member of the Centennial Commission, in 1876, he accepted a position as editorial writer on the Philadelphia Press. He became managing editor of the Press in 1880, remaining until 1885.

Major Handy was a member of the World's Fair National Commission to Europe, arranging for the participation of the various countries in the fair. When H. H. Kohlsaat became owner of the Chicago Times-Herald Mr. Handy entered the service of the paper as editor-in-chief. He was a warm champion of Mr. McKinley in the Presidential campaign.

Major Handy did much to promote fellowship among newspaper men. He was the organizer of the famous Philadelphia Clover Club and the Fellowship Club of Chicago. He received the degree of Master of Arts from Delaware College in 1882. He married Miss Sarah Matthews in 1869. One of his sons, Moses P. Handy, Jr., died a couple of years ago.

MORE FRAUD FOUND.

Several More Suspicious Postal Money Orders Discovered.

Washington, Jan. 10.—The money order scandal referred to in these dispatches on Saturday may reach the proportions of a gigantic steal, with the probabilities that the thieves will escape detection. Many checks which might have been used to bring guilty men to justice have been destroyed.

It is impossible now to estimate the loss to the Government. One case, that of a postmaster in Nebraska, who put $220.50 in his pocket, turning into the Treasury $4.50 on money orders for $225, has been placed in the hands of the inspectors for the Postoffice Department.

The inspectors are also looking for a clerk who erased the word "void" written across the face of a money order, forged a postmaster's name thereon and collected $90.

Thirty checkers who are at work have discovered more suspicious orders, which they say are largely fraudulent. It is said that from July 1, 1897, until Jan. 1 of the present year money orders valued at more than $13,000,000 had been issued. The checkers so far have only examined the orders for July and August, and, it is expected, will be at work many more months before they complete the work.

The auditor for the Postoffice Department is under the supervision of the Secretary of the Treasury. Mr. Gage has had a conference with Postmaster-General Gary as to the means to be adopted to prevent and further chance of fraud. Both will recommend to Congress that a change in the form of the money order be authorized.

Representative Dockery, who was instrumental in having the present money order system adopted, believes the discovery made by the Auditor's office is a mare's nest, created largely with a view of discrediting the system. It has been suggested that the Auditor would like Congressional authority to increase the clerical force of the office.

"We don't want any more clerks," said Auditor Castle. "What we want, however, is a system which will prevent the Government being swindled."

Besides urging a change in the form of the money order, it is proposed to limit the life of such an order to three months. An order is now good for twelve months, and can be extended at the expiration of that time for a similar period. Here again is a chance for fraud. The only persons who will be affected by this order will be actors and others who use the Government as a bank by means of the system, and they amount to 2 per cent. of the whole number of users of the money order.

Train Parts a Family.

Rochester, Jan. 10.—An engine on the Lehigh Valley crashed into a farmer's wagon at Farlington yesterday morning, threw the occupants in the air and fatally injured a child in its mother's arms. The persons in the wagon were William Lowin, his wife, a girl 3 years old and a baby, who was killed.

The father and little girl escaped with comparatively slight bruises. Mrs. Lowin was horribly injured. Her jaws, upper and lower, were broken, her face was torn, and she will be disfigured for life. The baby's skull was fractured.

"BRICKS WITHOUT STRAW."

Do you ever ask yourself why you keep chickens?

Is it for pleasure? If so, would not a little profit add to the pride and pleasure?

Possibly it is because you wish to be sure of absolutely fresh eggs on your table. If so, would you not prefer to get the eggs during the winter rather than in the spring, "when everybody's eggs are fresh?"

We can make bricks in these days without straw, but no one can make hens lay eggs in the winter months unless he supplies special foods and care.

We aim to carry in our different stores everything that is necessary for the "Business Hen"—that is, the hen that pays for her board—and we would be pleased to hear from either large or small poultry raisers.

Among other things we would suggest:

Granulated Charcoal, Poultry Feed,
Ground Oyster Shells, Buckwheat Grain,
Chicken & Pigeon Grit, Barley,
Granulated Bone, Hemp Seed,
Meat Meal, Millet Seed,
Clover Heads, Sheridan's Powder.

PATENT PAD FOR SNORERS.

Invented by a Carpenter Who Warrants It to Stop Any Rip-Saw Sound.

S. Anderson, a carpenter and builder living in Chicago, has constructed an apparatus for the prevention and cure of snoring, which can hush the trumpeting of the loudest snorer that ever disturbed a neighborhood, to a sound as soft as a baby's breath. If the device, which has just been patented, is all it is claimed to be, it could be applied to the throat of a fog horn and a sound like the solo of a $5,000-a-night grand opera prima donna would come out of it.

Mr. Anderson's invention is not so much the result of his skill as a carpenter as that he has snored all his life himself. After trying for nearly fifty years to cure himself of the habit, and applying all remedies, from gargling his throat with salt and water before going to bed, to eating a slice of the wedding cake of a woman who had married the seventh son of a seventh son, all without the slightest effect, Mr. Anderson hit upon the device which he has just had patented.

The gag which he has constructed and which, it is said, will work wonders in that particular branch of music, is not as large as a croquet ball, as some people might think it would have to be to be effective. It is a small pad which rests in the mouth and is kept from being swallowed by a strap. It is said this will not interfere with the slumbers of the snorer, while, at the same time, it will keep the snorer from interfering with the slumbers of others.

Mr. Anderson's invention has not been completed long, but already a good many afflicted people have called at his house to look it over with a view to making presents to their friends. Some objections have been raised because it cannot be administered in a cup of coffee unknown to the snorer, but nearly everyone who has seen it has pronounced it a success. The device is to be manufactured in several sizes to suit the taste and capacity of the wearer. It is practically indestructible, and one of them may be handed down from father to son, or to daughter, if snoring exists on that side of the house.—Chicago Tribune.

A QUEER CHARACTER.

Ordered His Dinner Six Months Before and Kept His Appointment.

Mr. Scott, of Exeter, travelled on business till about eighty years of age. He was one of the most celebrated characters in the United Kingdom. For a long series of years the proprietor of every inn he frequented in Devon and Cornwall knew the day, and the very hour he would arrive. A short time before he died a gentleman, on a journey in Cornwall stopped at a small inn at Port Isaac to dine. The waiter presented him with a bill of fare, which he did not approve of; but observing a fine duck roasting, "I'll have that," said the traveler. "You cannot, sir," said the landlord; "it is for Mr. Scott, of Exeter."

"I know Mr. Scott very well," rejoined the gentleman; "he is not in your house." "True, sir," said the landlord; "but six months ago, when he was here last, he ordered a duck, to be ready for him this day, precisely at 2 o'clock!" And, to the astonishment of the traveler he saw the old gentleman jogging into the inn yard not five minutes later.—Answers.

A STRANGE DISCOVERY.

The Bile of a Serpent Proves an Antidote for Its Bite.

Another very effective agency for overcoming the venom of serpents has been discovered by Professor Thomas R. Fraser, of the University of Edinburgh. The new antidote is nothing more or less than the serpent's own bile.

Precisely how he obtained his clew the Edinburgh savant does not say. But he incidentally remarks that some of the native snake doctors in Africa have a remedy, compounded of several substances, of which one is snake bile, and they are accustomed to administer it not only by introducing it into the patient's stomach (where it is probably without effect), but also by rubbing it into the wound, where it would be absorbed into the blood. It is probable, therefore, that this wonderful provision of nature, which compels a serpent to secrete in one part of its system, a cure for the poison that it secretes in another, has long been known in some of those countries where the information is most likely to prove beneficial to mankind.—New York Tribune.

His Stipulation.

"My friend," said the Grand High Punk-a-Punk, with sepulchral solemnity, "you now approach that portion of the ordeal of initiation into our noble order in which you will be required to take upon yourself a binding obligation. While this obligation will

"No-no, I didn't think of it, dear, not conflict with any duty you owe to society, your family, your religion, or your country, it is my duty to warn you that it commits you to the performance of what we regard as important and necessary works and to the forsaking of certain things we regard as evils. Bearing this in mind, are you ready to proceed further in this solemn ceremony?"

"I am ready to take the obligation," replied the candidate in a clear, firm voice, "provided it does not deprive me of the privilege of manufacturing and selling the 'housekeepers' friend,' a little device of my own for seeding raisins, grating horseradish, putting scallops around the edge of a pie, opening a tin can, lifting a pan of hot biscuits from the oven without burning yourself, and cleaning lamp chimneys. The usual price of this unique article, gentlemen, is 25 cents, but in order to introduce it I will sell it to members of this noble order at the ridiculously low figure of 15 cents, with a further discount to purchasers of six or more. Upon the removal of this hoodwink from my eyes, gentlemen, it will afford me pleasure to read to you a lot of unsolicited testimonials to the merits of the 'housekeepers' friend' from parties who have used it and are thoroughly acquainted with its merits. Go ahead, mister, with the obligation."

He was subsequently tossed in a blanket and treated with great personal rspect in other ways, but he had no regrets. He had got his work in.

He Has Preached Sixty Years.

Elder Tice Spear is the oldest Christian preacher within our knowledge. Mr. Spear is eighty-seven years old, and has been preaching sixty of them. He walks to all of his appointments and carries a large valise containing his earthly possessions. He is one of the few who preach only for the good of the cause. During the sixty years of his ministry he has not received more than $250, and has never solicited a donation. Notwithstanding his advanced age, Mr. Spear gets about as lively as a boy of eighteen, and says he hopes to be able to preach his last sermon on his one hundredth birthday.—Tompkinsville, Ky., News.

Love and Magnolia.

South American lovers have a pretty custom. It is well known that when the petals of the great laurel magnolia are touched, however lightly, the result is a brown spot, which develops in a few hours. The fact is taken advantage of by the lover, who pulls a magnolia flour, and on one of its pure white petals writes a motto or message with a hard, sharp pointed pencil. Then he sends the flower, the young lady puts it in a vase of water, and in three or four hours the message written on the leaf becomes visible.

PROBLEM OF MANKIND.

FIRST OF UNIVERSITY EXTENSION LECTURES BY PROF. SUMNER.

His Subject was "What is a Free Man and a Free State"—Alleviation of Sufferings of Mankind Must be by Action

A lecture of more than usual interest was that given last evening in the chapel of the Crescent Avenue church by Prof. W. G. Sumner, of Yale University, in the course of University Extension lectures. The lecture was the first in a course of six to be given by Prof. Sumner.

The subject was "What is a Free Man and a Free State." At the opening Prof. Sumner quoted the following from Huxley, which he said would be the ruling principle of the lectures to be given:

"There can be no alleviation of the sufferings of mankind except in absolute veracity of thought and actions, and a reasonable facing of the world as it is, with all the garment of makebelief thrown off."

Prof. Sumner then spoke somewhat as follows:

"The ills of life are the abiding problem of mankind. There has been a sort of philosophy of good and bad luck, good and bad spirits, and it has to a certain extent ruled man. It has been the question what will we do to get good spirits to come and assist us? All sorts of systems have been employed to solve the great mystery. The above theory having failed to alleviate suffering, men turned their minds to matters of State, and they believed that political power would aid them, then a Republican form of government was sought, and many kings were done away with, for it was thought that kings were plundering the people. With the abolition of kings there came no relief, and a constitutional government was sought to relieve the discontent of the people. That did not help to remove the prevailing ills and pains.

"The next thing was a Democratic form of government. That was believed to be the key to the mystery, and a source of comfort to the people. The great passion of the people of the nineteenth century has been luxury and comfort. No one can deny it. This passion has got into the masses, but the Democratic form of government made it just as hard to provide for a family, and the next step was toward universal suffrage. That was held out as a panacea, but that has not brought the desired relief hoped for, and at the close of the nineteenth century we find an irritable and angry lot of people, and that disappointment has produced ills.

"Discontent is no proof of wrong, but rather of well-doing. Liberty is a chance. It is a case of up or down, high or low. It is the same about education. Knowledge is power and nothing else. What will a person do with knowledge after they get it, is the que tion.

"The more economic power we have the less we will be perplexed over our troubles. In these days we are not as equal as in the Colonial days, when all were educated on the same scale, when all lived in great rural comfort. Do you suppose that anything can keep that equality, any Democratic or Republican form of self-government? We must learn what liberty cost, then we will know how to appreciate it fully."

The second lecture in the course by Prof. Sumner will be on the subject, "What is Democracy?"

ANGERED AT A BOY'S PRANK.

A Westfield Man Accused of Assaulting a Youth.

James Ratsford, the proprietor of a laundry on Broad street, Westfield, was arrested there last evening charged with assaulting Carl Gluck, an eight-year-old boy. He was taken before Justice of the Peace Toucey and held under $100 bail to await the action of the Grand Jury.

Gluck, along with some other lads, was throwing snowballs last evening, when he accidentally hurled one into the window of Ratsford's laundry, breaking it. The proprietor of the place, it is alleged, ran out and, seizing the lad, struck him several times. He then took him to Constable J. M. C. Marsh and demanded that he be placed in the lockup. The constable released Gluck, and later, on complaint of the boy's father, arrested Ratsford.

To be Sold at Foreclosure.

Holton, February 16th next. It consists of some ninety-five acres of land in the best section of Piscataway township, and has been owned by Mr. Drake for over forty years. The sale will occur at the New Brunswick Court House.

THE POWERS AT TRENTON

THE LEGISLATURE WAS PUT IN MOTION THIS NOON.

Many Union and Somerset County Faces are Noticed Among the Politicians—Senator Reed's Political Debt—Gossip.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Trenton, Jan. 11th.—Union county is well represented at the opening of the Legislature today, many notable Republicans being present to watch the machinery of the State put in operation. As is generally the instance, Elizabeth sends the largest delegation of the powers that be, but Plainfield faces are not at all hard to see in loitering around the State House and hotel corridors.

Assemblyman Murray is one of the youngest members of the lower house, and the sang froid manner he assumes in the presence of the older war horses of legislation bespeaks his ability to hold his own during the session. Mr. Murray already had a large acquaintance among the party leaders of State repute, but this morning he broadened his scope of acquaintances considerably.

Familiar countenances from "Old Somerset" are not missing by any means. Foremost of them all, of course, is the tall and lithe figure of the popular Senator—Mr. Reed. Whatever anyone else may do in an exciting way the "Tall Sycamore" always pursues the even tenor of his way. Mayhap you think he is not quite aggressive enough, not enough ginger in his character, but that is where you are mistaken. No blare of trumpets accompanies his political course but, in the parlance of the day, he gets there just the same.

The Senator's persuasive manner is shown in the appointment of George W. Cooper, of Somerville, to the position of bill clerk in the upper house. It will be remembered that the Somervillian of aldermanic girth and smooth face was in the fight against H. N. Spencer for the Surrogateship nomination on the Republican ticket last fall, but was beat out by a few votes. Senator Reed was understood to be a Cooper supporter and his position caused some enmity towards him in the Spencer camp. The passing gossip said that Reed's espousal of Cooper's cause was in payment of the latter's help to make Reed Senator. Cooper's appointment is doubtless intended as a more complete payment of the political debt.

Late last night the Assembly organization slate was completed, and by its makeup Billy Hulskamper, of Elizabeth, lands a good plum in the journal clerkship. John V. A. VanCleef, of Somerset, is made one of the assistant sergeant-at-arms.

The doorkeepers and messengers will probably be seleted today and it is more than likely that some Plainfielder will get a place in the list.

William Kline, one of the colored Republican leaders in Plainfield, is here today anxiously awaiting to hear the result of his application for an appointment as doorkeeper. The colored man seems to think that his services to the G. O. P. in keeping his race in line in Plainfield is deserving of some recognition.

FUNERAL OF A REVEREND.

Impressive Obsequies Held Over Remains of the Late Rev. E. E. Jones.

The funeral services of the late Rev. Edward Everitt Jones, who died at his home on Grove street last Thursday evening, were held at 2:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon in the First Baptist church. The edifice was crowded by the relatives and friends of the deceased. Among the audience were many people from Rahway and New Market, in both of which places Mr. Jones had held pastoral positions.

The music, which was appropriate and finely rendered, consisted of a contralto solo by Mrs. T. M. Ward, of Elizabeth, and selections by the church choir.

Eloquent addresses were delivered by Rev. Robert Lowry, D. D., and Rev. D. J. Yerkes, D. D. Both speakers dwelt on their knowledge of the personal traits of the deceased, and related many anecdotes illustrating his fine Christian character.

The hymn "Shall We Gather at the River," composed by Dr. Lowry, was then read, and Rev. J. W. Richardson, pastor of the Park Avenue Baptist church, delivered the closing prayer.

Before being dismissed the congregation was given an opportunity to take a last look at the features of their departed friend. The floral offerings were very beautiful, consisting of elaborate designs of lillies, white and pink roses and violets.

—Every woman of Plainfield should attend the free lectures in cookery, Wednesday, January 12th, at 2:30 p. m., at Y. M. C. A. Hall. Novel, entertaining and instructive. Bring spoon, fork and note book.

KING OF BUNCO STEERERS LIVED IN PLAINFIELD.

NOTABLE CAPTURE OF ONE OF THE MOST NOTORIOUS CRIMINALS IN THE COUNTRY.

Resides With His Wife on Carlton Avenue—His Bosom Partner, Who Also Lives Here, is Still at Liberty, But is Much Wanted by the Police.

Two Plainfielders, charged with buncoing the farmers of the eastern and New England States out of many hundreds of thousands of dollars, have been the object of a relentless pursuit for the last two weeks by two detectives from Jersey City. Last night, one of the men, George Spencer, who has been living on Carleton avenue for the last year, was arrested in Philadelphia. The other man, Louis Ludlum, of 1002 Putnam avenue, has escaped. The police of the eastern states consider the arrest one of the most important made for many months.

Spencer has been indicted in seventeen different States on the charge of buncoing rich old farmers out of their thousands of savings. He has, in each case, jumped his bail. He is now particularly wanted at Lowell, Mass., of a similar charge, where he gave bail for $18,500 in cash and then disappeared. The detectives have been on his trail since then and have now, with the assistance of the Jersey City authorities and Chief Grant, of this city, run him to earth.

For a number of years the police of the different cities through New England and the eastern states have learned of many cases of a successful working of a bunco scheme, the three-card monte trick and the gold brick game being the preferred methods employed. It was evident that there was an organized gang of the bunco-steerers who had entered the business and conducted it in a wholesale manner. They did not confine their operations to the east alone, but frequently visited the rich farming districts of the west, usually with success. The bunco-men were constantly on the alert. They conducted their affairs so that it was almost impossible to locate them.

Behind these expert swindlers was a syndicate worth, it is estimated, over $1,000,000. They had studied the business and did their jobs thoroughly. They are accounted the most clever swindlers in the country. There was a gang of eight men, it is claimed, who worked together throughout the country. They spared no expense to carry out their schemes. In the gang were two men who are particularly noted throughout the country as being the leaders of the bunco men. One was George Spencer, also known as John Reed, who is looked on by the different detective bureaus of the country as the king of bunco steerers.

The other was "Little Lou" Ludlum, his trusty lieutenant, who knew the game from A to Z. They have worked together and have been the brains of the gang. They directed the movements of the rest and have worked the biggest hauls themselves with the assistance of others of the gang.

Both men have been caught and indicted. They were placed under bonds which they proceeded to jump without delay. Their pictures are in the Rogue's Gallery of the principal cities of the country.

They went about the work of buncoing the farmers in a very systematic way. They spared no expense to make their plans as complete as possible. They even went so far as to publish a paper which they circulated through the districts in which they intended to work. The paper told of various items of news relating to the farms and their owners in the neighborhood.

The last offence of the bunco-men brought them into trouble. It was in the vicinity of Lowell, Mass. One farmer lost $3,500 and the other $2,500. The swindlers were pursued. Ludlum rode down the constable that tried to stop him and escaped. Spencer escaped by covering his pursuers with a revolver, but was afterwards captured at a neighboring town, word having been sent ahead by telephone. Spencer was put under $18,500 bail, which was put up in cash. He disappeared, leaving the bail.

T. J. Whitney, a State detective from Massachusetts, was put on his trail. He found that Spencer had gone to Jersey City and notified the police of that city. Chief Murphy, of the Jersey City force, took the case in hand. Detectives R. H. Piersen and Michael McNally, of the force, were detailed on the case.

Spencer was not caught in Jersey City. He was traced to this city, however. Chief Grant was put on the case. With the assistance of the Jersey City detectives, he started an investigation. Both Spencer and Ludlum were discovered to be residents of this city. They did not remain here, however. The detectives continued on their trail. They set a lively chase through the neighboring states. It was learned that they were preparing to take their departure for Europe. The pursuit had grown too hot. They wanted to reach some place of safety.

The pursuit began eight days ago. The bunco men did not dare to remain in any city for any length of time. They paid a flying visit to this city. Their preparations for the trip abroad were hurried. Yesterday they went to Philadelphia. The detectives were close on their track. They telegraphed to the Philadelphia authorities. Spencer was arrested last night by Chief Detective Miller, of the Philadelphia force. Ludlum went another way and escaped arrest. He is still being pursued.

Ludlum lived on Putnam avenue, corner of Richmond street, in the house formerly occupied by John Mortimer. His wife lived with him. There were no children. The house was handsomely furnished. Ludlum made a number of acquaintances and was well liked by all who knew him. He always had plenty of money.

Spencer lived in greater style on Carlton avenue. His family consisted only of his wife. They had a large corps of servants, a coachman, a footman and a butler. The house was magnificantly furnished. They kept several horses and carriages. Spencer always promptly paid his bills and seemed to have plenty of money.

Chief Grant has been working on the case for the last week. He secured all the information about the families of the two men. Through the information he secured, the Jersey City detectives were greatly aided. They spoke very highly of his assistance.

A reporter of The Daily Press called this afternoon at the house occupied by Ludlum and his wife at 1002 Putnam avenue. He was ushered into a richly furnished parlor, and in a few minutes Mrs. Ludlum appeared.

She refused to make any statement whatever regarding her husband's business or his present whereabouts.

The house of Spencer, on Carlton avenue, was next visited, but the colored maid who came to the door said that Mrs. Spencer had gone out for a walk early this morning and had not yet returned.

She had not seen Mr. Spencer in the house since the day he rented the property last fall.

His wife had stated to the help that her husband was ill in another city, and had gone away, ostensibly to visit him on several occasions.

A despatch from Philadelphia says: Reed, alias Greenhalge, was arrested here under the name of Geo. Spencer. A woman was arrested with him, but was not held. His trunk and other effects were taken to Police Headquarters and examined.

Reed was arrested at the Reading terminal station on the arrival of a train from New York. Whitney traced him to New York, and finding he had fled, notified the police here. The woman who was arrested was traveling as his wife.

A DANISH MISSION.

To Have the Lutheran Faith Expounded to Them Regularly.

The meeting to organize a Danish Lutheran church was held, as announced, in the German Lutheran church on Grove street last evening. About fifty people were present, and an address in the Danish tongue was made by Rev. C. H. Mengers, of Philadelphia.

The result of the meeting was the organization of the Able Danish Lutheran Mission church, of Plainfield, with a membership of fifteen.

The new church will at present use the German Lutheran church as a place of worship, and Rev. C. H. Mengers will come from Philadelphia and preach each Sunday to the congregation.

To Take New Offices.

Mrs. M. A. Smith, of Brooklyn, and Mrs. C. A. Beaman, of Westfield, are guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Townsend, of the borough.

A FAMOUS CASE DECIDED

PETER P. ROBINSON GETS DAMAGES OF $50 AGAINST L. V. F. RANDOLPH.

The Action Tried Before Judge VanSickle in the Supreme Court—The Judge's Impartial Charge to the Jury.

The case of Peter P. Robinson, a Plainfield cartman, against former Mayor Lewis V. F. Randolph, of East Front street, president of the Atlantic Trust Company, was tried in the Supreme Court at Elizabeth yesterday before Justice VanSickle and a jury of twelve men. The suit has attracted much interest in this city where Mr. Randolph is prominently known. Robinson claimed that the former Mayor cruelly beat his horse without provocation on Watchung avenue. The suit was finally decided in favor of the plaintiff, damages to the amount of $50 being allowed.

Robinson was the first witness, and told his story in a straightforward manner. He was subjected to a long cross examination by Mr. Lindabury, and some of his responses made a great deal of amusement.

Robinson swore that he noticed ridges on his horse for several days, and that ever after it was shy of the whip, and he could not trust the animal with members of his family.

The plaintiff denied that ridges were the bones of his horse protruding through the skin, and that it was a horse with every joint stiff.

Robinson was corroborated in his statements of the severity of the whiping administered to his horse by Richard Wortman, Thomas E. McDonald, Mrs. Eleanor Frank, Drummond B. Williams and others.

In opening the defense, Lawyer Lindabury stated to the jury that it was an indictable offence for any person to obstruct the highway in the way Robinson did on this occasion, and Robinson came into court a confessed breaker of the law. The defense would be a justification of the acts by Mr. Randolph.

Mr. Randolph was called as the first witness and after describing his occupation, told of the trouble he had had with Robinson. He was mildly vehement in his descriptions at times, speaking with an earnestness that attracted the attention of all in the court room. He said he was in imminent danger of being run down by a trolley car or of having his horse frightened by the coming up of a trolley car from behind them. So when he found that he could not pass Robinson he was obliged to do something. He got out of his carriage and whipped the colored man's horse. Mr. Randolph identified the whip he had used, saying it was the lightest carriage whip he could buy. When Mr. Lindabury told him he might lay the whip down, Mr. Randolph suggested that possibly the jurymen might like to examine it. So he tossed it carelessly on the carpeted floor. It made such a noise when it struck that everyone inside the railing laughed.

After the recess the trial was resumed. Corporation Counsel Craig A. Marsh, former Mayor Alexander Gilbert, former Mayor George W. Rockfellow and A. V. Nolen were put on the witness stand and swore that from knowledge of the character and kindheartedness of Mr. Randolph they believed that he was a man who would not be unkind or brutal to an animal. The evidence of these witnesses was adduced not to prove character, but to establish the fact that the defendant was a man of kind disposition.

The lawyers summed up, Mr. Angleman's remarks being particularly sarcastic. The Judge then charged the jury. He said that if Mr. Randolph had gotten out of his carriage and hit Robinson's horse intentionally, the jury could give exemplary damages. If he did not use any more force than was absolutely necessary to get the horse out of the way, then Robinson was entitled to normal or actual damages. But if the jury believed the Former Mayor's story that it was necessary to get the wagon out of the way by reason of the danger from the approaching trolley car, it was their duty to bring in a verdict of no cause of action.

The jury retired and was absent for half an hour. Then the jury asked for instructions, which the Court refused to give, and they retired for fifteen minutes more. They announced their verdict as given above.

More Trouble for Mt. Olive Church.

The troubles of the Mt. Olive Baptist church continue to multiply. Last night a meeting of a few of the members of the church was held, and it was decided to engage Rev. William Creemer, of New York, for pastor. Now it appears that some of the other members claim that the action was not legal, and they will make efforts to have the decision set aside.

ON BANKING REFORM

Congressman McCleary Discusses Basis for Circulation.

PLAN OF THE COMMISSION

Notes Issued on Commercial Assets a Proper and Safe System--The Redemption Fund Another Means of Security--The Commission's Plan a Safe One.

Washington, Jan. 11.—The proposition of the Monetary Commission, that the banking circulation of the country be based on commercial assets, under proper safeguards, instead of on United States bonds, has caused some inquiry as to just what is meant by "commercial assets." The question has been answered by Representative McCreary, of Minnesota, who is a member of the House Committee on Banking, and has given much study to the subject.

"The business or commercial assets of a bank," Mr. McCleary said, "consist of its commercial paper coming due at various times. The whole assets of a bank, of all classes, include all forms of indebtedness due to the bank. The distinction between commercial assets and those of other classes is that the commercial assets usually represent business transactions between merchants, and in any case consist of notes due within a short term. Taking, for the sake of illustration, the reports of the national banks of the United States on Oct. 5, 1897, the total assets of all classes were $3,705,133,707. The largest single item was "loans and discounts," which amounted to $2,051,009,438. The other leading items were the United States bonds on deposit with the Treasury to secure circulation, $227,483,950; stocks and securities in the possession of the banks, $208,831,503; demand debts due from other national banks, $155,980,447; due from approved reserve agents (the banks in the reserve cities where the country banks carry a portion of their funds), $297,017,805; specie, $239,387,702; and legal tender notes and certificates of deposit for legal tender notes, $149,494,929. It is the item of "loans and discounts" which constitutes the backbone of the commercial assets of a bank. The other items are mostly recoverable in cash on demand, and a large proportion consists in cash actually in hand."

Available Resources.

"But how are these resources available for the protection of note issues?" was asked.

"Substantially all the assets of national banks," was the reply, "except necessary buildings and fixtures, which stood on Oct. 5, 1897, at $79,113,954, are quick assets, or should be such. It is when they cease to be quick assets by becoming unmarketable and losing their computed value that a bank is driven into embarrassment. The loans and discounts include the advances made in currency, bank notes, or banking credits, which are represented by the notes in most cases are based upon actual transactions in merchandise, which constitutes a security for the recovery of the loan, although the merchandise is not specifically pledged, as in the case of property represented by a warehouse receipt. Where the loans are not based upon transactions in merchandise, they are based upon the credit and property of both the maker of the note and the indorser, so that if one proves incapable of meeting the obligation at maturity, recourse is had to the other."

"How much real strength does this give to the bank notes issued under such a system?"

"The bank has maturing daily a certain proportion of the notes which it has discounted. The amount thus maturing daily in the United States at all the banking institutions is estimated at $25,000,000. A bank which needs to increase its cash reserve, therefore, has only to diminish its new loans from day to day and husband the cash received from those which mature. As most of these loans run for not longer than ninety days, the average daily collections cannot be less than one-ninetieth part of its whole outstanding discounts, and would amount in a week to about 8 per cent. of the amount. As many of the loans are for sixty days and for shorter terms, the actual collections would be a much larger proportion of a whole volume of commercial assets."

A Safe Plan.

"You consider then the plan of the Monetary Commission an entirely safe one, from the standpoint of the noteholder?"

"In dealing with the question of circulation alone," answered Mr. McCleary, "the essential question is whether the assets are sufficient to cover the notes, and it is obvious that they are many times more than sufficient under the plan of the Monetary Commission. That plan makes the notes a first lien upon the assets, so that they must be paid before any other charges are met. The plan of the commission, moreover, provides that there shall be kept in the Treasury of the United States a redemption fund, raised by a tax of 5 per cent. upon the volume of notes in circulation not covered by United States bonds. This fund is to constitute a common resource, out of which the notes of failed banks are to be promptly paid, pending proceedings by the Government to recover the amount from the assets of the failed bank. The noteholder thus secures the immediate redemption of the note, without loss or delay, while the Government has not only the great sum raised for this purpose from all the banks, but the first claim upon the assets of the failed bank for the amount which it has withdrawn from the safety fund for the redemption of the notes."

Electrocuted at Sing Sing.

Sing Sing, Jan. 11.—The electric current cut short a prayer on the lips of Hadley Adolphus Sutherland, the colored boy, scarcely twenty years old, who killed his sweetheart in Brooklyn last March, and he died in the execution chair at twenty-three minutes past eleven o'clock yesterday. He exhibited a wonderful nerve, though he was entirely free from bravado. The execution was perfectly successful. Sutherland receiving the death bolt within less than a minute after entering the execution chamber.

SAYS THEY SELL LIVE PAUPERS.

Dr. Smith's Charges Against a Missouri County Poorhouse Are Denied.

Chicago, Jan. 11.—Dr. William Smith, of the American School of Osteopathy at Kirksville, Mo., who is under indictment for alleged complicity in a recent robbery of paupers' bodies from the morgue at the county poorhouse, and who is said to be a graduate of the University of Edinburgh, alleges that such is the condition of affairs at the county charitable institution that medical colleges may readily have their choice not only of the bodies of the dead paupers, but of the living ones.

He avers that the attendants, or some of them, are ready at any time to kill any one of the inmates if the body of such inmate can be disposed of to advantage. A man, who is also under indictment on account of the morgue robbery, is charged by Dr. Smith with being the chief culprit. Smith says that the man offered him a subject for dissection for the sum of $50, and that when he saw that the subject was alive he said, with a wink: "That's all right, Doc; just say you'll give me the $50, and you can take him away in a trunk."

A local paper prints Smith's story. A Chicago paper, which caused Smith's detection and arrest for body snatching, pronounces it untrue, and says that Smith offered it the story some time ago for $200. President Healy, of the County Board, says that the story is too absurd to consider.

HER LONG FAST BROKEN.

Miss Coppage Forced to Take Food After 34 Days of Starvation.

New York, Jan. 11.—Helen Coppage surrendered at 10 o'clock yesterday. Had she continued her fast, she would have been committing suicide. She wanted to go on, but two physicians warned her that she would be deliberately taking her own life. Even as it is, she is in danger. She is suffering from a heavy cold. Owing to her lack of nourishment, her system is at a very low ebb, and unable to resist the cold. She is threatened with congestion of the lungs. She is very gloomy.

Helen Coppage started out to fast sixty days. This was her thirty-fifth day. She was fat, and confident when she began. She said she didn't mind going through Christmas without anything to eat. Fasting, she said, was easy to her; she often passed over two meals without knowing it when she was busy.

About ten days after she began to fast she began to grow thin and pale, but was as determined as ever. She remained bright and resolute until two days ago, when she caught the deep cold. Her condition became serious yesterday, and two physicians were called to the museum, where Mrs. Coppage was on exhibition. Both advised that she discontinue her fast at once. Miss Coppage broke her fast with hot milk.

Miss Coppage came off victorious, even though she had to break her resolution. No woman ever fasted so long as she. If she had continued until 8.15 last night her fast would have been for thirty-five days.

MRS. NACK GETS 15 YEARS.

New York, Jan. 11.—Mrs. Augusta Nack, jointly indicted with Martin Thorn for the murder of William Guldensuppe, was sentenced yesterday afternoon by Justice Garretson in the Queens County Court to serve fifteen years in Auburn Prison at hard labor.

The sentence was a general surprise to everybody. Even her attorney said that he expected that the woman would be sentenced to the limit of imprisonment for manslaughter in the first degree, twenty years. As it is now, Mrs. Nack will only have to serve nine years and eight months in prison, if she behaves herself there.

Before the first trial of Thorn Mrs. Nack entered a plea of not guilty. It was therefore a great surprise to Thorn's lawyer when, on the third day of the first trial of Thorn, Mrs. Nack was put on the witness stand as a witness for the State. She then told how Thorn and herself had planned the death of Guldensuppe, and how she had decoyed Guldensuppe to the Woodside house to be killed. For this testimoney she was permitted to plead guilty of manslaughter in the first degree.

The People Believe

What They Read About Hood's Sarsaparilla

Their Faith in This Medicine is Grounded on Merit

They Know It Absolutely Cures When Other Medicines Fail

Hood's Sarsaparilla is not merely a simple preparation of Sarsaparilla, Dock, Stillingia and a little Iodide of Potassium.

Besides these excellent alteratives, it also contains those great anti-bilious and liver remedies, Mandrake and Dandelion. It also contains those great kidney remedies, Uva Ursi, Juniper Berries, and Pipsissewa.

Nor are these all. Other very valuable curative agents are harmoniously combined in Hood's Sarsaparilla, and it is carefully prepared under the personal supervision of a regularly educated pharmacist.

Knowing these facts, is the abiding faith the people have in Hood's Sarsaparilla a matter of surprise? You can see why Hood's Sarsaparilla cures, when other medicines totally, absolutely fail.

"My little girl was afflicted with eczema and suffered for seven years. She was attended by physicians and tried many different kinds of medicine without relief. After taking a few bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla she was cured." MRS. EMMA FRANKLIN, Honeoye, New York.

HOW RUIZ MET DEATH

A Wine-Inspired Boast Led Him to His Fate.

HE HAD NO FLAG OF TRUCE

New Proposals from General Blanco to the Cuban Provisional Government Framing in Havana Under Gen. Lee--Ruiz Warned by Aranguren.

New York, Jan. 11.—The true story of the fatal mission of Lieut.-Col. Ruiz to Col. Aranguren's camp was told for the first time in this city yesterday by one in possession of all the facts. In a word, it is said that Ruiz boasted in his cups that he would bribe the Cuban leader, was jeered by his companions and went to certain death to make his word good.

It began at a dinner of Spanish officers in Havana. Every one had been drinking freely and the wine began to talk. Some one said that every Cuban had his price. Ruiz declared that he could bring Nestor Aranguren to Havana within a week. "You dare not try," laughed one, forgetting the orders of Gomez, known to every Spaniard in Cuba, that it meant death to offer terms to any insurgent. Ruiz's honor was touched by the remark, and he made a wager that he would carry out his proposition within ten days. "Let Aranguren and two or three more insurgent leaders surrender," he cried, "and we will break their ranks, catch and hang Maximo Gomez, Calixto Garcia, Jesus Rabi, and the people will accept autonomy." The party broke up with jests from his comrades at Ruiz's boasting.

Blanco's Offer.

Ruiz lost no time in seeking the Captain-General. He told Blanco how intimate he had been with Nestor Aranguren, and said (this was a lie) that the rebel had made overtures to him for his surrender if enough were paid for his influence for the success of autonomy. Ruiz went out of the palace with authority to visit Aranguren, an order for guides and a document signed by Blanco empowering him to guarantee $100,000 to Aranguren on his return to Havana and to promise immunity to him.

Aranguren heard of Ruiz's coming—to tell how would be to tell the whole "underground" news system in Havana—and sent a warning to him that he must turn back. But Ruiz was doubly pledged to see the insurgents. He entered Aranguren's camp—without any flag of truce—and made his offer in so many words. Aranguren told Ruiz that he must have known his danger, and said there was only one course for himself to follow. He ordered Ruiz under arrest, there was a court-martial, and Ruiz was shot. Blanco's authorization was found in Ruiz's pocket after his death, and is now in the hands of the Cuban Republic.

A New Proposition.

New proposals, it appears, are preparing in the palace at Havana, to be laid before the Cuban Republican authorities. It is said in Havana that Consul-General Lee will undertake to see that the Captain-General's offer is presented. What the proposition is like no one has been able to learn. But General Blanco said recently to a gentleman who took part in framing the proposals: "I fear autonomy was offered too late. The men, the women and the children, the very stones in Cuba seem to hate Spain and everything of Spain. My volunteer force is of such an uncertain morale that I cannot depend upon it from one day to another."

General Garcia recently paroled 300 Spanish prisoners, and a few days later some of these were recaptured in arms against him. General Garcia at once sent word to General Pando that forcing these men to break their parole was barbarous. The Cuban Provisional Government is now considering Garcia's report on this incident, which raises the question of what shall be done with 350 other Spanish prisoners in Garcia's camp. It is understood that Garcia recommended a departure from the former magnanimous policy of disarming and releasing prisoners at once. Word comes from the Provisional Government that the insurgent forces were never in better condition than they are to-day.

WHOLE FAMILY KILLED.

Murder of a Massachusetts Farmer, His Wife and Daughter.

Worcester, Mass., Jan. 11.—News of a triple murder, of which Francis D. Newton, a prosperous farmer, of Brookfield; his wife, Sarah, and their ten-year-old adopted daughter, Ethel, were the victims, has just reached this city. The family had been killed in their house, about two miles from Brookfield Center, on the road to Sturbridge. The crime was discovered by neighbors, who heard the lowing of the unfed cattle and made an investigation. The three members of the family were found in their beds, having been killed with an axe.

A hired man who has been employed by Newton is missing, and the authorities are looking for him. He was known only by the name of Paul. He was last seen Friday night, just before midnight by a neighbor who was returning from a grange meeting. He was then more than a mile from the Newton house, and was going in the direction of Brookfield. Two young men also saw him at about the same time, going in the same direction.

It is believed that the murder was committed between 10 and 11 o'clock Friday night.

On Trial for Killing Her Husband.

Camden, N. J., Jan. 11.—Mrs. Florence McCusker, dressed in widow's weeds, was put on trial here yesterday charged with the murder of her husband. Michael McCusker was shot in the stomach by his wife on the night of Nov. 9 last at their home at 206 Benson street. He made an ante-mortem statement in the hospital, in which he declared that his wife had deliberately shot him. Mrs. McCusker insists that the shooting was accidental. The chief point to be decided is the degree of importance that should be attached to the dying accusation of the woman's husband.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

"My daughter, when recovering from an attack of fever, was a great sufferer from pain in the back and hips," writes Louden Grover, of Sardis, Ky. "After using quite a number of remedies without any benefit she tried one bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm, and it has given entire relief." Chamberlain's Pain Balm is also a certain cure for rheumatism. Sold by T. S. Armstrong, apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

Miss Edith DuBois, of Park avenue, has returned from Whitehouse, where she has been visiting relatives.

Marquis M. Harris, of Cape Cod, Mass., and H. L. Pimpkin, of New York, are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Taylor, of 61 Fairview avenue.

Persons who are troubled with indigestion will be interested in the experience of Wm. H. Penn, chief clerk, in the railway mail service at Des Moines, Iowa, who writes: "It gives me pleasure to testify to the merits of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy. For two years I have suffered from indigestion, and am subject to frequent severe attacks of pain in the stomach and bowels. One or two doses of this remedy never fails to give perfect relief." Price 25 and 50 cents; sold by T. S. Armstrong, apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

Miss Snyder, of Easton, Pa., who has been visiting Plainfield relatives, has returned home.

Miss Mary VanEps, of East Front street, has returned from a visit with out-of-town friends.

The progressive ladies of Westfield, Ind., issued a "Woman's Edition" of the Westfield News, bearing date of April 3d, 1896. The paper is filled with matter of interest to women, and we notice the following from a correspondent, which the editors printed, realizing that it treats upon a matter of vital importance to their sex: "The best remedy for croup, colds and bronchitis that I have been able to find is Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. For family use it has no equal. I gladly recommend it." 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by T. S. Armstrong apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

Mothers whose children are troubled with bad colds, croup or whooping-cough will do well to read what Dr. R. R. Robey, of Olney, Mo., says on this subject, He writes: "For years we have used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, and always keep it in the house. It is regarded in our family as a specific for all kinds of colds and coughs." The 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by T. S. Armstrong, apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

NEW JERSEY'S LAW MAKERS.

The Governor Makes His Last Recommendations to the Legislature.

Trenton, Jan. 11.—The legslature met in annual session shortly after noon today. The principal event of the day was the reading of Gov. Griggs' message. More importance than usual was attached to the document, because it is likely to prove the last official utterance of the Governor before he resigns his office to accept the Attorney-Generalship in President McKinley's cabinet which will probably be within the month.

Caucuses of the Republicans and Democrats last night resulted in no appreciable change in the slates made last week. The Republican wings will flop in unison. There is to be little or no partisan legislation unless the Democratic minority forces such an issue.

GOV. GRIGGS.

Politicians from every section of the State thronged the Trenton House, where the Republican leaders held a conference, and the Hotel Windsor, where the Republican Assemblymen held their general caucus. Senator Sewell held a levee in his old quarters, Room No. 100 in the Trenton House. Franklin Murphy and John Kean called on him. Governor Griggs received calls from Senator Sewell and his friends in Room No. 10. Delegations from Atlantic County called on the Governor in the interest of Allan B. Endicott and William Abbett, each of whom want to be the new law judge for Atlantic.

After a stormy session, lasting until nearly midnight, the caucus settled the bill clerkship by electing W. H. Luppey, of Cumberland, turning down Powell. The rest of the caucus slate as adopted follows:

Speaker, David O. Watkins, Gloucester; leader, Henry W. Gledhill, Passaic; clerk, Thomas H. Jones, Essex; assistant clerk, William H. Hulskamper, Union; assistant journal clerk, Herbert H. Matts, Essex; engrossing clerk, Charles H. Folwell, Burlington; first assistant engrosing clerk, Theodore Gaddis, Essex; sergeant-at-arms, John R. Flavell, Essex.

Speaker Watkins will appoint George W. Pierson, of Woodbury, his private secretary. The Senators held a caucus in the Senate Chamber last night. No changes were made in the slate chosen last week.

State Funds Reduced.

Trenton, N. J., Jan. 11.—The annual report of State Treasurer Swain was submitted to the Legislature to-day. The report covers all the recepts and disbursements of the State for the second year under the annual appropriation plan. It shows that while the net revenues of the State increased $435,034 over the preceding year, there was a corresponding increase in the expenditudes, which made a net reduction of $14,633.55 in the combined State and school fund balances, which amounted on Oct. 31, 1897, to $999,990.88.

"Kid" McCoy's Hard Punch.

Louisville, Ky., Jan 11.—Doc Payne, sparring partner of Kid McCoy, was knocked out for ten minutes by McCoy yesterday afternoon. McCoy and Payne had a lively four-round bout in the Buckingham Theatre. Toward the close of the last round McCoy let drive his right with a terrific swing and the glove and wrist bone struck Payne behind the left ear. Payne fell to the floor unconscious, and a physician was summoned, who revived him.

Payne suffered from a headache last night, but was able to go on again with McCoy. McCoy says it was an accident. He did not know he could hit so hard.

$100,000,000 Trust!

Chicago, Jan. 11.—Within the week a $100,000,000 beer and whisky trust will be a fact. This statement comes from a trustworthy sources, and before Jan. 15, it is said, the proof will be at hand. The deal goes over the heads of all the rival trusts, and, in embracing the breweres of moderate capacity, will control a field of immense proportions. The American Malting Company is said to be behind the deal.

The options held on the breweries and distilleries are in such cites as Detroit, Cleveland, Toledo, Sandusky, Dayton, Hamilton and Columbus. This enormous deal may be closed at any moment.

Judge McKenna's Nomination.

Washington, Jan. 11.—The Senate Judiciary Committee yesterday did not consider the nomination of Attorney-General McKenna to be Associate Justice of the Supreme Court. The matter was incidentally mentioned, but the members desired to dispose of the unobjected nominations. The committee will consider the McKenna nomination to-day

AFTER WARDEN'S SCALP.

The Republican members of the Board of Chosen Freeholders held a caucus last Thursday to decide who shall be elected warden of the county jail. It is said that George Wright, Chief of Police of Rahway, and former Chief Dodd, of Plainfield, are candidates for the place, but that neither of them, so far, have secured the necessary number of votes to get the nomination. It is hinted that Freeholder Hulskamper, of Elizabeth, is the "dark horse" in this race, and that he will very likely be chosen. Warden John C. Blore, who has held the place for three years, will not surrender until the courts order him to do so, as he feels that under the Veteran Soldiers' act he cannot be removed without cause.

Mayor Fisk, of Plainfield, is in favor of taxing all the bicycles owned in that city. As he has said so in his annual message, it is proper to infer that he doesn't want to be re-elected mayor.—Elizabeth Journal.

PASSING COMMENT.

A large crowd gathered at the Watchung avenue railroad bridge, last Saturday to witness the unloading of a mammouth iron vat, which is to be used by a local firm for the storage of lime. It took a number of men several hours to complete the work of removing the vat from the car. It was twenty-five feet in circumference and ten feet high, and weighed several tons.

* * * *

There is a difference in motormen and their manipulation of the crank, says a writer in the New York Press. In Paterson they start their cars in a sort of hesitating way, as if the motorman and the car had determined to go in opposite directions. In Newark the motion is so easy that one scarcely feels aware that the car has moved. In Trenton, however, some of the motormen have a diabolical conception of motion. They try to lift the car and the passengers up and forward at the same instant, and smile sardonically when you pierce them with your eyes and say things under your breath.

* * * *

An elderly queen, her daughter and little son, weighing 195 pounds, 105 pounds and 90 pounds, respectfully, were kept prisoners at the top of a high tower. The only communication with the ground below was a cord passing over a pulley, with a basket at each end, and so arranged that when one basket rested on the ground the other was opposite the window. Naturally, if the one was more heavily loaded than the other, the heavier would descend, but if the excess on either side was more than 15 pounds, the descent became so rapid as to be dangerous, and from the position of the rope the captives could not check it with their hands. The only thing available to help them in the tower was a cannon ball weighing 75 pounds. They, nothwithstanding, contrived to escape. How did they manage it?

* * * *

A formidable rival to the bicycle as a captivator of the public fancy has appeared this season in the phonograph and similar machines for the reproduction of sound. The cheapening and simplifying of these machines has increased their popularity to such a degree that they are becoming a familiar sight in the homes of this city. The result of the phonograph's popularity and large sale has been that there is less money available to spend on bicycles, and the general effect of this will probably be felt by the wheel trade throughout the country during the coming season, when the man who has spent a considerable sum of money in the purchase of a talking machine brings in his last year's wheel to be repaired instead of ordering a new one. A local dealer states to the writer that this very thing has occurred in a number of cases within his experience.

He is my king.

We met in a romatic way
'Twixt glow and gloom;
He wooed me on a winter's day,
And in a room.
Yet through life's hours of storm and stress
When griefs befell,
Love kept our small home-corner warm,
And all was well.

Ned thinks no woman like his wife,
But let that pass.
Perhaps we view the dual life
Through roseate glass.
E'en if the prospects be not bright,
We hold it true—
The heaviest burdens may grow light
When shared by two.

Upon the gilded scroll of fame,
Embiazoned fair,
I cannot hope to read the name
I proudly bear;
But happy in their even flow
The Years roll by,
We are behind the times, we know—
Ned and I.

BRAVE LITTLE KYUSE

When there were no railroads west of Missouri or east of California they used to carry mail and light freight on horseback between St. Joe and Sacramento. This service was known as the pony express. Horses swift and strong and riders brave and enduring were employed and relay stations were set, fifty miles apart, across the Great American desert.

Of course the West was wild at that time, many riders were murdered, and the letters and other valuable articles taken and destroyed. Indians would steal upon those little stations, kill the keepers and carry the horses away with them, so that when the weary rider arrived there was no one to take his place, and after gazing on the black ruins for a moment he would push his tired horse on toward the next station.

At first it was hard to find men who were willing to face these dreadful Indians for the pay offered by the company, and equally difficult to get men to dwell alone in these solitary stations to protect and care for the horses.

Away out in Wyoming there lived a trapper, known only by the name of Whipsaw—a name given to him by a gambler in Deadwood.

A Sioux, who had a hideous scar upon his face, had come to this trapper's camp one winter's day with a Pawnee baby, naked and nearly frozen. The Sioux wanted to sell the boy and the trapper gave him a knife and kept the child. The young Pawnee was not more than 3 years old when the trapper took him from the savage, warmed him fed him, and put moccasins on his little brown feet.

Two years later Whipsaw went to keep the station called White Horse for the pony express, taking the Pawnee with him. The little fellow grew to love his white father, and seemed to conceive a bitter hatred for all Indians. One day some friendly hunters called at the station. The little redskin slipped out quietly, cut the ropes, and let their horses go. At another time he attempted to shoot an Indian who had stopped at the door, but couldn't raise the rifle. Like all Indians he was ever alert. The scratch of a prowling bear on the cabin door or the cry of a lone wolf on a far-off hill would bring him from a sound sleep. He would hear the hoofs of the incoming horses beating the plains a mile away, and long before his white master could hear the faintest sound.

"Kyuse, Kyuse," he would whisper, in the dead of night. He was an alarm clock for the station, and at his warning the rider who was resting there would get up, throw a saddle across the back of his broncho, and be ready to snatch the pouch from the man who was then galloping down the trail.

The little Pawnee was never too cold or too sleepy to go out and welcome the weary rider, and pat the nose of the spent steed, saying softly the while, "Kyuse, "Kyuse."

It was the boy's great fondness for horses that caused Whipsaw to call him "Little Kyuse."

When they had kept the station a year Little Kyuse was known, by reputation, at least, to every rider on the entire route from St. Joe to Sacramento. Once he had warned the men who were sleeping in the cabin, and they had gone out just in time to save the horses that were about to be stolen by Indians. The story of the boy's doings reached headquarters, and the President of the Pony Express Company sent a short, light rifle to the young watchman, and before he was 6 years old he had killed a wolf that came to the station while he was alone.

"Kyuse?" asked Whipsaw.

"No Kyuse," said the boy, shaking his head and looking serious.

"Sleep," said the man, but the Indian shook his head.

"Wake up here, Bob," said Whipsaw; "suthin's goin' wrong."

"What is it?" asked the rider, rubbing his eyes.

"I can't make out clear," said Whipsaw, "but suthin's wrong. This kid's cockin' his ear, an' when I tell him to lay down he shakes his head."

Whipsaw lit a match and looked at his watch.

"Long time," said the boy shaking his head. "Long time—no kyuse."

Then they knew what the child meant. It was 1 o'clock; the pony express was an hour late, and the boy knew that it was so.

For another hour the two men sat and waited for a sign from the boy, who listened for the sound of the horse's feet. Presently the Pawnee crawled out, put his ear to the ground, came back and shook his master.

"Kyuse?" asked Whipsaw.

"Heap Kyuse," was the boy's reply, and they understood. It was not the lone rider, but a band of Sioux bent upon mischief.

Little Kyuse seized his rifle, slipped out, and the two men followed him. To guard against surprises of this sort Whipsaw had dug short trenches, deep enough to hide a man, all about the cabin, and now, to his surprise, little Kyuse planted himself in one of these holes. Without a word the two men took places, one to the right, the other to the left of the boy, and waited. When the robbers had reached a little sag in the desert, some 500 yards from the station, they dismounted, and now came creeping upon the lonely cabin. One came crouching so close to Whipsaw that he could almost have reached him with his rifle barrel. The trapper was sore afraid that the boy or Bob might open fire, for how was this child to know that he was waiting for the band to assemble near the cabin door before attacking them? But little Kyuse was as wise in this his first fight as a white man would be at 21. The clouds were breaking and in the starlight they could see the Sioux, six of them, near the cabin door. They listened—one of them pushed open the door. Now an Indian went in, came out a moment later, and they all filed in at the very moment that Whipsaw was about to open fire. Instantly he changed his plan. They would charge on the cabin door and fight the gang, which outnumbered them, even counting the boy, two to one. Without a word Whipsaw got to his feet and instantly his companions were at his side.

Bob held his rifle, the trapper laid his upon the ground, and held a six shot revolver in each hand. It was to be close and rapid fighting; he would empty his six-shooters first and after that the knife. Little Kyuse grasped his rifle with fourteen shots in the magazine, and he knew how to work it, too. There was no word of command, but as Whipsaw leaned forward they all started double-quick for the cabin. Ten paces from the door they stopped, the boy still sandwiched between the men. The Sioux must have heard them, for now they came pouring out. Before they had gained the open air the little party opened fire. Two of the Indians fell and the others returned the fire, but with bad aim. Another round from the white men and two more Sioux bit the dust. Bob was pumping his rifle when a ball from the cabin door shattered his right shoulder. Dropping his gun he pulled his six-shooter and continued to fight. Having emptied both of his revolvers, Whipsaw slammed one of them into the the face of a Sioux, who came at him with a knife. The two men began fighting hand to hand now, while Little Kyuse kept pumping small shot into the other remaining Sioux. Seeing Whipsaw hard pressed, the boy began to watch for a chance to use his little rifle. Bob succeeded at last in stopping his man, and then fell weak from loss of blood. Whipsaw had been shot and badly cut, when his antagonist paused to get the advantage. Instantly Little Kyuse shoved his rifle as near the Sioux's left side as he could get it and pulled the trigger, and the big, bad Indian sank in a heap.

Thus did Little Kyuse reward the white trapper for his tender care and avenge the death of his father and mother, who had been killed by his captor, the Sioux.

In the sag not far away they found the horses that the robbers had ridden and the express pony, with the pouch still on the saddle, standing in a bunch their bridles tied together.

About a mile up the trail they found the body of the rider, stiff and cold with a bullet-hole in his head, and carried him back and buried him, and there wouldn't have been a soul at the funeral, only for Little Kyuse.

The next day, when they were caching the carcasses of the dead Indians, Little Kyuse shocked and surprised the white men by constantly clubbing and kicking the corpses. Of a sudden he gave a yell, seized his rifle, and began emptying it into one of the dead Indians. Whipsaw took the gun away from him.

"See! See!" cried the boy, pointing at the Sioux, and the trapper recognized in the object of the boy's wrath the hideous features of the scar-faced Sioux who had sold the child at whose hands he had, in his own good time, been taken off.—New York Sun.

British Admiralty's Red Tape.

Every one who has to do with the Admiralty is familiar with amusing tales of the glorification of red tape. Here is the very latest. Some time ago a workman in one of the dockyards lost a government candlestick, valued at a few pence. This was considered sufficient excuse for a report by the local officials to Whitehall. A long correspondence of the approved government office type ensued, and it is estimated that not less than £5 was spent in the officials' time, ink, and paper. After every aspect of the case had been weighed, the workman was directed to pay the local officials the sum of 5 pence, being the value set upon this particular candlestick. Of course, if the man had been in private employment, little or no notice would have been taken of such a triviality, or, at most, he would have paid his foreman the value without any red-tapeism.

SOME MEXICAN WAYS.

They Would Seem Hardly the Proper Thing to a Yankee Housewife.

An American woman would grow gray-headed in a month if she attempted to keep house in Mexico on the same plan pursued by the native housewives. There are no water mains in the average town, and water for domestic purposes is drawn from the public fountains and sold from door to door by leather-aproned venders, who carry it in picturesque vessels of hide or pottery. Pulque and milg are brought to market in skins of sheep, pigs, and goats, which are stripped off the carcass by cutting only the neck and legs and turned inside out, all the openings but one being tied up securely. The natives do not object to the flavor of goat hide and swine skin in the milk, but visitors do.

The washerwomen have no faith in modern methods. They get 25 cents a day and are satisfied. The washerwomen all do heir work beside an open stream of water in a trough or stone or wood, a piece of home made soap and their strong hands. No hot water is used.

The average Mexican cook is as primitive as the washerwoman. No matter how many times the use of a modern cook stove were explained to her, it is probable that she would build the fire in the over and put the bread to bake in the fire box. What she would use is called the brasero. Among the poor this is an urn-shaped affair of pottery with a hollow base, where a tiny charcoal fire may be kept alive by constant fanning, the whole being not much larger than a common flower pot. In the homes of the upper classes the brasero is built in of brick, mortar, and piles, its surface as high as an American cook stove, with holes a foot square, under each of which a charcoal fire is kept burning. Some of these stoves have twenty-five or thirty evens and the operation of cooking is so laborious that the cook has a relay of assistants to prepare the vegetables, wash the dishes and attend the fires.—Chicago Journal.

FRATERNAL ORDER 500 YEARS OLD.

King Humbert a Member—Formed from All Classes of Society.

It is more than five hundred years since the fraternal society known as the Florentine Brothers of Mercy was organized in the beautiful Italian city of Florence. The chief object of this strange body of men is to relieve the sick and injured of their native place. These benevolent workers are called collectively La Misericordia. They are not priests, as has frequently been erroneously said and written. The Society is formed of men from all classes—aristocrats and common folk. They give their services gratuitously. Any Florentine who is an honorable man may belong to the hooded brotherhood. King Humbert of Italy is an honorary member. La Misericordia does not believe that the left hand should know the good deeds of the right. Only in one way can a Florentine know anything of the identity or social standing of one of these brothers, and that is by his boots. Often in a long processions the heavy boots of the workman are seen beneath his robe next to the polished ones of a gentleman. They are heavily cowled, cloaked and masked, and their presence suggests death. Their headquarters are in the Chuch of the Misericordia. When an accident occurs in Florence or a man or woman falls ill upon the streets the bell in the steeple of this church tolls twice. Three strokes of the bell means the accident was fatal. This masked fraternal order was founded early in the fifteenth century. It has always been a mysterious body and one of the best conducted societies in all Italy.—New York World.

A PERILOUS REMEDY FOR PEARLS.

As a rule crowned heads do not voluntarily cast their court jewels into the sea. Yet this is exactly what the Empress of Germany has recently done.

Among her jewels was a very fine necklace of large pearls, exceptional in size and remarkably pure in color. For some time it had not been called into use, but had lain in its dark case shut away from the light and air. One day, however, the empress had occasion to call for the gems. To her surprise and horror, she found that the color of the pearls had faded away, all their life and beauty departed. The court jeweler, when consulted, gave it as his opinion that nothing would restore the pristine purity of the stones save a very long immersion in the sea. Accordingly, a glass case was made, with holes to admit the water, the necklace was placed therein, and the treasure sunk "full fathoms five" in the waters of the North Sea. The spot is near the shore, and is watched night and day by sentries. In the meanwhile the empress is obliged to "possess her soul in patience."

Practically Intact.

The populist orator dragged himself out of the railway wreck and took account of damages.

One foot was twisted out of shape, something was the matter with his right hip, his left elbow refused to work, one of his shoulder blades appeared to have slipped over the other, his left knee was bruised and swollen and part of his scalp was gone.

He emitted a loud groan.

Then his face brightened.

"Thank heaven!" he exclaimed. "My voice isn't injured! "I'm all right!"—Chicago Tribune.

Groober—"Was it Joglin's ability that got him that five thousand dollar position?"

Hoover—"Yes; his ability to get it."

THE DISCOVERY OF PORCELAIN.

First Made in Europe in the 18th Century—Secret Obtained by Accident.

Notwithstanding the fact that a great many people have spent their entire lives in pursuing the elusive phantom of the philosopher's stone and the secret of perpetual motion which might have been employed to much better purpose, yet these pursuits have occasionally proved of great benefit to mankind.

The art of making porcelain was familiar to the Chinese and Japanese for ages, but it was not made in Europe until the early part of the eighteenth century, when John Bottger, a German from Schlaiz, in Voigtland invented the art. Bottger was apprenticed to a Berlin apothecary where he fell in with an alchemist who, in consequence of some services which Bottger had done for him, offered to teach him the art of making gold. The young apprentice, thinking his fortune was as good as made promptly ran away from his master into Saxony, in the year 1700. He was pursued, but found protection in that country, where the people who befriended him urged him to give a specimen of his newly found skill.

The poor fellow had, however, been grossly imposed upon, and the secret from which he had hoped so much proved valueless. He still believed it the possibility of making gold, and worked at the matter incessantly. It so happened that having mixed a number of different kinds of earth together for the purpose of making durable crucibles, in the course of baking them he accidentally stumbled upon the art of making porcelain, and suddenly found himself transformed from a poor alchemist into a prosperous potter. The first porcelain was manufactured in Dresden in 1706, and was brownish-red in color, having been made chiefly of a brown clay.—Harper's Round Table.

THE JUDGE WAS CONVINCED.

His Ride of 60 Miles an Hour and a Sand Bath When Breaks Were Applied.

The town of Victoria, Mex., has one just judge. A little while after the railway reached the village the usual drunken Mexican was killed on the track in the usual way. The trainmen were promptly arrested and the train held. They said that they were running within the statutory speed, and it was impossible to stop in time to avoid the man's death. The alcalde said he would see about that. He ordered the engineer to get up steam and back up the road to a point two miles beyond the place where the death had occurred. He took a seat in the cab. Reaching the desired spot, he said: "Run at the speed you had the other day, and when you come in sight of the place where the man was killed put on the brakes." It was not to the engineer's interest to run too slowly, and the throttle was thrown open. The train went down the line at sixty miles an hour. It was the alcalde's first ride, and he was hanging out of the cab window, delightedly looking at the rushing country, when the air brakes were slammed down for all that there was in them. He described seven or eight somersaults and lit on his back twenty feet away. He rose, brushed the sand out of his hair and eyes, and looked at the locomotive, which was standing some yards further on and quietly puffing. "Valga me dios!" ("Well, dang my buttons!") was all he said. He decided that the trainmen were not in any way to blame and took them all to dinner with him.—Chicago Times-Herald.

SWINBURNE'S FAD.

Master of Greek and French but Desires to be Considered Illiterate.

Mr. Algernon Charles Swinburne, the poet, is one of the most eccentric individuals in England. He is a perfect master of Greek and French, but it is his delight to pretend to be entirely illiterate, and though he left Oxford with a great reputation, he never took his degree. Mr. Swinburne lives near London, but he is rarely seen in society. One of the most pleasing traits in his character is his devotion to children. However absorbed he may be, he always remembers to bring some sweets out of his pocket for any little ragged urchins who come across his path. He is said to be one of the very few versifiers of the present day who make an income out of their work, and a great many people were astonished that he did not become Poet Laureate.

Fort Ancient.

Fort Ancient, which is picturesquely situated on the high bluffs overlooking the valley of the Little Miami River, near Lebanon, Warren County, Ohio, is believed to be the largest, best preserved and most interesting work of the Mound Builders. It has been visited and studied by leading archeologists of Europe and America, and models of it are now on exhibition in the museums of London, Paris and Berlin.

The fort, which covers about one hundred acres, and one hundred and eighty-seven acres outside of the walls, is now the property of the State, part having been purchased in 1890 and the remainder in 1896.

Plainfield People Are Talking About t on Every Corner.

It is sometimes an easy matter to fool the public, but you can't keep it up very long They are sure to find you out; and every time a man is fooled another skeptic is made. Skepticism is allowable when reading in a home newspaper about some incident occuring in San Francisco or Iowa, but the circumstances are entirely diff rent when it refers to someone right here at home, friends and neighbors, people you know, whom you can see, and with whom you talk it over. This is the kind of evidence at the back of Doan's Kidney Pills—home statements by home people, and the astonishing local work they have been doing has caused more talk among our citizens than the doings of any other modern wonder. Read the following.

Mr. Richard Day, of 134 East Front street, says: 'I have been troubled at times with symptoms of kidney complaint for the last four years. My chief difficulty was a miserable pain across my back and a sort of lame feeling over my kidneys. Standing for any length of time or walking any distance aggravated it greatly. I have never been sick much in my life, and consequently have never taken much medicine, so when I first began having these attacks I paid but little attention to them. They however grew worse instead of better, so I had to look about for a remedy. I had read quite frequently in our papers about cures brought about by the use of Doan's Kidney Pills, so I got a box at L. W. Randolph's drug store, and after taking them I felt greatly relieved, I have recommended them to my friends, and those who have used them speak highly in their praise. I consider that Doan's Kidney Pills are a splendid remedy for complaints like mine."

Chandler Says the President Favors International Bimetallism.

TO RENEW NEGOTIATIONS

Envoy Will Be Sent to Europe Again, He Says, After an Interview with Mr. McKinley--Civil Servied Debate Resumed in the House Yesterday.

Washington, Jan. 11.—Senator Chandler had a conference with President McKinley yesterday upon the subject of bimetallism, and he said after the close of the interview:

"The President stands firmly in favor of international bimetallism as promised by the St. Louis platform. He considers the negotiations with the European powers only temporarily suspended, on account of the peculiar condition of affairs in India, and it is the President's intention to again send his envoys to Europe as soon as the conditions are favorable for continuing negotiations."

Senator Chandler added the opinion that the President is as earnestly in favor of bmetallism—"the use of both metals as standard money"—as the Senator himself.

THE HAWAIIAN TREATY.

Annexation Bill Considered in Executive Session by the Senate.

Washington, Jan. 11.—Acoording to arrangement, Senator Davis asked the Senate shortly before 1 o'clock yesterday to go into executive session to consider the Hawaiian annexation treaty. There was no objection, and Senator Davis made the opening speech, which was an elaborate argument in favor of the treaty.

It is the intention of the friends of annexation to content themselves with as few speeches as possible, and therefore Senator Davis' argument was comprehensive in every particular.

The friends of the treaty in the Senate are in Washington, and expect to remain here. The return of Senator Foraker, who is a strong advocate of annexation, is looked upon as an adding strength to the fight for the treaty. He will take a large part in the running debate and in answering the attacks of the opposition.

Senator Davis was interrupted by Senator Pettigrew, who said he wanted the question whether the treaty was to be discussed in executive or open session settled before the general debate began. This at once precipitated a discussion, in which a number of Senators participated.

PLACES IN THE CIVIL SERVICE.

Postmaster-General Tells What Offices Should be Excepted.

Washington, Jan. 11.—Postmaster-General Gary has sent to the Senate a reply to the resolution asking what positions should be exempt from the classified civil service. He says:

"In my judgment the following positions should be exempted from the rules governing the classified civil service, in addition to those of private secretary and confidential clerk of the Postmaster-General and unskilled laborers, which are now exempt:

"Chief clerk of the Postoffice Department, distributing clerk, appointment clerk, private secretary and chief clerk to each of the four Assistant Postmasters-General, private secretary and confidential clerk to the Assistant Postmaster-General for the Postoffice Department and confidential clerk to the chief postoffice inspector, postal-card agent, five postoffice inspectors, watchmen, firemen, assistant messengers, pages, laborers of all kinds and charwomen.

"In the postoffices throughout the country I would recommend the following exceptions:

"Superintendents or clerks in charge of carrier stations, assistant cashiers, private secretaries and stenographers to the postmasters in the larger offices, messengers, porters, cleaners, janitors, watchmen and laborers."

CIVIL SERVICE IN THE HOUSE.

More Representatives Attack the Reform System.

Washington, Jan. 11.—The Civil Service debate was resumed in the House yesterday.

Mr. Cooney (Dem., Mo.) opposed the whole Civil Service reform idea, which he denounced as a cheat and a narrow swindle. A Civil Service pension list and office-holding class, he argued, were logical and inevitable if it was to continue.

Mr. Dorr (Rep., W. Va.) followed with a set speech in opposition to the law. Mr. Cox (Dem., Tenn.) said he was so utterly opposed to Civil Service reform that he would vote to strike out the appropriation for the commission and for the repeal of the law. Mr. Little (Dem., Ark.) antagonized the principle, theory and practice of the law.

No Successor to Major Handy.

Washington, Jan. 11.—While the matter has not been definitely decided, it is said that the President probably will not nominate a successor to the late Moses P. Handy, as Special Commission to the Paris Exposition. The reason for this is that the work for which Mr. Handy was selected has been brought so well along that the subject may be turned over to the regular Exposition Commission, for which Congress is expected to provide during the present session.

Cornell's Ultimatum.

Ithaca, N. Y., Jan. 11.—The Cornell Athletic Council considered Yale's new challenge yesterday afternoon. The opinions of several of the council were sounded, and seem to be unanimous in favor of declining Yale's conditional challenge. One of the council members is known to be advocating that Cornell take the firm stand for an "open regatta on a fair course and no favors."

Prince Bismarck Nearly Well.

London, Jan. 10.—A dispatch to the Standard from Berlin says Prince Bismarck is comparatively well again. Answering the inquiry of an old Italian friend, he wrote: "I am suffering from pain in my joints, but otherwise am well."

After coughs and colds the germs of consumption often gain a foothold.

Scott's Emulsion of Cod-liver Oil with Hypophosphites will not cure every case; but, if taken in time, it will cure many.

Even when the disease is farther advanced, some remarkable cures are effected. In the most advanced stages it prolongs life, and makes the days far more comfortable. Everyone suffering from consumption needs this food tonic.

BUSHNELL INAUGURATED.

Exciting Day in Columbus--Opposition to Hanna Still Confident.

Columbus, O., Jan. 11.—Yesterday was the most exciting inauguration day ever known in Columbus. Long before noon the streets were thronged with people, who poured in from every direction. At noon railway officials estimated there had been 5,000 arrivals since Sunday. The Bushnell badges were in the majority. During the forenoon the State House was surrounded by people yelling for Bushnell.

As it was impossible for the crowds to get inside the Capitol Building, the Governor was called into the grounds, where he addressed the multitude and received in review one delegation after another. These demonstrations continued until noon when Governor Bushnell was escorted to the veranda of the State House. The floral designs were elaborate.

The Legislature reconvened yesterday morning, and the inauguration of the government occurred shortly after noon. The inaugural address of Governor Bushnell was short and contained no reference to the contest for the Senatorship.

Although the balloting begins in both branches of the Legislature to-day, it is settled in advance that there will be no election at that time. The Senate will stand 19 to 17 against Hanna, and the House will likely give him a majority of one or more.

If the opposition to-day shows the strength it claimed yesterday and casts all its votes for one man, there will be an election, as it would then have a majority in both Houses on Senator, as it did have on organization one week ago. The opposition still claims the House by at least 55 to 54, which would make the General Assembly stand 74 to 71 on joint ballot against Hanna.

Hanna Agent Accused of Bribery.

Last night's sensation in the Senatorial fight was the charge of bribery made against Hanna's agents. The charge is that Henry Harrison Boice, of New York, representing Hanna, endeavored to bribe John C. Otis, an anti-Hanna Republican member from Cincinnati.

To suport this charge the anti-Hanna managers have what they claim to be stenographic reports of telephone conversations between Rathbone, one of Hanna's managers, and Boice, who, it is alleged, was sent to Cincinnati to buy Otis's vote. They also exhibit in handwriting resembling that of Boice a receipt for $1,750, which was to be the first installment paid to Otis.

POSTMASTERS NAMED.

Washington, Jan. 11.—The President has sent the following nominations of postmasters to the Senate:

Big Strike Nearing an End.

London, Jan. 11.—There are signs that the end of the great strike in the engineering trades of Great Britain is approaching. Large numbers of Glasgow engineers have applied for reinstatement. At a meeting of engineers in Fairfield it was decided to continue work in spite of previous threats to leave work when the first twenty-five present of their number were locked out.

Bombs for Russians.

London, Eng., Jan. 11.—According to a special dispatch from Constantinople, the Russian embassy there has been threatened with bomb outrages "unless Russia withdraws her opposition to the amelioration of the condition of the Armenians."

This Woman to Be Hanged.

Cayuga, Ont., Jan. 11.—On Jan. 20 Olive Adele Sterneman will die on the gallows unless the Department of Justice at Ottowa grants her executive clemency, and allows her to spend the remainder of her life in Kingston penitentary. On Jan. 5 she was told that she must die. She is practcally convicted of murdering two husbands.

It is stated that the New York Republican leaders have decided not to introduce the anti-cartoon bill during the present session of the Legislature.

The Postoffice Department has decided that postmasters cannot be required to cash pension checks.

VARIOUS SPORTS.

The Plainfield Game Protective Society received Saturday a shipment of 150 rabbits from Virginia. The animals will be liberated on the society's game preserves in this vicinity.

Tom Keller has found quarters for himself and the interests of the King Powder Co. and the Peters Cartridge Co., in the building at 88 Chambers street, New York city. He hangs his shingle out there and wants his friends to know where he can be found. It looks to us like a very wise move on the part of the above companies to tie Tom down to New York and her neighboring states, so that we can know where to look for him when we want him.—Forest and Stream.

AROUND THE BASES.

An informal meeting of the candidates for the baseball team of the Plainfield High School was held at the High School building Friday afternoon. They considered plans for the coming season's work. It was decided to start in the early spring to practice and give the team plenty of training. There are now twenty candidates for the team, and they will make up the strongest nine that has ever represented the High School. Great enthusiasm was shown among those who were present at Friday afternoon's meeting.

CYCLING COMMENT.

Fred J. Vieweg, of East Front street, has renewed his membership in the L. A. W.

The Eldridge Bicycle Company received their shipment of Eldridge wheels last Friday.

BASKET BALL.

A series of two games has been arranged with the basket ball team of the Elizabeth Athletic Club by the Plainfield Y. M. C. A. One game will be played in Plainfield and the other in Elizabeth. Should each team win one game a third one will be arranged. The E. A. C. team has the record of being one of the strongest in this part of Jersey, and the Plainfield boys will be on their mettle if they hope to win on that occasion.

WHIST.

The Park Club will send its whist four to Bayonne tomorrow evening to meet the team of the New Jersey Athletic Club, at the latter's clubhouse, in a match for the New Jersey Whist Association's trophy.

ODD FELLOWS INSTALL.

Plainfield Lodge Seat Their Officers—Good Time Followed.

Every seat in the handsome hall of Plainfield Lodge, No. 44, I. O. O. F., was occupied last evening to witness Deputy Grand Master C. W. M. Bunough and staff install the officers for the ensuing term and also to see their crack team confer the first degree.

During the evening Prof. Sattell gave several pleasing violin solos, accompanied by Prof. Carpenter.

Visitors were present from Cincinnati, Philadelphia, Clinton and Somerville.

After the lodge business all were invited to the banquet room where the inner man was more than satisfied. Real Odd Fellow cigars were freely distributed, and as the blue smoke filled the air odd and humorous remarks were heard here and there.

Following is a list of officers for the ensuing year: Noble grand, Nimrod Horton; vice grand, Simon Mantz; recording secretary, Joseph Shephard; financial secretary, Elias H. Bird; treasurer, James Clarkson; R. S. to N. G., John Williams; L. S. to N. G., Louis Shephard; R. S. to V. G, Theo. Kurzhals; L. S. to V. Verdict For Bullman.

The case of Ralph Bullman against Wm. M. Demler was considered at the Somerset County Court, at Somerville, Wednesday. F. A. Pope appeared for the former and Robert M. Clark, of McNabb & Clark, of this city, for the latter. Last fall Demler's hound dog was prowling around a neighbor's dooryard and Ralph Bullman, a minor, shot him. Demler sued and was awarded damages by Justice Speer, of Washingtonville, to the amount of $15. Judge Magie reversed the decision and allowed Bullman's lawyer full costs.

Evangelistic Meetings.

A series of evangelistic meetings are being held this week at the Garwood chapel under the charge of workers of the East Third Street mission, of this city. The women of the Garwood chapel have completed a house to-house invitation. A very large attendance last evening was the result. The meeting was a very earnest one and full of spiritual blessing for those who took part. Last evening L. W. Randolph and Percy Cannon, the blind chair caner, were in charge.

Died in a Railroad Station.

F. Brougham, a commercial traveller for the King Paint Company, of 33 South Fifth street, Brooklyn, was about to board a train for Flemington at Somerville yesterday afternoon when he was stricken with apoplexy. He fell forward on his face as he entered the car. He was picked up by the trainmen and carried to the waiting-room of the New Jersey Central station, where he died in a few minutes.

The County Trolley.

Every Plainfielder who is interested in the Bergen county ownership trolley idea should go to Music Hall this evening and listen to Mr. Bergen explain the plan. Mr. Bergen says that he thinks the plan is not thoroughly understood in Plainfield, and he will try to explain in a clear and satisfactory manner.

Cars Run Off Elevated Siding.

Some excitement was caused at the Fanwood station this morning when in running a number of coal gondolas upon an elevated siding two of them were shoved off and fell a distance of ten feet to the ground. The wrecking train was summoned and the cars were soon raised and placed upon the track again.

WON TEN; LOST NONE.

Smart Record That the Y. M. C. A. Basket Ball Team Hold.

Ten victories and no defeats is the present record of the basket ball team of the Plainfield Y. M. C. A. Last evening the team won its tenth victory by defeating the crack team from the Newark Institute by a score of 12 to 4 The game was played in the Plainfield gymnasium and witnessed by a large crowd.

It was evident at the beginning that the visitors were slightly outclassed. They put up a hard, clean game, but their team work was by no means as effective as that of the home team The latter played a close, steady game, and had the lead at the end of the first half by a score of 5 to 2. The Newark men were not used to the gymnasium and were somewhat inclined to foul. Their umpire over looked severel very plain fouls. It was a good game, however, and the Newark boys made it sufficiently close to be interesting. Egan, as usual, had everything his own way at centre, although he had a big man opposed to him. The visitors made a desperate effort at the last to catch up, but it was in vain.

Dr. F. W. Westcott presented a petition asking the Council not to grant a franchise for the road to run on Park, North or Martine avenues.

The Council then sat in regular session and a resolution was passed by the citizens empowering the Council to grant the franchise under such restriction as it deemed fit.

Pipe and Sociability.

Robert Clark, Jr., gave a smoker and reception to a number of his friends, at his home in Washingtonville, last evening.

The smoker was given in celebration of the lighting of a handsome cherrywood pipe which had been presented to him by a friend.

The pipe itself was a unique thing, being carved by hand. The bowl was eight inches high and held fully half a pound of tobacco.

After filling it with choice perique tobacco, Mr. Clark invited his friends to join him in a smoke, and they gathered about and smoked from the different stems until the tobacco was reduced to ashes.

The party then enjoyed a number of games, followed by instrumental music and singing. The guests were then served with refreshments.

OFFERS FITZ $35,000.

Crobett Makes This Remarkable Offer for a Fight to a Finish.

St. Louis, Jan. 11.—In the second act of his play in this city last night Jim Corbett announced that he would give $35,000 to Fitzsimmons to fight him, the entire sum to go to Fitzsimmons if he fails to put him out in ten rounds. The house simply went wild. Men stood up on the seats and cheered and howled as if they suddenly had gone mad.

Never before in the history of pugilism has such a proposition been made by one fighter to another. Men have endeavored to taunt each other into a fight, and even have gone so far as to give or offer to give $1,000 to get another in the ring. But the offer of $35,000 for a fight—win or lose—was undreamed and unheard of.

At the close of the theatrical performance Corbett gave out his formal challenge. In it he says:

"As a last inducement to overcome your obvious reluctance to meet me again, I will make that proposition still more favorable. Thus: A purse of $35,000 stands ready to be offered as a prize for a meeting in the ring with you. To this I will add $10,000 of my own, conditionally, that you agree to box me to a finish. This makes $35,000.

"I offer this entire sum if I fail to stop you in ten rounds—with two provisions, viz.:

"First, That the contest must continue to a finish; and,

"Second, That I shall have something to say in regard to the appointment of a referee, who will not be unfairly prejudiced in your favor.

"This is my final proposition. Take it or leave it. If you really want fight, it offers. A sum s ready exceeding your gross receipts in five battles. If you want reputation, you can make it better by meeting me than by meeting all others together. If you doubt this, ask the public each night when you exhibit.

IMPRESSIVE EXERCISES OF SEATING NEW OFFICERS IN THEIR PLACES.

G. A. R., Woman's Relief Corps and Sons of Veterans Unite in Performing Their Duty and an Interesting Time Resulted

The annual joint installation of the officers of Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., Woman's Relief Corps, No. 10, auxiliary to the G. A. R., and John Hand Camp, No. 28, Sons of Veterans, took place last evening at the G. A. R. headquarters on East Front street. The rooms were crowded with members and friends of the three organizations, who enjoyed the ceremonies and programme of music and recitations presented. This event is always looked forward to by the members with a great deal of pleasure, and the exercises of last evening were conducted in a thoroughly successful manner by those in charge.

Assistant Adjutant General Frank O. Cole, of Jersey City, installed the officers of Post 73, after a stirring tenor solo, "The Star-Spangled Banner," was rendered by Joseph D Moon, and another vocal solo was given by Alfred Springer, accompanied on the piano by Miss Springer. The work by Comrade Cole was of a high order, and every written part was committed. The officers installed were as follows: Commander, E. C. Morse; senior vice-commander, J. B. Clarkson; junior vice-commander, Wm. Hand; quartermaster, Andrew Cox; surgeon, Dr. Berg; adjutant, C. B. Stephens; chaplain, Rev. L. E. Livermore; officer of the day, Wm. C. Smith; officer of the guard, Wm. Day; sergeant major, H. C. Corsa; quartermaster sergeant, Francis Whitely; council of administration, Wm. C. Smith, M. C. Dobbins and Wm. Hand.

The installation of the officers of the Sons of Veterans came next. They were installed by Past Commander C. B. Stephens, of Post No. 73, in a most creditable and efficient manner. The officers are as follows: Captain, H. S. Thatcher; first lieutenant, George Bedford; second lieutenant, Raymond McVoy; chaplain, Louis Eaton; first sergeant, Frank Clarkson; quartermaster, Charles Graves; color sergeant, Clifford Compton; sergeant of the guard, E. P. T. Smith; principal musician, Clarence Rittenhouse; corporal guard, William Sutton; camp guard, Frank Perry; picket guard, John Naylor; camp council, H. C. McVoy, G. H. Bedford and W. V. Sutton.

Last, but not least, came the installation of the officers of the Woman's Relief Corps by Past President Mrs. Hannah Westphal. Like the above work, Mrs. Westphal performed her duties in an efficient and careful manner. The officers installed are as follows: President, Mrs. James Radin; senior vice, Mrs. Clarence Leland; junior vice, Mrs. Andrew Cox; chaplain, Mrs. Corwin; conductor, Mrs. Bolsterli; assistant conductor, Mrs. Mattox; guard, Mrs. Devine; assistant guard, Mrs. Sutton; treasurer, Mrs. Walter Walker; secretary, Miss Ada Nash. Mrs. Westphal was assisted in her work by Mrs. James B. Atwood, of Trenton, who acted as conductor.

Interspersing the ceremonies there were excellent speeches by Inspecting Officer Frank O. Cole, Major Tully, of Jersey City; comrades Livermore and James B. Atwood, of Post No. 73. There were also two recitations given in a pleasing style by Miss Mertie Randolph, and Mrs. Fesmeir also gave an admirable recitation, all of which received hearty applause. Another feature was the singing by the chainless quartette, as Commander Morse introduced Clifford Braider, Charles Dolliver, Frank Smalley, Arthur Smith and Harry Jessup. They gave a selection that was appreciated and applauded. The exercises of the evening came to an end with remarks by several of the comrades present, who gave good soul-stirring talks.

President Mrs. James Radin, of the corps, and Captain H. S. Thatcher, of the Sons of Veterans, made a few appropriate remarks, and after the close of the exercises all present congratulated the officers elect.

Free Singing Lesson.

Miss Anna O. Marsh will give a free lesson in vocal sight reading Thursday evening, Jan. 13th, at 8 o'clock, at Menzel's music studio, 322 West Front street. All lovers of music both men and women, are invited to come and see if they would like to join a class which Miss Marsh expects to form.

PRETTY WEDDING OF '98

MARRIAGE OF MISS LAURA MULFORD AND JOHN M. LEWIS.

The Ceremony Performed at the Home of the Bride's Parents on East Fifth Street —They Appeared at the Altar Unattended

One of the prettiest weddings of the season was that of last evening when Miss Laura Mulford, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Mulford, of East Fifth street, and John M. Lewis, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Lewis, of Grove street, were united in marriage by Rev. W. C. Snodgrass, pastor of the First M. E. church, also of the bride and groom.

The wedding took place at 7 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents, and was witnessed by the immediate relatives and friends of the contracting parties. The ceremony was performed in the parlor where the bridal couple were surrounded with a profusion of stately palms and pretty floral decorations, while about the room there was a pleasing arrangement of southern smilax which added very much to the general beauty of the decorations.

The bride and groom were unattended. The ceremony was a simple but very beautiful one. The bride wore a traveling gown of dark cloth, and carried a bouquet of bridal roses. The happy couple were showered with congratulations following the ceremony, after which a delightful wedding supper was served by Stephenson, the caterer. The table was prettily decorated with smilax and roses, and was greatly admired by all.

During the evening Mr. and Mrs. Lewis left the city for a bridal tour. On their return they will reside in this city. The groom is a valued employe of the Prudential Insurance Company, of Newark, and both he and his bride have the best wishes of a host of admiring friends for a life of happiness and success. They were the recipients of many valuable tokens of esteem from their relatives and friends.

Among the valued presents to the bride and groom was a handsome house and two lots located on Richmond street, near East Second. Mr. and Mrs. Lewis will probably reside there on their return. The gift was from the bride's father.

CHARITY OF THE MIDDLE AGES.

Mr. Goodell Says the Methods Were Exactly Suited to the Day.

The threatening weather prevented a very large attendance at the public meeting of the Citizens' Organized Aid Association, which was held last night in the lecture room of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, but those who were present enjoyed a very pleasant and interesting evening. Col. Mason W. Tyler, president of the association, presided.

The treasurer's report was read by H. P. Reynolds, reporting a balance on hand of $153.21, and a contributing membership of 120.

A hearty round of applause greeted the appearance of President Goodell, of the Massachusetts Agricultural College, Amherst, Mass., who was now introduced by Col. Tyler as the speaker of the evening. His subject was "The Charitable Institutions of the Middle Ages." The Dark Ages, he said, were dark enough, but in them we find one institution which was exactly suited to the day—the guilds which were formed for the one purpose of doing good. Every craft had its guild in those days, and it was unusual to find a man who did not belong to one. It was the guilds for charitable work that Mr. Goodell wished to consider, and as the best way of presenting the subject, he described the meeting of such a guild, held nearly seven hundred years ago. Nearly all the branches of charity in vogue at the present day had their early counterparts in these mediæval guilds.

HUM OF COUNTY TROLLEY TALK NOT HARMONIOUS

FRANK BERGEN MEETS ADVERSE SENTIMENT, BUT WAS NOT ENTIRELY SQUELCHED.

The Elizabethan Quoted Figures to Show That County Ownership Was a Good Thing—Plan on Point of Being Turned Down When J. E. Martine Turned Sentiment.

Plainfield had its first glimpse last evening of the war that is now raging through most of Union county over the question of a trolley road connecting Elizabeth and Plainfield. Although the terminus of the proposed route, it was not until last night that Plainfield had a chance to personally hear arguments presented in favor of and against the scheme of county ownership for a trolley line on the county road as proposed by Frank Bergen. The first skirmish appeared to be in favor of Mr. Bergen, or rather in favor of giving his plan a more careful consideration.

Although the night was a stormy one the meeting at Music Hall was attended by a representative audience, numbering about 300. Both sides were represented. In the seats were many leading citizens, former officeholders and present city officials. The politicians were well represented. In the gallery was a crowd of small boys who deemed it their special privilege and duty to make all the noise they could. Of course they always applauded at the wrong time and threatened to break up the gathering by their untimely disturbance.

The meeting was called to order at 8:25 o'clock by Former Mayor Alex. Gilbert. He gave a rough outline of the object of the meeting. Mr. Bergen then took the floor. He sketched his connection with the scheme from the time of the application of a trolley company to secure a franchise for a trolley line on the county road, the meeting which resulted in the appointment of the Committee of Eleven and its report. While waiting for the stereopticon to be adjusted, Mr. Bergen told something of the management of street railway companies in England.

He explained that heretofore all the valuable franchises of the county had been given away and now that the most valuable of them all was being considered, it was time the county changed its policy and tried to get something in return for it. Several plans were next exhibited on the screen showing the proposed route of the trolley line. Pictures were shown of the manner in which Mr. Bergen proposes to widen the street. Then followed some statements shown on the screen for the edification of the spectators. They stated that the report of the commissioners on railroad taxation showed the street railways to be capitalized at $130,630 a mile on the average. The cost of a single track road was from $6,000 to $15,000 a mile. A franchise to construct a road from Elizabeth to Plainfield would be worth $500,000 to a corporation at the ordinary terms. Then followed statements about the advantages of the country through which the line would pass and from whence it would draw its revenue. The assessed valuation in the county was quoted at $37,997,600, the debt at less than $500,000. County bonds bore interest at 4 per cent and sold at 105.

Several pages showing the cost of the improvement placed it at $387,853.40, the estimate of the Committee of Eleven. There are 612½ miles of trolley road in the State, single track measurement. The average cost was put at $12,000 a mile, which Mr. Bergen declared was only one-eleventh of the capitalization. An accident to the stereopticon prevented its further use.

Mr. Bergen then gave some figures regarding the running of trolley lines. He placed the average income at $9,420 a mile and the net profits at $4,000. The county ought to get some of that, he declared. The only argument used against his scheme, he continued, was made by a man in Cranford, then by Col. Hine at Westfield, and then by J. Martin Roll at the meeting of the Board of Freeholders. The argument was that the people wanted the trolley at once and did not care what it cost the county.

The assessments throughout the county were going up, he said, and the tax rate was not lowered. It was necessary for the modern municipality to have money to carry on the public improvements. His method was a way to somewhat relieve the taxpayers and allow the improvements to go on.

Personally, said Mr. Bergen, it made no difference to him who built the trolley or controlled it. His money was sunk underground and a trolley line of any description would bring with it the boom that he had been waiting for. If a trolley line was to be built, it was his idea that it ought to be built right and as much as possible to the advantage of the county.

Former Mayor Gilbert asked for remarks from the house and former Councilman J. B. Dumont, who had been one of the dissenting members of the Committee of Eleven, was the first to respond. The scheme, he declared was an experiment and everyone should see that the county does not pay too dearly for it. He criticized the bill that Mr. Bergen was trying to put through the house, giving the Board of Freeholders power to construct the road and then lease it. There was nothing to secure the county against loss, he said. The trolley road might be built and then no one could be found who would be willing to lease it. Then the county would have to sell it at a great sacrifice and with great loss. Then the building of the road would cost half a million. The comparisons of the other roads given by Mr. Bergen, he said, were not fair, as most of them were for street railways in cities and not in surburban districts. The estimates of Mr. Bergen he pronounced far too low.

He took up the bill again and declared it took away the power of the property owners by allowing the Board of Freeholders to put the trolley road in what streets they saw fit, without any way of stopping them. The Plainfield people had always taken care of their streets, and were perfectly capable of continuing to do so. Then the provision that the property benefited should be assessed and the assessment collected as county taxes was not a good thing, according to his ideas. He spoke of the great trouble in collecting the county tax and the loss to the city that way, and then the trouble in collecting assessments. This trolley road, he declared, would not end the scheme, but the county would have to build trolley roads from Elizabeth to Rahway, and Elizabeth to Summit and other places in the county, all the roads centreing about Elizabeth.

J. W. Murray, Sr., spoke strongly against the scheme, saying that by following it every property-owner would be mortgaging his property. He did not believe in the county entering into business affairs.

The next speaker was Chandler Riker, of Newark, president of the Plainfield Street Railway, and president of the Elizabeth and Westfield Electric Street Railway, which is trying to secure a franchise for a trolley road between Elizabeth and Plainfield. He explained that the Plainfield Street Railway was capitalized at just what it would cost. The stock in that company had not paid 2 per cent a year on investment. When the trolley road in Plainfield was built, he declared, no one in Plainfield would undertake it so he and his associates had come in. They had built the road through a Plainfield contractor as economically as possible, then it had cost them over $15,000 a mile. Plainfield had received more for taxes and street repairs from the company than the investors had. The receipts for the last year were $50,500, of which $4,500 had been paid out as taxes and street repairs.

Mr. Riker then spoke directly of Mr. Bergen's scheme. It was foolishness, he said, to talk of leasing a trolley road without determining the fare and headway. Mr. Bergen's estimate regarding the cost of the widening of the street, $37,000, was far too low. He said it would cost nearer $300,000. The building of the trolley road, he declared, would cost not less than $20,000 a mile even if Mr. Murray or Mr. Serrell, of this city, should take the contract. The total cost of the road would be nearly $900,000. Then he asked who would lease such a road. It would never be a success.

He closed by saying that Mr. Bergen and his company might build and run a road on the county road, while his company would build one not on the county road. Surely, he said, the county trolly line ought to be able to stand competition.

Mr. Murray had been endeavoring for some time to gain recognition of the chairman. He now made a motion to the effect that the meeting agree with their representatives of the committee, Messrs. Dumont and Ivins, and express their disapprobation of Mr. Bergen's scheme. L. W. Serrell, Jr., seconded the motion. Despite all this opposition of his plans, Mr. Bergen sat quietly and at intervals smiled on the audience.

It seemed that the prevailing senti-

A COLONIAL DAUGHTER.

THE DEATH OF MRS. J. T. FRITTS OCCURRED LAST EVENING.

She Was Able to Trace Her Ancestors Back to 1600—In Sympathy With Religion and Philanthropic Endeavor.

Margaret Suydam, wife of Dr. John T. Fritts, died at her home, 423 Park avenue, at 6:20 o'clock last evening, after a long illness.

Mrs. Fritts was a daughter of Andrew Suydam, of Franklin Park. Her ancestors were Hollanders and were among the first settlers in this State. She was able to trace her lineage back as far as 1600.

She was married to Dr. Fritts at Whitehouse in 1867. They came to this city in 1877 and have lived here continuously ever since, making their home for the first five years on West Second street.

The deceased was a member of the Crescent Avenue church, of this city, and was in sympathy with all religious and philanthropic work, although her devotion to her home kept her from taking any active part. She has been ill for nearly a year, and for the past three months was confined to her room.

She was nearly 52 years of age at the time of her death. Two daughters, Miss Lillian and Miss Mary Fritts, a son, Andrew Fritts, and her husband, Dr. John T. Fritts, are the members of her immediate family surviving. She also leaves three brothers, John and Jacob Suydam, of Whitehouse; and Joseph Suydam, of Kansas City, Mo.; and two sisters, Mrs. Anna Schomp, of Readington; and Mrs. Ditmars, of Whitehouse.

The family have the sympathy of a large circle of friends, who knew Mrs. Fritts only to admire her unselfish Christian character and her devotion to her home.

The funeral will be held from the house on Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Rev. William R. Richards, D. D., of the Crescent Avenue church, officiating. Interment will be in Hillside Cemetery.

POLICEMEN DICIPLINED.

One Charged With Insubordination and the Other With Drunkenness.

Two members of the police force of this city appeared before the police board last evening to answer to charges preferred against them by the board. They were Patrolman Maurice Higgins and Patrolman James E. Totten. Both pleaded guilty and were fined. The amount of the fines were not given out by the board.

Higgins was charged with being insurbordinate and refusing to obey the orders of his superior officers. He was also accused of using language unbecoming an officer It is understood that Higgins was detailed to a beat that is unpopular with the men. He did not want to go and over that the trouble occurred.

Totten was charged with being drunk while off duty. It was claimed that he was unable to return to duty one night and was reported to be confined to his home with illness when he was really recovering from the effects of a spree.

ACCEPTED BY JOINT COMMITTEE.

The joint committee of the Freeholders of Union and Somerset counties, having charge of the erection of the new bridges across Green brook held a meeting in this city yesterday, and inspected the work on the bridges. The Watchung avenue structure was found to be complete in every particular and it was accepted by the committee. The Sycamore avenue bridge was not approved because the hand rail on the sidewalk had not yet been placed in position. Otherwise the work upon the bridge was found to be perfectly satisfactory, and the structure will probably shortly be approved. The committee includes Freeholders Hubbard, Robinson, Tier and Clark, of this county.

Billy Kline Turned Down.

William A. Kline, the colored Republican leader, of this city, who has been working for the office of doorkeeper of the Assembly, failed to receive the nomination, which went to an Elizabeth politician. Kline feels sore over his defeat, as he had practically been assured of the place.

Opened a Civil Engineer's Office.

Robert A. Meeker, for several years the street commissioner of this city, has opened a civil engineering office in rooms 7 and 8 in the Marsh building. Mr. Meeker is an expert engineer, and will doubtless build a large business in this section.

BUNCO MEN LIVED QUIET

NOTORIOUS CROOKS DID NOT AROUSE SUSPICION IN PLAINFIELD.

Neither Family Was Active in Social Circles—Had Plenty of Money and Paid Bills—Ludlum's Relatives Live Here

The startling announcement in yesterday's Press of the arrest of one Plainfielder, George Spencer, and the flight of another, Louis Ludlum, charged with being the leaders in a gang of bunco-steerers that have been working in the rural districts all over the country, was the topic of conversation at many a dinner table in Plainfield homes last evening. The proximity of neighbors of such a character was a general surprise, for no one had any idea that Plainfield was harboring such distinguished characters within its limits. Everybody tried to recall if they had met the strangers, and how they looked.

While it was evident that both Spencer and Ludlum had led anything but a quiet life while away from Plainfield, their existence in Plainfield has been an uneventful one. They made their home here but had nothing to do with the rest of the community. They lived quietly but well, paid their bills promptly and made every effort to keep in the background. While their neighbors knew who they were, they had no intimate acquaintances. They made no effort to meet any of their neighbors; in fact, they took pains to show that they did not care for the acquaintance of anybody.

Louis Ludlum and his wife moved to this city in September, 1896. Where they came from nobody has been able to ascertain. Mrs. Sabina Kern, a sister of Mrs. Ludlum, moved here at the same time from Phillipsburg. With her came her two sons, Harry, aged seventeen years, and Charles, aged fourteen years. They occupied the second story of the house on Putnam avenue, No. 1,002, which Ludlum had rented. Mr. Ludlum is a man apparently of about forty years of age. He is five feet six inches in height, is heavily built, and has a florid complexion and sandy moustache and hair. He is always dressed in the height of fashion.

While no one exactly knew what he was doing, it was currently reported in the neighborhood that he was the traveling salesman for a New York whiskey house. This in a measure accounted for his irregular actions. He was sometimes absent for several weeks and then would return and spend a week in Plainfield apparently doing nothing.

They never went out in society. Mrs. Ludlum spent most of her time at home or out driving. They kept a horse and trap at Day's livery stable. Mrs. Ludlum was run into on Park avenue one day last fall by a runaway and narrowly escaped injury. She was very indignant, however, when the papers published an account of the accident. The Ludlums were so averse to publicity that they refused to allow their name to go in the new directory.

Mrs. Kern attended the Park Avenue Baptist church at intervals. She was found to be a very charming woman by the neighbors who called on her frequently. Nothing was seen of the Ludlums during the stay of the callers. They never attended church.

The Spencers were frequent visitors at the Ludlum home. They sometimes came here and spent a week or two. An elderly man and a young man also visited the house once or twice. The Spencers came at intervals until last October, when they moved here. Their former residence is not known. They took the house on Carlton avenue next to the corner of Watchung avenue.

Harry Kern was employed at Woodhull & Martin's store for a year. A week after the Spencers' arrival here to take up housekeeping Mrs. Kern suddenly announced that she was going to return to Phillipsburg. She gave no explanation for the change. She is now living there with her family.

Mrs. Ludlum and Mrs. Spencer were very intimate. They were frequently seen together. Mrs. Spencer spent much of her time at the home of the Ludlums. Mrs. Ludlum is a short woman, quite attractive. She always wears gowns of the latest fashion. Mrs. Spencer is tall and rather large. She always wore the latest creations of the dressmaker's art.

Last summer the Ludlums went away, saying that they were going to Avon. They were absent for two weeks.

The last appearance of the two men to the neighbors was one morning three weeks ago, when they walked down Putnam avenue together.

Spencer, alias Reed, alias Greenhalge, was given a hearing yesterday morning in Philadelphia and held to

SENATOR HANNA WINS

Gets Seventy-Three Votes on the First Ballot at Columbus.

JOINT CONVENTION TO-DAY

The Legislature Will Meet and Ratify the Vote of Yesterday--Democrats Are Not United and Supported McKisson, a Republican--Bribery Charges Denied.

Columbus, O., Jan. 12.—Marcus A. Hanna has won. A vote on the Senatorship was precipitated ahead of time yesterday noon, and Mr. Hanna received 73 votes in both houses, just enough to elect in the joint session of to-day.

The suddenness of the result was a great surprise. In the House fifty-six Republicans voted for Hanna. Lane and Droite, the fusion Republicans from Cincinnati, voted for Hanna. Joyce, Manuel and Griffith, who voted against Boxwell, voted for Hanna They were the three who broke away from the Kurtz combination.

There was a burst of applause when Griffith of Union voted "Hanna." He is the member whose wife was so unpleasantly drawn into the contest.

Democrats Divided.

The democrats were not united. They had been divided by ex-Senator Brice's agents, who have been working for Hanna for several weeks. Gen. Wiley of Wooster voted for John J. Lentz, the Columbus Congressman. Hazlitt of Crawford voted for Wiley. Hess of Shelby voted for Gen. A. J. Warner of silver fame. The ballot stood: Hanna 56, McKisson 49, Lentz 1, Wiley 1, Warner 1 and Marcus A. Hanna was declared the choice of the House for the short term, ending March 4, 1899. The vote in the House on the long term was the same.

In the Senate, McKisson received the solid Democratic vote, 19, and Hanna 17, including Voight, the Republican fusionist of Cincinnati. McKisson was declared the choice of the Senate for Senator for both terms. This makes necessary a joint ballot to-day noon, and the result will be Hanna's election. He will receive his commission at once from Governor Bushnell.

There was a grand rush of Senator Hanna's friends to his headquarters. He was overwhelmed with congratulations and forced to make a few short speeches. Thus is practically ended the most exciting Senatorial contest ever seen in Ohio.

No More Fighting.

The Kurtz combination will not make any further attempt to disturb the result to-morrow. Rather it is expected that on the final roll call the Democrats will vote for a Democrat, and some bolting Republicans will go to the party's choice. The Kurtz following blame their defeat on ex-Senator Brice. That shrewd manipulator has re-established his hold in Ohio politics from now on. His agents, Hull, Layton and Dowling, have been working with Hannna's managers for months, and it was through the efforts of Hull and Layton that the Democratic vote was divided

A remarkable scene took place in the Senate chamber when the vote from the House was announced. The Republican Senators inspired by the encouraging news, stood in their chairs and upon the floor and shouted themselves hoarse with calls for Hanna and victory. Nothing like it was ever seen in an Ohio Senate chamber.

At 12.15 the House adjourned and the hall was used for a jollification meeting with the crowd singing "Praise God from Whom All Blessings Flow."

Regarding the alleged attempt at bribery in Cincinnati, Senator Hanna has issued the following statement:

"I deny having authorized any agent or representative of mine to make any offer to Representative Otis or any other member of the Assembly. I never sent any man to Cincinnati to see Mr. Otis. I have never known or seen 'Mr Boyes' in my life, and have had no transactions with him. The whole story is false from beginning to end."

Bribery Must Be Investigated.

Columbus, O., Jan. 12.—The bolting Republicans here issued a signed statement yesterday afternoon, in which they declare that the bribery charges must be investigated. They say that they will vote for Hanna if the charges are proven untrue. The statement is signed by all the anti-Hanna members.

Blood Poison in the Razor.

Trenton, N. J., Jan. 12.—Davis P. Hunt, of 1008 Clinton avenue, is in a critical condition at his home, suffering from blood poisoning. He claims his condition is due to a cut received while he was being shaved. Hunt says he was in the habit of getting shaved very close, and in so doing he says his barber cut him in the lip, and that poison from the razor or the soap had infected the blood.

Honor for Miss Long.

Washington, Jan. 12.—Miss Helen Long, daughter of the Secretary of the Navy, will christen the first Japanese warship to be launched in the United States. The ceremony will take place at Cramps' shipyards on the 29th inst. The cruiser is to be named Kasagi.

Bank President Shot.

Butte, Mont., Jan. 12.—P. A. Largy, president of the State Savings Bank, was shot and killed in his office yesterday afternoon. The crime seems to be the outcome of litigation.

MASSACRED BY INDIANS.

Seminoles Reported to Have Risen and Killed 25 Settlers.

Oklahoma City, O. T., Jan. 12.—There is an uprising in the Seminole nation, and one hundred armed Indians have killed twenty-five citizens of Pottawatamie County, this Territory.

The Indians are seeking to avenge the recent burning of Lincoln McGeisey and Palmer Simpson, two Indians of the Seminole tribe, who were accused of murdering Mrs. Leard, of Maud Postoffice.

A special train load of armed citizens has gone to Earlborough, ten miles from Maud, and excitement is higher than ever before known in the Indian Territory.

Dallas, Tex., Jan 12.—A special to the News from Shawnee, O. T., says: "The report has just reached here that 250 Seminole Indians are on their way to Earlsborough burning and killing as they go, wanting revenge for the lynching of the two Indians there a few days ago. The Sheriff and a party are on their way to protect the Earlsborough people.

DENIES HER GUILT.

Woman Accused of Murder Tells How Her Husband Was Killed.

Camden, N. J., Jan. 12.—The trial of Mrs. McCusker for the murder of her husband has practically ended. Both sides rested at 3.30 yesterday afternoon, and court adjourned until to-day, when the closing arguments will be had. It is thought that a verdict will be reached by to-night.

Mrs. McCusker went on the stand again yesterday. She declared in her direct testimony that her husband was a drunkard, said he brutally treated her, and as a result of the beatings she received for days she was unable to leave her home. He had kicked her while intoxicated, had cut the clothing off her back in order to prevent her escaping, broken her nose with a blow of his fist and had broken one of her wrists in turning it.

She told of the scuffle on Nov. 9, when McCusker was shot, and said in trying to save herself from being shot, the revolver went off, and her husband received the wound from which he died.

On cross-examination by Prosecutor Jenkins she admitted she allowed men to call on her, but explained that they were her personal friends and that her husband did not obpect to them, as he knew them, too.

She declared her husband was a drunkard, but was never intoxicated during business hours, waiting until after he had finished his labors. She denied ever leaving him for a year. She said that it was her husband who had deserted her. She testified that her husband always kept a revolver under the pillow of his bed.

"Why did not you hide it?" asked Prosecutor Jenkins.

Mrs. McCusker replied: "I never thought of that."

At this point the revolver with which the shooting was done was handed her by the prosecutor to demonstrate to the jury just how she was struggling with her husband, and how he shot himself. At the sight of the pistol Mrs. McCusker temporarily broke down, and it was some minutes before she could resume her testimony.

There was a scene at the afternoon's session when Mrs. Coffey, mother of the defendant, was called. She testified that she had seen McCusker strike his wife, and had often seen bruises on her face made by her husband's fists. As the witness was leaving the stand she fainted and fell into the arms of two constables. At the sight of her mother fainting Mrs. McCusker burst into tears.

TWELVE COUNTERFEITS FOUND.

Officials Uncertain About the Number of Bogus $100 Bills Issued.

Washington, Jan. 12.—Twelve counterfeit $100 certificates have been discovered in the $3,500,000 of $100 silver certificates received at the Treasury recently from all sources. Several officials are inclined to believe that not many of these counterfeits are in circulation. Others, just as competent to judge, are less sanguine. When Secretary Gage decided to call in all silver certificates of the $100 denomination there were outstanding $25,821,000. Under the call of the Secretary $3,500,000 in these bills have been received, only about $100,000 coming from sources other than the Sub-Treasuries. There are outstanding $22,321,000.

Assistant Treasurer Meline feels encouraged that so few bills of a spurious character have come to light, but there is fear that when the banks, trust companies and other holders of the $22,000,000 outstanding are heard from more of the bogus notes may be discovered. The emergency call for the new $100 silver certificates found the Treasury stock of large notes run low. Ten days will have passed before the Bureau of Engraving and Printing can have a supply to meet the extraordinary demand encountered by reason of the efforts taken to stop the introduction of any more counterfeits into circulation.

The Treasurer is exchanging $50 certificates for the $100 certificates, which are being forwarded, but even that supply is inadequate. By the middle of next week the machinery will be running smoothly, and the exchange can be made promptly thereafter. The sudden call upon banks for their stocks of certificates of the denomination named and their inability to obtain other money in its place is embarrassing to some of the smaller banking institutions The abrupt withdrawal of nearly $26,000,000 from circulation, even for a few days, is felt perceptibly.

THE HAWAIIAN TREATY

It is Very Likely to Meet Defeat in the Senate.

DAY OF VOTE NOT DECIDED

Opposition More Determined and Stronger Than Supposed--Friends of the Treaty Claim to Have 61 Votes--Speeches to Be Made on Both Sides.

Washington, Jan. 12.—The Senate again took up the Hawaiian annexation treaty in executive session yesterday afternoon. The opening skirmish on the treaty Monday has cleared the air to some extent. It is proposed to amend the treaty so as to prevent statehood.

The friends of the treaty now say they have 61 votes, but a more conservative estimate gives them 58, or two less than the required number. This 58 is composed of 42 Republicans, 3 silver Republicans, Mantle, Cannon and Teller; 5 Populists, Harris, Heltfield, Jones, Stewart and Turner; 1 Independent, Kyle, and 7 Democrats, Gorman, Money, Morgan, Murphy, Pettus, Rawlins and Turpie.

Turpie desires an amendment to the treaty, and will secure it. There are four doubtful Senators — Kenney, Roach, Smith and Mitchell, all Democrats.

When the vote will be taken is a matter of doubt. Senator Morgan says the ratification might be accomplished in five days, but this is thought to be absolutely impossible, as the opposition is determined and persistent, and many speeches will be made on both sides.

FINANCIAL BILLS IN THE HOUSE.

President's Recommendation to Be Reported from the Committee.

Washington, Jan. 12.—Careful inquiry among the members of the House Committee on Banking and Currency shows that a majority is counted on to report without delay on the three financial propositions recommended by the President in his message. At least nine of the seventeen members of the committee will vote to favorably report the President's recommendations without waitng for action on the Gage bill, or monetary conference bill, or any other comprehensive measure. The plan is to give the commission a hearing the same as Mr. Gage was heard, and then to consider the President's propositions.

There is no intention to drop the Gage or monetary commission bill, but it is felt that it will take much time to get from these and like general measures any plan on which the committee can agree. In the meantime it is thought best to get before the House such features of reform as the President has recommended, leaving the general reform to take its chance later. The nine members who are counted on to vote to report at once on the President's recommendations are Republicans, while all the Democrats and three Republicans are conceded against the plan.

SPOILSMEN'S WAR CUT SHORT.

Reed's Vote Ends Civil Service Debate in the House.

Washington, Jan. 12.—Speaker Reed cast the deciding vote in the House yesterday for a motion that put a stop to the senseless debate on civil service. The scene was dramatic when it was announced that the vote stood 125 to 125. "A tie," said the Speaker, "and the Chair votes aye." The Republicans greeted this with loud and prolonged cheers.

This resulting in ending the fight of the spoilsmen for the overthrow of the mirit system, at least for the present.

The debate that followed the vote was dull until the closing hour, when Mr. Simpson, the Kansas Populist, enlivened it with some references to the Ohio Senatorial election.

Mr. Bailey, the Democratic leader, made a clear statement of the minority position, which indicates that the minority will vote to repeal, but not to modify the law. This means that the spoilsmen, who want a modification of the low, probably will fail in gaining their point. The principal speech of the day was made by Mr. Brosius, chairman of the Civil Service Committee, who defended the law in a two-hour speeach.

NAMED BY THE PRESIDENT.

John H. Landis to Be Coiner of the Mint of Philadelphia.

Washington, Jan. 12.—The President has sent these nominations to the Senate:

Ivory G. Kimball, of the District of Columbia, to be judge of the Police Court of the District of Columbia.

Thomas M. Alderson, of Virginia, to be attorney of the United States.

S. Brown, of Virginia, to be marshal of the United States for the Western District of Virginia.

W. Maxwell Greene, of Rhode Island, to be Consul at Bermuda.

Joshua Wilbour, of Rhode Island, to be Consul at Dublin, Ireland.

Henry D. Saylor, of Pennsylvania, to be Consul at Matanzas, Cuba.

McKenna Not Yet Confirmed.

Washington, Jan. 12.—The Senate Committee on Judiciary had the nomination of Attorney-General McKenna to be justice of the Supreme Court under consideration for two hours yesterday, but adjourned without reaching a decision. The committee adjourned with the understanding that it would meet at the call of the President. It is stated that the failure was due to the general importance of the nomination and the feeling that full time should be given to it by the committee. The opposition in the committee seems stronger than at first anticipated, and there seems to be a disposition to sift the charges to the bottom.

Chinese Loan Negotiations.

London, Jan. 12.—The Chinese loan negotiations are progressing. Great Britain has informed China that she is willing to find the money required and the details are now being discussed. The amount will probably be £20,000,000 ($100,000,000), Great Britain asking for certain changes in the administration of China, including the restoration of Li Hung Chang to power.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

"My daughter, when recovering from an attack of fever, was a great sufferer from pain in the back and hips," writes Louden Grover, of Sardis, Ky. "After using quite a number of remedies without any benefit she tried one bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm, and it has given entire relief." Chamberlain's Pain Balm is also a certain cure for rheumatism. Sold by T. S. Armstrong, apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

Mrs. E. F. Randolph, of East Front street, is recovering from her late severe illness.

Conductor Harry McCormick, of the street railway, spent yesterday in Newark with friends.

Persons who are troubled with indigestion will be interested in the experience of Wm. H. Penn, chief clerk, in the railway mail service at Des Moines, Iowa, who writes: "It gives me pleasure to testify to the merits of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy. For two years I have suffered from indigestion, and am subject to frequent severe attacks of pain in the stomach and bowels. One or two doses of this remedy never fails to give perfect relief." The progressive ladies of Westfield, Ind., issued a "Woman's Edition" of the Westfield News, bearing date of April 3d, 1896 The paper is filled with matter of interest to women, and we notice the following from a correspondent, which the editors printed, realizing that it treats upon a matter of vital importance to their sex: "The best remedy for croup, colds and bronchitis that I have been able to find is Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. For family use it has no equal. I gladly recommend it." 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by T. S. Armstrong apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

—The meetings at Hope chapel this week are well attended and the workers are much encouraged, —An adjourned business meeting of the W. C. T. U. will be held in their rooms tomorrow afternoon at 3:30. A full attendance of members is requested.

Mothers whose children are troubled with bad colds, croup or whooping-cough will do well to read what Dr. R. R. Robey, of Olney, Mo., says on this subject, He writes: "For years we have used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, and always keep it in the house. It is regarded in our family as a specific for all kinds of colds and coughs." The 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by T. S. Armstrong, apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

ESTERHAZY IS ACQUITTED.

Court-Martial Unanimous in Its Decision--Crowds Cheer Him.

Paris, Jan. 12.—Major Count Esterhazy was acquitted unanimously by the court-martial yesterday. On leaving the court he was cheered by the crowds in the street.

He was charged with dealing with a foreign power or its agents to incite them to commit hostilities or undertake war against France, or procure it the means of doing so.

The taking of testimony ended at 5 o'clock in the afternoon, when the Goverment's representative briefly addressed the court. Counsel for Major Esterhazy followed

The secret deliberation of the court-martial, which followed the address of Major Esterhazy's counsel, terminated at 8 15 P M., when the President read the judgment.

The President then ordered Major Esterhazy to be liberated, enjoinging upon the Government representative to have the judgment read to the accused man before the Military Guard, under arms at the courthouse.

Esterhazy last evening said he had been chiefly touched by the manner in which he was greeted, after judgment, by the officers of the court-martial, who shook him by the hand, General Hervieux saying: "I am glad to be able to give you this mark of sympathy in the presence of your accusers."

STATISTICS OF STARVATION

Appeal for Cuba Issued in the Name of President McKinley.

Washington, Jan. 12.—An appeal on behalf of the Central Cuban Relief Committee of New York, was issued yesterday in the name of President McKinley, from the State Department. A startling array of figures is given, fully confirming the reports printed from Cuba.

The committee was appointed by President McKinley, and is under the direction of the State Department. The members are Stephen E. Barton, of the American National Red Cross; Charles A. Schieren, of the New York Chamber of Commerce, and Louis Klopsch of the Christian Herald.

The statistics of starvation are given in the appeal as follows: "According to the figures published in the Diario, of Havana, an influential newspaper, there are 90,312 persons in a single province, Matanzas, who are absolutely without resources.

"Up to Nov. 30, 1897, 20,044 had perished of hunger, while 17,456 had disappeared.

"There are now in the same province more than 60,000 persons, of whom 20,000 are women and 24,000 are children, actually starving. Of these it is declared by the physicians that a majority will surely die."

Justice Fell, Fractured His Skull.

Madison, Wis., Jan 12.—Justice A. W. Newman, of the Supreme Court, fell on an icy sidewalk yesterday, striking his head, with great force and fracturing his skull. The dectors say he has but a slight chance for recovery.

St. Louis, Jan. 12.—James J. Corbett is the latest customer for Chris von der Ahe's baseball franchise. Corbett says he would like to buy the Browns, and is willing to pay a stiff price.

FIRST FUR SEIZURE.

Sealskin Sacque and Its Wearer Held by Customs Officers.

Niagara Falls, N. Y., Jan. 12.—The first seizure of furs under the new act relating to sealskins was made here Monday night A sealskin sacque valued at $200 was taken from Miss B. Parkiston, of London, England, a passenger on a Lehigh Valley train coming from Canada. Miss Parkiston said the sacque had been purchased in London in 1894.

Miss Parkiston remains at a hotel here under charge of Customs Inspector Fulston. She was on her way to New York.

Discrimination in Sealskins.

Washington, Jan. 12.—When the attention of Assistant Secretary Howell was called to the difficulties experienced at Detroit and Suspension Bridge by tourists, in the detention of their sealskin garments, he sent the following telegram to the Collectors of Customs at these ports:

"Admit sealskin garments imported as personal effects if they are shown to have been in use of owners prior to 29th ultimo."

Law Will Be Tested.

Washington, Jan. 12.—The Treasury Department has been informed that Wiel & Co., fur importers of New York, will protest against the operation of one feature of the new Sealing law, with the intention of bringing the matter into the courts. The firm represents that it had in London at the time the Sealing bill became a law, a large number of sealskins in process of dressing, and preparation for shipment, and that free entry should be allowed these skins at the Port of New York.

SENATOR REED'S RECOGNITION.

Senator Voorhees, president of the Senate, recognized Senator Reed very nicely in the makeup of the committee of the upper house of the Legislature. The Somerset county Senator is made chairman of the committee on boroughs and townships of the Senate and chairman of treasurer's accounts and the sinking fund of the joint committees. These positions will give Mr. Reed opportunity for the exercise of great influence in the legislative circles. In addition to the chairmanships named, Mr. Reed is also a second member of the judciary committee.

LABOR LAWS FOR WOMEN.

The State Federation of Labor proposes to submit several bills to the Legislature, one of their chief efforts being to secure the appointment of two women as inspectors of factories. The presence of so many women and girls in the factories makes such appointments necessary.

Another point is to secure the passage of a law requiring the big department stores to furnish seats for their female employes. Although many are opposed to the employment of women, they believe that they should be granted certain privileges, and propose to see that they get them.

There was a sharp contest in the Senate yesterday between Senators Voorhees and Skirm over the appointment of a private secretary. Voorhees insisted that he should be given the privilege of appointing the man, and that he should be permitted to serve for Skirm when the latter assumes the duties of President of the Senate. Skirm finally won the battle, and will probably appoint C. K. Barnhart, of Mercer county, who was formerly editor of the Bridgeton News.

A condensed version of Gov. Griggs' message will be found in the telegraphic columns of The Press today. The paper is the last one that the Governor will present as the State's chief executive, and it was carefully and sensibly prepared to point out to the Legislature where there is need of their attention and action.

Euchre at the Park Club.

The members of the Park Club, their wives and lady friends enjoyed a progressive euchre party at the club last evening. The attendance was large and much interest was manifested in the spirited contest for the prizes. The first and second prizes for the women were won by Mrs. Carman and Miss Barlow, while Charles Lymaff and Arthur Freeman were awarded the first and second prizes for the men. William O. Worth was presented with the consolation prize. The affair throughout was a great success, and it is quite likely that a similar event will be held soon.

Gun Club Elects Officers.

The members of the Independent Gun Club met last evening and elected officers as follows: President, Joseph A. Blatz; first lieutenant, M. Mezenbach; second lieutenant, A. Frentz; secretary, M. Schoetlin; treasurer, Mr. Barry; first shooting master, Frank Schaefer; second shooting master, Thos. Melcher; flag bearer, Louis Vaughn; adjutants, Charles Sutterlein and Thomas Melcher; finance committee, Henry Haurand, Herman Klinsman and Louis Van Dyke; manager of shooting contests, Henry Haurand; assistant, Charles Lister.

New Directory for the City.

J. H. Baldwin, manager of Holbrook Newark Directory Company, was in Plainfield yesterday making arrangements to secure such information as is needed for the compilation of the directory of Plainfield, North Plainfield, Westfield, Cranford, Scotch Plains and Roselle. Mr. Baldwin assures his customers that the directory this year will be as complete as it is possible to make it.

Miss Bertha Potter, of Rahway, is a guest of Miss Cornelia Rockfellow, of Park avenue.

BUNCO MEN LIVED QUIET

await requisition papers from Massachusetts. Spencer, it is alleged, represented to Charles Sweitzer, an aged farmer of Chelmsford, Mass., that he was a nephew of ex-Governor Greenhalge, of Massachusetts. He said he wanted to buy a farm for a widow. Sweitzer took him out in his buggy and showed him several properties, none of which suited.

While driving on the road they met a man with whom Spencer engaged in a three card monte game, at which the stranger lost $5,000. The money was put in a tin box, and the stranger said he would meet the men again next day.

In the meantime Sweitzer and Spencer drove to Lowell, and there Sweitzer drew $3 500 out of the bank. Spencer, it is alleged, grabbed the money from him and put it in a tin box, saying he would meet Sweitzer the next day. Sweitzer, however, wanted his money, whereupon Spencer gave him a tin box, which subsequently proved to be empty.

Spencer was later arrested in Clinton, Mass. He was taken to the various district courts at Lowell, South Framingham, Natick and Gardiner, where he was wanted for working his game, and was allowed to enter bail for his appearance at a preliminary hearing. He then disappeared and was not captured again until Monday night. Detective J. H. Whitney, of Lowell, Mass., was at the hearing and identified the prisoner as the man wanted.

A small fire occurred yesterday afternoon on the third floor of the building on North avenue occupied by Rogers, the cycle dealer. VARIOUS BITS OF NEWS.

WESTFIELD HAPPENINGS SERVED UP TERSELY FOR THE PRESS.

Many People Go and Come in the Pretty Suburban Town—Items Interesting Because of Their Brevity

The vestry of St. Paul's Episcopal church meets tonight.

Dr. Sherman Cooper is ill at his home on Broad street.

The Social Club held its monthly business meeting last night.

Westfield Lodge, No. 169, I. O. O. F., will install its newly-elected officers at its meeting tonight.

Westfield Conclave, Improved Order of Heptasophs, held a meeting in Arcanum Hall last night.

L. L. Manning, of Plainfield, has erected a handsome monument for Charles C. Dilts upon the latter's plot in Fairview cemetery.

The plan of having free pews is being tried in St. Paul's Episcopal church. The revenues of the church are all obtained from free will offerings.

A largely-attended union prayer meeting was held in the Baptist church last evening. The leader was Rev. W. H. Ruth. The meeting this evening will be held in the Congregational church and Rev. Henry Ketcham will lead.

The Ladies' Sewing Society of the Presbyterian church will hold its seventy first annual meeting in the church lecture room tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock. The meeting will continue all the afternoon, and at 6 o'clock tea will be served.

An interesting complication has arisen in the affairs of the Fairview Cemetery Association over the election of a secretary Monday evening. There was a hot contest for the office between B. J. Crosby, the present incumbent, and Town Committeeman George H. Embree. The contest between these two for the office has been on for some months, and one of Mr. Crosby's backers, in anticipation of a close vote, secured the proxies of thirty-five lot owners who could not attend the meeting. These proxies were cast for Mr. Crosby, and when the votes had been counted it was announced that Crosby was elected by a majority of seven. Mr. Embree was not quite satisfied that the count was correct. After the meeting adjourned he made an examination of the count. Here an interesting discovery was made. Embree discovered that in their haste to complete the count the tellers had counted the 35 proxies twice. The attention of those present was called to the mistake, but everyone seemed at a loss to know what to do. The matter will probably be brought up at the next meeting of the association by Embree's friends, and a motion made for a recount of the votes.

THEATRICAL.

Washburn's big double minstrel enterprise, which makes its first appearance in our city tomorrow night at Stillman Music Hall, presents many special features, at the same time retaining all the happy acts and customs of genuine minstrelsy. The familiar "first part" sparkles with charming ballads, interspersed with funny witticisms of the end men, and the olio is replete with specialties of the highest and most refined order.

The advent of Robert Hilliard at Stillman Music Hall Saturday evening is a theatrical event of some importance. Although well know socially in Plainfield, Mr. Hilliard has never appeared here professionally, and he is looking toward his forthcoming appearance with pleasurable anticipation. Mr. Hilliard will be seen in "A New Yorker," a comedy that was written especially for him and in which he has appeared with the greatest success. Supporting Mr. Hilliard will be one of the best balanced companies in this country, headed by that charming actress, Mrs. Thorndyke Boucicault, who will also make her first visit to Plainfield. The sale of seats is now progressing.

Mrs. Annie Yeamans, Johnnie Wild and Dan Collyer, three strong favorites with New York theatre-goers, are to make their re-appearance in vaudiville next week at Proctor's Theatre, 23d street, after many years' connection with Edward Harrigan's successes. They will present a musical comedy sketch based on "Chimmie Fannen" and arranged by Edward F. Townsend, the author of that celebrated piece. A sensational European act is that of Emile Eautier, who rides horses on a wooden platform only 15 feet in diameter and elevated some 10 feet above the stage, the platform being without any protecting guard rail. This act is the greatest that has ever been seen in this country, and no one should miss witnessing it.

COUNTY TROLLEY TALK.

ment was against Mr. Bergen when James E. Martine, the "Farmer Orator," rose in his seat and turned the course of events. He explained that while he had once been opposed to municipal ownership of any public work, he now favored it. He had thought that it gave the party in power too much, but now that the secret ballot made their deposition easy, if they did not look after the interests of the people, he favored it. He spoke against voting down the proposition. He said that such an intelligent proposition deserved more careful consideration before it was condemned.

He looked at Mr. Riker and then turned the tide against him to his listener's great amusement. He believed that there was money in such a trolley line or else Mr. Riker would not want to extend his lines over the same territory. If Mr. Riker wanted it, then there was money to be made, he declared. He inquired if the Free holders did not now have the power to extend the county roads without the permission of the property owners. Mr. Dumont answered that they did not, whereupon Mr. Bergen replied from the platform that they did. J. W. Murray jumped up and tried to say something only to be asked to sit down by the chairman, Mr. Gilbert.

Mr. Bergen replied to the motion by saying that the Committee of Eleven had already instructed him to strike out the clause in the bill providing for the assessing of property for benefits received and the addition of one providing that work should not be started until a lease had been secured and proper security deposited.

Mr. Gilbert then put the motion and all in favor of the motion were requested to rise. J. W. Murray, L. W. Serrell, Jr., John B. Dumont, and John Ross rose in their seats. There was an audible smile from the rest. Mr. Gilbert then stated that the negative vote would have the same effect as being in favor of Mr. Bergen's scheme. About half of the men in the main part of the hall rose. Mr. Serrell rose to say something but the chairman did not see him and declared the meeting adjourned as there was nothing else to be done.

TEXAS' CATTLE KING.

"SHANGHI" PIERCE, WHO STARTED OUT AS A COWBOY.

He Was a Rhode Island Lad and is Known Throughout the Entire West as One of the Most Remarkable Men of the Lone Star State.

'Way back before the war there went to Texas from the wee State of Rhode Island a tall, raw-boned youth, who wanted to make his fortune. He was not yet of age, and his stature was so unusual that it was not many days before he became known by the sobriquet of "Shanghi." The youth was earnest, painstaking and willing to work. He had nothing in the world but good health, a fair amount of strength, a common education and the clothes that he wore. To-day that tall raw-boned youth from little Rhody is perhaps the richest man in Texas, and the best-known stockman in the world. The sobriquet of the early days has stuck to him, and, although he signs his name, "A. H. Pierce," nobody in Texas ever refers to him except as "Shanghi" Pierce. Sixty-three winters have come and gone since "Shanghi" first saw the light of day but he is as hearty and vigorous now and as earnest in pursuing his work as if he were under the twoscore mark.

There is not a town of any account in Texas in which "Shanghi" Pierce is not known. The same may be said of the Indian Territory and Oklahoma while as for Kansas City, St. Louis and Chicago, the stockmen of those cities are as well acquainted with him as if he had been born and raised among them. He is a mighty traveler, and by reason of his unusual size, he is marked among men. A man who has never seen him, but has heard him described, will unconsciously recognize him.

Some great stories are told about this unique man. Most of them are fanciful or have but a grain of truth but the plain, unvarnished facts about "Shanghi's" career, if once gathered would serve for tales of adventure sufficient to keep a writer busy for many a day. But "Shanghi" is chary about telling the story himself, and few of those who know him well are fully cognizant of the happenings in the days before he became recognized as one of the characters and one of the big men of the state.

His friends say that when he came to Texas he went to work on a farm but left in disgust when he discovered that a negro was worth more than a white man. It seems that the farmer by whom he was employed owned several slaves. On the plantation was a horse that only a negro named Pete and young Pierce could ride. The animal was unusually fractious one day and threw Pete, and then fell upon him. This happened near the planter's house. The planter and his wife and a lot of attendants ran to the assistance of Pete. The negro appeared to be dead. The planter's wife, as soon as she saw the slave's body, exclaimed: "Oh, goodness, how unfortunate! There's an $800 nigger killed. Now if it had only been 'Shanghi,' it wouldn't be so bad."

"Shanghi" tells this story himself so it is probably true.

The young Rhode Islander was a natural horseman, and his knowledge of cattle was good. When he, in disgust, left the planter he naturally drifted into the cattle business. In those days—this was in 1854—there was little else than cattle raised in Texas. "Shanghi" became a cowboy, and for several years he endured all the trials and hardships of that wild life. Occasionally nowadays he tells of the times when he slept on the bleak prairie in midwinter when it was so cold that rattlesnakes crept into his blankets to get warm.

It did not take the cattlemen long to discover that the lanky fellow who rode so well was not only a remarkably good judge of cattle, but had considerable latent ability. There was a cattle merchant named W. B. Grimes who got to know "Shanghi," and he employed the young man to travel through Southern and Western Texas and buy beeves for him. The cattle bought by "Shanghi" were shipped by Grimes to New Orleans, and the merchant is said to have made big profits owing to the shrewdness displayed by the young Yankee. When the war came on the reputation of "Shanghi" as a cowman was so well established that a contract was made with him to supply a Texas command with beef. It is said he was always on hand with a good supply of beeves, and that he and his herd made up the rear guard in all advances and led the vanguard on retreats.

Immediately after the close of the war "Shanghi" formed a connection with the great firm of Allen & Poole. He traversed Texas for three years as the representative of the firm, buying droves of cattle and sending them to Galveston, where they were shipped to New Orleans. In 1869 this firm discontinued the business. "Shanghi" had an interest, and drew out $100,000 cash as his share of the profits. He pottered around for a year buying here and there, always making money, but in 1871 he got a notion that a fortune awaited him in Kansas. He moved there and embarked in business on a large scale. Three years' experience in the Sunflower State convinced him that he was in the wrong pew, and it was only by exercising admirable business judgment that he managed to save himself from heavy loss.

"Shanghi" returned to Texas and has made his home here ever since.

Despite feuds and petty warfares, despite "guns" and bluster, "Shanghi" attended strictly to business. His range widened, his herds grew and soon he loomed up as the biggest cattleman in the state. He attended to all his affairs himself, was continually on the go, visited every section in which he had cattle, took his steers to market at the right time and supervised every detail of his scattered business with a watchfulness and care that was surprising to his competitors. Somehow it seemed that "Shanghi" always did get things just right whether it was in the time for selling cattle or the selection of land for grazing. His cattle were always as good as the best that went to market from Texas.

With his continued success "Shanghi" began to have more money than he could convently handle in his ordinary business. He loaned out the surplus at a good percentage, and has continued doing so up to the present time.

Mr. Pierce is big and bluff and hearty. The frugal, temperate habits he learned in the early days in little Rhody he still retains. He lives simply, but well. There is no ostentation about him. He drinks occasionally but sparingly. He never uses tobacco, and doesn't want anybody about him who does. He is a curious admixture of the Yankee and the Texan. Some people do not like him. If he likes any one particularly well, if he takes a fancy to a person that person has his utmost confidence. Here is an example: Some years ago "Shanghi" did his banking business in Galveston at the Island City Bank. In that bank was a young man named Ed. McCarthy. This young man attended to Pierce's affairs. He was polite, quick, accurate and sharp. In many instances he went out of his way to accommodate "Shanghi." Mr. Pierce at the time showed no evidence of appreciation. To-day that young man is a member of the big banking house of Weekes, McCarthy & Co., of this city. He runs the banking end of the establishment exclusively. "Shanghi" is the "company."

THE JUVENILE WAR WIDOW.

A Sect That is Liable to Perpetuate the Pension Department.

Commissioner of Pensions Evans has directed attention to the custom of granting pensions to young widows whose husbands were army veterans. While the nation is grateful to its defenders, and will not forget its obligations to them, the nature of its debt to girl infants born long after the war is not so clear. Mr. Evans says that, while less than a dozen soldiers of the war of 1812 survive to draw pensions, the names of 2,800 widows of that period are still on the rolls. Of course, most of these are women born a generation after the second conflict with England, who married old soldiers. They still number a fair-sized army brigade, though hardly enough of the brave men of 1812 survive to make a picket post. This is doing something for posterity with a vengeance. There are female babes now in arms who, if this form of pensions is to be continued, will be drawing a government allowance through the next century and even beyond. Thousands of veterans of the civil war will be alive in 1925. Those of their number who are destined to marry girls of 20 can now reflect on the fact that their future wives will not be born until the year 1905.

It is no surprise to hear that the old soldiers themselves, or at least that vast majority who have no romantic interest in the girl babies of the twentieth century, are protesting against this unreasonable drain upon the pension appropriations. Commissioner Evans says he is receiving many letters from veterans who favor a proposition to deny pensions to widows of veterans married after a certain date. Unless this measure is adopted, tens of thousands of young women will be drawing pensions forty or fifty years from now.

A PATENT COW FOR HUNTERS.

A Man Can Stand Inside the Frame and Shoot at Will.

As deceptive and dangerous as the proverbial wolf in sheep's clothing is a patent cow just invented by a Western genius. The device presents the perfect outward semblance of a most peaceable and amiable cow, but the fore legs and the hind legs are in fact the legs of two men, who are armed with guns, and have a plentiful supply of ammunition.

The device has a flexible outer shell of canvas or other suitable material, decorated exteriorily to represent the animal in imitation of which the decoy is constructed, and said shell is adapted to be supported or held in its distended position through the medium of a collapsible metal framework, which allows the covering and framework of the decoy to be folded into a small space for transportation. In the sides of the frame, at suitable points, are windows or openings, protected by outward-swinging flap blinds, and through these windows the sportsman in the rear may discharge his fowling-piece when the game has been successfully stalked. For the firing of the hunter in the front of the decoy there is provided a downward-swinging portion, which includes the head and neck of the animal, so that by simply releasing a small catch from the inside of the framework this swinging front portion drops by gravity, and thus leaves the sportsman free.—Chicago News.

So Dreadfully Common.

"No, we don't permit our names to go in the directory, you know."

"And why not?"

"So deuced common, don't you know. Why, last yeah my name was sandwiched in between a garbage collectah and a city councilman! It's a fact, 'pon honah."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

ABOUT MRS. LEASE'S HUSBAND.

A Good Man in His Day and His Day Is Not Ended Yet.

Anent the slurs recently cast at Mrs Lease, it is not generally known that her husband is a man who has not only the willingness to fight when occasion requires it, but who has the requisite brawn to do battle to a successful conclusion. Charlie Lease was a mighty good man in his day, and his day has not ended yet. He has had only about two fights in the last ten years, and unless somebody who doesn't know him runs up against him he won't have a fight in the next ten years.

The following instance will illustrate Mr. Lease's make up to a dot. He was a salesman in the wholesale drugstore of Ben Aldrich. One day a bully, who wanted to start a joint in a neighboring town, came in to buy some drugs to put in front. He was a mean chap and swore at Mr. Lease frequently and applied disgraceful epithets to him repeatedly. Mr. Lease smiled and treated his customer with the utmost affability all the time. In due time the sale was made, the goods loaded on a dray and carted away. Mr Lease took the money from his customer, gave him the change and thanked him most kindly for his patronage.

As the fellow went out on the side walk Mr. Lease followed and hailed him. "What's the matter?" said the bully roughly, "isn't everything settled?" "Not quite all," said Charlie "we haven't yet settled for those names you called me," and so saying he mopped up the sidewalk and hall a block of the gutter with his customer.

Saturday night, when the store was about to be closed, a cash boy told Mr. Lease that he was wanted at the desk of Mr. Aldrich. He thought sure that his cake was dough, but when Ben Aldrich said "Charlie, your wages are increased $5 a week," he felt better toward himself and the world and even the man he licked.—Kansas City Times.

NOVELIST CAINE'S WIFE.

An Enthusiastic Helper in His Work—Their Domestic Life a Happy One.

While Hall Caine is famous for his books, which have placed him in the front rank of the writers of the nineteenth century, but little is known of his domestic life. It has been told that he has residences in London and other places, but that his best work is done at Greeba Castle, in the Isle of Man. Few know that the novelist is not a Manxman by birth. He was born in England, of Manx parents, and in his youthful days spent much of his time in that little bit of the universe which teems with lore.

Greeba Castle is situated in the most picturesque part of the beautiful island close by the sea, and surrounded by the very places which he has made famous in his novels.

In his domestic life Mr. Caine is very happy. His wife belongs to the island, and was his companion in his youthful days. She is an ardent helper to her husband, and the two may be seen any pleasant day or evening taking bicycle rides in the beautiful country roads which abound in the northern part of the island.—New York Herald.

PLEASANT FOR THE GOVERNESS.

The King of Siam Evidently Wished Her to Make Herself Useful.

The King of Siam was educated in his youth by an English governess named Mrs. Leonowens; hence the fluency of his English. When Mrs. Leonowens arrived at Bangkok the present King's father said to her, to her great surprise: "I have sixty-seven children, and you shall educate them, and as many of my wives as may wish to learn English. And I have much correspondence in which you must assist me. And, moreover, I have much difficulty in reading and translating French letters. You must undertake these. And, furthermore, I have by every mail foreign letters whose writing is not easily read by me. You shall copy them in round-hand for my ready perusal." This was a small order, even smaller than the average English governess's share. —New York Journal.

He Lost the Wrong Leg.

Abraham Sprawls was a veteran of three wars, and he used to live in wiregrass Georgia. He had lost one leg in battle, and walked around on a wooden stump. One day he got in the way of the fast mail and the engine ran over him.

One of his sons—and he had a family of fifteen—had witnessed the accident, and, running toward him, shouted:

"Train's cut off dad's leg, an' he'll git damages!"

He lifted the old man to inspect his wounds, but suddenly let him fall, saying, in a tone of disgust:

"Durn it all! It's his wooden leg they've cut off."

"Yes," groaned the old man as they wheeled him home, "it's jest my durned luck. Can't see, ter save me, how they missed the good leg!"—Atlanta Constitution.

The New Version.

Mr. Benedict—I want to tell you, dear, that when you are on your wheel you make horrible faces.

Mrs. B. (savagely)—I suppose they're not as good as the ones your mother used to make.—New York Journal.

Wickwire—Do you know that this is the third time you have tackled me to-day? You must take me for an electric button.

Dismal Dawson—Electric button?

Wickwire—Yes, electric button. You seem to think you can get a drink by touching me.—Indianapolis Journal.

An Eminent Doctor Talks.

Gives His Experience with Capsuloids.

Dr. Oscar H. Weld, The Lodge, Fairmount Park, London, England, says, "Without iron there can be no color in the cheeks, no brightness or force in the eyes, no strength of pulse, no clearness of brain and no robust health. All doctors have been in the habit of trying many forms of iron. All these were acid preparations of metallic iron. Capsuloids, however, are entirely different, being composed of iron extracted from the blood of bullocks in its natural form. I have demonstrated in my practice that it is suitable to the weakest women and children. I know I have cured seven cases of anæmia of different kinds, and am confident that I will cure many more who are anæmic.

Dr. Campbell's Red Blood Forming Capsuloids are sold by all leading druggists at 50 cents per large box, six boxes for $2.50, or sent direct at the same price from The Capsuloid Company, Downing Building, 108 Fulton Street, New York.

AUTONOMY WILL FAIL.

Gen. Lee Sends Scathing Reports on the Cuban Situation.

Washington, Jan. 12.—While the Spanish Government has been telling the world that Cuban autonomy has come to stay, and the new civil authorities of the island have been spreading broadcast information about the successful inauguration of the autonomist scheme, Consul-General Lee has been telling a different story, in the State Department. The Consul-General is on record officially as saying that the policy of autonomy will not succeed. He has pointed out the utter inability of the Sagasta Ministry to make the Cuban people accept in good faith his promises of reform He has given reasons for the prediction that the Insular Government will not accomplish its avowed purposes, and looks for a collapse at an early date.

These reports from Gen. Lee cannot be obtained for publication, because this would be an affront to Spain, and probably would force to a crisis the already strained relations between that country and the United States. There is no doubt, however, that Gen. Lee has made the plainest sort of comments on the autonomy plan.

Incensed at Our Aid.

Madrid, Jan. 12.—A dispatch to the Imparcial from Havana says the sending of supplies from the United States to aid the indigent population of Cuba has aroused deep animosity among the Spaniards, who, it is added, are incensed at the pretext thus given to the American consuls and the Yankee element to interfere in Cuban affairs." It is alleged that the funds will be used to widen the breach between the Cuban peasantry and the Spaniards, and and it is further stated that the American newspaper correspondents have been instructed to exaggerate the sufferings of the peasantry in order to again arouse public feeling in the United States, so as to provide Washington with an excuse to intervene.

BATTLE IN A COURT ROOM

Order to Disarm Spectators Starts a Shooting Affray--Several Injured.

Mount Vernon, Ky., Jan. 12.—At the examining trial of William Hundley for killing John Lawrence, Judge Williams yesterday ordered the court room cleared so that all who desired to return might be examined for weapons and disarmed.

Five minutes afterward rifles in front of the court house in the hands of "Pat" and Elijah Langford were firing at former Jailer William Mullins and his friends. Several revolvers replied from various quarters.

Those injured by the Langfords were C. L. King, who received two bullets through the thigh, considered dangerous, and William Mullins, shot through both hands The Langfords claim it was an accident in shooting King. All the participants were jailed, including former Deputy Sheriff Reuben Mullins, who fired at the Langfords until they disappeared.

In the court room when the shooting occurred, Hundley, thinking his father had been killed, seized the gun of a guard and attempted to rush to the fray. It required six men to hold him.

The trouble originated during the last campaign when a number of leading Republicans bolted the ticket as nominated, among them being Sheriff Mullins, Mr. King and many others. At Crooked Creek precinct at the late election Sheriff Mullins attempted to arrest some parties. A fight started, and one of the Langford boys was killed, and two others wounded, including Joseph Lawrence, who was killed a few days ago by William Hundley.

QUARTZ LEDGE FOUND.

Seattle, Wash., Jan. 12.—W. J Jones, of Port Townsend, Wash., who has just arrived from Alaska, on the steamer City of Topeka, brings news of the discovery of what is supposed to be the mother lode and quartz origin of the placers of the Klondike.

The discovery was made within four hours of the four different points, one of them at the Dome, a high mountain at the source of the Eldorado Creek, by Frank Slavin, the pugilist; the second at No. 31 Eldorado, by A. H Jose and partner; the third in Nugget Gulch, at No. 36, and the fourth somewhere in the twenties on Bonanza Creek. The vein is found at about thirty feet below the surface and under the muck and alluvial deposit The ledge is about eighteen inches wide, and makes a uniform width. It is generously sprinkled with free gold

Mr. Jones brings down samples of the ore, and every one who has seen them says the rock is the same in character as that found in Southeastern Alaska.

DEATH CAME IN A FIGHT.

Young Man Murdered or Died--His Assailant Is Missing.

Newark, N. J., Jan. 12.—John Maltby, twenty-five years old, who lived with his father-in-law, Owen McDevitt, at No. 70 Sussex street, was murdered or else died after a fight with Owen Morris last night. Morris has disappeared.

When Maltby reached his home he found Morris and half a dozen others there. He objected to their presence, called Morris a "bum" and ordered him out. Morris resented it. He went to the street, followed by Maltby. No one knows who struck the first blow Morris landed a swinging right-hander in the ribs of Maltby, which felled him.

Accounts differ as to what happened after that. One is that Maltby regained his feet and rushed at Morris; that while in the act of doing so he staggered and fell. Another version is that when Maltby fell he did not rise, and Morris jumped on his chest. When friends picked up Maltby he was dead. A superficial examination of the body failed to show any marks.

Judge Gorgin's Ruling.

Chicago, Jan. 12.—Judge Gorgin of the Circuit Court has ruled against the competence of testimony by a husband regarding representations made by the husband in order to gain business credit in a case where the husband was the wife's duly accredited agent. It is claimed that under this ruling a man can turn his business over to his wife and, if reverses come, cannot be compelled to testify in court proceedings that may follow.

"ALASKA SABLE."

CATCHY TITLE BY WHICH THE FUR OF THE SKUNK IS KNOWN.

The Animal Farming a Profitable and a Growing Industry—Good Skins Worth 80 Cents Each—How the Animals Are Bred—Unknown to the Old World.

All persons who have any practical acquaintance with the business of farming skunks are requested to communicate with the Department of Agriculture. That institution has been beset with appeals for information on the subject, and its scientific experts lack satisfactory data on which to base replies. They have tried to get facts from several concerns now engaged in this interesting occupation, but there seems to be a lot of mystery about it. Those who are in it find it so profitable, apparently, that they do not want to offer any inducement or help to possible competitors. What they know they prefer to keep to themselves.

Nevertheless, the skunk-farming industry is a growing industry in this country. The demand for pelts is far greater than the supply, and prices are correspondingly good. The latest quotations for skunk skins make them worth 80 cents apiece wholesale, for "black, prime, cased." This is for the first quality, the fur being all black and the skin cured by turning it in side out and drying it on a board. White skins are worth 10c; "full striped" (a white stripe running clear down the back), 25c, and "half striped," 45 c.

Skunk skins are one of the biggest items in the fur market. They go under the attractive name of "Alaska sable." It is not believed that there are many skunks in Alaska, the latitude being too high for them, but a good many thousands of the pelts are taken in the British possessions, passing through the hands of the Hudson Bay Company. A vast number of ladies' muffs are made of this kind of fur, which frequently is passed off for that of the big, long-haired Abyssinian monkey.

Eighty cents apiece may not seem a very high wholesale price for the best skunk skins, but the profit in the farming business referred to lies mainly in the fact that it involves no expense worth mentioning. The most barren land is suitable for the purpose, fenced in, and the animals may be fed on offal.

There are quite a number of skunk farms in operation. One of these is run by a fur company near Ithaca, N. Y. Another was started not long ago by some butchers in New Jersey, who bought a big patch of rocky and otherwise worthless land, inclosed it and stocked it with a few healthy skunks, leaving them to do the rest. This is one of the beauties of skunk farming—it requires almost no attention. The company of butchers aforesaid feeds its stock with refuse from the abattoir, which costs them nothing. The little animals are by no means hard to manage, being as tamable as kittens. In fact, the Mephitis Americana is remarkable for its lack of fear of man. This may be due in part to its confidence in its own weapon, but it will never use this except under great provocation. In other words, it must be badly frightened, or actually hurt. It seeks the neighborhood of human habitation. The little spotted skunks are often kept as pets by miners in the far West, the undesirable glands being cut out.

One point which the government experts want to ascertain is how the skunk farmers kill their stock. Old trappers say that a skunk will never give vent to its peculiar secretion if its back is broken by a quick blow. The reason for this doubtless is that the rear part of its body is paralyzed by such a blow. On the other hand, it is known that the most instant death by shooting, even if the animal's head be blown off, will not prevent the use of the function.

Valuable uses are found nowadays for the most noxious things. Some of the most precious medicines are deadly poison. So it is not surprising to learn that the peculiar secretion of the skunk is a remedy for asthma.

It is rather an interesting fact that the skunk and the mink are the only true fur-bearing animals that have ever been semi-domesticated. Minks have been bred for their skins in so-called minkeries, just as is being done with the skunks in what might be termed skunkeries. Skunk and mink both belong to the family of Mustelidae. In this family are included all of the animals which are classified in a strict sense as fur-bearing. Among them are the ermine, the marten, the weasel, the wolverine, the badger, the sable, the otter, the ratel of Africa and India, the tayra of South America, the teledu or burrowing badger of Java, the sea otter, the sand badger of India, Assam and Thibet, the ictonyx of South Africa, and the "fisher" of North America.

An Intelligent Definition.

A Kansas girl, the daughter of a Greenwood county rancher, was sent East to school. "What do you know, my child?" the head teacher asked her. "Oh, farming," the new pupil replied. "Well," tell me what is a farm?" "A farm is a body of land surrounded by a barbed wire fence," the little maid said.—Kansas City Star.

Spite.

She—I just married you to spite George Billings.

He—Oh! Then it wasn't just to spite me—Cincinnati Enquirer.

"BRICKS WITHOUT STRAW."

Do you ever ask yourself why you keep chickens?

Is it for pleasure? If so, would not a little profit add to the pride and pleasure?

Possibly it is because you wish to be sure of absolutely fresh eggs on your table. If so, would you not prefer to get the eggs during the winter rather than in the spring, "when everybody's eggs are fresh?"

We can make bricks in these days without straw, but no one can make hens lay eggs in the winter months unless he supplies special foods and care.

We aim to carry in our different stores everything that is necessary for the "Business Hen"—that is, the hen that pays for her board—and we would be pleased to hear from either large or small poultry raisers.

Among other things we would suggest:

Granulated Charcoal,	Poultry Feed,
Ground Oyster Shells,	Buckwheat Grain,
Chicken & Pigeon Grit,	Barley,
Granulated Bone,	Hemp Seed,
Meat Meal,	Millet Seed,
Clover Heads,	Sheridan's Powder.

PHILHARMONIC MUSIC

A CHILD PIANIST OF MARVELOUS TALENT A FEATURE.

The Second in the Series Given Under the Auspices of H O. Newman, Who Deserves Great Credit for His Endeavors

The New York Philharmonic Club gave the second of its series of three subscription concerts in the Country Club Casino last evening. The audience was large and representative of the best musical taste of the city, and the different artists were given a cordial reception, repeating the success scored by the club at its first concert this season.

The distinctive feature of the evening was the appearance of Mlle Antoinette Trebelli, the soprano singer. She is a daughter of the world-famed Mme. Trebelli, who was accounted the greatest of alto singers.

Her first selection was "Polonaise from Mignon," by Thomas. Her voice was of rare sweetness and range, and showed a perfection of artistic training. She was enthusiastically encored and sang "Les Adieux de l'hotesse Arabe" of G. Bizet. Later in the evening she sang a series of three exquisite songs, "Solveig's Song," by Grieg; "Midi au Village," by Goring Thomas; and Valse "Chegoja," by Mattei.

Miss Bessie Silberfeld, the child pianist, who made such a favorable impression at the former concert, appeared again and repeated her former success. Her younger sister, Miss Mamie Silberfeld, 8 years of age, also performed to the admiration of the audience.

The younger child gave three piano solos, "Prelude in A Minor," S. Bach; "Romanze" from "William Tell," Rossini; and "Progress Rondo," Semnacher; and as an encore, "Rondo Scherzo," by the same composer. Her performance was quite remarkable, considering her age, as that of her sister, who gave with excellent execution "Hark! The Lark," Schubert-Liszt; "The Maiden's Wisk," Chopin-Liszt, and an encore, "The Agitated Ocean," by Pacher.

The violin solo, "Fairy Dance," by Herman Brandt, the violin virtuoso of the club, was a remarkable performance, revealing the wonderful possibilities of violin music in the hands of a talented artist. As an encore he gave "The Album Leaf," a composition of his own, which also was well received.

The usual faultless work of the club was apparent in the opening sextette selection composed for and dedicated to the club by H. Hoffmann. "The Spanish Dance" was another of the club's selections which was unusually pleasing, and the quartette "Variations" op. 76, No. 3, J. Haydn, by the two violins, the violin and violincello won much favorable comment.

The members of the club are Eugene Weiner, director; H. Brandt, violin virtuoso; Paul Mende, viola; Sebastian Laendner, violin; Louis Heine, cello-virtuoso; and H. Lehmann, double bass.

Miss Eva M Clark was the piano accompanist.

The concerts are given under the management of H. O Newman.

—The last free lectures in practical cooking, under the auspices of the Standard School of Cookery, at Y. M. C. A. Hall, take place Friday and Saturday, 2:30 p. m. Bring spoon, napkin and note book.

CHIEF GRANT RAN FAST.

PURSUED FRANK MEEKER WHO TRIED TO TAKE LEG BAIL.

The Fleeing Culprit Followed by the Head of The Police Force, Crying "Stop Him"—Meeker Was Intercepted.

The usual stream of pedestrians was making its weary way through the mud and rain on Park avenue this morning, when the peace and quiet of this good town was disturbed by a strange occurrence. Wet and bedraggled like the rest of them came Chief Grant. The Chief was not feeling very well. A twinge of rheumatism troubled his back. Then the depressing day was not agreeable to the genial Chief.

Now in the Chief's pocket was a warrant. It was for the arrest of Frank Meeker. Meeker was charged by his wife with beating her. With the Chief was Sandford Robinson, clerk at the city court.

Coming toward them was a man. It was Frank Meeker. The Chief recognized him. His eyes flashed as he saw the prospect of a conflict from afar. Assuming all the dignity attendant on such an office, the Chief accosted the man he wanted.

'I want you, Frank," said the Chief, and he smiled.

"What for?" faintly queried the other.

"To go over to the Judge's office," and the Chief laid his hands on Meeker's arm.

"Not today," whispered Meeker, and he delayed not on the order of his going, but went.

The Chief looked up in astonishment to see Meeker's coattails waving in the rain. He forgot that the sidewalks were wet and slippery. He forgot that his back ached, but only remembered that his prisoner had escaped. You may think the Chief can't run. Don't you believe it. It was that belief that landed Meeker behind the bars.

Down Park avenue went Meeker with the Chief in full pursuit. After the Chief came Robinson. Pedestrians gave the runners all the sidewalk.

"Stop him, stop him," yelled the Chief.

The Chief was overhauling his victim. Meeker saw that his end was near. Al Dunavan and Adam Beek were unloading some boxes on East Second street. Meeker turned up that thoroughfare. Dunavan tackled him. Meeker threw him off and fell squarely into the arms of Beek. The Chief was close behind. He seized Meeker by the collar and shook him. Meeker's teeth rattled.

When the Chief tired of the amusement, Meeker explained that he was now ready to go to jail. He is there now and will appear for trial tomorrow morning, before City Judge DeMeza.

PASSED AWAY QUICKLY.

Warren Marsh Died From Heart Failure This Morning.

After completing nearly four years more than the allotted three-score and ten, Warren Marsh, one of the oldest residents of the city, passed quietly away at his home, 340 Franklin place, this morning. Death came suddenly and without suffering.

Mr. Marsh was born in this city February 28, 1824. His father and his grandfather had both lived and died in this city. He was educated in the public schools of this city. He entered in business and finally rose to be one of the leading builders and contractors of the city. Many of the principal buildings of the city were erected under his direction. He retired from an active business life fifteen years ago. He leaves a widow and three children, Miss Ada G. Marsh, Corporation Counsel Craig A. Marsh, of West Eighth street, and Warren H. Marsh, of First place.

Mr. Marsh came down to breakfast this morning as cheerful and apparently feeling as well as ever. He ate a hearty meal. Mrs. Marsh went to the home of their son, Warren H. Marsh, to see their grandchild who was ill. Mr. Marsh went upstairs. At 9 o'clock he was found by his daughter upstairs unconscious. Dr. E. W. Hedges was immediately summoned.

Every effort was made to restore consciousness, but before the physician arrived the end came. Dr. Endicott and Dr. B. VanD. Hedges afterwards arrived and assisted in a careful examination to see if a spark of life remained. Death was caused by heart failure, brought on by old age. The funeral will be held Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from his late residence.

City National Bank Officers.

The directors of the City National Bank organized as follows this morning: President, Charles Hyde; vice-president, J. F. Hubbard; cashier, William F. Arnold.

Brahmanistic American.

Ann Arbor, Mich., boasts a queer character in the person of Norman B. Covert. Although an American by birth and education, he is a devout follower of Brahma. This is the more remarkable as he was born of Quaker parents, reaching his present stage by the stages of Methodism and Universalitism.

Still a Boy.

"A dinner such as we have had today," said the elderly boarder, "makes me feel like a young man."

"'Indeed," was all Mrs. Hashcroft deigned to reply.

"Indeed; when I think of that lamb we had for dinner I feel that if that was lamb I must be still a boy."

The Dancer's Promise.

"Did that young ballet dancer promise to be a sister to Jack?"

GOV. GRIGGS' MESSAGE.

Recommends Investigation of Alleged Corruption in Hudson County.

Trenton, N. J., Jan. 12.—The annual message of Gov. John W. Griggs was read before the Legislature yesterday afternoon shortly after 3 o'clock. It was a lengthy document, covering thirty-two printed pages. The Governor urged, especially, an investigation of the charges of corruption made against officials in Hudson County. He said:

"It is alleged that the present Sheriff of that county, in order to protect criminals from indictment and just punishment, willfully and deliberately returns grand juries composed as to the major part of friends, copartners and protectors of habitual law-breakers; that, in spite of the most clear and convincing proof of guilt laid before such grand juries, and under the most positive direction from the courts to indict, the offenders are shielded by grand juries, and are not presented for trial; that such grand juries are not exceptional, but are habitually so of the prosecutor of the pleas has also made up by the Sheriff.

"It is further charged that the office been used extensively to shield criminals; that many thousands of dollars have been lost to the county by reason of the failure, either willful or negligent, of the prosecutor, to take proper steps for the collection of money due on forfeited recognizances of bail. Direct charges of official corruption have been openly preferred against the assistant prosecutor of the pleas, and he is now under indictment for conspiracy to hinder and prevent the administration of justice in the very court of which he has been an officer.

"If it be true that the Sheriff of the county or any other officers of justice holding commissions from the State are engaged in a conspiracy to shield criminals, so far as I know, there is but one remedy, and that is the high power of impeachment lodged in the Legislature."

Gov. Griggs also urges that this year be not allowed to pass without the adoption of some adequate measure to remedy the evil of Passaic River pollution He says the river, at present, is a public nuisance, and a source of imminent injury to health.

As the Governor recommends in his message some action on the case of Alexander Simpson, the Democratic Assemblyman from Hudson, it is believed the House will appoint, before adjournment this week, a committee to investigate the charges under which Simpson was indicted.

JOAQUIN MILLER MAIMED

The Aged Poet Has a Narrow Escape from Death by Freezing.

Victoria, B. C., Jan. 12.—Arrivals from the Yukon country bring word of the narrow escape from death by freezing of Joaquin Miller, the poet and philosopher. He now lies in a precarious condition at Dawson.

Miller, who has passed his three-score years, had heard of the dangers attendant on the trip from Circle City to Dawson, but persisted in attempting it. His duty called him to Dawson, he said, and, accompanied by Harold Canovan, of Ottawa, he started out. En route a blizzard was encountered, which sent the younger man and Miller's other companions back to the starting point. The old man pressed on.

From this point to Dawson the intrepid poet was accompanied by a man known as "Montana," in whose company he again bade defiance to the blizzard with the air at 58 degrees below zero, and ultimately reached Dawson. On the trip one of his ears had frozen off, two of his toes were lost and other serious injuries have been sustained as a result of intense cold.

Labor Men Wait on Black.

Albany, Jan. 12.—A delegation of labor organization men waited on Governor Black yesterday afternoon and urged him to appoint P. F. Keefe, of Rochester, a representative of the Brotherhood of Railroad Conductors, to the State Railroad Commission, to succeed Commissioner Frank M. Baker, whose term of office will expire on Jan. 29. The Governor said that he would consider the matter.

Death from a Raccoon.

Reading, Pa., Jan. 12.—C. Wesley Keiter, of Stouchsburg died Monday from diphtheria, which he contracted under extraordinary circumstances. A short time ago he stuffed a raccoon for a neighbor, and Drs Gernet, Newcomet, and Levengood, who attended him, are of the opinion that he contracted the diphtheria germs from the animal while stuffing the skin, as the raccoon had apparently died of the same disease.

May Modify Relief Plan.

Washington, Jan. 12.—A telegram has been received by Adjutant-General Breck from General Merriam, commanding the Department of Columbia at Vancouver Barracks, that may have much effect upon the policy of the War Department in extending relief to the miners in the Klondyke. The General reports that the passengers on the two steamers which recently have arrived from Alaska all say that there is no dearth of food at Dawson, and that the miners will get through the Winter in safety.

Miss Helen Gould's Gift.

South Hadley, Mass., Jan. 12.—Miss Helen Gould, of New York, has given a scholarship of $5,000 to Mount Holyoke College in memory of her mother, Mrs. Jay Gould.

How Far Was It?

Southern distances are peculiar and the road directions which a tourist receives are sometimes wanting in the quality of explicitness.

"How far is it from here to Brushburg?" asked a tourist of an old fellow who was hoeing weeds in a field of sickly corn "down south." "Is it far?"

"Waal, it haint so very fer nor it haint so very nigh. If you go raound by the big road it's ferder nor it is nigh, but if you cut across country it's nigher ner it is fer, an, if you keep right straight ahead it's kinder betwixt nigh an' fer, but it's considerable of a ja'nt from hyar no matter how you git thar."—Harper's Bazar.

"Was that mind reader able to read your thoughts?"

"No. I fooled him by thinking in French, and my French is perfectly awful, you know."—Truth.

PLIGHTED LOVE FOR LIFE

FASHIONABLE WEDDING IN THE BOROUGH LAST EVENING.

Miss Idelette DeBurr Randolph and Jed. Mills Smalley the Contracting Parties—Bride's Home Lavishly Arranged

An auspicious society event of last evening was the marriage of Miss Idelette DeBurr Randolph, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George F. Randolph, of Somerset street, to Jed. Mills Smalley, of Craig place, which was celebrated at 8 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents. The happy affair was attended by a large and fashionable assemblage of relatives and friends from this city and numerous other places. The home presented a scene of beauty. The use of the rarest flowers and southern smilax, arranged artistically about the rooms, was the admiration of all.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. D. J. Yerkes, pastor of the First Baptist church. It was simple and beautiful. The bridal party entered the parlor while the popular Mendelssohn wedding march was being rendered by Prof. Nathan Guttman's orchestra. The party formed a semi circle midway between the parlor and reception room beneath an arch of roses and smilax, where they were met by the officiating clergyman.

The bride, an attractive brunette, was richly gowned in white brocaded satin trimmed prettily with pearl ornaments. She carried a bouquet of hyacinths and white roses. Her maid of honor, Miss Minnie Smalley, niece of the groom, wore a gown of green satin, trimmed with lace and green chiffon. She carried a bouquet of pink roses. The best man was City Judge George DeMeza, an intimate friend of the groom.

While the ceremony was being performed and during congratulations the orchestra played choice selections Mr. and Mrs. Smalley were the recipients of the warmest expressions of best wishes, success and happiness from those present, giving strong evidence of the popularity of the bride and groom.

One of the delightful features of the event was the wedding supper which was complete in every particular.

The bride's father is one of the chiefs of the Postal Telegraph Cable Company at their New York office. The wedding was attended by nearly all of the chiefs of the above company.

The groom is the proprietor of a successful meat business on Somerset street, and both he and his wife are held in the highest esteem by a large circle of friends and acquaintances.

During the evening Mr. and Mrs. Smalley left the scene of the festivities, amid a shower of rice and old shoes, for an extended southern trip. While they are away they will visit Mr. Smalley's brother, W. L. Smalley and family, Mr. and Mrs. August O. Trust, and several other friends living in different parts of the south. On their return they will reside in North Plainfield.

The bride and groom were handsomely remembered by their relatives and friends who showered them with a large number of beautiful and useful gifts, consisting of silverware, goldware, furniture, glassware, etc. A handsome present was a large arm chair which was given by the employes of the Plainfield Beef Company and the Union Beef Company.

Among the guests who witnessed the marriage were the following: Mr. and Mrs. William L. Smalley, Sr., parents of the groom; Mr. and Mrs. George F. Randolph, parents of the bride; Mayor John F. Wilson, Councilmen J. G. MacLaughlin, L. B. Woolston, Murray Burtis, George T. Rogers, William A. Schutt, T. J. Carey; Collector H. N. Spencer and wife, Borough Clerk James K. Arnold and wife; Mr. and Mrs. George F. Brown, Senator Reed and wife, Mr. and Mrs. William Day, Mr. and Mrs. David Smalley, Mrs. A. I. Smalley, Miss Elizabeth Smalley, Miss Lizzie Day, Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Martin, Mrs. Gillem, Miss Emma Gillem, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph L. Tolles, Herbert Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Vail, Mr. and Mrs. D. S. NUMERICAL SUPPER NOW.

LATEST THING IN CHURCH SOCIABLES

Guests Dined on a Chance, and in Some Cases it Was a Very Slim One for Healthy Appetites.

A menu with only the numbers and prices of the different dishes was one of the novel features of the numerical supper in the parlors of the Seventh-Day Baptist church last evening. The guests had to pick out their supper without any knowledge of what they were ordering except what they might judge from the price. The result of the experiment was, in some cases, astonishing. One lone young man dined off an apple, a portion of catsup, two olives and two toothpicks. Other meals were as remarkable.

Despite the excitement attendant on the selection of the suppers, the affair proved a great success. It was the first sociable to be given at the church for several months. It was under the charge of the Christian Endeavor Society of the church.

The dining room was prettily decorated. The waitresses all wore their numbers in their hair. The menus were on cards in the shape of the numerals. The waitresses were the Misses Jessie Utter, Elizabeth Allis, Mabel Maxson, Ida Randolph, Maud Mosher, Matie Green and Ethel Titsworth. In the kitchen were Mrs. T. C. Smith, Mrs. W. C. Hubbard and Mrs. J. G. Miller. They prepared a delightful supper of salads, sandwiches and similar dishes.

The lemonade booth, a creation of yellow and white, was looked after by Miss Bessie F. Randolph. The art gallery furnished much amusement. Silhouettes of the visitors were taken and mounted on black paper. Miss Ida Spicer, assisted by Miss May Ross, was in charge of these gems of art.

An expert in palmistry spent the evening there. She was said to have been at the World's Fair and there charged five dollars for an interview, but made a special price of ten cents to those at the sociable last evening. Nathan E. Lewis stood guard over the entrance and admitted the guests to the mysterious sanctum of the palmist.

Dr. F. T. Clawson acted in the capacity of cashier for the supper room.

During the evening an informal programme was rendered consisting of piano duets by Miss Jessie Utter and Miss Elizabeth Allis, piano solos by Miss Mabel Maxson, and recitations by Miss Myrtle Randolph.

The energetic committee in command consisted of Miss Ernestine Smith, chairman, Miss Jessie Utter, Mrs. W. C. Hubbard, Miss Maud Mosher, Frank Maxson and LaRue Bliss.

RAISED THEIR CHIEFS.

Red Men Combined Much Pleasure With Lodge Business.

It was the turn of the braves of Paughcaughnaughsinque Tribe of Red Men, last evening, to raise up their newly-elected chiefs and have a good time of it. The braves were out in numbers despite the storm and entertained the visiting chiefs in royal fashion. The newly elected chiefs were raised up as follows: Prophet, Louis DeCamp; sachem, Theodore J. Mason; senior sagamore, William Young; junior sagamore, V. W. Nash; collector of wampum, F. G. Bach; keeper of wampum, Asa D. Pope; chief of records, Charles I. Young. The work of raising up the chiefs was done by District Deputy Great Sachem Hans Greisen, of Perth Amboy, and his staff. At the close of the installation ceremonies the guests were treated to a collation and an informal entertainment.

To Attend Service in a Body.

A party of young people of the Seventh-Day Baptist church Endeavor Society will meet at the home of Miss Ernestine Smith, of Madison avenue, this evening, and attend in a body the service in the Seventh-Day Baptist church at New Market, conducted by E. B. Saunders, evangelist. They will go to Dunellen in the trolley and walk from there to the church.

Scissors Struck Her in the Eye.

Miss May E. Howlett, of Elmwood place, very narrowly escaped a serious injury a few days ago. She was getting some articles from a closet when a hidden pair of scissors dropped from a shelf and struck her in the face. Only a slight scratch resulted, but it was close to the eye and might have been a serious accident.

Arnold Acquitted.

August Arnold, of Bound Brook, indicted by the Middlesex Grand Jury for atrocious assault and battery upon Albert Lea, who was confined in Muhlenberg Hospital, was acquitted at New Brunswick. Arnold admitted the assault, but claimed that it was in self-defence. The jury returned a verdict of not guilty.

BURGLARS CRACK DUNELLEN'S POSTOFFICE SAFE

STOLE $300 IN STAMPS AND 68 CENTS IN MONEY AND ELUDED CAPTURE.

Were Seen By Wilbur Miller, Who Reported His Suspicions of Burglary—A Minute Later the Robbery Took Place—Interior of Postoffice Demoralized.

A flash of fire, followed by a loud explosion, awakened quiet Dunellen this morning, and soon afterward the citizens learned that the postoffice at North and Washington avenues was broken into and robbed of $300 in stamps and 68 cents in small change.

In various drawers about the room there were small amounts of money, but that was not disturbed, neither was any of the books or mail.

It was a few minutes before 4 o'clock this morning when Wilbur Miller, an employe at the roundhouse of the Central Railroad, was passing along North avenue in front of the postoffice. It was dark and very foggy. He was able to see a man standing just inside of the postoffice door, while at one end of the building stood another man. The latter was tall, while the other was rather short. At the time a train was passing on the Central, and this sound prevented the thieves from hearing the footsteps of Mr. Miller. When the latter appeared, the man in the office remarked, "Cheese it, here comes a man!" The man on the stoop walked away around the corner of the building and all was quiet.

Mr. Miller felt sure that something was wrong. He hastened to the railroad station to inform the operator and Arthur Vail, car cleaner, that he thought there were robbers in the postoffice. While the three men were discussing the question, they heard the loud explosion. Then followed a crash of glass which was blown out of the front windows. The report awakened people living within two and three blocks of the building, and it was not long before a crowd assembled to learn the cause.

Mrs. James Anderson, living over the postoffice, was the first one to appear on the scene. She saw no one about the building, but she noticed several men coming from the railroad station to the postoffice.

In the meantime Arthur Vail went to the homes of Constable Wyhuskey and Postmaster Charles Coriell. They arrived quickly, but there was no hope of catching the thieves.

The thieves left behind the tools consisting of a brace, wrench, screwdriver, etc., and quanity of fuse. Outside of the building an overcoat was found hanging on a hedge fence. It is of a brown color and all that was found in it was a Rand & McNally railroad guide of Pennsylvania.

Postmaster Coriell made an investigation inside and found that the handle of the safe door had been taken out and that the door was open. By removing the handle the thieves were able to put a large quantity of powder inside, after which they used the fuse. Close by the safe stood a large old fashioned desk. That was blown to pieces and the wall next to the safe was burned considerably. The strange part of the affair is that the partition fixtures were not damaged in the least, although there is considerable glass broken in the front.

Close by the stove hung an apron belonging to Miss Staats, an assistant in the office. When Mrs. James Anderson came down stairs after the explosion she noticed that the apron was burning. She quickly put the fire out. The lamp behind the partition was found in the middle of the floor, but there was no light.

The tools used by the burglars were from Willard Apgar's turning mill and Paxson VanArsdale's blacksmith shop. They were found scattered about the floor. The lock on the outside door was found in the middle of the road. It was broken in several pieces.

Mrs. Wallace, the owner of the building, who sleeps upstairs, heard the report and looking out of the window saw smoke pouring from the windows. At first she thought the building was on fire.

At an early hour Detective Dougherty, of the Central Railroad, was at the scene of the robbery, and he secured information that will help him to investigate the affair.

Postmaster Coriell at once notified the postal authorities, and later in the day an inspector came to Dunellen.

The safe occupied a position in a corner back of the partition and could not be seen from the street.

Constable Wyhuskey is also working on the case and will endeavor to ferret out the mystery. Soon after the robbery telegrams were sent to all of the nearby towns notifying the authorities to be on the lookout for the thieves. There seems to be a general impression that there were three of the robbers, and that while one was working at the safe, one stood at the door and another one was on duty outside.

Rev. Frank Fletcher, of the New Market Baptist church, told a Daily Press reporter this morning that he was awakened between 3 and 4 o'clock this morning by two or three men, who ran by his house at full speed, but he thinks that they were after a train and had nothing to do with the robbery.

MAN WHO TOOK LEG BAIL.

A BIG CROWD WANTED TO SEE HIM.

Judge Ordered the Court Room Cleared—Meeker Pleaded Guilty—To be Sentenced January 29th.

The story of Chief Grant's prowess in running was read last evening on all sides. As a result, the crowd began to assemble about the city jail this morning from far and near to see the man who attempted to escape by his fleetness of foot. The trial of Frank Meeker, the prisoner, was set down for this morning at 9 o'clock. The crowd began to assemble long before that time. The dingy little courtroom at the station house was crowded to its utmost capacity. Several score more curious spectators gathered outside the jail.

When the Judge arrived the entrance was blocked. The command to stand one side and allow the chief judicial dignitary of the city to pass was not heeded. Everybody wanted to see the prisoner and hear the fun that was expected to occur in the trail. At last, with the assistance of the officers and the clerk of the court, the tall form of the City Judge was pushed into the crowded courtroom. The chief was pushed into a corner while the reporters had taken refuge behind the judge's bench.

A trial could not proceed under the circumstances so the court room was ordered cleared. The officers slowly pushed and pulled the crowd out until only the officials, the policemen and the reporters remained. Then the Judge decided to try the case at his office.

Meeker was brought before the Judge at his office, and pleaded guilty to the charge of being disorderly, using profane and indecent language and of beating his wife. The Judge will pronounce sentence on him January 29th.

Miss Della Voehl is ill at her home, 65 Somerset street.

IN THE HANDS OF FRIENDS.

PASTOR GIBSON AND A NEW CHURCH

Preliminary Steps Taken for the Formation of New Colored Church With Deposed Minister at Its Head.

Rev. Philip S. Gibson, the deposed pastor of the Mt. Olive colored Baptist church, and about seventy of his friends held a meeting in Reform Hall, on West Second street, last evening to consider the matter of forming a new church.

Mr. Gibson acted as chairman of the meeting and made a speech to the effect that he was not yet out of the fight by any means. He did not care to lead the movement for a new church, neither would he oppose it. If his friends wished him to preach for them he would do so, and they could take what further action they pleased.

A number of others who were not satisfied at the way in which the Mt. Olive church had treated Gibson, arose and expressed their minds freely. Christopher Columbus got the floor and made the speech of his life in favor of a new church.

It was at last decided to hold a meeting for formal organization some evening next week. Philip Johnston, of Arlington avenue, was appointed a committee of one to secure the names of those willing to join the new church.

Mr. Gibson will preach in Reform Hall next Sunday.

The Foresters.

Court Plainfield, No. 1144, Independent Order of Foresters, at their meeting Friday night will have an initiation of candidates. Afterwards the officers-elect will be installed by the high court officers. A programme has been prepared for the good and welfare and a pleasant time is in store for the members. After the meeting closes members and high court officers will be entertained to a sumptuous collation in the banquet room.

CHANGE IN THE GAME LAWS

LOCAL PROTECTORS ADVOCATE THEM

Important Action Taken at the Annual Meeting—Several New Deputy Wardens Wanted

The Plainfield Fish and Game Protective Society held its annual meeting for the collection of dues and the purchase of game at the office of Justice William Newcorn, on West Front street, last evening.

The report of the secretary showed that 505 rabbits have been imported into this section by the society and liberated within the past year, and 120 more will soon be received. The directors were instructed to order fifteen or twenty dozen quail from Kansas, and to correspond with the State committee on game and fisheries lately appointed by Governor Griggs, with a view to securing the passage of a bill shortening the game season. The society will favor the abolishment of the September shooting season, and will try to have the rabbit season end December 15th instead of in early January.

Application will also be made to the game and fish warden of this State for a quantity of young bass to stock the streams in this vicinity, and an experiment is to be made in the breeding of pheasants. The breeding of a cross species between the Chinese and the English pheasant has lately met with much success in this climate, and local sportsmen have decided to give the idea a trial.

The need of a number of deputy game wardens in this vicinity was discussed, and it was decided to apply to the State warden for the appointment of several such officers.

Several applications of new members were received and referred to the proper committee. The society now has 55 active members and about 70 passive members. The latter are farmers and others who own large tracts of land, which they give into the charge of the society. They are charged no dues, and in return their land is made a game preserve and none but members of the society are allowed to hunt upon it. The club protects the ground from pot hunters and releases game upon it each year.

DEATH OF JOHN BRUSBY.

His Demise Occurred at About the Same Time as Warren Marsh.

The death of John Brusby, formerly of this city, but late of New York, occurred yesterday morning. Mr. Brusby was the father of Mrs. Randolph Marsh, of Plainfield avenue. Strange enough is the fact that at the same time Mr. Brusby died, Randolph Marsh's brother, Warren Marsh, died in this city.

Mr. Brusby was born in England, and was by trade a tanner. At one time he lived at Washingtonville where he was in charge of John Wilson's farm. He also lived in the west for several years. The departed leaves a widow and four children. The body will be brought to this city and the funeral will be held Saturday afternoon next at 2:30 from the home of Randolph Marsh on Plainfield avenue.

Now He is a Man.

Walter Higgins, of West Front street, celebrated the anniversary of his twenty-first birthday last Tuesday evening by entertaining a large number of his young friends at his home. The evening was passed chiefly in dancing and it was early in the morning when the guests departed for their homes. All extended to Mr. Higgins their best wishes and many happy returns of the day. During the evening a bountiful supper was served to the guests.

Musical selections were rendered by Fred Frey, mandolin; Irving DeHart, banjo; Bert Vail, guitar; Bert Naylor, violin; Miss Maude Kinsey, Miss Laura Radin, piano. Fred Frey also gave an exhibition of clog dancing, and vocal solos were rendered by Messrs. Vail, Miss Maggie McComas and Robert McBeth.

The house was prettily decorated with American flags and bunting, while the arrangement of flowers added greatly to the general beauty.

A New Gas Company.

Under the provisions of a charter granted in 1872, but which has since lain dormant, a number of gentlemen met in the office of Alden B. Bigelow at Cranford Monday, and organized a gaslight company, the primary object of which is to furnish gas to the villages of Scotch Plains and Fanwood. The capital stock is $10,000, of which former Sheriff George Kyte, of Fanwood, has subscribed $9,700. The officers elected are: Alden B. Bigelow, president; George O. Totten, secretary.

LUDLUM IS STILL FREE.

"LITTLE LOU" IS DOING HIS BEST TO ELUDE CAPTURE BY POLICE.

It is Said that the Famous Crooks Were in Plainfield Last Saturday—A Sketch of How They Duped Farmers.

"Little Lou" Ludlum, the lieutenant of the now famous band of bunco-steerers, is still missing. The fact that the bright little black-eyed man who lived for over a year on Putnam avenue, was none other than that famous character has been too startling for the residents of that neighborhood to recover from in a minute. Then, too, the king-pin of the gang was also a resident of Plainfield for a few months. The subject has furnished an endless amount of gossip ever since. While nobody knew very much about the families, everybody had heard or read of some fact to be added to the many that are now in circulation at local dinner tables.

The story in yesterday's Press of the doings of the family was read with great interest on all sides. Everybody was sure that they had known there was something wrong about the Spencers and Ludlums from the first. The inside details of the family history since they came to Plainfield were new to most of the readers of The Press.

The general impression prevailed in the neighborhood that Ludlum was a traveling salesman for a New York whiskey house, as has been already stated. Those who have been inside the Ludlum residence say that Mr. Ludlum did all he could to give that impression. It is also said that he had a den in which he kept his samples of goods.

It has since been learned that the visit of the men to this city three weeks ago was not there last appearance here after all. Wednesday of last week, they were seen to arrive in this city together. They were seen driving in an old-style buggy, which was covered with mud. Instead of presenting their usual natty and stylish appearance, they looked very delapidated and rustic. Ludlum had a beard on his arrival but when seen again it had disappeared.

Where they were the remainder of the week nobody exactly knows. They were seen several times going in or out of Ludlum's house during that time. Saturday morning Ludlum was seen to board a train at the North Avenue station and go in the direction of Philadelphia. That evening at 7 o'clock Ludlum and Spencer were seen to come out of Ludlum's house and board a trolley car bound for Netherwood. It is supposed that they took a train from Netherwood. At the time both were well dressed and carried gripsacks.

There was something peculiar at the household of George Spencer. They had a son who never came to this city, however. It was understood that he was at some boarding-school. Mrs. Spencer, who is a tall blonde woman, was known to be frequently in tears and wore an expression of sorrow. She left home almost every Saturday and returned the following Tuesday. She told the servants that her husband was ill in another city. They very seldom saw him, and of late they have seen nothing of him, although it is quite certain that he was in town.

The story of the methods they usually adopted by which they buncoed the wealthy farmers out of their treasured gains has been learned. While their methods were not always the same, they seemed to prefer the three-card monte game.

Spencer and Ludlum usually worked together with an assistant. Spencer and the latter went out with a horse and carriage and stopped at the home of some rich farmer. They had already investigated his standing in the community, financial and otherwise, and were thoroughly posted on his family affairs. They told the farmer that they were looking after a good farm. They happened to remember that they had known some ralative of his very intimately. The short acquaintance ripened at once. The farmer was only too glad to get into their carriage and drive to the site of a neighboring farm which was on the market. He agreed to give them a few points in regard to it out of remembrance of his brother, son or whoever the bunco steerers had selected.

As the party would start for the farm in question, they would meet a queer character at the crossroads nearby. It usually was Ludlum. He is known to the detectives as the "crossroads man." He was from the south, he explained, and it was easy enough to tell that from his accent. He was there looking for his long-lost sister who came north several years ago. He was afraid those "darn Yankees" had harmed her. He had

DEATH IN A TORNADO

Scores of Lives Reported Lost at Fort Smith, Ark.

FIRE ADDS TO THE HORRORS

Buildings Were Crushed Like Egg Shells --Tornado Came from Southwest, Sweeping Over Other Villages--The Death List May Reach Fifty.

Little Rock, Ark., Jan. 13.—The town of Fort Smith, 160 miles northwest from Little Rock, has been devastated by a cyclone. The information received so far is rather meagre, as the only source of communication with the outside world is a single telephone wire which runs into Little Rock.

The cyclone struck the city at 11 o'clock Tuesday night, and left death and desolation in its track. Entire blocks of buildings were leveled by the storm, and the inmates buried in the ruins.

Scores of residents were maimed by the flying bricks and timber. As an additional terror, fire broke out in the ruins and waged fiercely for several hours. The screams of the imprisoned ones were heartrending. All efforts to aid them were futile, as the flames baffled the rescuers at every turn.

The Death List.

Following is the list of dead so far as known: George Carloe, Irene Farrell, Frank Richard, Mrs. Sheehan's baby, John Marston, John Baldt, two Lefevre boys, Mrs. Will Lawson, Ed. Farrell, Roy Farrell, George Lovell Murdeck, J. J. Riley, Louis Sengell, Mrs. Burgess, Joe Jiles, Mr. Faulx, Harvey Rutledge (colored), two unknown women from the Burgess Hotel, J. M. Fritz, John A. Adams, —— Ritter, Miss Maggie Sheehan, Silas Mincer, Mary Simmerman, James Griswold, Milton Kraper, Jr., Mrs. Chas. Maurer, Mrs. Headen, L. Wohler, unknown man, died at the hospital.

One man was found with a piece of plate glass driven through his throat. A woman was found with her head mashed flat. A mother and three children were found in one group, all dead and terribly mutilated. Dr. Cates had both arms and legs broken, and his wife was no doubt fatally injured.

Twenty-five bodies have been taken from the ruins. How many are injured can only be estimated. For hours after the disaster it was impossible to reach many of the injured, and some of those who might have been saved if succored at once, died of their injuries.

The city was in darkness, the electric light plant and gas works having fallen prey to the demon of destruction, and the rain came down in sheets and it was practically impossible to push the work of rescue.

Lanterns and torches alone guided the rescuers to the ruined homes of the dead and dying, while the mighty wind tore out pieces of debris from the wreck, making the danger almost as great as during the first onslaught, as more people were on the streets.

Fire Adds to Horrors.

And when fire started in the ruins and the ranks of the rescuers had to be divided to fight against the new danger, it looked for a time as though the entire city was doomed.

Half-clad women and children ran about the streets wringing their hands, and with agonized cries bemoaned the fate of their loved ones. Fathers and mothers became separated from their children, and each knew not the fate of the others. Brave men wept, but still worked like demons against the terrible destroyer.

The worst destruction was between 8th and 18th streets. Big houses were torn down as though they had been built of straw. The property loss is hard to estimate, but it looks at a glance as though it would exceed $1,000,000.

It was not until nearly 2 A. M. yesterday that the outside world could learn of the disaster. Telegraph and telephone wires were torn from the poles by the wind, and it was long after midnight before any communication could be established. Then messages asking for aid were rushed to Van Buren and Little Rock. Every physician in Van Buren has been sent to the aid of the stricken people, and Little Rock has gallantly rushed to the rescue.

The people have settled down to the dull, aching pain that follows a great bereavement, and walk about the ruins, almost mechanically looking at bodies of their dear ones. Dry and burning eyes are following the tears, though still are heard the weeping of wives suddenly become widows, and the children who have been made orphans in a night.

The work of rescue goes rapidly on, and as a body is carried from the ruins, it is followed by scores of those who have known the living, looking for marks of identification. Many of the bodies have been torn beyond recognition, and some of them doubtless go to unknown graves.

Storm from Northwest.

Fort Smith is a town of 3,000, and lies on the banks of the Arkansas River, where it crosses the western boundary of the State. It is the western terminus of the Little Rock and Fort Smith Railroad, and is considered a bustling community, bound to make itself felt in the trade and commerce of the Southwest. The United States District Court, with jurisdiction over the Indian Territory, holds its sessions there. The court has been in session since the first of the year, and this has attracted thousands from all parts of the territory.

The cyclone swept down on the town from the northwest. It was preceded by an unusual calm and a distant roar like the fall of a mighty cataract. The atmosphere became oppressive, and the fear of an impending calamity seemed to possess all those who were about at that hour.

The wind then increased in velocity until it reached a perfect gale. Shutters and signs were torn from their fastenings and whirled about like paper. The noise increased as the moments passed, until, like a monster from an unknown world, the cyclone itself swept over the city.

The electric light works on the outskirts of the town was one of the first buildings to go. This left the town in complete darkness, and added untold horror to the scene. Most of the buildings were of frame construction, and they fell an easy prey to the wind.

Two of the largest houses of worship in the city, the Baptist and the Central Methodist churches, were completely destroyed. The Brownscomb Church was badly damaged, and the towers and roofs of the High School buildings were blown away.

Block after block succumbed until it was thought that not a singe building would remain. Above the awful din could be heard the cries of the dying. In the utter darkness it was almost impossible to render assistance. The fortunate ones were too terrified to do anything but seek the nearest shelter, in the cherished hope that they would be saved from death.

After passing through Fort Smith the cyclone passed on toward Little Rock, leaving ruined houses and farm buildings in its wake. The total loss is placed at $500,000, but it is claimed by some that it will greatly exceed that amount.

Hospitals have been made of all the residences along the edge of the cyclone's path.

One of the most affecting scenes of the disaster was observed yesterday when scores of poor laborers searched the ruins of their little homes that represented the hoardings of years of toil. They searched diligently with their wives and children for fragments of their household effects. Often souvenirs of the disaster, stained with the blood of loved ones, were carried away to places of temporary shelter.

Death List May Reach Fifty.

Memphis, Tenn., Jan. 13.—As the result of a tornado, all wires are down in Fort Smith, Ark., except those in the Missouri Pacific and 'Frisco depots. The telephone and electric light wires are all gone. No Eastern wires from the city, and only one Western one is standing.

It is said the number of dead at Fort Smith will reach fifty, but that is probably exaggerated, and twenty-five will perhaps cover it. This information comes from Van Buren, Ark., close to Fort Smith, and is as reliable as it is possible to obtain at this hour.

Appeals have been sent to the capital, Little Rock, asking Governor Jones to send aid to the homeless and destitute, and the Governor, it is believed, will act promptly.

A VOTE ON HAWAII SOON.

The Opposition to the Treaty Will Not Delay It.

Washington, Jan. 13.—The Senate now expects to get a vote on the Hawaiian treaty earlier than at first expected. The opposition announced yesterday that as they were certain of enough votes to defeat ratification, they would not cause a delay by making speeches. They claimed that as Senators Gear, Thurston and Spooner have declared against the treaty it cannot be ratified.

The friends of the treaty, on the other hand, do not concede Senator Spooner. They also rejoice at the prospect of an early vote, and claim that if it is taken soon they will win. If by any chance the treaty should fall in the Senate, the joint resolution will be introduced and rushed through Congress.

The Senate went into executive session early and Senator Davis continued his speech in favor of the treaty.

Women Plan a Trip to the Klondike.

New York, Jan. 13.—The little 840-ton American steamer Brixham left this city yesterday for an 18,000-mile trip. She was sent out by the Boston and Alaska Transportation Company. The firm is establishing a line of steamers between Seattle, Skaguay and St. Michael's, as well as a fleet of river steamers and barges to run up the Yukon to Dawson City.

Among the 260 passengers booked at Seattle for the Brixham are Mrs. De Balaine and Miss Katie Ryan, and the latter's brother and uncle. Forty-five tons of provisions were carried on the Brixham, and fifteen tons of this was owned by Mrs. De Balaine's party.

Named by the President.

Washington, Jan. 13.—The President has sent the following nominations to the Senate:

Mark S. Brewer, of Michigan, to be a Civil Service Commissioner.

Edwin H. Conger, of Iowa, to be Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary of the United States to China.

THE INDIAN UPRISING

Seminoles Said to Be Killing All the Whites They Meet.

REVENGE FOR LYNCHINGS

Every Woman and Child of Earlsboro, Near the Border of the Seminole Nation, Brought to a Place of Safety--News of a Pitched Battle.

Kansas City, Mo., Jan. 13.—Great excitement prevails over the meagre reports from the Indian Territory of the Seminole uprising. Nothing more definite than yesterday morning's statement, that 150 reds had started on the warpath from Earlsboro; that they were killing all the whites they met, and that the whites were arming and hurrying their families out of the country, has been received.

Although many stories, which were not borne out by the facts, had previously been circulated from the Territory, so persistent have been the rumors that the Seminoles were avenging the burning of two of their number that further news is awaited with fear.

Cavalry to the Scene.

Muskogee, I. T., Jan. 13.—Official circles here are all astir over the news of the Seminole uprising, and Marshal Bennett, who was to leave for Washington, has postponed the trip, and left yesterday, with Deputy Ledbetter, for the scene of the trouble. A troop of cavalry is now on the way to the Seminole Nation.

Marshal Bennett is well liked by the Seminoles, who unanimously indorsed him in council for marshal of the Northern District of the Indian Territory, and he has had numerous personal telegrams asking him to come at once, on account of his popularity with the Seminoles.

Information from Oklahoma City is to the effect that 200 armed citizens have started from that place for Earlsboro on a special train to head off the Seminoles and prevent a repetition of the Maud Post Office massacre.

A PITCHED BATTLE REPORTED.

Refugees from Earlsboro Bring Alarming News of the Uprising.

Shawnee, O. T., Jan. 13.—Trains on the Choctaw branch of the 'Frisco Railroad have brought to this city every woman and child from Earlsboro, some 200 people, near the border of the Seminole Nation. The burning at the stake of McGeisey and Simpson, the Seminole half-breeds, has greatly enraged the Seminoles, and they have banded together and are riding over the country.

A party of about 200 savages and half-breeds rode into a neighborhood eighteen miles southeast of Earlsboro and began shooting through the doors and windows of the house of a new settler. Every person in the house is reported to have been killed.

The refugees from Earlsboro say that about 10 o'clock Tuesday a pitched battle occurred, and that three families were killed. There is a general uprising.

Messengers have been sent to the military station demanding immediate aid, and protection. The people at Maud have arranged wagons to take the women and children out of the country under guard of armed horsemen. When the reports reached Earlsboro the women and children were put on the train and sent into Oklahoma. A great many stopped as soon as they got well across the Territory line, but most of them came as far west as El Reno. No names of the killed could be learned.

The train officials say there is serious trouble and some whites have been killed, but the stories are probably exaggerated.

A Reign of Terror.

Guthrie, O. T., Jan. 13.—Deputy marshals arriving here from Maud report a reign of terror in that section. A dozen families are reported to have left their farms in the vicinity of Maud. One deputy brings a report that two white men were captured by Seminole bucks yesterday and put to the thumb torture.

United States Marshal Thompson has received instructions to send a force of deputies to the line marking the border of Oklahoma and the Indian Territory, to co-operate with the Indian Territory officials in quelling the threatened outbreaks.

Grave fears are entertained for homesteaders on the borders. The whole country is aroused.

THERE WAS NO INDIAN UPRISING.

Railroad Agent at Earlboro Tried His Hand at Romancing.

Guthrie, O. T., Jan. 13.—Gov. Barnes has received information from the officers at the scene of the reported uprising of the Seminole Indians that the whole story was a myth.

The Indians are furious over the burning of the two young Indians, one of whom, at least, it is believed, was innocent of the crime charged, but the Indian police, deputy marshals and sheriffs have the Seminoles under control, and no trouble is likely to happen.

The first account of the alleged uprising was sent out by the agent for the Choctaw, Oklahoma and Gulf Railway, at Earlsboro, I. T., to the train despatcher at Kansas City, Mo. The story was a pure fabrication, originating with the railroad agent.

It was ascertained yesterday that the burning of the two victims took place about a hundred yards on this side of the territorial line, hence in Oklahoma.

Governor Barnes last night issued a proclamation offering $1,000 reward for the arrest and conviction of the members of the mob. The Governor also telegraphed the officers of Pottawatomie County, where the crime was committed, that the people of the nation looked to them to do everything possible to prevent further crime, and to arrest and bring to justice all concerned in the burning.

Killed by Earthquake.

The Hague, Holland, Jan. 13.—An official dispatch from Batavia announces that the capital of Amboyna, one of the Moluccas Islands, has been completely demolished by an earthquake. Fifty persons were killed and 200 were injured.

Mr. and Mrs. Conklin, of Huntington, L. I., who have been visiting Plainfield friends, have returned home.

$100 Reward, $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Hall's Family Pills are the best.

E. Maxwell Honeyman, of Duer street, returned today to his studies at Lafayette College after spending his vacation at home.

The progressive ladies of Westfield, Ind., issued a "Woman's Edition" of the Westfield News, bearing date of April 3d, 1896. The paper is filled with matter of interest to women, and we notice the following from a correspondent, which the editors printed, realizing that it treats upon a matter of vital importance to their sex: "The best remedy for croup, colds and bronchitis that I have been able to find is Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. For family use it has no equal. I gladly recommend it." 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by T. S. Armstrong apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

—R. A. Meeker, former street commissioner, has rented a suite of rooms in the Marsh building on Park avenue.

"My daughter, when recovering from an attack of fever, was a great sufferer from pain in the back and hips," writes Louden Grover, of Sardis, Ky. "After using quite a number of remedies without any benefit she tried one bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm, and it has given entire relief." Chamberlain's Pain Balm is also a certain cure for rheumatism. Sold by T. S. Armstrong, apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

—John J. Goff has had two new plate glass windows placed in his saloon on Liberty street. The glass formerly in the windows was shattered New Year's night by some person who has since eluded detection.

Mothers whose children are troubled with bad colds, croup or whooping-cough will do well to read what Dr. R. R. Robey, of Olney, Mo., says on this subject, He writes: "For years we have used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, and always keep it in the house. It is regarded in our family as a specific for all kinds of colds and coughs." The 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by T. S. Armstrong, apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

Persons who are troubled with indigestion will be interested in the experience of Wm. H. Penn, chief clerk, in the railway mail service at Des Moines, Iowa, who writes: "It gives me pleasure to testify to the merits of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy. For two years I have suffered from indigestion, and am subject to frequent severe attacks of pain in the stomach and bowels. One or two doses of this remedy never fails to give perfect relief." Price 25 and 50 cents; sold by T. S. Armstrong, apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

Who can fail to take advantage of this offer. Send 10 cents to us for a generous trial size or ask your druggist. Ask for Ely's Cream Balm, the most positive catarrh cure. Full size 50 cents. ELY BROS., 56 Warren St., N Y City.

I suffered from catarrh of the worst kind ever since a boy, and I never hoped for cure, but Ely's Cream Balm seems to do even that. Many acquaintances have used it with excellent results.—Oscar Ostrum, 45 Warren Ave. Chicago, Ill.

MONETARY REPORT HEARING.

Ex-Senator Edmunds Speaks in Support of the Commission's Bill.

Washington, Jan. 13.—The Monetary Commission was given a hearing yesterday by the House Committee on Banking and Currency on the Commission's bill proposing a comprehensive revision of the currency. Ex-Senator Edmunds of Vermont, chairman of the Commission, headed the delegation. Secretary Gage was present. The hearing attracted much interest, a number of the members of the House, accompanied by women, being in attendance.

Several members of the Commission were ready to speak before the committee, including ex-Senator Fairchild. The committee decided, however, to hear Mr. Edmunds first.

Mr. Edmunds said that the fundamental principle which the commission had felt was to be considered in establishing a stable currency was, first to know what the standard of value in this country is, and is to be. On this there were many divergent views among financial authorities. Many believed, and he was one of these, that it was impossible to have more than one standard of value. If this be true, then the question is, what is the best standard. The experience of the world, Mr. Edmunds said, was that the best standard was the one subject to least change, one to which all other values most readily adjusted themselves, one which will be the same when a transaction closes as it was when it opened. The Commission felt this, that such a thing as a double standard had never existed in the world through natural operations. There had been double standards established by law, but never in fact. When it came to an actual standard, there could be but one.

Mr. Edmunds then referred to the experience of the great nations of the world, all showing, he said, that a single standard meant stability and safety while legal attempts at double standards meant disaster and panic. From this universal experience, Mr. Edmunds said, he and his associates had come to the conclusion that the first principle on which to base a currency was to have one standard; that gold is the best standard, because it is the most stable of all standards of value and subject to the least fluctuation from year to year and from century to century.

Following Mr. Edmunds, Mr. Fairchild took up the banking section of the commission's report. Mr. Fairchild said it was useful to consider how intelligent private individuals would conduct banking without the aid of law and from that judge what the Government can do. As to the bank-note, there was no essential need of the Government being a factor. The main ground for Government interference in a bank-note circulation was to facilitate the rapidity of exchange by giving regularity to an otherwise natural operation between individuals.

Mr. Fairchild said the banking features of the bill sought to follow natural lines by binding all their resources, rather than requiring a deposit of bonds with a Government trustee. To accompish this, all the banks were bound together in common action in a protection of all the notes they issued. From a personal inquiry Mr. Fairchild said that all the losses from national bank failures in 1893—the worst year for them—would have occasioned a tax of less than 1-8 of 1 per cent. on the combined banks, if this proposed measure had been inforce. Such a tax would not be an exceptional burden to the banks.

Mr. Bush of Anniston, Ala., a member of the Monetary Commission, was next heard. He said it would not be to the credit of any party in power to check this movement for currency reform, or to fail to embrace the opportunity to execute it. There were some who were so bound up in the tariff that they wished to convince the country that the tariff would accomplish everything. But the tariff would not cure the vital evils of currency. It was as important for members of Congress to meet these evils as to furnish battleships and cruisers as a preparation for emergency.

At the close of Mr. Bush's statement the committee adjourned until to-day, when the hearing will be resumed.

FREED ON MURDER CHARGE.

Mrs. McCusker Faints When She Hears the Verdict--Decision Applauded.

Camden, N. J., Jan. 13.—Mrs. Florence McCusker has been declared an innocent woman. At 3.30 o'clock yesterday afternoon she was acquitted of the charge of killing her husband. The verdict was applauded by the spectators.

During all the trial she maintained a hopeful and comparatively composed demeanor, and even when the jury, which held her fate in its hands, filed into the courtroom with their verdict, she stood up and faced it bravely.

But when the foreman pronounced the words "We find the defendant not guilty," Mrs. McCusker broke down.

Throwing up her hands, she cried out: "Thank God! I knew I would not suffer." Then she burst into tears and fell fainting into the arms of her mother. She was carried into the Judge's room, where her mother attended her, and she was soon able to go home.

Michael McCusker was shot by his wife, Florence, at their flat on Nov. 9 last. Immediately after the shooting Mrs. McCusker called the police. She said that her husband frequently came home drunk and beat her. On Nov. 9 he had been drinking and went out. She locked the door. When he returned home she had in her hand a revolver which she had taken from a drawer to put under the pillow. She went to the door holding the pistol in her left hand. Her husband attacked her, and in the struggle a cartridge exploded and McCusker fell to the floor.

Whatever opinion Frank Bergen may hold of the sharp antagonistic spirit he encountered for the county trolley ownership idea at the public meeting in Music Hall Tuesday evening, it at least shows a lively interest in a very important subject. Inasmuch as Mr. Bergen is a man who doesn't run when he sees a fight ahead, it is to be presumed that he is not throughly disconcerted at the display of opposition made on the part of several influential Plainfielders.

Senator Reed was among the first of the legislators to introduce bills. Senate bill No. 10 is fathered by the Somerset county statesman. It provides "that telegraph poles shall constitute personal property for taxing purposes in the taxing districts."

A PRACTICE SHOOT.

Independent Gun Club Anxious for Victory in Tomorrow's Contest.

The birds were said to be the strongest and fastest ever released here, and the records made were therefore exceptionally good.

After the team shooting was finished an open shoot was held in which H. E. Rider killed 7 out of 10 birds, J. Beerbower 6 out of 10, Charles Lyman and C. Potter each 5 out of 10, W. A. Coddington 4 out of 5, Charles Lister 3 out of 5, H. Haurand 2 out of 5, and Charles Smith 4 out of 5.

THEATRICAL.

Washburn's big double minstrel enterprise will be seen for the first time at Music Hall tonight. That the company is a meritorious one is evident from the high praise accorded their performances by the press of the several cities they have visited.

The company supporting Robert Hilliard in "A New Yorker" number some of the cleverest actors in the country. Two of them—Mrs. Thorndyke-Boucicault and Dore Davidson—have starred on their own account. The other members of Mr. Hilliard's company are equally well known. Altogether it is perhaps the strongest comedy company now before the public, and Plainfield theatregoers who attend the performance of "A New Yorker" at Music Hall Saturday evening may anticipate a pleasureable treat in seeing a clever play cleverly acted.

They were applied several times, and at last took effect, gripping the wheels and bringing the train to a sudden standstill. He was unable to walk, and has since been receiving treatment from three physicians.

lots of money, his pockets overflowed with it. Then, out of kindness of heart, he told them how he had greatly increased his pile. He had three cards and explained that it was a little trick he worked on the farmers. The confederate in the carriage declared that he could guess the right card, as the man from the south moved them so fast. He put up a little money and won. He whispered to the farmer that they might as well have the old fool's money as anybody else. The farmer finally became interested and then excited. He bet a little, too.

At last the stranger offered to wager all his money on the little trick, but demanded that he see the farmer's money also. The farmer was driven to the bank by his new-found friends and made out a check or took the money in cash. The money was put in a tin box under the carriage seat for safe keeping. The stranger wrangled over the stakes and the game until the farmer and his friends became disgusted and left. A tin box similar to the one containing the farmer's money was given to him. Then the farmer was gotten rid of. Sometimes the swindlers found it necessary to throw him out.

Arrested in That City With Bunco Man O'Brien Ten Years Ago.

Louis Ludlum, the swindler and pal of Bunco King John Reed, has a record in New Haven, where ten years ago he was arrested in company with the notorious bunco king of that day, Tom O'Brien, and the men forfeited bonds of $10,000 and skipped town.

The police records show the arrests to have been made April 12th, 1887. Fines were imposed in each case of $200 on every count, with an additional penalty of six months imprisonment in each of several cases.

Ludlum was known in New Haven as "Lew Ludlow." His bond was fixed at $4,000 and O'Brien's at $6,000, as shown by the police records there.

In being photographed for the rogues' gallery, O'Brien made a vigorous fight. There are three pictures of him in the gallery, where he is being held almost prostrate by three stout policemen.

Coughs that Cling.

The most persistent coughs are those due to chronic irritation of the throat and bronchial tubes. An ordinary cough remedy will not reach the trouble.

DeLONG'S EMULSION of COD LIVER OIL

will reach it. It is an alterative remedy, it arouses the latent forces of the body and sets nature to removing any morbid condition of the air passages. It practically rebuilds the tissue. The remedy also contains the hypophosphites of lime and soda. These increase the muscular and nervous force and mental energy.

The Emulsion not only cures obstinate coughs, but builds up the entire system.

KEEPING STILL.

Of all the men whom I admire
There's not a one who may aspire
To stand as high, and none who can,
As does the truly "quiet man."

If any being on the earth
Gets credit far beyond his worth,
That one can be none other than
This unobstrusive "quiet man."

No matter what's within his head
His silence is interpreted
To be a sign that wisdom lies
Behind his inexpressive eyes.

If so he drops a word or two,
His friends will search them through and through
To meanings deeper in intent
Than e'er the speaker thought or meant.

If so, by chance, he takes a stand,
Assumes position of command,
Surprised approval greets him then,
And you shall hear from other men:

"Some weighty reason lay behind,
An act so foreign to his kind."

When things go wrong his moveless state
Is credited to scorn of fate.

So softly to himself he swears;
'Tis thought he murmurs pious prayers.

He's so misjudged his flaws at length
Are twisted into points of strength.

Poor humankind awaits command
From all it doesn't understand,

And he may work his own sweet will
Who has the art of keeping still.

A LITTLE WHITE CAP.

BY MARGUERITE L. SUMNER.

The cap had a character of its own. It was not the fact that its wearer was young and slim, that her cheeks were pink and her hair was golden, that made it unique; but this doubtless added to its interest. Not another nurse in the big hospital had a cap like it, although all were made of the same material, after the same pattern. This one of Theodora's always seemed fresher, whiter, than any other, and strangest of all, it arranged itself to suit the changing mood of its owner.

Whenever the matron approached Theo, her cap would take a defiant jump and perch on the side of its owner's head in such a provoking way that that worthy woman fairly fumed with wrath. There was very little love lost between Theodora and the matron. The latter was tall and angular, with a pointed nose and hard mouth. She seemed to have an especial antipathy to Theo, perhaps because her words had so little effect on the other's lightheartedness.

When Doctor Ford, the youngest, the merriest, and at times the sternest, of the hospital staff of physicians, first made acquaintance with the cap, it was almost falling off in order to join in its mistresses sympathy with old Mrs. Brown, in the charity ward, who was blind and pain-racked. They were standing together when the matron rustled up, and the doctor's eyes twinkled as he saw Theo's cap rise in antagonism.

"Nurse Yorke, you have more than done your duty here," she said. "Be kind enough to stop coddling the patients and you will accomplish more You are due now in the diet kitchen."

The cap stood up serenely high and calm.

"Yes, madam, presently. Doctor, this woman ought to have an opiate."

There was an unmistakable sneer in the matron's voice as she said,—

"You have taken an odd fancy to the patient. Nevertheless you may go at once to the kitchen or lose your recreation hour."

The cap never stirred, neither did Theodora's fine gray eyes.

"Very well," said the matron. "You see my trials, doctor."

She turned abruptly, and shaking her skirts, rustled away.

"A most disagreeable woman," muttered the doctor.

Theodora's cap nodded assent, then bent over the patient once more.

Doctor Ford's attention was again called to this cap when, a few days later, a little cross from loss of sleep, he entered the children's ward, and caught a flashing gleam of white far down the room, dancing merrily to the motion of a golden head over two flying feet, while a sweet voice sang a comical nursery rhyme.

Baby eyes of blue and gray and brown, full of interest, were fixed upon the dancer. All had for the moment forgotten their pain. Had the doctor not been tired, this scene would have pleased him. Now he walked over to the girl and said sternly,—

"Nurse Yorke, what is the meaning of this frivolity? I have observed you frequently of late; you are sympathetic; that is about the only qualification for a nurse that you have. I am surprised that you undertook the work."

Theodora was sensitive; quickly the hot blood swept up into her cheeks; but she was also proud; from her gray eyes she flashed him a look which he could not soon forget. Then she walked down the ward, the back of her cap expressing injured dignity. The doctor gazed after her.

"What a beast I was!" he murmured "That cap utters a scathing rebuke."

He felt his moroseness vanishing to give place to amused interest.

On his next visit Doctor Ford found himself watching furtively for a glimpse of a certain little white cap But when he saw it he started in surprise. Its wearer was leaning upon a window sill, the cap tilted discontentedly down toward her eyes. The encounter startled both into words

"I beg pardon!"

"Doctor Ford!"

"You are in trouble."

The cap took an oddly flexible position on the shapely head.

"Oh, no—only pricked by pins. The matron and I don't get on."

"What now?"

"She goes out of her way to annoy me; sends me where I am really not required to go; makes me smart under her cutting words. Yet I have my small revenges," laughingly.

"Yes, trust woman for that! She is a bundle of petty revenges at her best."

The doctor's eyes were grave. It was whispered about that he was growing cynical where women were concerned.

"Let me give you a chapter of Mrs. Whitten's life," he resumed. "A few years ago her only son, a wild fellow when I knew him, but the pride of his deluded mother's heart, went away to sea; the vessel was wrecked and all on board were lost. Your matron told me not long since that the only comfort of her lonely life was the thought that her boy died a pure, good man."

The doctor glanced at his listener. How had that cap managed to assume such a pitiful pose? His glance fell lower; Theodora's eyes were tender, luminous. Suddenly he straightened himself.

"Pshaw! Well, that story may make you pity her a little in private—and give an added zest to your revenges."

"Doctor, do you think so poorly of women as that?"

"I do from necessity. I have never had occasion to hold another belief."

"I am sorry."

When she went away the cap was drooping; the doctor stood and watched it out of sight.

Not long after this a patient in the last stages of consumption was brought to the hospital as a charity case. Now if there was one disease above all others which the matron feared and dreaded, it was consumption—perhaps because it was hereditary in her family. At any rate she had as little to do with consumptives as possible. This new case was assigned to the one private room in the ward. The sufferer was in a frightful condition; dissipation and the dread disease had done their worst for him.

Mrs. Whitten, after hearing the story, suavely delegated Theodora to take charge of the new patient.

"You like charity people," she said scornfully.

The girl went, her cap bravely erect; entered the little room amid the curses and raving of its inmate, went to the bedside, took the burning hands in her soft, cool ones, and bent her clear eyes upon the young fellow. Gradually he grew quiet, wept a little, then poured into her sympathetic ears his miserable story. After that he soon settled again into a delirium from which he never awoke.

Theodora mounted guard over the room, allowing no one save the physician to enter it. Mrs. Whitten, full of malice, noised it about that the man was Theodora's lover.

After a few days the matron decided to step in and look at the dreadful new patient. Going to the room, she was met at the threshold by Theodora.

"I will step in and see your interesting friend, Nurse Yorke," she said, sneeringly.

"I should prefer you would not enter, madam."

"Stand aside, nurse!"

But instead of doing so the girl stepped outside and closed the door.

"You shall not enter!" she cried, while her eyes, determined, blazing, held the other's hard ones.

Reckless and formidable the cap seemed actually to stand upright. The matron turned.

"You have defied me, Nurse Yorke—take the consequences."

She had not cared greatly about entering, but wished to irritate the girl. Now she had an excuse to be rid of her.

With wide open eyes Doctor Ford had witnessed from a distance the strange encounter and its ending.

Was it true, he thought, that this pure-eyed girl loved that sodden wretch, as had been hinted about the hospital?

Biting his lip he strode away after seeing Theodora disappear within the room, her sweet face pale and drawn.

"Just like them all—some hideous skeleton to hide," he muttered through shut teeth.

SIR JOHN MACDONALD'S ADVICE.

The Reporter Had a Proud Moment of Expectancy.

Sir John Macdonald was the guest of honor at a banquet in Montreal one evening and was expected to make a speech of much political moment. The Star sent a short hand man with instructions to take down Sir John's words exactly as they were uttered. It was a great banquet and wine flowed freely. After the speech the reporter hastened to the office to transcribe his notes. For the life of him he could not make out what Sir John had been talking about. He hurried off to the premier and went over the speech carefully with him and straightened it out. Thanking Sir John most gratefully, he was about to rush back, when the statesman, taking him by the hand, said: "My dear friend, you are young. The world is before you. I am old and have seen much of life, its trials and temptations. Let me venture as one full of experience to offer you a few words of advice"—it was the proudest moment of the reporter's life. He was all expectancy. "Be sure, always be sure, my young friend, that when you try to report a speech you are quite sober."—New York Press.

If you wish to be miserable you must think about yourself, about what you want, what you like, what respect people ought to pay you, and then to you nothing will be pure. You will spoil everything you touch, you will make sin and misery for yourself out of everything which God sends you; you will be as wretched as you choose. —Charles Kingsley.

REASONS GIVEN WHY CHINAMEN ATTEND SUNDAY SCHOOL.

Naive Admissions of a Laundryman Who Appreciates Instruction—Foolish Love of an American Girl for one of These Pigtailed Heathen's.

The marriage of a Chinaman to his Sunday school teacher in New York recently has caused many persons to express very decided views about teaching the Chinese in our Sunday schools. Many prominent ministers and others are decidedly opposed to the system of employing young girls to teach Chinamen. Those who have carefully investigated the subject say that the Chinese care nothing for our religion, and merely profess to do so for the sake of certain material advantages gained. Among these are opportunities for learning English, which to them is a valuable acquisition, and of flirting with the young women who teach them, and in the end marrying them. That they accomplish what they set out to do is evident from the fact that there are more than one hundred Chinamen married to American women in New York and Brooklyn.

At one of the recent Sunday school entertainments which was gotten up for their benefit, one of the Chinamen said to his friend:—"Idols no good. Thrown 'em away. Melican man's God heap best."

"Will you love Jesus?" asked a teacher of a new comer.

The heathen answered with jerky gravity:—"Me learnee speakee Lingish fust; then me love Jesus."

"Lee, do you go to Sunday school?" was the question asked yesterday of a laundryman.

"Yes, ebby Sunday," was the laconic answer after he had paused to artistically spray a shirt with his mouth full of water.

"How long have you gone?"

"Pletty near two years now," was Lee's reply.

"How did you come to go?"

"Him Sing, he keep a store on Pell street. Him tell me, 'You want good place go Sunday?' I tell him 'Yes.' He say, 'Velly good place in Fourteenth street, and you can learn English; lots of pletty girls. No cost anything. I say, 'All lite; me go.' He take me. I go see. Sing hab a nicee little teacher, pletty girl.

"My teacher heap old. I think about hundred years; she good woman, though. She ask me my name, then she say 'Lee you be good Chinaman; no do bad. You no play tan.' I say, Yes I no play.' make me heap bad luck. I lose that night. I no play no more. By-m-by all over. I plomise to come back. Sing take me to his teacher. She say, 'You come see me some time with Sing.' 'All lite,' I say, and we go.

"I say, 'Sing, him nice girl.' Sing say, 'You bet; him heap good girl. I think she like me velly much. I think she mally me if I no alleddy mallied in China. You no tell her, though.

"I plomised no tell. Sing and I go many times, ebby Sunday. We go see her house. Keep nice house; nice furnisher; cost lot of money. Pletty girl give Sing nice plesants—gol' watch some money besides. She like him velly much. Las' summer him Sunday school boss he say, 'You Chinamen have nice time here. You well tleated; now you boys tleat teachers well. You go catchem steamer; go down river. Nice 'scursion. All lite; we go catchem steamer. Go long ride on river; by-m-by we come to place. Nice grounds. Have eat. Then some Chinamen go lowing in smallee boat. I go swing teacher in big swing. Sing go in boat. Pletty soon I swing Sing's teacher. Nice girl. After while she stop; she say, 'Lee, you tell me something. 'All lite,' I say. 'You know Sing,' him teacher say. I say, 'Yes; him my cousin.' What you think,' she say; 'him make good husband; good to his wife, tleat her well?'

"I not think. I say, 'Yes'm, him make good husband;' him send money ebby month to wife in China.'

"'What! Him mallied alleddy?' she say, an' she turn white alle same nice clean shirt. 'You tell um truth, Lee?'

'Yes'm, I no tell lie; go bad place. Ah Sing, him mallied and got tlee child.' She say, 'You bad China boy, you go way,' an' she fall back like dead. I get flightened; go away and tell other teachers; bymby she all lite. She no speak to Sing. Sing fin' out, he velly mad. He say 'What you tell?' I say, 'Because him truth.'

"Nex' Sunday Sing's teacher no come to school. Sing heap mad again. Teacher never come again. Sing go to him house, but she no see him. Sing no speak to me now. Him no more go to school."

The ministers say the Chinese are especially fond of women teachers. When the Chinese arrives in the Sunday schools they bow politely to their teachers. The teachers greet them very effusively, and endeavor to make them feel at home.

At length the service begins. All the Chinamen are at their tables, each with his teacher, not uncommonly a young girl, by his side. After short religious ceremonies the English instruction begins, which is far the most important division from a Chinese point of view. The teacher and pupil sit side by side while the teacher unravels the mysteries of English for the benefit of her pupil. This arrangement has been disapproved in many instances, and attempts have been made to seat teacher and pupil on opposite sides of the table, but this innovation was received with unqualified disapproval, and wherever attempted caused the Sunday school to be boycotted by its Chinese pupils.—New York Herald.

A BOY CAPTAIN.

Sixteen-Year-Old Skipper Piloted a Fever Stricken Ship Into Port.

With death walking the deck by his side, short handed, officers dead or disabled with fever, through seven weeks of disaster, danger and fear, a boy of sixteen years of age performed an act requiring rare force of will and character in the south seas recently. His name was William Shotton and he is the son of an English sailor.

The Trafalgar, his ship, a four masted bark of 1,700 tons, sailed from Batavia with a cargo of petroleum for Melbourne, Australia. Fever broke out among the crew even before the ship left port, and Captain Edgar was invalided. The command devolved upon the next in authority, Mr. Roberts. But scarcely had the ship weighed anchor, when he, too, was stricken, together with several other able bodied members of the crew. The ship carpenter next succumbed to the fever, and on the same day Officer Roberts leaped overboard in delirium. The entire charge of the ship thereupon devolved upon Shotton. Luckily for all concerned, he was born of a race of sailors and had received some instruction in navigation.

For a time the winds were moderate, but the fever still pursued its deadly course, and on December 7 the cook died, the sixth victim of the disease. Port Fairy, Australia, was the first place sighted on the mainland, but this was by no means the end of the boy captain's troubles. A few days later a fearful storm broke out, and Shotton was of the opinion that nothing could be done but run before it, since to attempt to withstand it would almost certainly mean destruction in the weakened state of the crew. All of the crew who were half fit for duty were ordered on deck and the necessary steps were taken to put the ship in order to carry out the decision. Day and night the young captain was on the bridge, giving his orders amid the awful tempest with a coolness and calmness which would have moved many a gray haired skipper to envy. Finally the wind moderated and the vessel was able to resume its journey to the Victoria coast.—New York Herald.

HOW LEAD PENCILS ARE MADE.

No Lead Used in Their Manufacture, but the Name Clings to Them.

Once pieces of lead were used for marking and we continue to use the word, though lead is no longer a part of our pencils.

"I have to laugh at the queer ideas some people have about pencils," said a manufacturer. "You will scarcely believe it, but the opinions of people who know nothing about it seem to be divided between the melting of the lead and pouring it into the hole in the wood and cutting out the lead to fit the hole. The part that goes into our pencils other than the lead is cedar, and comes from the swamps of Florida. It is obtained from the fallen trees that lie there. There are men there who make a business of supplying to pencil manufacturers this cedar in blocks which are sawed to the length of the pencil, some thick, to receive the lead, and others thin, for the piece that is glued over the other containing the lead. The blocks are sawed for four pencils each. The groove is made by a saw, and in this the lead lies.

"I know," continued the manufacturer, "that not one out of ten thousand persons has the least idea of what this lead is. See, here is a fine black powder; that is graphite, and costs somewhere about twenty-five cents a pound. This white substance is German clay. It comes across the ocean as ballast in vessels, and all it costs us is for freight. We mix clay and powder together and grind them in a mill, moistening the mass carefully during the process, until the two are thoroughly assimilated and reduced to a paste that is about the consistency of putty. Here are the dies for the leads, into which we press this paste of graphite and clay. These leads are kept in hot glue and are placed in the grooves as the blocks are made ready. When the lead is put in there snugly and forever, the thin block is glued to the thick one and left to dry thoroughly."—Philadelphia Times.

COWS WITH EARRINGS.

Adopted in Belgium to Keep Tuberculosis Out of the Country.

A cow is the last creature one would expect to see with earrings, yet every cow in Belgium has got to wear them now. The Director-General of Agriculture has issued a regulation that all animals of the bovine species are to wear earrings as soon as they have attained the age of three months.

This is a hygienic measure, intended to prevent the introduction into Belgium of animals suffering from tuberculosis.

Breeders are to be obliged to keep an exact account of all animals raised by them, and the ring (on which is engraved a number) is fastened in the animal's ear for the purpose of preventing—or helping to prevent—the substitution of one animal for another.—New York World.

Paradoxical.

Mrs. Swellington—Are you sure this is the fashion?

Modiste—Oui, madame! Ze ver' latest.

Mrs. Swellington—(still doubtful)—Queer! It looks well and feels comfortable.—Judge.

The Same the World Over.

Onthebumbey—"All Ali! why haven't I feet like a centipede?"

The Grand Vizier—"What for, your sultanship?"

Onthebumbey—"My wives have all given me embroidered slippers for birthday presents."—Judge.

Stories of the Street

Plainfield People Are Talking About t on Every Corner.

It is sometimes an easy matter to fool the public, but you can't keep it up very long They are sure to find you out; and every time a man is fooled another skeptic is made. Skepticism is allowable when reading in a home newspaper about some incident occuring in San Francisco or Iowa, but the circumstances are entirely different when it refers to someone right here at home, friends and neighbors, people you know, whom you can see, and with whom you talk it over. This is the kind of evidence at the back of Doan's Kidney Pills—home statements by home people, and the astonishing local work they have been doing has caused more talk among our citizens than the doings of any other modern wonder. Read the following.

Mr. Richard Day, of 134 East Front street, says: 'I have been troubled at times with symptoms of kidney complaint for the last four years. My chief difficulty was a miserable pain across my back and a sort of lame feeling over my kidneys. Standing for any length of time or walking any distance aggravated it greatly. I have never been sick much in my life and consequently have never taken much medicine, so when I first began having these attacks I paid but little attention to them. They however grew worse instead of better, so I had to look about for a remedy. I had read quite frequently in our papers about cures brought about by the use of Doan's Kidney Pills, so I got a box at L. W. Randolph's drug store, and after taking them I felt greatly relieved. I have recommended them to my friends, and those who have used them speak highly in their praise. I consider that Doan's Kidney Pills are a splendid remedy for complaints like mine."

MR. HANNA IS ELECTED

Wins Both the Long and Short Term Senatorships.

NO CHANGES IN HIS VOTE

Final Result Was Hanna, 73; McKisson, 70, Lentz, 1, and Absent, 1--Scenes of Great Excitement in the House When the Result Was Reached.

Columbus, O., Jan 13.—Marcus A. Hanna was yesterday elected United States Senator, both for the short and long terms in the joint ballot of the Legislature. The vote was Hanna 73, McKisson 70. There was only one absentee.

The roll of the Senate was called first, and there were no changes from the votes of Tuesday—19 for McKisson and 17 for Hanna.

The vote in the House was precisely the same as that of all the votes cast Tuesday in the two ballots for the short and long terms for Senator. There are 103 members of the House. The 56 Hanna men voted solidly. Mr. Cramer was absent and is still very sick.

The other Democratic members and bolting Republicans voted for an investigation before electing a Senator.

Mr. Stewart, one of the Hanna leaders, said there would come a proper time for the fullest investigation, but this was the time for electing a Senator. He moved to take a recess till noon. The opposition moved to amend by taking a recess for five minutes.

The motion was lost by 52 yeas and 56 nays.

The balloting then began. Lieutenant Governor Jones announced the result as follows: Hanna, 73 votes; McKisson, 70; one absentee.

The result in the House for the long term was the same as that for the short term. General Wiley again voted for Lentz. Lieutenant Governor Jones announced the result, and declared Marcus A. Hanna elected.

On motion of Senator Alexander a committee of five was sent to escort Senator Hanna to the hall. Senators Alexander and Sullivan and Representatives Stewart, Leland and Bolin were appointed as the escort committee, and while they were en route to the hotel the crowds in the State House and outside indulged in all sorts of demonstrations over the final result.

To Investigate Bribery Charges.

Soon after the Senate assembled yesterday, Senator Burke, of Cleveland, offered a resolution demanding an investigation into the charges that $1,750 had been offered by alleged agents in the interest of Mr. Hanna for the vote of Representative Otis. The resolution provided for a commission of five consisting of Messrs. Burke, Robinson, Fink, Garfield and Long. Senator Burke requested to have his name stricken out and that of Mr. Sullivan was substituted.

The committee thus constituted consisted of three Democrats and two Republicans. A long and bitter discussion followed, led by Senator Burke for immediate consideration, and by Senator Sullivan, for full consideration.

President Much Gratified at the Result.

Washington, Jan. 13.—The re-election of Senator Mark Hanna is well received by the members of the Ohio delegation in Congress. With one or two exceptions, the Senator was the choice of the Republicans from that State, and many Democrats in the delegation were also inclined to look upon the contest against the Senator as a personal one in which they had no concern. Had the Democrats in the Legislature followed the advice of the majority of the Democrats in the Ohio delegation here, they would have refused to participate in the combination to defeat Hanna, but would have voted for a straight Democratic candidate.

At the White House the news was carried to the President, and he is much gratified at the result. Members of the Cabinet, too, are naturally pleased, as they look upon the result as an indorsement from the State of Ohio of the present Administration.

McKenna's Nomination Comes up To-Day.

Washington, Jan. 13.—The nomination of Judge McKenna, for Supreme Court Justice will come up in the Committee on Judiciary to-day, a special meeting of the committee having been called. There seems to be no doubt but the committee will report the nomination to the Senate with a favorable recommendation.

The nomination of Governor Griggs, of New Jersey, may go to the Senate the latter part of this week, in the event that the nomination of Judge McKenna is confirmed this week. Otherwise, it will be delayed until action is had by the Senate on the McKenna nomination.

Altgelt Wants Pure Primaries.

New York, Jan. 13.—A national conference on primary election reform is to be held in this city on Jan. 20 and 21. Among those who have been invited to attend is former Gov. John P. Altgeld, of Illinois. In his reply he says:

"We must reform our primary elections if we would save our institutions. This is the seat of a disease that will in time prove fatal. The primary election is one of the places at which the genteel briber and the vulgar boodler do their slimy work, and every great city in our country is suffering from it."

Fourth-Class Postmasters.

Washington, Jan. 13.—Fourth-class postmasters have been appointed as follows:

New Jersey—Hopewell, Mercer, Farley F. Holcomb; Lawrenceville, Mercer, N. H. Furman.

New York—Gerry, Chautauqua, Herbert S. Palmer, Le Fever Falls, Ulster, Jacob F. Still; Napanok, Ulster, Augustus Whitsley.

Pennsylvania—Benezett, Elk, Albert Gretner; Lingleston, Dauphin, Mrs. E. E. Balthaser.

Gold Miners Must Pay.

Washington, Jan. 13.—The House, by 10 to 125, defeated the motion to strike from the Deficiency Appropriation bill the proviso requiring depositors of bullion hereafter to pay the cost of transporting it from assay offices to the mints.

TO WAR WITH SPAIN?

Mob Rises in Havana and Forces Americans to Flee.

WAR SHIPS GO TO HAVANA

Army Officers and Soldiers Headed the Rioters and the Police Refused to Interfere—Gen. Lee Alone Was Allowed to Send the News to the President.

New York, Jan. 13.—A correspondent from Washington telegraphs that the American squadron at Key West has received orders to sail for Havana. The Associated Press sends out this dispatch:

"The battleship Maine has received orders to proceed at once to sea, and she will leave port this morning. It is believed here that the orders are for her to go to Havana. It was rumored here last night that two torpedo boats also will be ordered to put out to sea."

Riots Most Serious.

Shortly after midnight reports came from Washington that the riot in Havana, directed against Americans, was of a most serious nature, and that our countrymen and citizens had been forced to flee to the Consulate offices for protection.

All in President's Hands.

Washington, Jan. 13.—The end is in sight. Within forty-eight hours, on present indications, intervention in Cuba will have been forced on the Administration. It will be found not unprepared. The rioting in Havana was much fiercer than the censored press reports indicate.

General Lee got at the cable early, and reported that the situation was serious, and that the mob was "getting even with the Americans" and "downing the United States" as much as it was striking at the autonomist policy and the reconcentrados. American citizens had to seek refuge in the Consulate.

General Lee's prompt military instincts told him that the Consulate might be in even greater danger than any other place in Havana, but General Blanco at once threw a heavy cordon of Spanish regulars with artillery, and the whole square and adjoining streets were held. This alarming information came late.

The President did not wish to act precipitately, but the emergency had to be met promptly. The Navy Department was notified, and Commodore Crowninshield, Chief of the Bureau of Navigation, at once sent dispatches to Admiral Bunce, with the White Squadron, to hold every vessel in prompt readiness, and to Key West for the vessels at that point to be ready to start for Havana on signal, but not to land unless instructed by General Lee.

The Key West squadron cannot be assembled before to-night, as they are hunting filibusters. Not later than to-morrow they will be in hand. While alone they would be unable to do much at Havana, and might serve to inflame the Spanish mob to greater excesses, they can give a good account of themseves in preparing for the heavier fleet to follow. The torpedo flotilla has been notified and can be put into Key West for a dash on Havana by to-morrow.

Faith Cure Tragedy.

Chicago, Jan. 13.—While suffering from insanity, caused by grief at the death of her little child, who was allowed to die without medical attendance, because of the family's belief in Christian Science, aggravated by the suicide of her aged mother, Mrs. May C. Campbell yesterday leaped to death from a third-story window at No. 3526 Forest avenue. Mrs. Campbell was a handsome woman of 38 years.

Mrs. Campbell's mother was a Christian Scientist, and when the child took ill the grandmother insisted upon treating it in accordance with her creed. The child rapidly grew worse, and died without medical attendance. Mrs. Campbell grieved until she became insane.

Shaw Lawyers on Trial.

Camden, N. J., Jan. 13.—The Camden County Bar Association yesterday began its investigation of the charges of embracery made against lawyers interested in the defense of Eli Shaw, who was on trial for the murder of his grandmother last week, when Judge Garrison abruptly brought the proceedings to an end.

The session of the Bar Association was behind closed doors, and nothing was made public except that a committee had been appointed to obtain from Judge Garrison the real reasons for ordering a mistrial. The association will meet again next week and receive the report of the committee.

To Welcome Gen. Booth.

New York, Jan. 13.—General William Booth, commander-in-chief of the Salvation Army, is expected to arrive in New York on the steamship St. Paul on Saturday. While here General Booth will meet Commander Ballington Booth, of the Volunteers, and endeavor to patch up the differences between the two armies.

TO BE STRICTLY BUSINESS

NEW BOARD OF TRADE FORMALLY ORGANIZED BY CHOOSING OFFICERS.

Fred C. Lounsbury at the Head of the Organization—Board of Management to Consist of all the Various Officers.

Last night witnessed the birth of Plainfield's new Board of Trade. The meeting was held in the rooms of the old Board, in the Babcock building, and was attended by about forty representative business men.

J. C. Pope acted as temporary chairman. The committe on constitution and by-laws, appointed at the preliminary meeting January 3d, rendered its report and the constitution and by-laws were taken section by section and adopted with a few slight amendments.

The following permanent officers were then elected: President, Fred C. Lounsbury; first vice-president, J. C. Pope, second vice president, B. A. Hegeman, Jr.; secretary, H. C. Runyon; treasurer. E. M. Laing; counsel, W. R. Codington; trustees, E. M. French, W. A. Woodruff, C. H. Hand, R. A. Meeker and L. B. Woolston.

The board of management, which includes the officers and trustees, will hold a meeting some evening within a week and confer with the directors of the old Board of Trade with a view to having the new organization purchase the furniture and rent the rooms of the old Board, which will then close up its affairs and disband.

The pool tables and other amusement features which the old organization has placed in its rooms will be done away with by the new Board, which will be run on purely business lines.

The list of members of the new organization now numbers 81. The initiation fee charged is one dollar and the dues are fifty cents per month for each member. The membership will not be so burdensome as in the old Board, where an initiation fee of $10 and annual dues of $20 were charged.

Every member will have a voice in the management of the new Board.

BOYS ARE DISCURSIVE.

Indulge in Debates That Give Them a Wider Scope of Knowledge.

The members of the Boys' Club held a regular meeting last evening, at which a debate was the principal attraction. The subject was "Is steam more useful to mankind than electricity?" The speakers for the affirmative were Charles Palmer and John Galbraith. The negative speakers were Wilbur Bentliff and James Barry. The rest of the members were called upon to decide the debate. It was awarded to the negative by a vote of seven to two.

The next debate will be on the subject "Are liquor licences an advantage to Plainfield?" William Skinner and Wilbur Bentliff will speak for the affirmative against Richard Higgins and John Honan, for the negative.

During the absence of the president of the club, Robert Goldsach, last evening, Charles Peterson was elected president pro tem.

Drivers of the Sanitary Company Come Under the Ban of the Law.

Matthew Wallace and Richard Wortman, drivers for the Plainfield Sanitary Company, were fined $3 each this morning by Recorder Thomas, of the borough, for leaving their horses untied in the borough. The violation of the ordinance occurred last Tuesday and the men were notified to appear that evening for a hearing. They failed to show up Tuesday evening and warrants were issued for their arrest. The men were on hand last evening before the warrants were served, and after a hearing the fine was imposed and paid.

The Bachelors Entertained.

The members of the Bachelors' Club were entertained last evening most pleasantly by one of the most confirmed bachelors in the club, Roy T. Phillips, of Madison avenue. As usual whist was the attraction of the evening. Roy T. Phillips and Morris J. Dumont were the victors in the evening's play and are now leaders in the club contest, with Henry W. Brower and Harry Ostermoor second. The resignation of George Proctor Smith as vice president and a member was accepted. Morris J. Dumont was elected to fill the vacant office of vice president. The club will be entertained next week by Godwin Beard, of Hillside avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Menzel, of Summit avenue, are the happy parents of a little girl.

D. C. Smalley and family will take possession of his new house, East Front street, Saturday.

STRIKES AND SPARES.

F. H. Ball and Clarence Murphy, of the Park Club, are now tie for the high bowling score for last month, 235, and this week three games will be rolled by them to decide who will win the trophy. The one making the highest average in the three games will win. W. J. Roome, Jr., and F. H. Ball each have to their credit six two hundred scores, and during this week three games will be rolled by them to determine who shall win the trophy. In this case the one securing two of three games will be awarded the prize. F. O. Ball has posted the new tournament sheet for the present month, and the handicaps have been established on a basis of the scores made last month by the members.

WHIST.

Defeat came to the Park Club in the whistic arena last evening. The Park Club four went to Bayonne and met the four of the New Jersey Athletic Club in a match for the Whist Association's trophy. The Park Club was represented by Messrs. McCutchen, Townsend, Rogers and Reed. The New Jersey players were Messrs. Schuyler, Flint, Foster and Leonard. The game was close from the start. The two teams alternated in the lead, but neither could gain any material advantage. At the close of the third round, the score stood tie. Another round of eight boards was played in which the New Jersey team came out victorious by the three tricks.

BASKET BALL.

The girls of the Junior class at the Plainfield High School practiced basket ball in the Whittier building Monday afternoon. The practice was in charge of the coach, George Proctor Smith. The game was a lively one. The Junior team is now doing excellent work and will be ready to meet their rivals of the Senior class in a match game in a short time.

LINCOLN'S "SELFISHNESS."

In Order to Save His Peace of Mind He Rescued the Pigs.

Mr. Lincoln once remarked to a fellow-passenger off the old-time mud-wagon coach, on the corduroy road which antedated railroads, that all men were prompted by selfishness in doing good or evil. His fellow-passenger was antagonizing this position when they were passing over a corduroy bridge that spanned a slough. As they crossed this bridge and the mud-wagon was shaking like a Sucker with the chills, they espied an old razor-backed sow on the bank of the slough making a terrible noise because her pigs had got into the slough and were unable to get out, and in danger of drowning. As the old coach began to climb the hillside Mr. Lincoln called out, "Driver, can't you stop just a moment?" The driver replied, "If the other feller don't object." The "other feller"—who was no less a personage than at that time "Colonel" E. D. Baker, the gallant General who gave his life in defense of Old Glory at Ball's Bluff—did not object, when Mr. Lincoln jumped out, ran back to the slough and began to lift the little pigs out of the mud and water and place them on the bank. When he returned Colonel Baker remarked, "Now, Abe, where does selfishness come in on this little episode?" "Why, bless your soul, Ed," that was the very essence of selfishness. I would have had no peace of mind all day had I gone on and left that suffering old sow worrying over those pigs. I did it to get peace of mind, don't you see?"—Springfield Monitor.

A Duck as a Policeman.

A correspondent of the Swiss Landwirth-schaftliche Zeitung describes a scene he witnessed in his chicken yard. Two hens seemed to hate each other and took every chance to engage in a sparring match. Among the inhabitants of the yard was an old duck, which seemed to look on itself as a self-appointed policeman; for every time the hens begin to fight it waddled between them and kept them apart until their anger had abated.

Dove Instead of Wine.

Washington, Jan. 13.—Miss Helen Long, daughter of the Secretary of the Navy, who will christen the Japanese cruiser Kasagi at the shipyard of the Cramps in Philadelphia on Jan. 20, at the request of the Japanese Minister in Washington, will not break a bottle of wine over the nose of the big ship, as is customary, but will release from a silken bag a white dove, a bird held sacred by the Japanese, as an act of good omen for the Kasagi. This is the practice in Japan when a ship takes the water.

No More Beer Tax.

Albany, Jan. 13.—A bill to increase the revenue of the State by $10,000,000 annually through a tax of $1 upon brewers for each barrel of malt liquor manufactured, and sold in this State, will not be introduced this session, in the opinion of Senator John Raines, of Canandaigua. The Senator does not anticipate any excise legislation at the present session, except some minor amendments to the present law, which may be suggested by State Excise Commissioner Lyman.

THEY ACTED LIKE MEN.

IN DOING SO THEY DID WRONG IN THE EYES OF THE LAW.

An Obdurate Landlord Acted in an Inhuman Way and the Good People of the Neighborhood Helped Family.

The Grand Jury has been investigating a peculiar case from Springfield township.

Mrs. Annie C. Howland and her young daughter lived in a large house, surrounded by extensive grounds, in Springfield avenue, near the Millburn line. She has rented a part of the house to William Waker and his family. Last July she rented the barn, which is several hundred feet from the house, to Murat Helpenheimer and his family as a residence. Helpenheimer's family consists of his wife and six children, one of whom is a baby in arms. The tenant took possession of the barn in July, and it is said that after the first month he paid no rent. Mrs. Howland went before Justice Hoff and obtained an ejectment notice. She was told that at the expiration of three days she might use any means she saw fit to eject the family so long as she used no force.

When the limit of the notice had expired and the family in the barn showed no signs of moving, Mrs. Howland caused the doors and windows to be removed from the barn and stored in her cellar. The main door of the barn was too big to be put in the cellar, so it was fastened to a tree in the yard with wire. This was on October 20th, and the day was cold and raw. The absence of the doors and windows from the barn attracted the attention of the neighbors and investigations were made. Those who visited the barn found the five older children huddled together in a heap in an effort to keep warm. There was no fire in the building and the blankets and other articles, which had been used to replace the windows, did not shut out the cold.

The attention of Overseer of the Poor William Ford was called to the case and he prepared to take action. There were a number of neighbors, however, who were not satisfied to wait for the proceedings necessary. Among those who are alleged to have acted were prominent residents of the place. One of them was ex-Assemblyman J. Martin Roll, and his companions are said to have been William Paynter, a wealthy contractor, Charles Parsil, Nathan Bonnell and Charles Langenham. Whether these were the men who did it or not, some men went to Mrs. Howland's place that night, entered the cellar without breaking, and took the doors and windows and replaced them in the barn. Incidentally they are said to have spilled two barrels of cider valued at $15.

The following day Mrs. Howland went before Justice Hoff and wanted warrants for the arrest of the men who entered her cellar. The Justice advised Mrs. Howland to obtain payment for her cider and drop the case. She apparently did so, until the Grand Jury met, and since then the grand inquest has been probing into the matter. Whether indictments will be found is not known.

W. C. T. U. TO MOVE.

The Union to Take Possession of an East Front Street Store.

An important meeting of the W. C. T. U. was held yesterday afternoon in the rooms on Watchung avenue, when, by a unanimous vote of the members, it was decided to make a change in quarters. The store on East Front street, formerly occupied by H. M. Jaquett, and owned by Mr. Gavett, will be the place where the Union will meet after a short time which will be necessary to prepare for the move. The change is considered one of the best, and the increase in attendance and easy access to the new place will doubtless warrant the change. The members also decided to hold a turkey supper Jan. 25th.

KLINE MAKES DISCORD.

COLORED REPUBLICAN DIDN'T GET WHAT HE WAS PROMISED.

He Wanted to be a Doorkeeper in the Assembly, but at the Last Moment He Failed to Secure the Appointment

If there is any value in signs, a lively fight is on among the Republicans in this county over the failure of William A. Kline, the colored Republican leader, of this city, to obtain an appointment as doorkeeper of the Assembly.

Kline has been a loyal party man, and has worked unceasingly for the machine in this city for a number of years, and has made a host of friends among the politicians by whom he was regarded as a trustworthy lieutenant. On two previous occasions he has tried for the appointment of doorkeeper and was asked to wait.

This year he was practically assured of the place and went to Trenton with strong indorsements. His pull failed to work for some reason, however. He was unceremoniously turned down and the appointment went to an Elizabeth man.

When the news reached this city the indignation of Kline's friends, both white and colored, knew no bounds. It was openly hinted, moreover, that his defeat was due to the machinations of a few Plainfield Republicans who were animated by personal spite.

The incident has been the one topic of conversation in local political circles for the past few days, and it is said that Kline's friends are grinding up their knives preparatory to taking a hack at the scalps of the conspirators who were responsible for his downfall.

The library committee reported that they had arranged to let the teachers of the North Plainfield High School department have four teachers' cards for the annual charge of $25. The action of the committee in this particular was approved.

The art committee reported that the shelving for the Cloisonne collection had been completed according to the contract and presented bill therefore of C. Stimpson, contractor, for $240.45. The report was approved and the bill ordered paid from the legacy given the Library by the late James S. Nason.

The sum of $350 was appropriated from the general fund for the purchase of books under the direction of the library committee.

HIS MIND UNBALANCED.

AUTHORITIES PERPLEXED AS TO WHAT TO DO WITH MR. ROSS.

No One in the Borough Able to Decide What Legal Steps Should be Taken to Put Him in a Proper Institution.

Mulford Ross, an old resident of North Plainfield township, is considered to be of an unsound mind, and today he was brought to the borough for the purpose of ascertaining what can be done with him.

Ross was taken before Justice Mattison and a consultation was held. The Justice confessed frankly that it being the first case of the kind that he had anything to do with he was unable to give the necessary information. Those in charge of Ross then consulted several lawyers and other justices, but from them they were unable to learn what should be done.

It seemed to be the opinion of those in charge of the man that he should be committed to the Somerset county jail, where Judge Bartine would order an examination by the county physician, and if he was declared to be insane proper steps would then be taken to have him placed in the asylum.

Several persons present did not think likewise and the matter was left in that state until further information can be secured.

Ross was present and while he is not violently insane, it can readily be seen that his mind is not right. He has ideas in his head that he owns large tracts of land and many buildings, and that he is going to build very extensively. He speaks frequently of the way in which a railroad secured some of his land over the mountains and says that he thinks it was not right, although he admits that he signed off for his preperty.

Ross is quite aged and has no relatives living that can be found. He has lived with different people in the township, but his conduct is such that it is deemed best that the county take care of him. It is likely that something definite will be done with Ross today.

FENDER SAVED HIM.

A School Boy Struck by a Trolley Car on Somerset Street.

What might have been a serious accident was averted yesterday morning at 11 o'clock at the corner of Manning avenue and Somerset street. Fred Pasch, Jr., eight years old, living at 40 Race street, was coming from the Borough Public School and was crossing the street at the corner of Manning avenue. Young Pasch claims that the motorman did not ring his bell. The end of the fender struck the lad and threw him to one side, instead of drawing him under the car. He received a few slight bruises, and was not seriously injured. The car was not going very fast, and when the boy was struck there was hardly sufficient force to do him any severe injury. At the time the trolley car was going in the direction of the mountains.

A Mistake in Names.

The statement in Wednesday's Press that Mrs. Ludlum, wife of the alleged bunco-steerer, was in a runaway accident on Park avenue last fall, is erroneous. It was Mrs. J. L. Ludlum, of East Front street, who was so unfortunate as to have been in the accident referred to, and her large circle of friends in Plainfield are naturally shocked to think that the name of so estimable a lady should be published in connection with the description of the family now before the public so conspicuously. The Press regrets that it should have erred in this particular and did Mrs. J. L. Ludlum such an injustice.

Public School Meeting.

Tonight in the North Plainfield Public School there will be a public meeting of the citizens of the borough called for the purpose of considering ways and means to enlarge the accomodations of the school. This is a very important matter and it is highly essential that every taxpayer in the borough attend the meeting as something will have to be done at onee to relieve the over crowded condition of the school.

DIDN'T CARE FOR CHILD.

EDWARD WOLF HALED TO COURT TO PAY A BOARD BILL.

Said to Have Entirely Neglected His Three-Year-Old Daughter During the Past Eight Months—Decided Against Him

Edward Wolf, a paper hanger living on Washington street, was summoned to Justice Mosher's court this morning to answer to the suit of Mrs. Jennie Bush, of North avenue, who claimed that Wolf owed her for over eight month's board for his three-year old daughter and that she was unable to secure payment of the debt.

According to the testimony of the plaintiff, she was present when Wolf's wife died, over two years ago, and at once took charge of their little girl, who was then only an infant. Wolf promised to pay her the sum of $1.50 a week for her care of the child, and she had faithfully performed her part of the contract ever since. When the child was taken ill she purchased medicine for it and made no extra charge to the father.

At first Wolf paid the board money promptly, and often came to see his child, but as time went on his regard for her seemed to lessen, until finally he stopped coming at all. His failure to visit his child was not the only fault charged to Wolf. He also ceased making payments of board money, and ignored entirely the woman who was rearing his child.

Some weeks ago Councilman Walter L. Hetfield became acquainted with the facts in the case and volunteered to make an effort to secure justice for Mrs. Bush. As her attorney he brought suit against Wolf for the amount due Mrs. Bush, which was $.9.

When the defendant was placed upon the witness stand he admitted owing the amount claimed in the state of demand, but seemed indignant that he should have been sued for it. A lively passage at arms occurred between him and Councilman Hetfield, and at times the defendant grew so excited that it was with difficulty that the Justice succeeded in restoring order.

"Why did you not go to Mrs. Bush and tender her the amount of the debt?" asked the lawyer severely.

"Why didn't I? Why because I didn't have time," returned Wolf.

"Did you have the money to pay the bill with?"

"No, not very often; I was out of work most of the time."

The Councilman made a sarcastic remark at this point about the inconsistency of the witness' statements, and Wolf in a towering rage shook his fist and yelled:

"I may not have swallowed a whole encyclopedia, as you have, but I ain't afraid of you. See?"

After quiet had been restored in the courtroom, the summing up took place, and the Justice rendered judgment for the full amount and costs.

A Suit Settled.

For nearly two years there has been a suit pending in the Union County Courts brought by Dougherty against J. E. Martine. Dougherty is a glass dealer. HE LIKES PLAINFIELD.

A Newark Official Saw the Sights, to Be Favorably Impressed.

Comptroller John S. Gibson, of Newark, was in Plainfield yesterday, partly on business and partly on pleasure. After he had concluded his business Chief T. O. Doane gave Mr. Gibson an opportunity of seeing some of the beautiful places in Plainfield, and the latter was completely infatuated with the city. He could not praise too much the things that he saw, and remarked several times the great advantages he considered to be the good fortune of Plainfielders. Mr. Gibson was formerly editor of the Dover Iron Era, and previous to taking his present position he was business manager at the office of the Newark Daily Advertiser.

DISCIPLINED BY PRIEST.

CATHOLICS DON'T LIKE ITALIANS TO ATTEND PROTESTANT MISSION.

One Priest Refused to Perform the Church Marriage Service When He Learned That a Couple Were Joined by Civil Ceremony.

The Westfield Italian colony is much agitated over an attempt that is being made by the Italian Roman Catholic priest at Elizabeth, to prevent his countrymen from attending the Italian Protestant mission which is conducted there by the Westfield W. C. T. U. The mission has been in operation in the town for over a year, and has a native pastor whose work has resulted in drawing a large number of Italians to the mission. The mission has attracted the attention of the Roman Catholic priests, who have felt much uneasiness at the drift of affairs. December 6th an Italian couple, Tione Maurizio and Congetto Eovino were married by Justice of the Peace Collins.

Both were Roman Catholics and after a time they began to question the efficacy of the civil marriage ceremony by which they were united. Yesterday morning they went to Rev. Father Smith, the priest of Holy Trinity church, to be remarried. When he learned of the civil marriage, Father Smith refused to perform the ceremony. Not daunted by the refusal the couple telegraphed to the Italian priest at Elizabeth, and he came to Westfield and married them again. There was a large attendance of Italians at the church to witness the marriage, and at the close of the ceremony the Elizabeth priest lectured the company severely upon their attendance at the Protestant mission. He said it had been reported to him that the pastor of the mission had instructed his Italian flock to destroy all the pictures of the Virgin Mary in their homes. This he denounced as heresy of the worst type, and warned all present not to enter the mission again, under penalty of being placed under the ban of the Catholic church. The influence of the priests words was very marked, and it is thought that he may have dealt the mission its death blow.

SHAME DROVE HER TO POISON.

Marie Mack, Ordered From a Respectable House, Drank Carbolic Acid.

Marie Mack, allowed to be one of the handsomest girls in Elizabeth, drank carbolic acid yesterday with suicidal intent, and was taken to the General Hospital, where it is reported that she is dying.

The girl, who is twenty years old, went to Elizabeth from Plainfield, where she had been mixed up in an affair which nearly resulted in wrecking the happiness of a home. In Elizabeth her record was not generally known, but the police were aware of it, and several times they had occasion to threaten her with arrest if she did not mend her ways.

In some way she became acquainted with the Misses Snyder, of 24 West Scott place, who had never heard of her past. Wednesday night she induced them to allow her to remain in their house, unknown to their parents.

At noon yesterday Mrs. Snyder discovered she was in the house and ordered her to depart. The girl took a bottle of carbolic acid from a mantel and walked out of the house and drank the poison.

IT IS A CONTRACT CASE.

AN INTERESTING LAWSUIT STOPPED VERY SUDDENLY.

H. C. N. Johnson Left a Quanity of Stone on a Westfield Lot and It Was Used in the Construction of a Building.

An interesting lawsuit was stopped very suddenly in Justice Newcorn's court this morning, when it was discovered that the action was properly one of contract instead of in tort.

The plaintiff in the case was H. C. N. Johnson, of this city, and the defendant was John C. Howard, a builder of Summit. Johnson, who is a dealer in bluestone, sold a quantity of that material to Adam Huffman, of Westfield, last June. After Huffman received the stone he discovered that there was a larger quantity than he needed, and an effort was made to dispose of the extra stone.

Howard, the defendant in the suit, was then about to erect a large brick storage warehouse on North avenue, Westfield, and Huffman allowed him to take a quantity of the stone for use in this contract. When Johnson called upon Huffman for payment of his account, the latter presented him with an order upon Howard for the value of stone taken by the latter.

Johnson accordingly went to Howard for payment of the bill, but he was informed that the builder had no use for the stone in question, and that he could have it at any time by sending for it. Johnson, however, allowed the stone to remain and a few months later when he went to cart it away, it had been used in the construction of the building, and was firmly held by bricks and mortar. Howard, when asked to settle for the stone, referred Johnson to the owner of the building for payment.

Johnson later on rendered a bill to Howard for the value of the stone, and subsequently he brought action against Howard for trover and conversion.

When the case was called this morning the defense made a motion for a non-suit, on the ground that the rendering of the last bill by Johnson changed the case to one of contract. The motion was granted and a new summons was immediately issued, on contract. The case will be tried the 24th inst.

ACTED SUSPICIOUSLY.

The Strange Man Disappeared When Accosted as to His Business.

A suspicious-looking man was noticed loitering about the corner of Madison avenue and Second street early last evening. The fellow spent considerable time in the vicinity, and whenever a pedestrian would come he would attempt to conceal himself from view behind a tree. Among those who noticed the man's suspicious actions were John Walsh and James Searing. They finally accosted him, and inquired what his business was in the neighborhood.

He had no sooner been spoken to than the suspect turned and ran down Madison avenue and disappeared, making his way along the railroad tracks. Chief Grant and Policeman Vanderweg were notified and made a search for the man, but he had managed to make good his escape, and nothing further was seen of him.

An Exchange of Property.

H. J. Martin, who has for sometime resided on West Front street, will move back to North Plainfield April 1st, and occupy the house he formerly lived in on Jackson avenue. He has just traded his property in this city for that in the borough. The house to be occupied by Mr. Martin will be thoroughly remodeled and all of the latest improvements will be introduced. The trade was made with H. E. Rider, of this city, who owned the property on Jackson avenue. The other house and lot owned by Mr. Martin on West Front street, adjoining the above property, he has disposed of to W. H. Bohl, the carpenter.

IS A SLICK SWINDLER

Arrested in Jersey City for Trying to Defraud a Company.

IS YOUNG, BUT VERY WISE

Not Skillful Enough, However, to Get Money From Every One--Has Been Swindling People in Different Parst of the Country.

New York, Jan. 14.—A well-dressed young man, about twenty-five years of age, who said he was H. W. Straight, but would not tell his address, is under arrest in Jersey City. He was taken into custody yesterday by Detective Pierson on information furnished by the authorities of Wilkesbarre, Pa., where he is wanted.

For some time past it is said Straight has been swindling people in different parts of the country. It is said that he is under indictment in Baltimore and that the officials of the Lehigh Valley Company had also been looking for him. The charge on which he was taken into custody was of swindling the Miner Hillard Milling Company, of Wilkesbarre, Pa., out of $218.

From information received by the Jersey City police Straight is wanted in Williamsport, Pa., for swindling a firm out of $5,000 there; he is wanted in New York for defrauding George E. Van Vorst, of the New York Central Hay Sheds, on Eleventh avenue, out of $500; the Lehigh Valley Railroad Company accuses him of stealing $150 from them; he is said to be wanted in Harrisburg, Pa., and in Brooklyn ,where it is reported he secured several hundred dollars.

The police, it came out, had been looking for Straight since September last. On the 15th of that month five carloads of hay arrived over the Lehigh Valley road, which Straight, under the name of Bates, had purchased at Perkassie, Pa., of H. L. Moyer. The latter sent the bill of lading to a New York bank, and Straight went to the bank. Instead of paying the amount of the bill, after carefully looking it over, Straight said he didn't want it. The bank then held the bill of lading.

Straight went away and visited Van Vorst. Straight had taken the numbers of the cars in which the hay had arrived, and having secured some black bills of lading he filled them out. He turned over the forged bill of lading to Van Vorst and the latter, after seeing it was regular, thought that Straight representing the consigner and paid him the $500. Later he discovered he had been swindled.

Straight is said to have a wife, but he did not live with her. He is said to have been living in Pennsylvania with a woman other than his wife.

When searched cards on which the name E. C. Brown, Commission Merchant, 166 Fulton street, Brooklyn, were printed were found on him. Straight is said to have used the Brooklyn address to receive mail.

Paxson Will Not Be Appointed.

Washington, Jan. 14.—It is said that the President has at last made up his mind not to appoint Judge Paxson as Interstate Commerce Commissioner. Judge Paxson is a personal friend of President McKinley, and the latter has a high regard for him, but the opposition coming from the West has been very strong, and renders the advisability of appointing the Pennsylvanian very doubtful. It is understood the appointment will go to Illinois, and if he will accept the commissioner will be W. J. Calhoun, of that State. The Pennsylvania members of Congress have not given up hope of Judge Paxson's appointment, but they say if he does fail to get the Interstate Commerce Commissionership, he will receive some other appointment.

Predicted the Tornado.

St. Louis, Mo., Jan. 14.—Prof. Ira Hicks, the local weather prophet, says the Fort Smith tornado was but the natural outcome of the condition of the atmosphere. The advance is stated to be warranted by the lightness of stocks, resulting from a continued restriction of the output to market requirements.

NEWS FROM ANDREE.

His Balloon Said to Have Been Seen Over British Columbia.

Stockholm, Sweden, Jan. 14.—Prof. Nordenskjold, the Arctic explorer, has informed the Swedish Academy of Science that the Foreign Office has received intelligence that several persons worthy of credence saw Prof. Andree's balloon early in August in British Columbia, seven miles north of Quesnelle Lake, in the District of Cariboo.

The professor regards the news as being of sufficient importance to call for closer investigation.

Andree's Expedition.

Salmon August Andree, with two companions, Dr. Nils Strinberg and Knut Hjalmar F. Fraekel, left Dane's Island, of the Spitzbergen group, at about 2 o'clock in the afternoon of July 11 last, with the wind a little east of south. Circulars, printed in different languages, telling natives what to do in order to secure the balloon and enable its occupants to descend safely, had previously been sent all over northern Siberia and British North America.

Andree expressed the opinion that the balloon would probably land in Siberia, in about latitude 70 north and longitude 135 east; or that it would land on the Samoyeden peninsula, in latitude 70 north and longitude 70 east; or in the vicinity of Cape Barrow, Alaska, in latitude 70 north and longitude 155 west; or, finally, that it would land in British North America, in latitude 67 north and longitude 100 west.

THOUSANDS CHEERED HANNA.

Half of Cleveland Out to Cheer the Senator's Arrival.

Cleveland, O., Jan. 14.—Senator Hanna was received in this city yesterday afternoon upon his return from Columbus with an enthusiasm far greater than that which has been accorded any public man here in a decade. Long before the hour of the train's arrival thousands gathered upon the streets and began to line the sidewalks.

At noon the Tippecanoe Club, the Business Men's League and the Republican Shop Clubs gathered in front of the Masonic Building, on Superior street, and formed for parade. Half the town turned out to see them. Headed by a brass band, they marched to the Union deport, where Senator Hanna was met by them. He was escorted to a carriage, and rode to the Hollenden with James H. Hoyt.

The Senator was cheered lustily all along the line of march, many business houses practically suspending business for the time being. Senator Hanna received enthusiastic cheers all along the route from Columbus to Cleveland, and at several points made brief addresses to the assembled crowds.

Senator Hanna received the following telegram from Senator J. B. Foraker at noon yesterday:

"Hon. M. A. Hanna: I congratulate you not only on your election, but also upon your happy remark to the General Assembly. J. B. FORAKER."

NO STARVATION IN DAWSON.

War Department Receives Trustworthy Advices from Alaska.

Washington, Jan. 14.—Information that the reports of starvation at Dawson City were untrue have been received by Adjutant-General Brook in a telegram from General Merriam, at Vancouver barracks, saying that he had received advices to that effect from Captain Robinson, an army quartermaster stationed at Seattle.

Captain Robinson said that United States Commissioner Jones, who left Dawson on Dec. 9 had reached Seattle and reported that there was no danger of starvation on the Klondike.

The first information for nearly four months that the Adjustant-General has received of Captain P. H. Ray and Lieutenant Richardson of the army, was brought by Mr. Jones.

They were at Dawson and were comfortably situated. Thirty-five men from the Klondike had reached Seattle, and many of them confirmed the assertions of Jones about the food supply.

Edison's Son to Harness the Ocean.

New York, Jan. 14.—Thomas A. Edison, Jr., has evolved a plan for the utilization of power in the production of light, heat and electricity, which, if carried into effect, will revolutionize the industrial world in a more radical manner than have all the inventions of his illustrious father. Young Edison proposes to harness the ocean, and compel it to do the bidding of man.

There was a report circulated yesterday that Edison was organizing a syndicate to supply electricity in unlimited quantity, and at such low rates that it would supercede all other means of power for use in the manufactures and arts. He says, however, that the capital required is so vast that he is not yet ready to organize a company.

Fort Smith in Ruins.

Fort Smith, Ark., Jan. 14.—Between fifty and sixty lives, it is now known, were lost in the tornado that struck the business district and residence section of this city on Tuesday night, and $500,000 worth of property is in ruins. The injured are being cared for, and preparations for the funerals are going on. The dead will be buried at such times as their relatives and friends may suggest. It is desired to avoid concerted funerals. The present estimate of the losses may vary a little, as the investigation now going on develops. Garrison avenue, which was one of the handsomest streets of the city, is for a space of four blocks a mass of stone, brick, mortar and timbers.

THE TREATY HARD HIT

President McKinley Works for It, But in Vain.

FRIENDS NOT SANGUINE

The Treaty Has Not More Than 56 Votes, or Four Less Than the Necessary Two-Thirds---Length of the Debate Still Uncertain.

Washington, Jan. 14.—Unable as yet to command a sufficient number of votes to secure the ratification of the Hawaiian annexation treaty in the Senate, the friends of the treaty have appealed to the President to throw the weight of his influence into the scale in their behalf. From this time until the vote is taken, the influence of the administration will be exerted in undisguised fashion in suport of the treaty.

It is stated that Senator Thurston, who had decided to vote against the treaty, having had an interview with the President, will in all probability surrender to the President's influence and vote for the treaty.

Mr. Gear took notes of Senator Davis's speech in Executive Session and evidently intends to prepare a reply.

Mr. Mason, who has hitherto been undecided, announces that he will vote for the treaty. But at best, however, the treaty has not at present more than fifty-six votes, or four less than the necessary two-thirds.

The length of the debate is still uncertain, but it is generally expected that it will continue through next week. At the end of that time, if the canvass of the Senate indicates that further effort to secure ratification would be useless a vote will be taken and the treaty dropped.

The Morgan resolution, by which annexation can be secured by a majority vote, will then be taken up.

There was apparent yesterday a disposition on the part of some Senators who announce themselves undecided as to what course to pursue on the Hawaiian question, to mix it with the Cuban problem. They are friends of Cuba, and their desire is to have the administration take a more pronounced position in the interest of Cuba as a return for their assistance on the Hawaiian treaty.

Senator Frye made a most spirited speech in the Senate yesterday afternoon in support of the treaty urging upon the Senate the great importance of accepting the Hawaiian Islands while the opportunity was afforded and pronouncing as folly any refusal to embrace this opportunity.

FOR BETTER ROADS.

Senator Guy Introduced a Comprehensive Bill in New York Legislature.

Albany, Jan. 14.—Senator Guy has introduced a comprehensive Good Roads bill, which he hopes to pass. It provides for State macadam roads 18 feet wide in all the counties, the State to expend $500,000 a year until the system is completed.

The Senator would have the authorities in each county survey one main road, with intersecting avenues, and have this the main road to the nearest shipping point. The road so built could be connected with town and village roads and be extended so as to connect with the adjoining country road. The supervisors of the several counties must file their surveys without delay in the office of the State Engineer and Surveyor, and he is clothed with power, under Senator Guy's bill, to determine what roads shall be completed in any given year.

Senator Guy estimates the cost at $3,000 a mile, and says a total expenditure of $3,000,000 by the State in six years would give the farmers and wheelmen a splendid system of good roads.

"The farmers must get their produce to market at the least cost," said he, "and good roads are as necessary as good canals. By placing the cost upon the State at large, I hope to bring the country members to the support of my bill."

THE IMMIGRATION BILL.

Senator Caffery Addresses the Senate Against the Measure.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 14.—The Immigration bill was taken up in the Senate yesterday, and Mr. Caffery (Dem., La.) spoke against the measure in part as follows:

"The pending bill is as mild a form of antagonism to immigration as nativism will permit. It imposes an educational test of no very stringent character so far as the test is concerned. It is just and proper to hold this continent against the Mongolian. The exclusion of the Chinese is justified by wise policy and by the principle of retaliation. Their doors have been closed to the world, but their arrogance and selfishness are not the role for wise nations to play in this world's great theatre. Not to admit to this country the Irishman, the Swede, or Italian who cannot read is Chinese, not American.

"No danger to our institution has ever arisen from admitting immigrants who cannot read and write. This Government is the outgrowth of the labor of countless immigrants who would be disqualified by the pending bill. He who is vigorous in body, sound in mind, honest and industrious is a good citizen. No immigrant not a pauper or insane or diseased or criminal should be turned away from our shores."

McKenna Will Be Confirmed.

Washington, Jan. 14.—The Senate Judiciary Committee decided yesterday to report favorably on the nomination of Attorney-General McKenna for Justice of the Supreme Court. This insures his confirmation. The meeting of the committee was comparatively brief, and was devoted to the reading of the newspaper attacks and letters bearing upon Mr. McKenna's nomination. The vote to report favorably was unanimous.

Farmers Organize a Bank.

Belvidere, N. J., Jan. 14.—A new bank, the stockholders of which are farmers, is to open in Washington, Warren County, on April 1. The capital stock will be $50,000. It is said the cashier of the new bank will be Robert M. Ellenberger and the teller Robert M. Petty.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Mrs. E. W. Mills, of East Fifth street, has recovered from a slight illness.

Miss Mary Brown, of East Fourth street, will entertain a few friends at her home on the evening of January 20th.

$100 Reward, $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Hall's Family Pills are the best.

The progressive ladies of Westfield, Ind., issued a "Woman's Edition" of the Westfield News, bearing date of April 3d, 1896. The paper is filled with matter of interest to women, and we notice the following from a correspondent, which the editors printed, realizing that it treats upon a matter of vital importance to their sex: "The best remedy for croup, colds and bronchitis that I have been able to find is Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. For family use it has no equal. I gladly recommend it." 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by T. S. Armstrong apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

Mrs. J. T. Armstrong, of Brooklyn, will celebrate the anniversary of her birthday next Saturday, and in the evening she will give a reception in honor of the event. Miss Mary Brown, of East Fourth street, a sister of Mrs. Armstrong, will be among the guests.

"My daughter, when recovering from an attack of fever, was a great sufferer from pain in the back and hips," writes Louden Grover, of Sardis, Ky. "After using quite a number of remedies without any benefit she tried one bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm, and it has given entire relief." Chamberlain's Pain Balm is also a certain cure for rheumatism. Sold by T. S. Armstrong, apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

F. O. Bail, of Myrtle avenue, has returned from a business trip to Washington.

Mothers whose children are troubled with bad colds, croup or whooping-cough will do well to read what Dr. R. R. Robey, of Olney, Mo., says on this subject, He writes: "For years we have used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, and always keep it in the house. It is regarded in our family as a specific for all kinds of colds and coughs." The 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by T. S. Armstrong, apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

—The finishing touches to the top of the Stillman building is progressing rapidly and it presents an attractive appearance.

Persons who are troubled with indigestion will be interested in the experience of Wm. H. Penn, chief clerk, in the railway mail service at Des Moines, Iowa, who writes: "It gives me pleasure to testify to the merits of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy. For two years I have suffered from indigestion, and am subject to frequent severe attacks of pain in the stomach and bowels. One or two doses of this remedy never fails to give perfect relief." Price 25 and 50 cents; sold by T. S. Armstrong, apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

WOMEN HANGED BY INSURGENTS?

Report that Two Who Went to a Camp with Peace Overtures Were Put to Death.

Havana, Cuba, via Key West, Fla., Jan. 14.—A horrible story has been brought by the captain of the steamer from Gibara. He says that just before the steamer left news arrived that two Spanish women who had gone with overtures of peace to the rebel camp near Puerto Padre had been tried by court-martial and immediately hanged. No particulars are obtainable.

News has just been received that another Spanish officer has fallen a victim to the ferocity of insurgents, while engaged in a peace mission.

Mayor Puga, accompanied by a guide, visited the camp of Colonel Juan Delgado, near Rincon. Both were taken prisoners, and on the Major frankly admitting that the purpose of his visit was to propose the acceptance of autonomy preparations were made to hang them.

While the ropes were being adjusted Delgado found that the soldiers of the Villaviciosa regiment were closing in on him from all sides. He then gave orders to shoot both prisoners, and retreated, escaping without loss.

The bodies of the officer and his guide were recovered by the troops and brought into Rincon.

Colonel Delgado reports to the Junta that Puga's object was not to propose peace, but to hold him in conversation and give the troops a chance to close in on him.

TAX FOR KLONDIKERS.

Canadian Officials Soon to Issue New Custom Regulations.

Washington, Jan. 14.—In a few days the Treasury Department will make known the details of the arrangement recently concluded with Mr. Sifton, Canadian Minister of the Interior, respecting the transportation of gold-seekers and freight to the Klondike.

Meanwhile, it is learned here that the Canadian Government is about to issue new customs and mining regulations, applicable to that region. Last year, when there was an unexpected rush to the gold fields, the Canadian Government permitted the free entry of miners' blankets, personal clothing in use, cooking utensils in use and 100 pounds of food for each person, charging duty only on excess.

This year that privilege will be abolished, and customs duties levied on everything the miner takes in.

His Friend's Blow Proves Fatal.

New York, Jan. 14.—Caldwell H. Abeel, the young society man who was injured in a fight in a restaurant in Newark, N. J., with Frederick G. Agens, died at the home of his mother, No. 15 Fulton street, that city, last evening. Abeel had been unconscious for several days. He was twenty-seven years old, a bachelor, and lived with his mother, the widow of Gustavus N. Abeel, one time Prosecutor of the Pleas of Essex County.

Frederick G. Agens, Jr., who, it is alleged on the evening of Dec. 22 last struck the blow which caused Abeel's death, was not arrested last night. Friends of the dead youth are bitter against Agens. The latter's friends, however, claim that he merely defended himself and two women whom it is said Abeel insulted.

The families of both Agens and Abeel are members of Newark's most exclusive society.

$18,000 for the Major.

Bridgeport, Jan. 14.—"Major" Charles H. Gilmore, a dwarf, who is in the poorhouse here, was notified yesterday that $18,000 awaits him at Madison, Wis. The "Major" is forty-three years old. He has a well-developed head and neck set on a body not three feet tall. He was with several shows, and came here last Fall to go to Europe with the Barnum and Bailey show. He set up a boot-blacking chair near the depot, but one night he fell downstairs and broke his leg. He was taken to the poorhouse. The money was left by Charles Bromley, the uncle of "the "Major's" father.

MORE SCHOOL ROOM NEEDED.

Insufficient accommodation for pupils in the public schools is a problem that too many municipalities are obliged to grapple with. Just now North Plainfield is confronted with this condition, but the progressive Board of Education are doing their best to devise some way to overcome the difficulty and the public meeting in the school building tonight is in direct line with this effort in a practicable manner. It behooves every good citizen of the borough to attend that meeting this evening and if not by voice then by action advocate and authorize the officials to provide ample room for the instruction of the future citizens of the community. Education of the young is too imperative in this day and age to be neglected or hampered by the lack of accommodation in school rooms.

DR. JOHNSTONE'S PROMOTION.

The many friends of Dr. Jocelyn Johnstone, formerly rector of the Church of the Redeemer in the borough, will be pleased to hear of his advancement as one of the officials of the Greater New York government. Dr. Johnstone is now clerk to President Guggenheimer, of the Municipal Assembly, composed of the aldermen of the various boroughs. It is a responsible position, but the incumbent's well-known ability bespeaks his satisfactorily filling the position.

THEIR VOTES WANTED MOST.

Though the colored voter is a power for the Republicans of Plainfield, when its comes to the distribution of the plums of patronage the leaders of that race do not even get the leavings—generally because there are none in politics. The turning down of William Kline, as recorded in the news columns of today's Press, has engendered a bitter feeling among the colored G. O. P. for the influences that combined at Trenton to deprive him of a doorkeepership.

BIG TROLLEY CONSOLIDATION.

The Jersey Traction and the Newark and South Orange Companies Unite.

The directors of the Newark and South Orange Trolley Railroad Company have completed a deal whereby its road becomes consolidated with the North Jersey Traction Company lines. As nearly the same men were interested in both companies the consolidation was easily made.

The details of the deal have not been made public, but it is acknowledged that the company will control every street railroad in North New Jersey except the lines owned or controlled by the Consolidated Traction Company. Its lines will be extended continually so as to reach every city, town and village in the northern part of the State, and to eventually connect with the trolleys of the northeastern section of Pennsylvania, which now centre in Easton. The deal in time may effect the Plainfield system.

The combined capital of the company under the consolidation is $5,000,000, each company having been capitalized at $2,500,000. The stock of the South Orange Company is owned by nine persons and two estates. The same owners control the stock of the North Jersey company.

It is said that the consolidation, under which the lines of the Suburban Traction Company are also controlled, was made to offset plans of the Consolidated Traction Company to get control of the South Orange line.

THEATRICALS

The performance given by Washburn's minstrels in Music Hall last night was an excellent one, and in direct line with the present policy of Manager Edwards in booking nothing but good attractions. The first part was marked with new jokes and the latest popular songs. The olio was made up of features that struck the chord of popularity.

The sale of seats for the forthcoming performance of "A New Yorker," at Stillman Music Hall tomorrow evening, indicates that the initial engagement of Robert Hilliard in Plainfield is likely to be an important event. Despite the fact that Mr. Hilliard has never appeared here, his reputation as one of the best leading men and light comedians has preceded him. In the present instance Mr. Hilliard will be doubly welcome, for he brings with him a clever comedy that has withstood the severest tests of criticism. When first given at Hoyt's Theatre, "A New Yorker"—which was then called "Lost—24 Hours"—was acclaimed as one of the most amusing plays ever written.

After seeing "The Royal Box" at the Garden Theatre in New York for a second time, apart from the excellence of the play itself it is the fine stage management of this piece which attracts particular attention. The performance of the company has improved at least 50 per cent. since the first night of its appearance at the Fifth Avenue. This is due entirely to the fact that Mr. Coghlan, in addition to attending to all the details of stage management himself, has carefully drilled each actor in his part. The result is the most harmonious and artistic ensemble now showing on a New York stage. As for Mr. Coghlan himself, there are only two actors on the English-speaking stage today—Charles Wyndham and Kyrle Bellew—who could approach his performance of "Clarence," and it is doubtful if either of them would be his peer in it.

NEWS OF THE SUBURBS.

THINGS THAT INTEREST SCOTCH PLAINS AND DUNELLEN.

Brief and Terse Observations Gathered by Alert Press Reporters to be Perused at the Supper Table at Your Leisure

DUNELLEN AND NEW MARKET.

J. E. Henry has returned from a business trip to New York.

W. H. Terry, of Church street, spent yesterday in New York with friends.

Miss Eva Bodine, of Bayonne, has been visiting her parents in the borough.

Mrs. Ransom, of Plainfield, has returned home after spending several days in the borough with friends.

Mrs. Fetter, of Hopewell, who has been a guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alvah Gray, of Washington avenue, has returned home.

The damage at the postoffice as a result of the explosion yesterday was repaired yesterday by Contractor Harry Gaskill, who was kept busy nearly all day.

It is quite likely that evangelistic services will be continued next week in the New Market Baptist church. There seems to be no abatement in the interest or attendance.

Last evening, in the Seventh-day Baptist church, an evangelistic service was held under the direction of Evangelist Saunders. There was a large number of Plainfielders present at the service, and the remarks of the speaker were thoroughly enjoyed.

It is a strange fact in connection with all of the burglaries committed in the borough during recent years all have taken place on foggy or rainy nights, and in a town where peace and quiet reign supreme there is every opportunity for such work and no one need have any fear about being disturbed.

It is now an assured fact that the borough will not have a new freight-house for some time. The railroad company are desirous of giving the borough something pretty nice when they build, and at present they do not feel like erecting a suitable structure. The present method of taking care of freight is through the use of a freight car, and it seems to answer the purpose exceedingly well.

No further information has been secured regarding the postoffice robbery which occurred yesterday morning, and it looks now as though the thieves will never be caught. So far no reports have been received from people who have seen any suspicious persons. Just which direction the robbers took is a mystery, and their quick disappearance is still a greater mystery. Out of all the people who have seen the overcoat left behind, no one is able to say that they ever saw it before, and this leaves little hope for finding the men.

SCOTCH PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

Miss Emma Clark has recovered from her recent illness.

Jacob Coles continues to improve after his recent severe illness.

Miss Nellie Messler, of Somerville, is spending a few days with friends in Scotch Plains.

Rev. J. S. Braker will lead the prayer meeting in the Scotch Plains Baptist church tonight.

The installation of officers of Goodwill Lodge, Knights of Pythias, which was to have been held last evening, was postponed one week on account of important meetings which the members were compelled to attend. The ceremonies will take place next Thursday evening, and delegates will be present from the Plainfield lodges.

Danced the Night Away.

The Big Six Social Club gave a successful dance in Washington Hall, West Second street, last evening. The attendance was large and everything passed off in a most happy manner. The committee in charge were N. Guttman, W. W. Stratton, Frank Shattle, H. Stewart, H. P. Palmer and Whitney Frazee. The music for the dance was furnished by Guttman's orchestra.

MANSHANDA TRIES SUICIDE.

His Roommate Finds Him Unconscious, With the Gas Turned On.

George Manshanda, one of the murderers of Farmer Pitts, of Summit, attempted to commit suicide Wednesday night by turning on the gas in his room in the county jail at Elizabeth.

The jail authorities were informed yesterday afternoon by Alfred Jopson, a witness, who is in the same room with Manshanda.

Jopson was awakened by a choking sensation and looked for Manshanda, but he was not in his room. Then Jopson hurried to the bath room and found Manshanda lying there with the gas jet open. Jopson opened a window and the man soon revived.

He will be closely watched.

THE SUNDAY LESSON.

INTERNATIONAL SERIES, WITH COMMENTARY BY DR. STEARNS.

Golden Text—The people which sat in Darkness saw a great light.—Matt. iv: 15. Jan. 16, 1898.

17. "From that time Jesus began to preach, and to say, Repent, for the kingdom of heaven is at hand." The expression "from that time" is said to be found in this gospel only here and in chapter xvi., 21, this beginning the section about His nature and person, and that about His work and ours as His followers. The herald being imprisoned (verse 12) Jesus Himself begins to show Himself, and first as a light in Galilee to fulfill the words of Isaiah in chapter ix., 1, 2, and as surely as those were literally fulfilled so shall the words of verse 7 of the same chapter be, and the kingdom that was at hand in the days of John and Jesus, but now postponed because of the rejection of the King, shall yet be established upon the throne of David in the person of Jesus Christ the Son of David, and of the increase of His government and peace there shall be no end. The zeal of the Lord of Hosts will perform it. "Behold, a king shall reign in righteousness, and princes shall rule in judgment. And the work of righteousness shall be peace, and the effect of righteousness, quietness and assurance forever."

18. "And Jesus, walking by the sea of Galilee, saw two brethren, Simon, called Peter, and Andrew, his brother, casting a net into the sea, for they were fishers." In John i., 35-42, we read of the first meeting of Jesus with these two, how that one day when John the Baptist cried, "Behold, the Lamb of God!" two of John's disciples followed Jesus, and being invited by Him abode with Him that day. One of the two was Andrew (the other probably John, who wrote the gospel), who found his brother Simon and brought him to Jesus, and Jesus called him Cephas, or Peter. It was the day after that on which Jesus found Philip and Philip found Nathanael, who said to Christ, "Thou art the Son of God, Thou art the King of Israel," and to him Jesus spake of the wondrous significance of Jacob's ladder.

19. "And He saith unto them, Follow Me, and I will make you fishers of men." It would seem that after the events just referred to, as recorded by John, Andrew and Simon, although having evidently received Christ as the Messiah, returned to their occupation as fishermen. This was in acordance with what Paul afterward taught, "Let every man abide in the same calling wherein he was called" (I. Cor. vii., 26). Our Lord glorified the Father first as a carpenter in Nazareth. When we receive Christ, we must first glorify Him at home and in our ordinary occupation.

20. "And they straightway left their nets and followed Him." The time may come when, if He sees us faithful at home in ordinary things, He may call us out to follow Him more fully. The whole Christian life should be a steadily increasing "following Him," as He more and more fully reveals Himself unto us. We are saved when we receive Him (John i., 12), for salvation is not giving up this or that, but wholly a receiving. We repent, or turn round, forsake idols and welcome Him and have eternal life as a gift (Rom. vi., 29). Then day by day He more and more takes the place of even lawful things, and they lose their hold upon us until Christ is all.

21. "And going on from thence, He saw other two brethren, James, the son of Zebedee, their father, mending their nets, and He called them." As we have said, John was no doubt the other disciple of the Baptist who followed the Lamb of God that day with Andrew, and as Andrew found his own brother and brought him to Jesus, it is more than probable that John found his own brother and brought him to Jesus. Perhaps the words, "He first findeth his own brother" (John i., 41), may indicate that Andrew was just a little ahead of John in this brother finding business. If the so-called brotherhood of Philip and Andrew confine themselves to winning souls, they will be blessed of God, but when they step aside to the social and entertainment business they are no longer in the service of Christ.

22. "And they immediately left the ship and their father and followed Him." The following Him of these four at this time was soon followed by even a more whole-hearted following, as recorded in Luke v., 11, when they forsook all—ships, nets, fish and everything—and followed Him. This also after the resurrection was made to mean even more to Peter, when he was told to follow Jesus, regardless of even what John might do (John xxi., 22).

23. "And Jesus went about all Galilee, teaching in their synagogues, and preaching the gospel of the kingdom, and healing all manner of sickness and all manner of disease among the people." When the kingdom shall have fully come and God shall dwell with men on earth, there shall be no more death, neither sorrow, nor crying, neither shall there be any more pain (Rev. xxi., 4). The inhabitant shall not say, I am sick; the people that dwell therein shall be forgiven their iniquity. They shall obtain joy and gladness, and sorrow and sighing shall flee away (Isa. xxxiii., 24; xxxv., 10). As Jesus preached the kingdom He also manifested something of the nature of it as it had been described in the writings of their prophets.

24. "And His fame went throughout all Syria, and they brought unto Him all sick people * * * and He healed them." So we read in chapter xii., 15, "Great multitudes followed Him, and He healed them all." The manner of the disease mattered not, for He had all power. It had been written by the prophet, "The eyes of the blind shall be opened and the ears of the deaf shall be unstopped, then shall the lame man leap as an hart, and the tongue of the dumb sing" (Isa. xxxv., 5, 6). It had also been written of the Messiah that He should do these things, bind up the broken-hearted, proclaim liberty to the captives and the opening of the prison to the bound (Isa. lxi., 1).

25. "And there followed Him great multitudes of people from Galilee and Decapolis and Jerusalem and Judea and beyond Jordan." Many followed Him because He healed them, many more because He fed them. When they said things they did not like many forsook Him (John vi., 26, 66), and even He had gone back to the Father the number of the disciples assembled in Jerusalem was only about one hundred and twenty (Acts i., 15).

"IN GOD WE TRUST."

Origin of the Legend on Coins of the United States.

Director Preston of the mint has been asked so often about the origin of the legend on the coins of this country, "In God We Trust," that he has made a statement of the result of his researches.

So far as the department records show, the first suggestion for the recognition of the Deity on the coins of the United States was made by M. R. Watkinson, of Ridleyville, Pa., who signed himself "Minister of the Gospel" in a letter dated November 13, 1861. He wrote to Secretary Chase somewhat as follows: "You are probably a Christian. What if our republic were now shattered beyond reconstruction? Would not the antiquaries of succeeding centuries rightly reason from our past that we were a heathen Nation? What I propose is, that instead of the Goddess of Liberty we shall have next inside the thirteen stars a ring inscribed with the words 'perpetual union;' within this ring the all-seeing eye, crowned with a halo; beneath this eye the American flag, bearing in its field stars equal to the number of states united; in the folds of the bars the words, 'God, Liberty, Law.' This would make a beautiful coin to which no possible citizen could object. This would relieve us from the ignominy of heathenism. This would place us openly under the divine protection we have personally claimed. From my heart I have felt our national shame in disowning God as not the least of our present national disasters. To you, first I address a subject that must be agitated."

Secretary Chase was impressed with the suggestion, and moved in the matter, so that "An act was passed April 22, 1864, changing the composition of the 1-cent piece and authorizing the coinage of the 2-cent piece, the devices of which were to be fixed by the director of the mint, with the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury; and it is upon the 2-cent bronze piece that the motto, 'In God we Trust,' first appeared." The legend was ordered on other coins by subsequent acts, and finally, in 1873, it was ordered to be inscribed on such coins as admit of it.—Chicago Inter-Ocean.

LAUGHTER AND INSANITY.

Doctors Dread to Have a Patient Laugh After an Operation.

"It is a very curious fact," said a celebrated asylum doctor recently, "that, taken as a general rule, all lunatics laugh about twice as much as sane people.

"One of my worst patients at the present moment exhibited the first signs of insanity by laughing continuously and without stopping for over a week.

"It was just after a severe illness, which had been accompanied by much mental depression; and his friends were so delighted with the apparent improvement in his spirits that they had no idea of the real state of affairs until a doctor was called in, and pronounced the man completely mad. Laughter after a surgical operation is a symptom always greatly dreaded by doctors and nurses.

"That queer impulse to laugh which some people experience in the first moment of a sudden calamity is in reality one of the sharpest warnings of insanity that any one could receive.

"Some people fall into a habit of laughing at their own thoughts when alone; this should be always strictly checked, as it is an unhealthy sign, and may lead to brain trouble later on."—London Answers.

A JAPANESE DUEL.

In Order to Appease His Anger He Stabbed Himself.

The following story will show how duelling is conducted in Japan:—Two officers of the Emperor's staff happened to meet on the imperial staircase and as they passed each other their swords became entangled and a war of words arose. "It is only an accident," said one, coolly, "and at best it is only a quarrel between the two swords." "We will see about that!" cried the other excitedly, and with these words he drew his weapon and plunged it into his breast. The other, eager to obtain the same advantage, hurried away on some imperative piece of business and on returning to his antagonist, found him already at the point of death. Thereupon he drew his sword and plunged it into his own body, saying to the dying man:—"You would not have had the start of me if you had not found me engaged in the service of the Prince. I die contented, however, since I have had the glory of convincing you that my sword is as good as yours."

The Book Salesman.

A customer dropped into a bookseller's the other day and asked for a copy of "The Lady of the Aroostook." The clerk seemed to be in some doubt about the title, but after a moment's consultation with another salesman he came forward and said, blandly: "So sorry we hven't got 'The Lady or the Roaster,' but we can give you 'The Lady or the Tiger.'"—Bookman.

HAVANA RIOTS OVER

Consul-General Lee Reports the Mob as Subdued.

NO WARSHIPS DESPATCHED

He Fears, However, a Renewal of the Trouble--A Resolution of Inquiry Adopted by the Senate--Battle Ship Maine Now Lying at Key West.

Washington, Jan. 14.—United States Consul-General Lee has reported to the State Department from Havana the facts connected with the rioting there Wednesday. While the State Department officials do not divulge the text of the dispatch, it is said that it corroborates generally the newspaper reports on the subject. According to General Lee's report, the disturbance has been quelled for the time being, but he was apprehensive of another outbreak at any moment.

The Spanish Minister went to the State Department yesterday morning and conferred with Assistant Secretary Day on the situation in Havana. There is every reason to believe he conveyed assurances of a restoration of order, and of ample power to protect all American and other interests in Havana.

No Warship Asked For.

Nothing was heard from the Consul-General yesterday, so it is assumed at the State Department that the situation remains unchanged. General Lee did not ask to have a warship sent to Havana, and in the opinion of the State Department officials that is a sufficient reason for the assumption that there is no occasion for sending one. The officials are evidently not apprehensive of any trouble in the immediate future that will require the forcible intervention of this Government.

The naval authorities here maintain their serenity, notwithstanding many rumors of radical action, such as the dispatch of war ships to Havana and like stories.

Secretary Long was asked whether any of the American ships had been ordered to be ready to sail for Havana. He replied he would say that he had not made any change in the orders to the battle ship Maine, now lying at Key West.

Inquiry developed the fact that the Maine's last orders were to go out for target practice, and upon falling in with the North Atlantic squardon to attach herself. Although there is no expectation at the Navy Department of any trouble just now, still in case it should occur the navy is more strongly represented in Florida and West Indian waters than in the past ten years. At Key West there is the second-class battle ship Maine, at Jacksonville the dynamite cruiser Vesuvius, at St. Kittle's the Annapolis, and at Guadaloupe the Wilmington. The Detroit is on the way from Cape Haytien to Key West, where she is now due. The Marblehead is at Port Tampa, Fla. She has been wired to remain at Key West, instead of sailing for Navassa, according to original orders.

The disquieting feature of the situation is the horrible condition of the poor in Cuba. "According to Gen. Lee's advices no less than 200,000 people on the island are in the last stages of destitution, and are wholly dependent upon charity. To these people a ten-cent ration per day would cost $20,000 daily, which sum is double the amount so far received in contributions at the State Department.

To Be Reinforced.

The American naval force now in southern waters is made up, with one exception, the Maine, of unarmored but lightly protected cruisers and gunboats. It will be powerfully reinforced, however, in a few days by the North Atlantic Squadron, under Admiral Sicard, composed of heavily armored vessels, the most powerful fleet that the United States has had together in many years. The vessels of the squadron are now distributed as follows:

The flagship New York and battle ships Iowa and Indiana, in Hampton Roads; the battle ships Massachusetts and Texas, at New York. The former are to sail on the 15th for Florida waters, while the last two are to leave New York Saturday and Sunday, respectively, falling in with and joining the quadron on the southern drill grounds, off the Chesapeake capes.

"It is authoritatively stated at the Navy Department that this southern movement of the squadron is in no degree attributable to troubles in Havana, but that the movement is a part of the programme for Winter manoeuvres prepared by the Navy Department months ago, after consultation with Admiral Sicard and Captain Taylor, and duly announced at the time. In support of this statement is issued the following itinerary of the squadron's movements, prepared long ago and not changed since in any respect.

The Maine at Key West.

Key West, Fla., Jan. 14.—The United States steamer Maine has not yet left this port. It is believed that the sailing orders have been countermanded.

Squadron Still at Hampton Roads.

Norfolk, Va., Jan. 14.—The North Atlantic fleet has not passed out of the capes, and, so far as can be ascertained, the orders to the squadron to make a Winter cruise in Gulf waters have not been changed.

Denied by Gen. Lee.

Havana, Cuba, Jan. 14.—The United States Consul-General, Fitzhugh Lee, absolutely denies that he has asked the authorities at Washington to send war vessels to Havana.

DUPUY DE LOME'S ADVICES.

Complete Calm in Havana it is Officially Announced.

Washington, Jan. 14.—The Spanish Minister, Dupuy de Lome, received a dispatch from Secretary-General Congosto under date of noon yesterday at Havana. It said:

"Your Excellency can affirm that the tumult of Wednesday has had so little importance that not a shot was fired, and there is no knowledge that anybody was wounded or hurt. The agitation was confined to one quarter of the city."

This followed closely on another official dispatch from the same authority, which said:

"Complete calm. The city has recovered its normal condition."

No Insult to Americans.

The Spanish Minister has been constantly advised of developments at Havana, and he summed up his advices this afternoon by saying that the uprising was a riot pure and simple; that order had been completely restored and that the authorities have an ample force to afford every protection; that tumult was confined to Spanish and Cuban residents, and that no indignity was put upon any American interest or citizens, public or private.

The official advices began arriving about midnight Wednesday night and have come uninterruptedly since then. The early ones were in cipher and it took some hours to translate them. In the main they corroborated the press dispatches. They made it clear, it is stated at the legation, that the demonstration was an unorganized riot, the participants being gathered up from the streets, without arms or ammunition. It began when a few army officers mobbed the Reconcentrado newspaper establishment, that paper being so lukewarm toward autonomy that it was suspected of having insurgent tendencies. Later, as the people were leaving the shops at the close of the day's work, the demonstration was begun again by an attack on the establishments of La Discusion and the Diario de la Marina.

The dispatches state that a small group raised a cry against autonomy, some few gave vivas for General Weyler, while some scattered shouts were directed against General Blanco. In the main, however, the vivas were for Spain and the army. The mounted police were brought into use, and dispersed the groups, so that order was restored, and the city was tranquil by midnight.

Gen. Lee Guarded.

During this excitement Consul-General Lee was in communication with the Spanish authorities. Neither he nor the officials appear to have been apprehensive, but it was deemed the part of wisdom to guard against contingencies by sending a guard of soldiers to the United States Legation, and to the private residence of Consul-General Lee. Accordingly, twenty-five Spanish soldiers were dispatched to the United States Consulate, and another guard of twenty-five to the residence of Gen. Lee. No occasion arose for their services. Throughout the disturbance, it is said at the Legation, there was not a shout against the United States, nor a hand raised against an American citizen.

Senate Asks Information.

Washington, Jan. 14.—Senator Cannon, of Utah, presented the following resolution in the Senate yesterday, and it was adopted:

"Resolved, That the President is requested, if in his opinion it is not incompatible with the public interests, to transmit to the Senate at his earliest convenience a statement showing what measures are in force and in waters contiguous thereto to protect the lives, liberty and property of American citizens now dwelling in Cuba.

No Cubans in Havana Riots.

Washington, Jan. 14.—Senor Quesada, in charge of the Cuban Junta at the capital, said yesterday afternoon: "The rioting at Havana was probably incited by the Spaniards as part of a plot to extricate themselves from a most desperate situation.

"They know that they cannot give even the autonomy provided for in the Sagasta scheme that only a few men in Spain are willing to even favor it and those are the ones who will get the offices.

"As for the Cubans they have nothing to do with Spanish riots in Havana. They are fighting for freedom, mean to have it and are in better position than they have been at any time since the war began.

"The rioting in Havana is evidence of the anarchy prevailing in Havana, among the Spanish. Absolute independence will be the outcome."

Senor Quesada also said that the outbreak in Havana was precipitated partly by the relief scheme of President McKinley. The Spaniards in Cuba bitterly resented the relief plan as indirect intervention on the part of the United States, and the fact that General Blanco had thus far not only failed to make headway, but had suffered reverses, had aggravated the feeling.

THE RIOTS MEAN REVOLUTION.

Our Naval Fleet May Be Ordered to Cuba at Any Hour.

Havana, Jan. 14.—The mobs have been cowed by General Blanco's troops and the city was outwardly calm last night. But trouble may begin any moment, and be extremely serious.

A turbulent crowd gathered yesterday noon in front of the Diario de la Marina office, shouting, "Down with the Diario!" and threatening an attack, but Gen. Arolas dispersed it quickly with a force of regulars.

The riot Wednesday night was directed against Blanco's policy of moderation rather than against Americans. The Spanish irreconcilables have an undying hatred of anything smacking of autonomy for Cuba, and cling to Weyler's policy of "Exterminate the Cuban breed."

United States Consul-General Lee walked freely about in Central Park Wednesday night during the rioting, attended to his official business yesterday as usual, and dined last evening at the Hotel Inglaterra, as is his custom.

He has not asked that a United States warship be sent here. But he knows that a squadron of fighting vessels is waiting with steam up at Key West, only six hours' sail distant, for the word from him to dash into Havana harbor if Americans should be in peril here.

Zola Will Be Put on Trial.

Paris, Jan. 14.—The Government has decided to prosecute M. Zola, the novelist, for his bold challenge to the Government in the Dreyfus case. The matter came up in the Chamber of Deputies yesterday.

Ever since the revival of the Dreyfus agitation Emile Zola has been to the front as a champion of the wretched exile, who is guarded on the Isle du Diable, of French Guiana, convicted of having sold French war plans to Germany.

"BRICKS WITHOUT STRAW."

Do you ever ask yourself why you keep chickens?

Is it for pleasure? If so, would not a little profit add to the pride and pleasure?

Possibly it is because you wish to be sure of absolutely fresh eggs on your table. If so, would you not prefer to get the eggs during the winter rather than in the spring, "when everybody's eggs are fresh?"

We can make bricks in these days without straw, but no one can make hens lay eggs in the winter months unless he supplies special foods and care.

We aim to carry in our different stores everything that is necessary for the "Business Hen"—that is, the hen that pays for her board—and we would be pleased to hear from either large or small poultry raisers.

Among other things we would suggest:

Granulated Charcoal,	Poultry Feed,
Ground Oyster Shells,	Buckwheat Grain,
Chicken & Pigeon Grit,	Barley,
Granulated Bone,	Hemp Seed,
Meat Meal,	Millet Seed,
Clover Heads,	Sheridan's Powder.

UNION COUNTY'S JAIL WARDEN.

Three Candidates for the Place—Blore Will Try the Veteran Act.

There is a pretty three-cornered fight being waged now for the wardenship of the county jail between Chief of Police George Wright, of Rahway; former Chief of Police Charles A. Dodd of Plainfield, and Freeholder William H. Hulskamper, of Elizabeth.

The Republican members of the Board of Freeholders, who have the appointment, held one caucus on the subject, but could not unite on a candidate. Mr. Dodd, it is said, made the strongest showing at the caucus, and it is alleged would have been chosen had not the supporters of the other candidates united to force an adjournment.

Another caucus will be held next week, and meanwhile some tall wire pulling will be done by rival candidates. Freeholder Hulskamper is somewhat handicapped by being Journal Clerk of the Assembly, as his opponents say he wants too much. It is rumored, however, that he has five votes sure out of the thirteen Republican members of the Board of Freeholders.

The term of the present warden, John C. Blore, has expired. Mr. Blore is a veteran of the war, and no matter who the caucus decides upon Mr Blore will fight for retention in office under the Veteran act. The Republicans claim to have the opinion of County Attorney Codington that the Veteran act does not apply to Mr. Blore's position. The position is for five years, and the salary is $950 a year with an additional $400 for an assistant and $300 for a matron.

Broke Two Ribs

William Hedden, an employe of Woolston & Buckle, met with an accident yesterday which resulted in the fracture of two ribs. He was painting a house occupied by Dr. Bedford, on Lafayette place, and was working on a ladder over the front porch when the ladder slipped and threw him to the ground. In falling Hedden struck the edge of the porch and landed on his back on the ground. Word was immediately sent to town and the ambulance was despatched to the scene of the accident. Hedden was taken to the home of Dr. Jenkins. The latter was not in, and the injured man was then taken to Dr. Tomlinson's home. Dr. Tomlinson learned that two ribs were fractured. Later the man was removed to his home on Kensington avenue. Dr. Jenkins is in attendance. The man's injuries are not of a serious nature, and today he is doing well.

An Attempted Burglary.

Last Wednesday night Mrs. Neighbor, who keeps a boarding house on East Front street, was awakened from her sleep by hearing strange noises, which sounded as though someone was trying to effect an entrance to her house. The noise made by Mrs. Neighbor in moving about frightened the burglars away. Yesterday Mrs. Neighbor secured her windows with extra locks to prevent any further trouble.

—Residents of Highland Park, a suburb of New Brunswick, are discussing the question of forming a borough government, and a committee of citizens has been appointed to look into the matter. The sentiment seems to be about evenly divided. It is probable that the place will ultimately be annexed to New Brunswick.

False Report of Death.

The report that John Brusby, formerly of this city, is dead, is erroneous. Mr. Brusby has been very sick, but is now said to be considerably improved. The report gained currency through the misunderstanding of a message received by one of Mr. Brusby's relatives regarding the death of Warren Marsh, father in-law to Mrs. Randolph Marsh, daughter of Mr. Brusby.

Murphy won one by one pin, and Ball won one game by two pins and the other by nineteen pins. Ball's total for the three games was 454 and Murphy's 434.

BOROUGH MUST HAVE MORE SCHOOL ROOM.

Public Meeting of Citizens Endorse the Proposition.

BOARD OF EDUCATION TO ACT.

Former Mayor Saunders Introduces Resolutions Authorizing the Officials to Prepare Plans to Relieve the Crowded Condition—Many Speeches Made by the Interested Taxpayers.

The assembly hall of the North Plainfield Public School building was well filled last evening with the citizens of the borough who were called together to consider ways and means for increasing the school accommodations for the large increase in the number of children attending the school. The meeting was in every sense a harmonious one from start to finish. The unanimous sense of the meeting was expressed in two resolutions, offered by former Mayor W. L. Saunders. The first resolution was to the effect that it be the sense of the meeting that increased accommodations are required for the borough, and the second resolution was that the school trustees prepare plans and specifications, together with suggestions regarding ways and means to secure such increased accommodations, and report at a future time. The two resolutions were unanimously adopted by the meeting.

The meeting was called to order by President Samuel St. John McCutchen, of the Board of Education, who was made chairman, and he gave a brief outline of the object for which the meeting was called. He dwelt on the necessity of looking after the very young children who are eligible to attend the kindergarten department, and considered that it is essential to see that the children at the age of four should be given the proper start. He said that at present there are thirty-six sittings in the kindergarten department with an average attendance of ninety-one, and it has been found necessary to divide the department into two grades. Mr. McCutchen then gave a number of figures to show that the attendance in three departments in the first and second grades is much larger than the seating capacity. As a result a new class had been formed and there is now no room for the class. The speaker thought it very important to see that light, heat and ventilation be considered in making any further improvements. He stated that a child should have at least 300 cubic feet of room in a school so that every advantage for the health can be looked after. Mr. McCutchen then said that there are two things that have been considered by the Board. First, that a building be erected in the rear of the present building with five or six rooms, where the increased number of scholars can be accommodated temporarily. Second, have the present building as a High School, and establish a primary and grammer school outside in some needed district. He spoke of the Board coming before the citizens in 1893 and asking for more accommodations. At that time the attendance was 544, and at the present time it is 626. Mr. McCutchen said that he did not realize in 1893 what the growth of the school might be.

At this time Mr. McCutchen invited those present to speak freely on the subject under discussion, and Dr. Carroll was the first one to respond. He thought that the tax question should be considered in the first place, but he did not doubt for one minute but what the accommodation is needed. By asking questions he brought out the fact that it is the kindergarten and intermediate departments that are crowded and not the High School and grammar departments. In reply to other questions it was stated that there are now school bonds to the amount of $27,000 out, $9,000 on the original building, and on the addition there is somewhere about $16,000. Last year $2,500 was paid off.

James Carson, of Belmont avenue, urged the people to give the Board of Education such an amount of money as is needed, and that they erect a school building at the corner of Fairview and Westervelt avenues, which he considered to be the best location in the borough for an additional school building. In his judgement he thought $10,000 would cover the expense. Mr. Carson spoke several times during the evening and he criticised John Goodwin, who took an opposite view. He also opposed J. W. A. Bauersachs, who held that a school building was needed in the Prideville district, in the vicinity of Harrison street.

John Goodwin spoke two or three times and he wanted to impress on the minds of all the necessity of keeping the tax rate low, but at the same time

LITTLE CHURCH FOLKS HAVE A DOLL FESTIVAL.

PICTURE GALLERY OF TABLEAUX.

The Affair Was the First Social Feature Held in the New Lecture Room of Trinity Church.

The children of the primary department of the Sunday-school of Trinity Reformed church held a successful dolls' festival in the church last evening. The entertainment was the first one given in the new lecture room.

The first part of the programme consisted of a picture gallery made up of tableaux by the primary children. The different pictures shown were: "At school," Mae Anthony, teacher; "Suffer Little Children to Come Unto Me," "Little Pilgrims," "Give Us This Day Our Daily Bread," "Hosanna to the Son of David" and "Feed My Lambs."

After a piano solo by Miss Nettie Kreitling, who presided at the piano throughout the evening, Miss Bessie Randall gave in excellent manner a recitation, "He and I."

The second part was the dolls' festival proper. The different children taking part came upon the platform accompanied by their dolls and recited selections appropriate to their parts. The programme was as follows: Introduction, Hattie Randall; "A Tiny Girl," Elsie Tier; "Dollie's drive," Lena Bohan; "What dollie has," Annie Bodine; "Going for the doctor," Minnie Nischwitz; "Doctor Tweedle," Willie Nischwitz; "Rosa Ann," Isa Vail; "Doll's dressmaker," Luella Day; "The fate of a doll," Lulu Vail; "The doll's mother," Hazel Martin; "Grandmamma's doll," Anna Randall; "Dolly's Wedding," Laura Bodine; "The proud doll," Ida Tier; "Mother," Hattie Randall; "Daughter," Anna Holder; "Nurse," Bessie Reighton; "Jessie, little invalid," Carrie Krewson; "The wedding," Anna Martin; "The disaster," Bessie Randall; "The recovery," Anna Holder; "My Minna," Gussie Kreitling; "Enter nurse," Lucy Corriel; "Good night, dolly," Dora Wilson; "A case of insomnia," Mable Vanderhoof; "Slumber song," and "Good night," Hattie Randall.

An offering was taken amounting to $14.10.

THE BUNCO KING TAKEN TO COURT.

Spencer Taken in Charge of the Massachusetts Authorities to Answer for His Crimes

John Reed, the alleged bunco man, known in Plainfield as G. E. Spencer, is locked up in cell No. 13, East Cambridge Jail, Mass. Reed (or Spencer), arrived in charge of two State officials and was taken direct to the court. After a preliminary hearing he was ordered to jail.

Reed's case will come up in the Lowell court next Wednesday, he having been held to answer to the charge of swindling Charles Sweetser, of Chelmsford, out of $3,500. The bail forfeited on this was $7,000 If by any chance Reed should again get bail he will be promptly taken to Brookline, where he left $7.000.

He is wanted in South Framingham and at Gardner, in which places the amounts forfeited sum up $4,500. The total forfeited bail was $18,500.

Reed smiled while being searched at the jail. He had $65.19 in his clothing. After being searched and before being locked up he asked for a change of underwear, which he said would be found in his gripsack.

The first article taken out of the bag was a pale green night shirt of the finest of filigree Japanese silk. Around the sleeves and neck was some embroidery in robin's egg blue floss. The garment was a dainty affair and the jailer took it up gingerly.

Next came a silk negligee shirt in a small black and white pattern. After that half a dozen pairs of fine cashmere and lisle socks, some baby blue and thers golden brown, were brought forth. Then came three fancy shirts. At the bottom of the bosom of each were the initials embroidered in silk "T. E. S." The underwear was of the finest texture of silk and wool, the color being electric blue. There were also in the bag a dozen ties of various styles, all of expensive make; a dozen collars and handkerchiefs and hair and tooth brushes.

Entertained His Sunday-School Class.

Horace J. Martin, of West Front street, entertained his Sunday-school class at his home last evening. All the members were present and the feature of the evening was a gramaphone exhibition given by H. J. Martin, Jr. The rest of the evening was devoted to playing games, after which refreshments were served to all.

Mr. and Mrs. Morrell, of Richmond street, are the proud parents of a little boy.

TENDER THOUGHTS IN HOUR OF SORROW

Impressive Remarks at the Bier of Mrs. J. T. Fritts.

THE FLORAL TRIBUTES PRESENTED.

Rev. W. R. Richards, D. D., Spoke Comforting Thoughts to the Bereaved Ones and Referred to How Death Brought Into Closer Touch the Present Uncertain Life With Eternal Reward.

The funeral services of the late Margaret Suydam Fritts, wife of Dr. John T. Fritts, were held at the house, 423 Park avenue, yesterday afternoon.

The house was thronged with relatives and friends who came to pay a last tribute of love and respect to the memory of Mrs. Fritts. The services began with a hymn, "Jesus Lover of My Soul," sung by a male quartette composed of George Schoonmaker, Herbert Schutt, William N. Runyon and M. C. VanArsdale.

Rev. William R. Richards, D. D., pastor of the Crescent Avenue church, of which Mrs. Fritts was a member, was the officiating pastor. After reading a number of selections from the New Testament he delivered a short sermon which was full of comforting thoughts to the mourners. When God was revealing himself to men, the pastor said, he took one and another of the relations of men with one another, and made them more sacred. By perfecting these various bonds between men, he succeeded in drawing them nearer to Himself. God taught men to know Him especially in those ties which bound members of the family together. The progress of God's revelation is marked by the development of the meaning of the terms, "father," "mother," "brother."

The one relation of special importance and significance which needed to be purified and uplifted was that of motherhood. When God said "Can a woman forget her own child?" He was simply preparing His people for the understanding of God's mercy for his own children. And of all the revelations which Christianity has made to man the tenderest and most sacred has been the showing forth of the sacredness of motherhood, and this in turn was a preparation for us to know the love of God. It is through His mother that Christ is united to us by a bond of kinship. Nothing has brought us to so clear an understanding of the love of God for men through His Son, Jesus Christ, as our understanding of the mother's love.

We are come together today in a house saddened by sorrow, and if those who are sorrowing were asked what it was that made this place a home they would say that it was the constant, unfailing love of the wife and mother. It is the memory of what she has been that has made and will keep this a sacred place. Can we doubt that God, who has made our hearts and our homes, has a governing purpose in taking this dear one from us? The love that has made this place a home—can it not have some effect on that other home? When such a loved one goes over to the other side, does it not commence to grow homelike over there? When those whom we have loved and trusted are carried to the home beyond, their silent lips seem to say to us: "Let not your hearts be troubled; I have gone to prepare a place for you." Let us be led and influenced by the gracious life of the departed, so that we may understand more and more the love of God and accept it.

After a prayer by Dr. Richards, the quartette sang "Nearer My God to Thee," and those present were given an opportunity to take a last look at the face of Mrs. Fritts. The casket was surrounded by a profusion of beautiful flowers, including a number of elaborate pieces. At the head of the casket was a large floral pillow, inscribed with the word "Mother," and next to this was a cluster of exquisite lilies, each one of which was filled with violets. The latter piece was presented by the Compass Whist Club, of which Mrs. Fritts was a member. Hanging on the wall nearby were two portraits of the deceased, one taken at the age of eighteen, just before her marriage, and the other taken only two years ago.

The interment was in Hillside cemetery.

Chafing Dish Club Entertained.

The Chafing Dish Club was entertained last evening at the home of E. H. Ladd, Jr., of Franklin place. The first part of the evening was spent in cards in which Miss Foster and Marion S. Ackerman won the first prizes and Mrs. H. C. Adams and H. C. Adams took the second prizes.

Mr. and Mrs. Hyle, of West Fourth street, are mourning the loss of a baby boy, who died last night.

BERGEN MEN'S HOPE IN POPULAR VOTE.

New Development in Contest for a Trolley Road Franchise.

THE CONFLICT IN WESTFIELD.

Advocates of County Ownership Will Marshal Forces and Try to Get a Majority Vote Against Granting a Franchise to the Elizabeth and Westfield Railroad Company—The Results.

The town of Westfield is to hold a special election on the question of granting or withholding the trolley franchise asked for by the Elizabeth and Westfield Street Railway Company.

At the trolley meeting which was held in Etta Hall last evening a resolution was introduced by Alfred E. Pearsall, editor of the Union County Standard, instructing the Township Committee not to grant the franchise until a popular vote is taken to get at the sentiment of the citizens. Former Assemblyman Charles N. Codding introduced an amendment providing that the Committee should agree on an ordinance which it deems satisfactory and which the company will consent to, and that this ordinance shall be published in full and a special election be held within two weeks to determine whether or not the franchise shall be granted. Both resolutions were carried.

These resolutions are not all binding upon the committee, and it may obey them or not as it deems advisable. The action of the meeting was outside of the purpose for which it was called, which was to hear the objections of property owners along the proposed route of the trolley. The meeting was called for the purpose of securing from the citizens an expression of their sentiment either in favor of or in opposition to the franchise. The object of the meeting was defeated by the resolution calling for the special election.

The attendance at the meeting was very large. Col. E. W. Hein, the secretary of the railroad company, explained the reasons of the company for amending its proposed route. Speeches were also made by James O. Clark, A. E. Pearsall and others. After a time the meeting grew disorderly, and it was with difficulty that Chairman Endicott could maintain order. The excitement ran very high during a discussion as to whether or not Frank Bergen should be heard.

Justice E. R. Collins made a motion to take from the table a motion made at the former meeting by W. G. Peckham, which called for an immediate vote of the meeting for or against the franchise.

This move was looked upon by Pearsall and Ira Lambert as an injustice to Mr. Bergen, and both spoke at length. There were loud calls for Senator Voorhees, to which he responded with a motion to adjourn.

The Committee will meet again next Friday night to go over the ordinance.

HORSE DASHED INTO THE CAR.

Frightened at a Pile of Sewer Pipe and Plunged Into the Street Car.

A frightened horse dashed into a trolley car on Somerset street early this morning, and succeeded in partially wrecking the wagon attached. At 6:45 o'clock one of the wagons of the Plainfield Packing House was coming along Somerset street from the stables to the store on West Front street. Just by French's mill there was a pile of sewer pipe, which is soon to be laid in that street. A trolley car was approaching slowly in the direction of the mountain.

The horse saw the pile of pipe and became frightened. He dashed right into the car, throwing the delivery wagon against the car with much force. The left front wheel of the wagon was dished, and the woodwork of the top partially broken. The horse was stopped before it could run.

A PATRONETTE.

Novel Entertainment to be Given by Holy Name Society.

A unique entertainment which is called a patronette, will be given by the members of the Holy Name Society of St. Joseph's church, and will be held in Saengerbund Hall during the evenings of Feb. 9th, 10th, and 11th.

A large meeting of the members of the society and the ladies of the parish was held last evening in the meeting room of the church and arrangements were made to provide for the various features of amusement and accommodations, some of them being very new an original.

Committees will be announced later.

Fifteen members of the Holy Name Society will have charge of the affair, and the patronette, the first of its kind ever given here, will probably be a great success.

THE SOCIABLE SIDE OF CHURCH LIFE.

THE FIRST PRESBYTERIAN'S IDEAL.

An Affair Held Last Night in Accordance With the Suggestions Made at a Conference.

A week ago a conference was held in the First Presbyterian church to determine what should constitute an ideal church sociable. Last night a sociable was held along the lines suggested at the conference and was considered a successful and enjoyable experiment.

At the conference it was decided that the first essential of an ideal sociable was the sociability of the participants, especially a natural expression of good feeling. It was thought that there should be great care to avoid anything tending to worldliness. Music suggesting the dance should be tabooed as out of place and distasteful to the Christian conscience. Young people should show respect for the feelings of the old, and the old should make allowances for the vivacity of the young—concession and not compromise. By cultivating such social feeling the church would not receive the appelation that was once given to a certain church—"The Church of the Holy Refrigerator." By making yourself friendly it was considered that often times unsociable people could be made to be sociable themselves by the good example. Piety and sociability were termed twin sisters, and it was accepted as Gospel truth in all church sociables that Christ should be the prominent guest.

The sociable given last night was modeled as nearly as possible on the suggestions made above. The programme was very impromptu and included piano solos by Miss Mabel Potter, Miss Blanche Fellows and Miss Mabelle Force; piano duets by Miss Petrie and Miss Remsen, and vocal solos by Miss Katheryn Glen, accompanied by Miss Lillian Glen and Miss Fellows.

During the evening tea and cocoa were served by Miss Blish and Miss Blair. There was a very large attendance of members and friends of the church, and all enjoyed the prevailing sociability.

SURE SIGHT AND STEADY NERVES WON.

A GREAT DAY FOR SHOOTERS.

Plainfield's Crack Gunners Carried Off the Honors at Three Bridges Yesterday.

Three Bridges was the objective point for a large number of local sportsmen yesterday when several shooting contests were offered as attractions. There were about forty persons present from this city.

The first event was a match shoot at 15 birds each for $25 a side between Scott Terry, of Plainfield, and Abe Case, of Three Bridges. Terry won the match by killing 14 out of 15, while Case made a score of 11 out of 15. The birds were very fast and good time was made. T. H. Keller acted as referee.

The next event was a miss and out sweepstake. There were nineteen entries. The following persons divided the money, each killing five birds: T. H. Keler, D. Darby, C. Smith, S. Terry, Arnwond and Coddington.

One of the best events of the afternoon was the team race of five men each from Union and Hunterdon counties. The following scores were made by the men from Union: S. Terry, 10; W. A. Coddington, 6; Smith, 9; Keller, 10; Woodruff, 9; total, 44. The Hunterdon county men scored as follows: Arnwond, 9; Henzler, 8; Milburn, 9; Apgar, 8; Warford, 9; total 43. There will be a return match of the above event at Campbell's Club House January 24th.

In the novice event, five birds each, much sport was enjoyed. The following scores were made: Rider, 2; Beerbower, 2; Lyman, 3; Brokaw, 2; Potter, 2; Marshall, 2; Stephenson, 2; Haurand, 5. The latter did not shoot for the stakes, and Lyman was awarded the money.

The last event was the sweepstake shoot at 10 birds each. The following is the result: Smith, 9; Woodruff, 9; S. Terry, 9; Coddington, 10; Henry, 9; Schenck, 7; Hooey, 10; Hilderbrandt, 8; Bellis, 9; Henzler, 8; W. H. Terry, 9. Coddington and Hooey divided first money and Henry, Smith and Woodruff shot off the tie for second money. Henry won by killing eight straight. Henzler and Hilderbrandt shot off for third money and the latter won.

It is gratifying to T. H. Keller to see the boys win, as they were all using King's smokeless powder and Peters' cartridges, which he represents.

Bert King, of Alfred, N. Y., is a guest of Will Mosher, of Madison avenue.

GIRL'S TERROR MADE HER ELUDE A RUFFIAN

ACCOSTED BY AN UNKNOWN MAN.

The Night Was Dark and the Street Almost Deserted—She Took Refuge in a Private Residence—The Chaser Slunk off in the Darkness When an Attempt Was Made to Follow and Capture Him.

Miss Maggie Kennedy, who is employed as cashier at Boehm's store, on Front street, had an experience with a ruffian Thursday night, the remembrance of which will cause her to shudder for a long time to come.

Miss Kennedy, who is a pretty brunett about seventeen years of age, was returning from her work at the store about 9:30 o'clock on the night in question. Her house is on Harrison street, in the borough, and she went out Grove street and turned down Rockview avenue. The night was a dark one but the girl had gone that way unmolested so often at night that she had no thought of possible harm.

When she reached the turn of the street there came suddenly the sound of heavy footsteps hurrying along behind the girl. She was about to turn when a hand was laid on her arm.

In terror the girl tore herself away and fled screaming. The man followed her in hot pursuit.

The nearest house was the stately residence of Henry R. Phillips, a New York banker, and toward this Maggie made her way. The pursuer leaped over the fence and kept close upon her heels, but terror made her feet move swiftly, and she was not overtaken.

The Phillips family were chatting quietly in the parlor of their residence when they were startled by a series of piercing screams, and the next minute there was a rattle at the latch of the front door.

Mr. Phillips and a friend ran to the door and found a girl white and almost speechless with fright. She pointed out into the darkness. The men rushed forth and caught sight of the slinking form of her pursuer, as the fellow disappeared down the drive. They followed, but failed to overtake the man.

Miss Kennedy recovered sufficiently in a short time to tell the story of her encounter with the man. She described him as short and dark, dressed in mechanics overalls and jumper, and having the appearance of an Italian.

DEATH WAS DOMINANT IN THIS TRAIN CREW.

CONDUCTOR AND BRAKEMAN KILLED.

The Former Met His End at South Plainfield While Crossing the Tracks.

Scott Royer, a conductor on a local freight on the Lehigh Valley Railroad, met his death instantly last night about 5 o'clock in front of the station at South Plainfield. His train was standing not far from the station. As he alighted from his caboose and was getting out of the way of an approaching train, he stepped in front of a coal train that was backing in on a switch and was killed. His body was terribly mangled. It was picked up by the train crew and later sent to his home in Easton. Royer was 48 years of age, married and has several children. His family were in New York yesterday and they knew nothing of the sad affair until they reached home late last night.

Early in the afternoon yesterday Irving Fahls, a brakeman on the same train, was killed near Pattenburg by falling from the train and being run over. He died in the Easton Hospital in the afternoon.

At the Reform Club.

A meeting of unusual interest was held at the Reform Club Thursday evening. President W. C. Smith made an excellent master of ceremonies. The programme opened with devotional exercises conducted by M. F. Marcley, after which Miss Murphy gave a recitation and J. H. Sayers made a few remarks. Recitation and songs were then given by Edward Wolf. An address was given by Mrs. Ellis. Other recitations were given by Miss Bertha Clum and W. R. Mattox. The exercises closed with a short address by W. B. Ayres. Miss Jennie Smith presided at the piano.

A Double Affliction.

The many friends of Mrs. M. F. Marcley, of New street, will be pained to learn of her serious affliction. A few days ago she fell and fractured her hip so badly that she will be a cripple for life, and this affliction, together with the loss of her eyesight, will now confine her to the house altogether. She has the sympathy of a host of friends in her affliction.

THE PRESIDENT'S TERM

Proposed Changes in the Commencement and Termination.

RESOLUTIONS IN SENATE

Amendment to Constitution Proposed --Terms of President, Vice President, Senators and Representatives Would Expire on April 30, Instead of March 4.

Washington, Jan. 15.—Mr. Hoar (Mass,) presented the following resolution proposing an amendment to the Constitution in the Senate yesterday:

'The following article be proposed to the Legislatures of the Several States as an amendment to the Constitution of the United States:

"The term of office of the President and of the Fifty-sixth Congress shall continue until the 30th day of April, in the year 1899, at noon. The Senators whose existing term would otherwise expire on the 4th day of March, in the year 1899 or thereafter, shall continue in office until noon of the 30th day of April succeeding such expiration; and the 30th day of April, at noon, shall thereafter be substituted for the 4th of March as the commencement and termination of the official term of the President, Vice-President, Senators and Representatives in Congress."

The resolution was referred to the Committee on Privileges and Elections.

LYNCHING OF THE SEMINOLES.

Senator Quay Introduces a Resolution for an Inquiry.

Washington, Jan. 15.—In the Senate yesterday Mr. Quay (Pa.) offered the following resolution, which was referred to the Committee on Indian Affairs:

"Resolved, That the Secretary of the Interior shall be, and is hereby instructed to investigate the facts attending the recent alleged atrocious burning to death of two Seminole Indians by a mob in Oklahoma Territory, and make report thereon to Congress.

"That the sum of $25,000, or so much thereof as may be necessary, is hereby appropriated for the investigation, apprehension and punishment of the guilty persons, to be expended under the direction of the Secretary of the Interior."

Secretary Bliss has received the following telegram from Gov. Barnes, of Oklahoma, regarding the reported Seminole uprising:

"Absolutely no disturbance or excitement along the Seminole border."

VESSELS FOR THE KLONDIKE.

To be Taken in Sections from San Francisco to Dutch Harbor.

San Francisco, Cal., Jan. 15.—Six large barges and three river steamers for the Yukon and its tributaries are building at the shipyards of T. P. H. Whitelaw & Sons. The boats are for the Alaska Exploration Company, and the Rothschilds are largely interested. They will cost more than a quarter of a million dollars.

The boats will be taken apart and shipped to Unalaska, where they will be set up and towed to the mouth of the Yukon. They will be stowed in the hold of the American ship Sintram, which will be towed to Dutch Harbor by the tug Fearless. The distance to Dutch Harbor is 2,305 miles, and the feat of the Fearless, if successfully accomplished, will break the Pacific coast long-distance towing record by almost a thousand miles.

Discourages Relief Expedition.

Seattle, Wash., Jan. 15.—The report of Major Rucker, who was sent to Dyea recently for the purpose of reconnoitering the ground preparatory to starting the Government relief expedition and to interview persons coming from Dawson on the need of relief, has been forwarded to Brig.-Gen. Merriam at Vancouver Barracks.

While the exact tenor of the report is not known, it is stated that it discourages any unnecessary expenditure of energy and money in carrying out the proposed expedition.

Carrier Pigeons for Dawson.

San Francisco, Cal., Jan. 15.—James Jackson has arrived from Boston with a number of carrier pigeons, whose homing instincts he hopes to utilize in establishing regular communication between Dawson and St. Michael's next Winter. He intends taking his birds to St. Michael's at once, and will establish stations at convenient intervals from there to Dawson.

Reindeer for the Klondike.

New York, Jan. 15.—Eleven reindeer arrived yesterday on the Wilson Line steamship Martello from Hull and will be shipped to the Klondike region. The original shipment consisted of thirteen animals, two of which perished during the passage from the effects of bad weather.

Colonel Myers Found Dead.

Harrisburg, Pa., Jan. 15.—Colonel Edwin K. Myers, former State Printer, was found dead with a large cut across his forehead and a bruise over his left eye yesterday in a stable at his home three miles above this city. The supposition is that he was accidentally thrown from his carriage a short distance from home and was dragged to the place where the body was found. Mr. Myers was 39 years old and was for eight years State Printer. He was one of the best known men in Central Pennsylvania.

Big Rockefeller Fee.

New York, Jan. 15.—Mr. William Rockefeller has signed a check for $250,000 to Mr. John Burrage, counsel of the Boston Gas companies as his personal legal fees and commission on the recent sale of the Brookline and Boston Companies to Henry M. Whitney. This is reported from Boston as the largest fee ever received by a lawyer in that city.

Reed Brought Back.

Lowell, Mass., Jan. 15.—George Spencer, alias John Reed, the alleged bunco and confidence man, who left these parts about two weeks ago, thereby defaulting bail aggregating more than $15,000, arrived here yesterday from Philadelphia, in charge of district police officers.

THE HAWAIIAN TREATY

President Dole Empowered to Accept Any Amendment.

THUS TO PREVENT DELAY

A Double Reason for His Visit to Washington--Friends of Annexation More Confident Than Early in the Week--Still Lack Three Votes.

Washington, Jan. 15.—Although there is a prospect of a gain of two votes for the Hawaiian treaty it still lacks three votes of the necessary two-thirds, and it is now quite evident that no positive prediction as to the fate of the treaty can be made until on the eve of the vote, as changes are occurring almost daily.

The announcement from Honolulu that President Dole is coming to Washington did not create any surprise at the State Department, and it is evident that his trip was expected. While Mr. Dole comes in favor of the treaty, and will lend his influence to that end, it is understood here in official circles that his visit means something more. It is stated that he comes clothed with extraordinary powers from the Hawaiian Government to act for it, in accepting any amendment or change that may be made in the treaty. It is understood that the Turpie amendment now pending, which puts certain restrictions upon the admission of Hawaii as a State, will probably be adopted. If this or any other change is made in the treaty, it will have to be again ratified by the Hawaiian Government. To prevent this delay, which may mean a great deal for Hawaii, the Government at Honolulu has considered it best to send President Dole to Washington, with power to accept any change or amendment he may consider proper or admissable. It is also understood here that no objection is raised to the Turpie amendment, as long as the islands are annexed.

Undoubtedly President Dole's presence will be of great assistance to the annexationists, and his visit will therefore serve a twofold purpose.

The announcement is also made that Hon. J. O. Carter, a friend of the former Queen, is on his way here to add his protest to that of other representatives of the Queen against the ratification of the treaty. It seems now that the debate in the Senate, owing to the narrowness of the division, will be longer than was anticipated at the beginning of the debate. It is not expected that the vote will be taken before the arrival of the distinguished Hawaiians to the capital, as they will doubtless have much information to give the Administration, and to the Senate, upon the important subject.

Coal Miners' Convention.

Columbus, O., Jan. 15.—The Scale Committee in the miners' convention yesterday afternoon presented to the delegates a report advocating a rate of 75 cents per ton based on the Pittsburg district. The entire morning session of the convention was taken up with the election of members of the Executive Board. A fight will be made to have delegates to the interstate joint conference in Chicago next week go into the meeting untrammeled by instructions. The miners' delegates will not attempt to enforce any change in prevailing differentials on machine work. The miners' delegates will conclude their work to-day and leave for Chicago on to-morrow morning.

SCROFULA

It is Foul Blood's Advertisement

But It is Soon Cured by Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Yes, Scrofula, if anything, may be called the advertisement of foul blood. It is the scourge of the world—offensive, painful, debilitating, stubborn and well nigh unendurable.

Outward applications do not cure, they only drive the difficulty to new quarters. Emollients may palliate, they cannot abolish the evil. There is but one sure way out, and that is to eliminate the taint from the blood.

There is one remedy that can effect this, and it is the only one that, so far as we know, has almost invariably succeeded—even where the system has been poisoned by long years of taint, and the ravages to be repaired are tremendous. That remedy is Hood's Sarsaparilla. Read this:

"My daughter was afflicted with impure blood. There were running sores all over her body and they caused her much suffering. We tried medicines that were recommended as blood purifiers, but could not see that they did any good. A friend told me about Hood's Sarsaparilla and I began giving the girl this medicine. The result was that she was perfectly cured after taking a few bottles. She has had no symptoms of scrofula sores since that time." MARIETTA M. SMITH, South Middleboro, Mass.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Is the best—in fact the One True Blood Purifier. Insist upon Hood's; take no substitute.

Hood's Pills act harmoniously with Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Proceedings of the Board of Chosen Freeholders of Union County.

[OFFICIAL.]

Special meeting of the Board of Chosen Freeholders of the County of Union, N J., held Tuesday, Dec. 21st, 1897, at 2:30 p. m.

Roll call showed all members present except Freeholder Wahl—1.

The call for the meeting was read by the clerk, as follows:

Elizabeth, N. J., Dec. 14, 1897.

S. Rusling Ryno, Clerk, etc.:

Sir—You are hereby directed to call a special meeting of the Board of Chosen Freeholders, to be held at the Court House, in the city of Elizabeth, N. J., Tuesday, the 21st day of December, at 2:30 p m., for the purpose of discussing the question of widening Westfield avenue and constructing a county trolley road thereon, with a committee of citizens appointed at a citizens' meeting held on November 30th last. Signed,

J. F. Hubbard, Director.

The director thereupon stated that the board was ready to listen to the citizens' committee.

A. B Carleton, Esq., of Elizabeth, addressed the board on behalf of the said committee. He said that in part that he desired to present three (3) propositions.

First. The certain occupancy of county roads in the future by trolley lines.

Second. The entire feasibility of the plans presented by the citizens' committee.

Third. The entire security of the county against financial loss.

Mr. Carlton proceeded at some length to demonstrate and explain the aims and objects of the citizens' meeting as represented in the three propositions before stated. He read the salient sections of a bill which it was proposed to introduce in the Legislature concerning county ownership of trolley roads.

Plans and maps showing the construction and the route of the proposed county trolley road on Westfield avenue were presented to the members of the board.

Printed copies of the report prepared by the citizens' committee, and which had been presented to and adopted by the citizens in meeting assembled, were distributed to the members of the board, and a copy of said report was read by the clerk.

A long discussion ensued between the members of the committee and the members of the board, but no formal action was taken.

Freeholder Farrell moved to adjourn, which was carried, and the director thereupon declared the board adjourned. S. Rusling Ryno, Clerk.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Mrs. TenEyck, of East Third street, is very ill at her home.

Charles Vail, of Clinton avenue, is much improved from his recent illness.

$100 Reward, $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Address, F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.

Sold by druggists, 75c.

Hall's Family Pills are the best.

Herman Weber, of Liberty street, is confined to his home with a severe illness.

George F. Opdyke, of West Seventh street, was in Plainfield yesterday calling on friends. His family is located at Jamestown, N. Y., and they are now enjoying fine sleighing.

The progressive ladies of Westfield, Ind., issued a "Woman's Edition" of the Westfield News, bearing date of April 3d, 1896. The paper is filled with matter of interest to women, and we notice the following from a correspondent, which the editors printed, realizing that it treats upon a matter of vital importance to their sex: "The best remedy for croup, colds and bronchitis that I have been able to find is Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. For family use it has no equal. I gladly recommend it." 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by T. S. Armstrong apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

—The contract for the building and erection of the central altar in the new St. Patrick's Roman Catholic church at Elizabeth, has been awarded to Moran & Co., of Boston. The contract price is $38,000. The building cost $400,000.

"My daughter, when recovering from an attack of fever, was a great sufferer from pain in the back and hips," writes Louden Grover, of Sardis, Ky. "After using quite a number of remedies without any benefit she tried one bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm, and it has given entire relief." Chamberlain's Pain Balm is also a certain cure for rheumatism. Sold by T. S. Armstrong, apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

—The annual register of the Princeton Theological Seminary shows a total enrollment of 238 students, a decrease of 15 from last year. The decrease is felt in every class, with the exception of the middle.

Mothers whose children are troubled with bad colds, croup or whooping-cough will do well to read what Dr. R. R. Robey, of Olney, Mo., says on this subject, He writes: "For years we have used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, and always keep it in the house. It is regarded in our family as a specific for all kinds of colds and coughs." The 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by T. S. Armstrong, apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

—Thursday at the Reform Club, a highly entertaining programme of recitations and music was presented. The attendance was one of the largest, and all enjoyed the programme. Several excellent speeches were made. President W. C. Smith was in charge.

Persons who are troubled with indigestion will be interested in the experience of Wm. H. Penn, chief clerk, in the railway mail service at Des Moines, Iowa, who writes: "It gives me pleasure to testify to the merits of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy. For two years I have suffered from indigestion, and am subject to frequent severe attacks of pain in the stomach and bowels. One or two doses of this remedy never fails to give perfect relief." Price 25 and 50 cents; sold by T. S. Armstrong, apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

—Next week McNabb & Clark, the lawyers, will move into the Marsh building on Park avenue.

—At the meeting of Somerset Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., held last evening, one candidate was initiated.

Who can fail to take advantage of this offer. Send 10 cents to us for a generous trial size or ask your druggist. Ask for Ely's Cream Balm, the most positive catarrh cure. Full size 50 cents. ELY BROS., 56 Warren St., N. Y City.

I suffered from catarrh of the worst kind ever since a boy, and I never hoped for cure, but Ely's Cream Balm seems to do even that. Many acquaintances have used it with excellent results.—Oscar Ostrum, 45 Warren Ave. Chicago, Ill.

WAR SCARE SUBSIDES

No Anxiety Over Cuban Affairs in Washington.

ALL QUIET AT HAVANA

Minister de Lome Receives Advices Stating the Trouble Is Past and That No Further Outbreak Is Feared Gen. Woodford's House Guarded.

Washington, Jan. 15.—The Cuban scare has subsided entirely and little interest or anxiety is manifested in it in official circles. Perfect calm prevails in Havana, according to dispatches received by Minister de Lome. One of these dispatches, filed yesterday by Secretary General Congos o, says:

"The tumult has not been continued. Calm is preserved throughout the city. I believe that the normal condition will be perfectly established. Fortunately, there is not a single casualty that we have to regret."

Aside from this dispatch the Minister has received a number of minor dispatches all indicating an absence of disturbance, and that no apprehension is felt by the authorities. He has given directions that every development be communicated to him, and, in view of this fact, does not credit a report that there was another outbreak Thursday, saying that any such outbreak would have been communicated to him and that the report doubtless arose either from a delayed cablegram based on the outbreak previously reported or else that there was some disturbance of such a trivial character that it did not get to the attention of the Government.

U. S. MINISTER WOODFORD.
Whose life is in danger in Madrid.

Regarding reports that the rioting in Havana had caused apprehension among manufacturers, financiers and others that business affairs might be unsettled, and that they had wired the President asking him to withhold the sending of warships to Cuban waters and to use his influence to prevent inflammatory speeches in Congress, it can be stated authoritatively that no dispatches on this subject have been received at the White House.

Gen. Lee's Report.

A cablegram from Gen. Lee stated that while he did not see any indications of the resumption of the riots, yet in view of the inflammable situation in Havana he believed that there might be further trouble.

The North Atlantic squadron, which has been gathering at Hampton Roads, is to sail southward to-day. Lest there should be any misunderstanding of the purpose of the cruise, the orders under which the vessel will proceed have been made public, and, taken in connection with the department's orders to Admiral Sicard, show that the squadron's movements have no reference to Cuba.

The Cabinet discussion yesterday showed that the President, while he decided not to send a warship to Cuba at present, does purpose to keep one or more vessels within a reasonable distance of Havana, so that one of our ships may reach there within six hours in the event of a sudden call.

The Senate resolution calling for information as to what had been done by the President to safeguard American interests in Havana was received and talked over. The main subject under consideration before the Cabinet, however, it is declared, was the prospects of the Hawaiian treaty and not Cuban relations.

Guarding Gen. Woodford.

Madrid, Spain, Jan. 15.—The police precautions have been redoubled in the vicinity of the United States Legation and the residence of the United States Minister, Gen. Stewart L. Woodford.

Revolt in Havana Expected Hourly.

Washington, Jan 15.—Most serious news from Havana is expected hourly. The President and his advisers know the end may be near in Cuba and have provided for any emergency.

A long, disquieting dispatch came from Gen. Lee about 4 p. m. yesterday Havana was still calm, yet the Consul-General said he had apparently trustworthy information that for two days a mob had been organizing which its leaders believed would be irresistible.

Gen. Lee pronounced the situation "threatening." The use of that expression was highly significant. A full understanding between the State Department and Consul-General Lee had been arranged. If the overthrow of Blanco was imminent, Gen. Lee was to inform the department that the situation was "threatening," and the officials here would determine whether to send a naval force to Havana or not.

Movement of Warships.

Key West, Jan. 15.—The cruiser Detroit arrived here at midday yesterday from Hayti. The Montgomery has just arrived. She brought a barge from Tampa, to be used in loading warships with coal, which draw too much water to lie at the dock. The Marblehead left here last night for Navassa Island.

New York, Jan. 15.—A dispatch from Washington announces that at 8 o'clock this morning the white squadron moved southward from Hampton Roads.

The Navy Department's orders, which were first made public last night, direct that the fleet shall proceed to the Dry Tortugas, calling at Key West in passing. The vessels will proceed in this order: New York, cruiser; Iowa, battleship; Massachusetts, battleship; Indiana, battleship; Texas, battleship.

The Censorship in Havana

Havana, Cuba, Jan. 15.—A decree has been published prohibiting the publication in daily newspapers of cable dispatches without previous censorship and without twelve hours' notice of their receipt. In addition, in future, the Post Office here will detain national and foreign newspapers not having previously been censored Violators of the law are warned that they are under military jurisdiction

Another edict will be published shortly forbidding the gathering of groups of more than four persons, either in the streets or in the stores.

INDIA CURRENCY BILL.

Provides for the Issuing of Notes Against Gold.

Calcutta, India, Jan. 15.—Sir James Westland, the Finance Minister of the Council, introduced a bill yesterday providing for the issue of currency notes against gold. Mr. Arthur, the Secretary of State, in London, in behalf of the banks and chambers of commerce, indorsed the measure.

The Finance Minister said the Indian money market was experiencing a period of extreme stringency. The local resources were unable to supply the demands of trade. The scarcity was due to the banks remitting their capital home and keeping as little as possible in India. This policy was adopted before the legislation of 1893, and was not in consequence of that legislation. But, while they were advancing toward the attainment of a 16d. rupee, this success militated against the transfer of sterling capital to India in exchange. The banks must operate upon commercial principles, and no blame was attached to them.

Sir James Westland denied that the Government was holding money in order to starve commerce and force up exchange, but the recent demands on the Government, he continued, had been so heavy that it had been obliged to ask the Secretary of State to intermit the drawings. The amount in hand was ample to assure the convertibility of the Indian notes. Therefore, there was no risk, from a currency point of view.

In conclusion, the Finance Minister said: "The Secretary of State will draw on the Treasury, if it is requisite, to the full extent to which funds are available. But, if the demand continues beyond that point, he will, in issuing telegraphic transfers, set apart the gold received and transmit it to this country."

Swindler's Many Victims.

New York, Jan. 15.—Henry E. Straight, who was arrested in Jersey City on Thursday on charges of swindling many firms and persons by means of forged bills of lading, has been held for extradition. Straight has been indicted for defrauding George E. Van Vorst of 24th street and Eleventh avenue, New York. He is charged also with swindling Samuel Wolf of No. 265 Canal street, who lost $369; Koplauff & Seger, of Canal street, who lost $400, and a manufacturer of Brooklyn, who is out $800. When Straight's measure was taken a gunshot wound scar was found on the instep of his foot. He said that it was received while he was in Cuba on a filibustering expedition. Straight formerly lived in Lewisburg, Pa.

Passed by Three Tellers.

New York, Jan. 15.—One of the new counterfeit $100 silver certificates turned up at the Sub-Treasury yesterday It came from a New York bank which had received it from a savings bank in the Borough of Brooklyn. The note was handled by three tellers before its spuriousness was discovered by Clerk Agens, one of the youngest employees in the building. The counterfeit bill will be kept at the Sub-Treasury for a day or two, after which it will be returned to the bank from whence it came.

Five Miners Entombed.

Butte, Mont., Jan. 15.—Two explosions yesterday in the tunnel for the flume near the upper smelting works in Anaconda destroyed the timbering and entombed five workmen. The best miners and timbermen are now at work driving a three-foot drift near the side of the tunnel. When this can be completed it is hard to say. There are no hopes of the men being alive.

New Mail Cancel Stamp.

Washington, Jan. 15.—A new hand stamp to be used for the cancellation of mail matter will soon be adopted by the Post Office Department. That now in use has been found to be unsatisfactory in several respects, the principal defect being that the impression was not always complete and clearly defined.

To Extradite an Absconder.

Albany, Jan. 15.—Governor Black has made an application to Secretary of State Sherman for a requisition on the French Government for the extradition of William R. Foster, under indictment in New York city for having robbed the Gratuity Fund of the New York Produce Exchange more than ten years ago.

No Strike in Lowell.

Lowell, Mass., Jan. 15.—The Spinners' Union last night voted not to strike, but to support the New Bedford men. The final vote was 177 to 64.

TELEPHONE IN COMPETITION.

It is well known, of course, that the modernized telephone service has made great inroads into the business of telegraph companies, but it will be surprising to know that there is recent complaint from the west that the growing use of the long-distance telephone is acting disastrously on the receipts of the railroads. Other interests are finding cause for worry for the same reason. It is said in Boston that the vocation of the commercial traveler is fast being driven to the wall. The country retailer can now order daily, instead of awaiting the periodical visit of the "drummer" to learn prices and other facts. This lessening of the services of the "drummer" reflects disastrously upon the country hotels. The city hotels also feel the effect of the telephone. They lost some patronage when the going out of the "drummer" lessened the city visits of the country merchants, and, with the improvement of the telephone, the rural dealer has even less occasion to come to town.

There are two cities in the metropolitan district that have Mayors of the same name, and Plainfield is one of them. Mt. Vernon is the other one, but the chief executive of the New York State municipality uses the final e in his cognomen—Fiske Incidentally it might be stated that many persons think that this is the correct way to spell His Honor's name of Plainfield, but it is not.

It is said that an effort is to be made to induce Governor Griggs to appoint Robert M. Thompson to succeed Captain W. H. Jaques as commander of the Naval Reserves.

The exemptions allowed to soldiers and firemen in Rahway covers property aggregating $60,000, according to a statement made by Councilman U. M. Osborn.

THEATRICAL.

Tonight Robert Hilliard, the well-known light comedian, will make his first appearance in Plainfield in "A New Yorker." The piece is an amusing comedy that has never failed to score a hit wherever presented. It was formerly known as "Lost—24 Hours," but has been greatly revised and written up-to-date, so that the play is stronger than ever. Mr. Hilliard is supported by an admirable company, which include such well-known names as Mrs. Thorndyke-Boucicault, Gertrude Gheen, Jennie Weathersby, Frances Whitehouse, Ethel Vallerie, Cuyler Hastings, Earle Ryder, Dore Davidson, E. Soldene Powell and John Wolfe. Judging from the large advance sale, there will be a vast audience present tonight to greet Mr. Hilliard, who is well-known here socially, but has never appeared in a professional capacity. The company and performance will be exactly the same as the one that Mr. Hilliard will give at Hoyt's Theatre, New York, next week.

"The Fast Mail," one of Lincoln Carter's best melo-dramas, will be seen here Wednesday next.

Rev. P. S. Gibson's Work.

Rev. P. S. Gibson will preach in Reform Hall tomorrow, both morning and evening. In the morning his subject will be "The Refuge of the Soul," and in the evening he will preach on "The Guiding Word." The friends of Mr. Gibson have been working unceasingly for the success of the new venture, and have succeeded in providing good music and other features to make the programme an interesting one.

NEWS OF THE SUBURBS.

THINGS THAT INTEREST SCOTCH PLAINS AND DUNELLEN.

Brief and Terse Observations Gathered by Alert Press Reporters to be Perused at the Supper Table at Your Leisure

DUNELLEN AND NEW MARKET.

Miss Bessie Vail was the guest of Plainfield friends yesterday.

Mrs. R. J. Swackhamer visited friends in Somerville last Thursday.

George VanNest has entirely recovered from his recent severe illness.

Miss Staats, the assistant at the postoffice, is suffering from a slight illness.

J. S. Powelson, of Plainfield, was in the borough yesterday calling on friends.

Wm. Carman, the borough butcher, has purchased a new horse for business purposes.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the M. E. church met yesterday afternoon and transacted routine business.

Manning Randolph, of Piscataway, visited Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Randolph, of Washington avenue, Thursday.

Mrs. Thatcher, of Glen Gardner, who has been spending a week with Mr. and Mrs. Alvah Gray, of Washington avenue, has returned home.

Abner S. Coriell, of New Brunswick, was in town yesterday surveying North avenue for the trolley. It now looks as though the trolley is an assured fact and the residents of the town are much pleased.

The postal authorities have offered a reward of $200 for the arrest and conviction of the robbers who broke into the postoffice last Thursday morning. Thus far there is nothing new regarding the affair. As yet the postal inspector has not arrived from Washington, but Postmaster Coriell is boking for him at any time.

There was a lively runaway in the borough yesterday afternoon when a horse owned by Mrs. Louis Walz's brother ran away and threw the latter out of the wagon and smashed the vehicle. The horse made a wild dash through Gus Warden's yard and succeeded in wrecking a considerable portion of his fence, Mr. Warden caught the horse and returned him to the owner, who, by this time, had recovered from his hasty flight from the wagon. His face was quite badly cut and Dr. Brakeley was called to dress the wounds. Mrs. Walz's brother lives over the mountains, and it was late when he left the borough for home.

Last Thursday evening a pleasant surprise was tendered to Charles Vail, and the affair was arranged by Carrie Haffner and Edna Coriell. The evening was spent in playing games and having a good time in general, and at a late hour refreshments were served to the guests. The following were present: Carrie and Nellie Haffner, Julia and Nellie Dodwell, Mabel Lewis, Lizzie Herlick, Lulu Gise, Maggie and John Dinneen, Charles and Edna Vail, Chas. Adams, Stephen Kennedy, Rulie Fisher, Nellie Cramer, Maud and Fred Wilcox, Edna and Abner Coriell, Fred Warden, Percy Abbott, Francis Hunt, Rose Haynes and Frank Fletcher.

It has always been a mystery to some people why the borough has not, of recent years, supported a Justice of the Peace, but the true facts of the case are that the people in the borough are somewhat particular as to who shall fill the office. At present the borough is entitled to two Justices, and no great attempt has been made to elect people to the office. The people are not desirous of having a man in the office who is going to hunt for business and make a lot of trouble for them. There are several candidates who are anxious to get elected, but the people do not want them in the office. In connection with the above it is of interest to boroughites to know that at the election to be held next March three of the Councilmen's terms will expire. They are Messrs. Wyncoop, Milligan and Snyder. Although there has been no political gossip as yet, it seems to be understood that the above men are looking for a re-election, and as yet no one has offered any objection to their return, except the trolley matter. The people say that no one can be elected to govern the affairs of the borough unless they are in favor of the trolley, and on this question hangs the sentiment of the people. Constable Wyhuskey's term also expires next March, but he will probably be re-elected. Mayor Brakeley's term does not expire until 1899.

WESTFIELD

VARIOUS BITS OF NEWS.

WESTFIELD HAPPENINGS SERVED UP TERSELY FOR THE PRESS.

Many People Go and Come in the Pretty Suburban Town—Items Interesting Because of Their Brevity

Central Council, No. 131, Jr. O. U. A. M., held a meeting last evening.

Mrs. H. A. Warncke, of the Boulevard, is recovering from her recent illness.

Col. C. K. Moore and Former Sheriff George Kyte were among the visitors who attended the trolley meeting in Etta Hall last night.

The funeral of Mrs. Harriet Terry, who died Wednesday, will be held at her late home on Broad street tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock. Rev. Joseph Greaves will officiate.

The ladies of the Congregational church held a Dorcas meeting Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. J. F. Cowperthwaite, on Prospect street, and worked upon garments for the Childrens Country Home.

The funeral of George Gilby, a former resident of Westfield, who died at his home in Milburn of apoplexy Tuesday afternoon, was held at the home of his son, Harry Gilby, on Broad street, yesterday afternoon. Interment was in Fairview cemetery.

The last of the series of union prayer meetings was held in the Presbyterian church last evening. A union preaching service will be held in the same church tomorrow evening, and Rev. J. A. Francis, a brother of Rev. George A. Francis, and pastor of the Riverside Baptist church, of New York city, will deliver the sermon.

Mrs. C. A. Brown, of New York avenue, has made complaint to Justice of the Peace Collins that her daughter Geraldine is so annoyed and persecuted by other girls of her age in the town that unless the practice is stopped she will be compelled to take the child out of school. The girls who are accused of the offense are the daughters of prominent families.

The dispossess case of Burtis against Moffett is set for trial in Justice Collins' court today. The case is one which has attracted much interest and sympathy, as the defendant, Samuel Moffett, is ill and unable to work and his family are in destitute circumstances. The rooms from which it is sought to eject them are in an old tenement known as "The Castle," on Central avenue."

Sunshine.

Just a bit of real sunshine and pleasure dropped into our office this morning. A thing of beauty is Vick's Garden and Floral Guide, with its cover of delicate tints, blue, pink and gold, and the Golden Day Lily and Daybreak Aster embossed in bold relief. The many half-tone illustrations are as life-like as is possible to make by photography. One can almost smell the fragrance from the flowers, and the radishes and asparagus in glass dishes look very tempting. No doubt but this catalogue is the best one sent out by James Vicks Sons, of Rochester, N. Y., during the forty nine years they have been in business, and next year will be their Golden Wedding anniversary, and it is their intention to give a handsome souvenir to each customer for 1898. If interested in good gardening write at once, simply mentioning this paper, and receive a copy of this elegant seed catalogue free. c

BOROUGH SCHOOL ROOM.

give the children of the borough sufficient accommodations. He stated that he was the father of the free school-book system in this State and gave several illustrations to prove his statement. He showed the position of the man who rolls in wealth and the man who is obliged to work hard for the money he earns. He told how hard it was for him to get an education; how he was obliged to carry wood into the district school building and clean the school in order that he might receive instruction. He said that if another building was erected in another part of the borough it would mean another superintendent and a janitor. This he said could be avoided by placing a building in the rear of the present structure.

C. W. McCutchen was the next speaker and he received the hearty endorsement from all present in what he had to say. He stated that he considered the public school an institution that would raise the actual value of the property in the community in which it was located, and he deemed it to be to the best interests of the borough to keep the standard of the schools high and to give the best of accommodations. He said that as a resident of Bull Frog city, he agreed in a measure with John Goodwin, and thought the tax rate should be looked after. He also said that in view of the fact that the borough's energetic Mayor was having the property owners lay stone walks around vacant lots, and the Board of Education was asking for a new school building, that it is very important that the taxes should be kept as low as possible. His main point was, however, that sufficient accommodation be given the children, and he knew the citizens would stand by the Board.

Questions of where the building should be located entered largely into the discussion, and it was the sense of the meeting that the building should be located somewhere beside the place now owned by the borough. Former Mayor B. A. Hegeman, Jr., spoke with no uncertain sound on this point and he was not alone in his opinions. He did not consider it to be to the interest of the people that a building should be located in the rear of the present one. He said that the borough is spreading out and a school should be located to meet the growth of the borough.

Among the other speakers were Francis Whitely, Mr. Swain, Mr. Bailey, Frank Curtis, A. A. Taft and E C. Morse, and all of these citizens favored a new school, but some were of different opinions regarding the location.

By a vote of those present Councilman Burtis was the secretary of the meeting. When the members of the board have followed the instructions of the resolutions offered, a meeting will be called and a report will be made.

Reception and Supper.

Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Hovell gave a reception followed by a supper, at their home, 826 East Front street, last evening. Guests were present from Newark, Elizabeth, Westfield, Cranford and this city. Supper was served at 12 o'clock. The music was furnished by Frazee's orchestra.

"OUR DUCHESS."

HOW CONSUELO SPENDS HER DAYS IN HER ENGLISH HOME.

Few of Our American Girls Work Harder Than She, in Order to Fill the Position Which Her Marriage Created, but She Is Equal to the Duties.

Fancy a Duchess living in a palace which has not the conveniences of a fifteen dollar per month flat in New York. And a cold-water flat at that!

Of course it must have seemed funny at first not to have bath rooms, gas or electric light, or steam heat, or registers; but the Duchess has completely dropped into the English mode of doing and thinking. But no wonder, for, from the Duke's point of view, he has but two great objects in life to achieve. The first is to make the Duchess forget as soon as possible that she was born in America, and the second to be Prime Minister of England. And as to the latter subject his greatest card is his Duchess Consuelo's money and fine social tact, for, despite her youth, she is one of the cleverest women I ever met, combining her mother's wonderful executive ability and social gifts, with her father's stability of character.

Few American girls work as hard for existence as the Duchess of Marlborough works to fill her position and social duties, for she feels that she has the calcium light eyes of two great critical monotors on her actions constantly—her husband and English society.

Her day begins about 8 in the morning, when she awakens in an old-fashioned canopied bed whose tapestried hangings were new in the days of good Queen Anne. Within easy reach hangs a bell cord by which she summons her own maid. Instantly there is brought into the adjoining dressing room by two strong-armed English dressing maids a bath tub, and such a bath tub! Can you imagine a circular sheet of hammered or repousse silver, five feet in circumference, the design an arabesque of mermaids. Cupids and seaweed all linked together in a frolicsome scroll?

The cold water bath all in ten minutes, glowing like Arounce, the Duchess slips on a pink wool robe, while her second maid attends to manicuring, and so dainty is Consuelo the ten pearly toe nails, as well as fingers, come in for their share of the manicurist's attention.

Maid No. 1, who is the most awe-inspiring personage in all the Duke's household, now appears again on the scene to dress in simple fashion the Duchess's beautiful dark hair, and while this is going on the Rahji, as the Duchess's East Indian personal attendant is nicknamed, sachems at the door, bringing on a curious Oriental tray the morning mail.

Usually the Duke and Duchess breakfast tete-a-tete in the mornng room upstairs, which connects the Duke's with the Duchess's suite of apartments on the second floor, overlooking Green Park. In the old days this was evidently a corridor where sturdy retainers were wont to lounge in waiting. This room is now the most attractive in the palace, and here, it may be said, is the only home life—as Americans understand it—these two busy young people know in London.

At 10 a. m. the saddle horses are brought into the courtyard, and the Duchess, accompanied by a guest and groom, or perhaps the Duke, go for their morning constitutional in Hyde Park, rain or shine. The morning ride is never omitted, and the return is made at 11 o'clock, when she dresses in a smart morning gown for shopping and the thousand and one little affairs connected with the management of the household, which she talks over with the steward each day at high noon.

At 2 p. m. luncheon is served in the banquet hall, the head and second butler in attendance besides the waiters.

Three o'clock finds the Duchess gowned most becomingly for the drive in the park, which is followed by a round of visits, officiating at bazaars (a charity feature greatly affected by the British aristocracy during the fashionable season), receptions, musicales, tea at five o'clock, either at her own home or the house of an acquaintance. She is in her Paquin dinner gown at eight o'clock, presiding at the head of the table in the old banquet hall of Spencer House, which has been in possession of the Spencer-Churchill family (the Duke's family name) since before the days of the Restoration.—New York Journal.

The Alaskan Squaw.

Alaskan squaws are not sensitive on the subject of their age; on the contrary, they take some trouble to make it known to the world. They wear a piece of wood or bone in the lower lip, the size of the ornament indicating the age of the owner. When a girl marries her lower lip is pierced, and a peg of wood or a piece of bone the size of a pea inserted. As she grows older this is increased in size until it is almost as wide as her chin, and one-fourth of an inch high. The result is naturally most unsightly.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Japanese Sake.

Next to our grape wine, it is believed that Japanese sake, or rice wine, is the oldest alcoholic beverage known to man, its use in Japan dating back over 2,000 years.

At Port Moresby, New Guinea, six young native girls pleaded guilty before a white magistrate to a charge of theft. As they were rather young to send to prison the magistrate took each offender in turn across his knee and spanked her.

OTTER HUNTING IN CALIFORNIA.

The Danger and Difficulty of This Sport Makes It Almost Impossible.

The otter is becoming very rare in southern California. Forty or 50 years ago it was taken in goodly numbers, but now it is confined to the outer islands of this region, where high winds prevail and the water is too rough for any one but the most intrepid hunters. On the windward side of Santa Cruz, Santa Rosa, San Nicolas and San Clemente islands, the valuable little animal is yet to be found. The otter hunters generally cruise about in a small schooner which lies off shore while they go inshore in a double ended small boat, constructed with a view to riding heavy seas. This craft is rowed along outside of the help, the man in the bow, with rifle in hand, watching the kelp bed carefully for the round, catlike head of the otter that is liable to appear at any moment. The little animal is very shy and is away at the slightest alarm. They lie in the kelp and play with their young, tossing them in the air or riding with them on the swells.

The danger and difficulty in otter hunting can hardly be appreciated. The boat is never still, rising and falling upon high seas, and the hunter must watch his opportunity to shoot the little animal before it can escape, and then catch it before it sinks. Numbers of otters are still caught, but the danger and hardships entailed render it an unprofitable business. In Northern California the otter hunters have singular observation poles at various points, where men are raised high above the water, who signal to the canoe when an otter appears, or, if it is within reach, shoot at it.—Cor. New York Times.

POPULARITY AND A SLAP.

The Queen Showed She Could Chastise Her Son Like Any Other Mother.

One of the incidents that conduced to give the Queen temporary popularity in Ireland was this. She and the Prince, with the Prince of Wales and Prince Alfred, were driving in their roomy carriage to Mr. Dargan's Exhibition. The streets and windows were thronged. There were only bright faces, and the air was filled with cheers. She bowed very affably; the Prince held his hat a little before his forehead, and hardly bowed. The Prince of Wales took off his cap with a white band and held it rather gracefully, as if to show that he should have bowed were the Queen not present. Prince Alfred looked a little sulky and kept his cap on his head. The Queen did not appear to see him, but she did. She whipped the cap off his head with one hand, and with the other gave him such a slap in the face. It was done in an instant, and without any change of countenance. Thundering cheers marked the approval of the multitude.—Contemporary Review.

THE WILD TAMARIND.

It Has a Remarkable Effect Upon Non-ruminant Animals.

A curious plant is the wild tamarind, or jumbai plant, of the river sides and waste places of tropical America; and very strange are its effects upon the non-ruminant animals that feed upon its young shoots, leaves, pods and seeds as described by the British Association by Mr. D. Morris, of Kew Gardens. It causes horses to lose the hair from their manes and tails, has a similar effect upon mules and donkeys, and reduces pigs to complete nakedness. Horses are said to recover when fed exclusively on corn and grass, but the new hair is of different color and texture from the old, so that the animal is never quite the same as it was. One instance is cited in which the animal lost its hoofs too, and had to be kept in slings until they grew again and hardened. Ruminant animals are not thus affected, and the growth of the plant is actually encouraged in the Bahamas as a fodder plant for cattle, sheep and goats. The difference in its action upon ruminants and non-ruminants is probably due to changes effected upon it in the chewing of the cud.—Popular Science.

His Pension Gave Him Wealth.

"Jim" Dawes had never made much success in life from the time the boys got the better of him in trades at school until he was jostled off his claim in Oklahoma. His special talent was for fence-building, and in a country where produce is more plenty than coin, "Jim" was paid for his services mainly in supplies. At hog-killing time he was the recipient of hog-jowls as recompense for his labor, and rarely saw a greater luxury. Through influence and persistence he finally secured from the Government a pension of $2 a week, to which he had a legitimate claim. Passing him on the street one day a neighbor called out:

"'Jim,' I've got some fences to be put up, and I want you to come out to the farm to help me. We'll have a hog-killing pretty soon, and there will be some good jowls for you to pay you for your trouble."

"Thank you," responded "Jim," with the easy independence of a man with an assured income. "I don't mind helpin' you with your fences, but I'm eatin' a little further back on the hog now."—Judge.

ROYALTY'S TRADES.

MANY OF THE CROWNED HEADS OF EUROPE SPEND TIME AT LABOR.

A Number of the Most Humble Trades Seem to Take the Fancy of the Noted Workmen—King Humbert a Shoemaker and President Faure a Locksmith.

We know a good deal about the sovereigns of Europe, but how few of us are aware of the fact that almost every one of them is skilled at some trade and could doubtless, in case of necessity, earn a livelihood thereby! An ingenious French gentleman has devoted a good deal of time to this subject, and we are indebted to him for much of the following information:—

President Faure, of France, according to this gentleman, is an admirable locksmith, and spends many leisure hours in practising his trade. No new invention appertaining thereto escapes his eye, and no one is better able to judge as to its usefulness. In handling the necessary tools the President is said to be exceptionally deft; indeed, those who have seen him work describe him as a first class locksmith.

The tastes of Czar Nicholas lie in a different direction. Farming is his hobby. There is nothing about the Russian method of agriculture which he does not know, and this knowledge has come to him, not from books, but through long and steady practice. Before he became Emperor he spent some years in the Caucasus, and while there he devoted much of his time to farming. The imperial estates there are of vast extent, and nothing pleased the heir to the crown more than to wander over them, watching the superintendent and farm hands at work, and occasionally taking a hand at the plough himself.

Typesetting is said to be the favorite pastime of the German Emperor. "This restless dreamer," says our informant, "is a skilled compositor. Like the monks of old, who used to spend many an hour in illuminating manuscripts, he loves to spend his leisure in picking out type from the cases and in placing them in forms. To give birth to words in this fashion is his supreme delight.

King Humbert of Italy is a shoemaker. No better judge of leather than he, and apparently few more skilled at cutting leather and at fashioning shoes therefrom. We are told that he plies his tools with uncommon dexterity, and that he takes special pains to make shoes of an elegant appearance. Utility, however, is never sacrificed to beauty. He believes in strong shoes, and hence those which he makes will wear to the last thread. Still, he is an artist in his way, as is clearly shown by the fact that he will never condescend to repair shoes. That is a work for a journeyman, not for a creative artist.

Like Mr. Gladstone, King Oscar of Sweden is very fond of cutting down trees. In his dominion there are perhaps more lofty pine trees than anywhere else in the world, and nothing delights the monarch more than to take a holiday and go out into the forest with his destructive axe in hand. He is known far and wide as an expert woodcutter, and this is no small distinction, as any one who has tried to fell a tree will readily admit.

"The Prince of Wales," says our French guide, "is a fine weaver, and frequently manages to kill time by fashioning cunning devices of wool and thread. He has already woven several fine carpets and quilts, and, as he shows as much zeal in the work as ever, he will doubtless weave a great many more."

Rope making is the Duke of York's hobby. He has a spacious workshop, in which he makes stout ropes for ships, as well as hammocks and straw matting. These he distributes among his friends, and it need hardly be said that the demand for work from the royal workshop is constantly increasing.

"Every member of the royal family of Great Britain," we are told, "is more or less skilled at some trade. Such was Queen Victoria's wish, and surely it was a wise one. Though her children and grandchildren will never have to earn their bread, no matter what political revolutions may occur, it is well for each and all of them to know some useful trade at which they can pass their idle moments profitably."

Another famous man who is a sovereign in his own way is also a tradesman. Tolstoi can make as good a pair of shoes as any man in Russia, and there are few tailors who can excel him in making a well fitting suit of clothes.—New York Herald.

Wonderful Tattooing.

Tattooing extraordinary has been practised in the case of a young French soldier, who has lately excited much interest in the military hospital at Bordeaux. His body has been almost entirely covered with tattoo marks. Besides sundry commonplace scenes and devices, there is a large and elaborate reproduction, extending right down the back from the shoulder blades to the loins of a picture in a French illustrated paper showing the degredation of Captain Dreyfus. The young soldier's well meant patriotic enthusiam must, in this instance, have caused him considerable pain.

Where Cyclists Have Right of Way.

"Cyclists in China lead an untrammelled existence. There is no system of road regulations outside the towns whatever, for the simple reason that the roads are undefined, being neither bounded by fence nor hedge. While the farmer has the right to plow up [illegible] passing through his land, [illegible] have an equal right, too, of traversing [illegible] at large.

TRY THE FOOD ON A MAN.

Why Woman Hits on a Plan to Interest the Maid in Cooking.

"Kitchen and cooking, women and home, are among the most meaningful words in life," said Dr. Mary E. Green forcefully. And the women acknowledged, with an acquiescent sigh, that herein lay the pith of the problem.

The New York Household Economic Association, at the Carnegie Building, was deep in the study of "How to elevate household labor to the dignity of a profession."

"Women," continued the trenchant speaker, 'have lacked respect for the laws of nature."

The Economites shook themselves together.

"Oh! Yes they have! They have feared thunder and ignored the microbe. They shriek at the sight of a toad and get off a car backward."

Dr. Green was piling up her accusations.

"They expect hot, foul air to come down from the top of a room and go obediently out of the window. Yes," she nodded vigorously, "and they poke a fire on top"—this with supreme disdain—"and then wonder why it doesn't burn."

The women gasped as she neatly hit off their little weaknesses. But worse was to come.

"Women are mere servile imitators. To most of them the chemistry of foods is an abstruse science."

Dr. Green was rounding up the case for the prosecution. Firing a searching eye upon the culprits before her she demanded with awful finality:

"As to bread-making and the baking of it, how many of you know what constitutes good and healthful bread?"

There was a silence. Not an aspiring young housekeeper among them dared make reply.

"I went to the council of Women's Clubs in Nashville," Dr. Green continued, "and what do you suppose they talked of? Suffrage and patriotism and a women's relief corps and literature and—not one word about home. If they had considered the diets of different nations they would have learned what part food played in their national character and religion."

This was a new point of view.

"I wonder," said Mrs. William G. Shieler, the president, "if we all tell the washerwoman when she had a drunken husband that it was because she doesn't know how to feed him? We are all ignorant of these matters. It's a delicate matter to tell that to women who look as if they had nice homes and"—weakening a little as she gazed around—"present company is of course excepted. But New York is behind the times. Our school in domestic science is just beginning, and it's so badly needed."

Mrs. Larned, of the Syracuse school, volunteered the best method of securing pupils.

"Mistress and maid must work together. We tried separate ones, but find the working girls were glad enough to learn dancing or embroidery and that the cooking class was a failure."

"In Boston," suggested a woman from the City of Culture, "the mistress frequently stays at home to cook the lunch and lets the maid go to the cooking school to take a lesson as a sort of recreation."

This method did not altogether commend itself to New Yorkers, and there was a general raising of eyebrows.

"The maid ought to have an extra evening off at least for the cooking class," from Mrs. Larned. "And make the study entertaining for her. Use a little strategy. For instance, let her have her young man come to take her home."

"I should say," finished Mrs. E. L. Alexander, "let the young man come early and eat what she cooks"

And the clause opening the association to men was incorporated in the constitution.—New York World.

An Inapt Illustration.

It is related by an English publication that a Scotch clergyman, remarkable for the simplicity and force of his style, was one day discoursing on the text, "Except ye repent, ye shall likewise perish."

In order to impress upon his hearers the importance of attending to the solemn truth contained in the passage, he made use of a figure of a very simple but striking character.

"Yes, my friends," he emphatically urged, "unless ye repent ye shall surely perish," placing one of his fingers on the wing of a blue fly which alighted on his Bible, and having his right hand uplifted, "just as sure, my friends, as I'll flatten this blue fly!"

Before the blow was struck the fly got off, upon which the minister, at the top of his voice, exclaimed:

"Ah, well! There's a chance for ye yet, my friends!"

The Latest Discovery.

A London Physician Succeeds in Extracting Iron from Bullock's Blood with which Human Blood can be Enriched and Diseases Cured.

While the X Rays have upset many of the medical theories of the past, they have not upset the established fact that Anæmia and all the diseases of the blood are the direct result of exhausting the blood of its natural iron or Hæmoglobin, which in time causes the supply of oxygen necessary to healthy tissue, active brain, steady nerves, strong muscle, to fall below the standard.

Artificial preparations of iron, while widely used by physicians, are known by them to be inadequate. Strive as they would no method could be discovered by which this mineral could be dissolved so that it would not damage the teeth, rasp the stomach and fail of its purpose. Dr. Campbell recently discovered that bullock's blood and human blood contained iron in identically the same form. To extract this iron from the blood of the bullock and retain it in such form that it could be used by anyone was a difficult task, but to-day through science it is possible for the wornout man, the weak and ailing woman and the sickly child to have their blood reinforced with this vital element of life.

Dr. Campbell dissolved this natural iron and enclosed it in small pointed globes of pure gelatine which he named Capsuloids. In this form it is now sold throughout England in large quantities, being used in the largest hospitals and by the leading physicians in stubborn cases of anaemia, chlorosis, nervous prostration, nervous debility, indigestion, St. Vitus' dance, Bright's disease, locomotor ataxia and many other diseases due to impoverished blood.

Dr. Campbell's Red Blood Forming Capsuloids are sold by all leading druggists at 50 cents per large box, six boxes for $2.50, or sent direct at the same price from the office of The Capsuloid Company, Downing Building, 108 Fulton Street, New York City.

DUN'S TRADE REVIEW.

Trade Is Dull, but Speculative Stocks Show Activity.

New York, Jan. 15.—The year has opened with a very satisfactory prospect. It is all the better that there is no wild excitement in the speculative markets, and while stocks advance a little, grain yields a little.

No little stir in the market has been caused by the announcement that the Western Union has purchased the telegraph lines owned by the Government of Mexico, and that the Manhattan Company will equip its plant to run trains by electricity. Beyond the speculative influence of such statements, there is the conviction that capitalists of influence are disposed to invest largely upon belief in future prospects. The stock market has not been wild, but strong, the Vanderbilt properties showing especial strength, the average for the sixty most active stocks rising 62 cents per share, although trust stocks have declined 86 cents per share because of belief that the refusal to distribute large profits in Sugar foreshadows a struggle. While the earnings are highly favorable for December, there are signs of a sharp competition during this month.

The iron furnaces in blast Jan. 1 report an output of 22,608 tons weekly, against 226,024 weekly Dec. 1, with an increase of 12,481 tons in the unsold stocks held by furnaces. While this shows a consumption 52 1-2 per cent. larger than a year ago, there would be discouraging indications of consumption but for the fact that several furnaces were stopped for the holidays, and these with several others have started since Jan. 1, while the demand for finished products does not diminish. The Pennsylvania Railroad has ordered 100,000 tons steel rails, and a new railroad in Maine 12,000 tons, and other orders for cars, railroad supplies, plates, bars and structural material are unusually large for the season.
